The men entered the cross country season, like the women, full of optimism. With six of seven runners returning from the varsity group that placed second at the IC4As, Cornell counted itself among the preseason favorites for a Heps championship. In the end, key injuries to co-captain Geoff Van Fleet '02 (achilles surgery) and Matt Gallagher '02 (stress fracture) and the loss of Bruce Hyde '05 to mononucleosis proved too much of a hurdle for the Big Red to overcome late in the season. Nevertheless, co-captain Max King '02, fresh off a school record, NCAA qualifier, Heps and IC4A championships in the steeplechase in the spring, had an outstanding season. Running the fourth-fastest time ever by a Cornellian (24:44) at Van Cortlandt Park in September, Max finished second at the Heps and became the first Cornell man since Brian Clas '94 in the fall of 1993 to qualify for the NCAA championships in cross country.

While Max was solid all season, the team looked formidable early after impressive victories over Army and at the 15-team Monmouth Invitational. Against Army, Cornell finished strongly on its home course to chase down a good Cadet squad. Moving up well over the last two miles, Dan Meehan '02, Andrew Boone '03 and Bruce Hyde '05 competed very well to enable the Big Red to sweep the first four positions behind King. Another Cornell newcomer, Jon Goldsmith '05 rounded out the scoring for Cornell in sixth place overall as Cornell increased its season-opening winning streak over Army to three.

At Monmouth, Cornell handily won the team title, scoring 23 points in a 15-team field, 22 points ahead of runner-up Fairleigh Dickinson. King picked up where he left off in the home opener two weeks earlier by setting a new course record and winning unpressed in 25:28.4 for the 8K course. Hyde continued his fine running with a second-place overall finish, only 23 seconds behind. Boone and Dombroski competed well to place fifth and sixth, respectively, and Goldsmith again rounded out the scoring five with a strong ninth-place finish in 26:23.

With Hyde suffering from mono, Cornell struggled at the Pre-NCAA meet at Furman University in Greenville, S.C. King crossed the finish line in 33rd place as the Big Red faded to 21st out of 36 teams. Back in upstate New York, another group of Cornellians tallied a perfect 15 points behind the first-place finish of Barry Kahn '03.

Despite the second-place individual performance by King at the Heps, the team’s eighth-place finish was a disappointment. Despite outstanding efforts from Kahn (26th, 25:58) and Goldsmith (25th, 25:57) Cornell could only defeat Penn with its 150 points. The team’s fortunes proved much better at the regional meet, as King earned all-region honors and qualified individually for the NCAAs. Dombroski (26th, 30:57) missed all-region honors by one spot and John Corley '04 (60th, 31:37) came through with his best finish of the season.

Minus King (who was competing at the NCAAs) at the IC4A championships, the men placed fourth of 19 teams in the championship race with 118 points and were led by Dombroski’s ninth place effort of 25:23. Corley (24th, 25:48), Kahn (25th, 25:48), Goldsmith (37th, 25:59) and Boone (43rd, 26:02) rounded out Cornell’s scoring five as what appears to be the nucleus for next fall’s cross country team ended the season on a positive note.

While his teammates were competing at Van Cortlandt Park, King ended his outstanding career in disappointing fashion at the NCAAs. Max lost one of his shoes half a mile into the race in a tangle with another runner, but continued gamely. He ultimately dropped out after four miles, his foot much the bloodier. It was a disappointing end to a great cross country career for Max at Cornell and to a stellar senior season, which saw him run the No. 4—best time in Cornell history at Van Cortlandt Park in addition to his second-place showing at the Heps!!

The Cornell women's 2001 cross country campaign marked the team's return to national prominence as the Big Red qualified for the NCAA championships after being ranked in the nation's top 25 for the final seven weeks of the season. The team produced Cornell's second-best all-time team run (an 18:08 average for 5K) at Van Cortlandt Park to earn runner-up honors at the Heps, a league that proved to be the toughest in the country, as it produced an unprecedented five team qualifiers for the NCAAs. Cornell advanced to the national championships for the sixth time in 12 years, the first appearance since 1998, and finished 30th out of 31 teams at the meet and out of 312 total Division I programs.

Despite graduating their top two runners from the 2000 campaign, the Cornell women entered the cross country season full of optimism. With top-five returners Lena Mathews '02, Carlan Gray '03 and Jessica Parrott '04 all coming off ECAC qualifying performances in the track season and six other sophomores boasting USATF junior national qualifying marks from the 800 meters through the 10K, the Big Red entered the season young but talented. Added to the equation was another strong incoming group of freshmen, led by Footlocker finalist and Michigan state champion Kate Boyles '05, Saskatchewan provincial champion and 1500 record-holder Amber McGown '05, Missouri state cross country champion Kari Haus '05, New York state 1500 meter champion Sarah Coseo '05 and Pennsylvania all-staters Jenn Meil '05 and Alyssa Simon '05.

The Big Red started off the season very well as Cornell easily won the first meet, a home contest against Army at the Moakley Course. Gray led Cornell with an individual victory, and was followed by a fast-closing Amber McGown. The team followed up its season-opening victory with a win at the 19-team Monmouth Invitational. A bronze medal overall finish by Mathews and strong races by Gray and McGown put Cornell in good position for the team trophy, but outstanding finishes by Parrott and Aliza Cohen '04 secured a tight three-point victory over a good Penn State team.

Fielding the entire top seven for the first time at the Iona Meet of Champions on the 6K course at Van Cortlandt Park, Cornell defeated five nationally ranked teams to finish third overall, behind only Boston College and Boston University and one point ahead of defending Heps champion Yale! Freshman Kate Boyles made her Cornell debut as the team's fourth runner behind excellent races from Mathews (8th, 21:02), McGown (16th, 21:22) and Gray (23rd, 21:33). The women proved their new national rankings were no fluke two weeks later with a very strong eighth-place showing in the Purple Race at the pre-NCAA race, a meet that provided Cornell with a preview of the NCAA course and with important victories over other NCAA contenders that would later prove very important in the hunt for at-large berths in November. That same weekend, a first-place finish by Haus led another group of Cornellians to an impressive team victory at Roberts Wesleyan as five runners broke 19:00 for 5K.

Entering the Heps, Cornell was healthy and full of confidence. Behind the fast start of McGown, who led the field through the first mile, Cornell was out well and forced the defending Heps champion Elis into their best race of the season. In the end, Cornell was 11 points out of first, but had moved up impressively from last year's fourth-place showing. In fact, Cornell had graduated as many runners from the 2000 season as the top three teams from the 2000 Heps combined! This Big Red's resurgence had a lot to do with the hard work the team put in over the summer and over the course of the season.

There was no post-Heps let down for this group, as Cornell finished fourth in arguably the nation's deepest and most competitive district. With eight teams that had been nationally ranked during the course of the season (and with all eight ultimately qualifying for the NCAAs) this competition lived up to expectations. No. 5 ranked Boston College and No. 10 ranked Providence took the top two team positions and a surprising Brown team grabbed third. Running what was perhaps its finest team race of the season, Cornell had all of its top five finish within 25 seconds of one another, with Boyles, Gray and Mathews all earning all-region honors en route to defeating Yale by eight points.

With the top seven competing at the NCAAs, a number of other Cornell harriers had a chance to shine at the ECAC championships the same weekend, a meet the Big Red had finished in the top three for four straight years. The women junior varsity, competing in the championship race, finished a very respectable sixth out of 14 teams—13 of which were the varsity squads from those programs!!! Lorraine Ricci '04 continued her great late season surge to place 20th in 18:38, while Christine Eckstaedt '04 (25th, 18:48), Simon (34th, 18:57), Aliza Cohen (38th, 19:01) and Natalie Whelan '03 (52nd, 19:20) rounded out the scoring.

The NCAA 30th-place team finish proved disappointing for a group that had higher aspirations. It was an excellent learning experience for an extremely young group that returns six of its top seven for next year. Led by Parrott, who had one of her finest races of the season, all six of Cornell's finishers crossed the line within nine seconds of each other. Excited about the prospect of returning to the national championships next year, the Big Red hopes to use this year's championship as a building block for continued success.

While the Big Red suffered key graduation losses, an outstanding nucleus of young athletes return for the 2001-02 season. The sprint-hurdle group features two of the league’s best in 200 Heps champion Katy Jay ’03 and hurdler Merili Mosley ’04, both of whom are school record holders. The middle distances are loaded, with several members of the Heps champion and ECAC runner-up 4x800 returning. Co-captain Sarah Herskee ’03 returns to lead a strong weight contingent after scoring in both the Heps and ECAC discus.

Heps scorer in the high jump, Lauren Kilduff ’04 and freshman long jump record holder Elizabeth Ferguson ’04 headline the jumps group. Another solid recruiting year, coupled with the return of veteran athletes, should mean another competitive campaign for the Big Red across all the event groups.

Sprints and Hurdles

The Big Red sprint squad returns intact from last season, led by Jay, who was the team’s MVP. The talented speedster broke nearly every Cornell sprint track record last year and won the outdoor Heptagonal 200 meters in 24.26. She established new marks at 55, 60 and 100 meters, while anchoring the Red’s 4x100 relay team to a 46.84 clocking, also a school record, and 10th at the ECAC championships. Fellow junior Conniel Arnold ’03 is a former Jamaican schoolgirl champ and was fifth at last year’s Heps at 60 meters, while finishing seventh at 200 meters. The long sprints will also feel Jay’s impact. She was second in the league championship at 400 meters, running a personal-best 55.38 and anchoring the Red to a sixth-place finish in the 4x400 relay at the ECACs. In the hurdles, Mosley, who was last year’s freshman MVP after having a stellar rookie year, will lead the way. She established a freshman mark for the 60-meter hurdles, running 9.00, garnering fifth at the indoor Heps. Outdoors, Mosley was the top freshman at the Easterns, establishing a school record in the 100 hurdles at the ECACs and finishing seventh. She was also a valuable part of the 4x100 team that finished third at the Heptagonals. Three new freshmen should impact in the sprints and hurdles: Jessica and Shonda Brown are many-time Colorado state track champions and each has run 56.0 for 400 meters, while New Jersey’s Kari Steed scored in the all-groups, running 57.04.

Middle Distance and Distance

Traditionally one of the team’s strongest event groups, the middle distance runners had a banner year in 2000-01 and will look to surpass those accomplishments in 2001-02. Mathews emerged as one of the top 1500-meter runners in the league last season and was a consistent 2:10 performer in the 800. Track team co-captain Natalie Whelan ’03 is a two-time league finalist in the 800 meters outdoors and will provide valuable leadership for the group, as will cross country captain Halle
Watson '02, who was an ECAC qualifier in both the 800 and 1,000. Ann Hansgate '04 was a league finalist in the 800 meters indoors as a freshman and classmate Natalie Gingerich ran on the Heps championship 4x800 indoors. Both teamed up with Kinsy Miller '04 and Stephanie Anderson '04 to set a school freshman record in the 4x800 while placing fifth indoors at the ECACs to earn All-East honors.

Cornell has a long tradition of success in the distances and this group promises to be among the deepest on the team this year. Carlan Gray '03, an All-East performer in cross country and a Heps scorer in the 5,000, will lead a group that boasted four junior national qualifiers last year in four different events. Jessica Parrott '04 had an outstanding freshman campaign and was an ECAC qualifier in the 3,000.

Jumps

Despite heavy graduation losses, this group has the talent to make a big impact this season. The high jump area could be the strongest, as the team returns Heps scorer Lauren Kilduff. As a freshman last year, she was the team’s best here, scoring at the outdoor Heps (fifth place) and has a best of 5-7. Newcomer Jessica Brown '05 won the Colorado state championships last year as a prep and has one of the top high school marks at 5-9. The pole vault returns Molly Dickens '03, who was seventh at last year’s outdoor Heps, and welcomes Betsy Halliburton '05, one of California’s top prep vaulters who has a best of 11-2. The success of the horizontal jumps lies in the hands of the talented duo of Elizabeth Ferguson '04 and Kalifa Pilgrim '04. Both are excellent long jumpers, with Ferguson hitting 19-0 last year indoors for a freshman school record.

Weight Events or Throws

A young but very talented group of throwers will lead the Big Red. Heading the group will be Emily Eigel '02, who had a breakthrough season in the shot put. Adding punch to the throws will be co-captain Sarah Herskee '03, who had a great sophomore year. Providing immediate help in the throws will be freshmen Stacey Nadolny, Ohio prep runner-up in the discus who has a personal best of 151-9; Julia O’Hern who was the New England prep school champ in the shot and discus, and Rebecca Tucker, who was the Connecticut class MM discus champ in 2001 and runner-up in the shot. In the javelin, Cornell will welcome back co-captain and school record holder Sarah Spain '02 from an injury. Joining the Red will be freshman Ginny Lerch from Pennsylvania, who has a 132-4 throw to her credit.

Multi Events

Spain will headline the multi-eventers again this year. An ECAC qualifier in the indoor pentathlon and a Heps scorer as a freshman, she is expected to be a force again now that she is healthy.
Men's Track Preview

Under the direction of second-year head coach Nathan Taylor, the Big Red continued its climb within the Ivy League and vaulted into the USTCA national power rankings during the 2001 track season. The team showed dramatic progress in every event, as it registered five NCAA qualifiers and eight school records. In the process, the squad downed Ivy League rivals Pennsylvania, Brown, Yale and Harvard and challenged eventual Patriot League champion Army. In 2001, the Cornell team moved from the bottom of the nine-team Heptagonal League to third, scoring its highest point total in nearly 20 years. The Big Red also qualified its largest team to the IC4As in 25 years.

Now in his third year with the Big Red, Taylor has the top performer in all but four events returning, and with the addition of 32 outstanding freshmen representing 15 states, Cornell men's track and field should continue its rapid ascent within the league and across the country. Excitement for the upcoming season is running high with great expectations for even more, far reaching improvements in 2001-02. The team hopes to break into the top 20 in the country.

Sprints and Hurdles

The sprint squad returns nearly intact from the 2000-01 season, with Rahim Wooley '04 and Quinton Carew '03, leading the way. Mike Nanaszko '04 ran solid legs on the relays and should come into his own individually this year. The long-sprint squad is lead by Mike Kiselycznyk '03, while in the hurdle events Murteza Haidri '04 and Eric Pederson '04 are ready to move up. Jason Comrey '05, Brian Eremita '05 and Kenan Goggins '05 could have an impact here.

Middle and Long Distance

Senior NCAA qualifier and IC4A champion Max King leads an impressive distance group that showed dramatic improvement last year within the ultra competitive Ivy League. King is the school record holder in the steeplechase and is a Heps scorer in the 5,000. Geoff Van Fleet '02 and Matt Gallagher '02, both of whom plan to go under 4:03 for the mile this year, will be the top middle distance runners for the Big Red. Added into the group is John Corley '04, who was the top freshman in the league and recorded a best of 4:08. Chris Ondrak '01, the 800-meter school record holder, also returns and hopes to score big at the Heps. In the longer events, Cornell returns Daryn Johnson '03, who moved to ninth all-time in the steeplechase. Dan Dombroski '03 and Andrew Boone '03 are ready to make a huge impact this year and should really shine.
Throws or Weight Events

Cornell returns its top thrower in every event from last year's squad, highlighted by All-Ivy co-captain Jeremy Blanchet '02, Brett Coffing '03 and Scott Benowicz '03. Blanchet was the Heps runner-up in the weight throw and placed third in the hammer, where he'll be working hard to break the 200-0 barrier. Coffing moved up to third all-time at Cornell in the discus and looks to qualify for this year's NCAAs. He will also look to score again in the shot put at the Heps. Benowicz currently sits third all-time at Cornell in the javelin and will also score at the Heps. Didier Lecorps '04 scored at the Heps in the discus last year and, along with Giles Longley-Cook '04, could become a factor in the 35-lb. weight. In the javelin, Chris Friedrich '04, who is sixth all-time at Cornell, and Shane Downey '02, who is fifth all-time, both qualified for the IC4As and should both continue to improve. Cornell also boasts an exceptional freshman class with highly prized recruits Kevin Wilson, Mike Scarpa, Zach Beadle and Dillon Hayes joining the team and making the throws squad the deepest it has ever been.

Jumps

For the second year in a row, Cornell had more scorers at the Heps in the jumps than any other team. With four All-Ivy or All-East performers returning, the jumpers will again be a major part of the squad. Co-captain, All-Ivy and All-East vaulter Scott Lundy '02 established himself as a major force in the East, setting the indoor and outdoor school records last year. His sights are set on eclipsing the 17-0 barrier early in the season, as are sophomore Travis Offner's '04, whose 16-6 personal best equals Lundy for the outdoor record. The horizontal jumps will be led by Heps champion Tyler Kaune '04, who was All-Ivy in both the long jump and the triple jump. Rounding out this exceptional group is Neal Okarter '02, a Heps and IC4A scorer, and Jason Hart '04, an IC4A qualifier. In the high jump, Ryan Schmidt '05 should contribute immediately.

Multi-Events

Sophomore Ethan Albrecht-Carrie '04 will be the team's top multi-eventer, and he is looking to score at the IC4As in the decathlon. He has improved dramatically in every event and should go over 23-6 in the long jump.

Overall

With the addition of a great freshman class to a balanced roster of upperclassmen, the Big Red is looking forward to building on last year's success and turning in outstanding winter and spring seasons. Senior leadership and enthusiasm will fuel the competitive fire that is rapidly becoming the hallmark of the Cornell team. The coaching staff is committed to creating and maintaining an environment where each athlete on the team can reach his maximum potential at the Ivy League, regional, national and international levels.
The Cornell coaching staff is hoping that it has its first member of the recruiting class of 2023. Susie Schneider '91 and husband Eric '91 welcomed son Curtis into the world on Aug. 17!!

A number of weddings to report on:

Brian Clas '94 and Maggie Morrow, Penn '95, Cornell '01 were married Oct. 20 in Kenilworth, N.J. A number of former Cornell track alumni were in attendance, including groomsmen Mike Franks '94 and Lenny Phillips '94. Also in attendance were Chris Wren '94, Rich Roberts '94, Carl Anstrom '95, Mike Hammill '95, Artie Smith '96, Chris McLain '97 and Jeff Nason '97.

On the same day in Lock Haven, Pa., former football star and sprinter extraordinaire Chad Hunter '97 married Jessica Jones. Adam Zucker '97 was in the wedding party and John Steed '97 and Kristin Nason '97 attended the ceremonies.

Dan Sherry '98 and Christine Andranian were married in Laguna Beach, Calif., on Nov. 10. Groomsmen included Dan's classmates Max Peter, Bryan Jaketic and Zach Woodmansee. Also in attendance were fellow 1998 grads Dan Traver, Travis Klugel, Matt Moynihan, Jerry DeSilva, and Andy Aggarwala as well as Jessica Shaw '99.

The second annual alumni Labor Day relay race was held in Ithaca on Sept. 2. After a spirited competition last year with 14 entrants, 28 competitors toed the line this year! Head coach Lou Duesing again served as the official starter and timer and saw six teams (more or less evenly divided) start the race. The pre-race favorite was the five-person contingent from the Class of 2000, made up of Trent Stellingwerff, Fred Merwarth, Mike Selig, Wyeth Kopenhaver and Ryan Raffa.

Padilla anchored his team home in 37:32 while the Class of 1992 (Keith Strudler, Darius Deak and John Raguin) finished very strongly to place fourth, only nine seconds in front of Team Colleen (42:18) made up of Brian Ayres '97, Larry Gosse '97, Kate Walker '97, Becky Dennison '97, Laura Audette '98, Emily Germano '00, and Jessica Hall '01. Bringing up the rear this year was Team Pig (Aravind Swaminathan '97 and Rich Roberts '94), anchored valiently by Head Pig Carl Anstrom '95, who upon finishing his grueling leg organized a group nine-mile Monkey Run!! With another barbecue to end up the day's festivities at Lou's homestead, the weekend proved to be another fun reunion that lived up to the hype! We hope to make this alumni relay race an annual tradition, although whether the young guns from the Class of 2000 will be allowed to use a motorized vehicle next year to put themselves back in the race is under review!!
