THE GRUMMAN "GULFSTREAM"

Isn't this
The Business Aircraft
for your Company, too?

The cutaway views above show interior layouts selected by four different purchasers of the Gulfstream. Each interior has been designed and fitted out to individual specification.

Surely more than four companies have ordered such a plane. Many leading American companies have selected the exceptional Gulfstream over all other business aircraft on the market. Thirty-six are already operating in different parts of the country.

The Gulfstream will carry 10, 12 and 14 passengers. You will cruise at 350 mph. Power: 2 superb Rolls-Royce Dart engines. You have a range of 2,200 miles, plus reserves of 200 miles and 45 minutes.

Chosen by a Publisher

Bought by a Chemical Company

And the Gulfstream has what some aircraft in its class haven't—the ability to get in and out of the smaller airports with ease . . . those with 3,500-4,000 foot runways.

At 25,000 feet, the pressurized Gulfstream provides a cabin altitude of 5,500 feet. You fly in air-conditioned comfort—and safety—above the weather and traffic.

To date, Grumman has built 25,000 aircraft. This experience is aboard the Gulfstream. And Grumman engineering provides a structure designed to withstand fatigue for the equivalent of more than 50 years of operation! Performance, utility, reliability, safety? Of course.

And great beauty, too.

The Grumman Gulfstream is an extraordinary business transport. We think your executives will agree with your chief pilot's evaluation of the aircraft when our distributor demonstrates its many outstanding features.

Corporation executives and pilots are invited to inspect the Gulfstream and arrange for demonstration flights through one of the following distributors: Atlantic Aviation, Wilmington, Delaware; Pacific Airmotive, Burbank, California; Southwest Airmotive, Dallas, Texas; Timmins Aviation, Montreal.

Campus Savors Contemporary Arts

OUTSTANDING musicians, speakers, exhibitions, drama, and modern dance were featured in the University's fourteenth annual Festival of Contemporary Arts, April 19–May 5. Highlights of the Festival were a series of six lectures on "Abstract Painting" by Meyer Schapiro, professor of fine arts at Columbia; a modern jazz concert; a program of modern dance films; the Festival play, "Twilight Bar;" an exhibition of sports cars and boats; and a variety of art exhibits.

Messenger Lecturer Participates

Of special interest in this year's Festival was the scheduling of the Messenger Lectures by Professor Schapiro. He said that abstract art has been in existence since the end of the nineteenth century. He defined an "abstraction" as something that exists only in the imaginary world; the world of myth. To illustrate his lectures, he discussed and showed slides of paintings by famous artists including Mondrian, Picasso, Kandinsky, and Leger. Professor Schapiro said that people most often criticize abstract art for its abandonment of representation; that many viewers believe this implies an escape from reality and relate abstract works to those of psychotic persons. His comment was that he is "certain that these artists are not psychotic" and that they exemplify a healthy relationship to their problems. The works of psychotics, he said, lack concern with completeness and realization of their goals.

Other noteworthy lectures during the Festival were by Professor Erich Kahler of Princeton, who has been visiting professor of German Literature here, and Stanley Van Der Beek, winner of two bronze medals at the Brussel's Worlds Fair for his experimental films. Professor Kahler discussed "Dr. Faustus, from Adam to Sartre." He traced the development of the Faust symbol from its beginnings in Genesis. The notion of a compact with the devil arose out of the magic and soothsaying which was part of all religious life before Christianity. The symbolic drama, he said, is still enacted within the framework of the Christian universe; it is still resolved by human faith. Modern man's life is a paradox which cannot be resolved except through the work of grace. Stanley Van Der Beek gave an illustrated lecture on "Opticalallusion." He discussed the pursuit of the unreal in films and showed ten short imaginative films he had made.

This year for the first time, original poems read by students and Faculty members were printed in a thirty-two-page booklet to be distributed at the poetry readings. The most successful student poems were those dealing with love and its various forms. Robert K. Johnson, Grad, turned in an impressive performance with four emotional poems. Other graduate students participating were C. Michael Curtiss '56, John A. Heitner, and Richard E. Stephens. Four members of the English Department and the wife of another read their original poetry later in the Festival. Introducing the Faculty poetry reading was Professor James R. McConkey, English. The poets were Professor Baxter L. Hathaway; graduate assistants Lawrence Lipking, AM '56, Eugene A. Vance, AM '58, and Fred W. Bornhauser; and Mrs. Millicent Travis Lane, AM '57, wife of Professor Lauriat Lane, Jr.

The most avant garde exhibit of Festival XIV consisted of works by seven

Abstract Sculpture—Mrs. Mary M. Dickens, graduate assistant in Architecture, works on her untitled figure exhibited in the Festival of Contemporary Arts. She built it on a welded iron frame, applying plaster over a wire base. A candidate for the MFA in 1961, Mrs. Dickens plans to teach art in her native England. She won the Rome Prize for a sculpture of a life-size figure, the premier prize in England for two successive years, and the Feodora Gleicher Award as the best woman sculptor doing postgraduate work. C. Hadley Smith young American artists displayed in the White Art Museum. These artists, working in a new direction, are concerned with possibilities of every-day objects. They use such prosaic materials as shoes, blankets, automobile fenders, and scraps of wood and steel. Their approach to materials has been developing since World War II and is neither painting nor sculpture. Robert Rauschenberg, the best known of the group, uses such materials as postage stamps and magazine cutouts manipulated to give order and continuity to his compositions.

The largest piece in the Festival exhibit of Faculty painting and sculpture was an abstract plaster sculpture by prize-winning artist, Mrs. Mary Dickens, graduate assistant in Architecture from Leicester, England. This exhibit also featured works by Professors John A. Hartell '24, Allen C. Atwell '47, James O. Mahoney, Kenneth Evett, Robert Slutsky, H. Peter Kahn, Norman D. Daly, Sp '43-44, Victor E. Colby, MFA '50, and Jack L. Squier, MFA '52, of the Art Department; Professors Clara Straight and Sara Neblett, Housing & Design; and Allan K. Dart, graduate assistant in Architecture. The exhibition illustrated the varied interests and approaches of these Faculty members.

Effectively displayed at Sibley Dome were architectural models in minute detail. These included everything from skyscrapers to a yacht club. Sculpture by students in the Department of Art were exhibited in the Franklin Hall gallery. The exhibit, reflecting modern influences, showed works using a variety of materials: steel, cement, marble, limestone, and papier maché. About thirty students were represented by varied paintings in the Willard Straight Memorial Room.

This year's Sportsmen's Show, formerly in Willard Straight Hall, was enlarged and moved to Barton Hall for the Festival. The three-day exhibition included sports cars and foreign and American small cars, motorcycles, sailboats, outboard boats and motors, and a variety of sports equipment. For the more active visitors, a golf clinic and badminton demonstration were offered. A special addition was a photographic display from Sports Illustrated.

Books illustrated by leading twentieth-century artists were on display at the University Library. Represented were books with etchings and lithographs by Henri Matisse, Marc Chagall, Georges Braque, and Ben Sahn. Also included was an original etching by Pablo Picasso from a limited edition of Henri Balzac's Le Chef-d'oeuvre Inconnu. Student work in the Department of Housing & Design was displayed in the Martha Van Rennsalaer Hall art gallery. Included were examples of interior design and weaving.

Club Gives Modern Play

"Twilight Bar," a satiric comedy in two acts by Arthur Koestler, was presented by the Dramatic Club, April 21-24, in the Willard Straight Theater. Although produced in London, Paris, Stockholm, and Broadway, this was its first performance by a college group. The play takes place in an imaginary island republic which reflects the political and social problems of the world. The republic is given three days to transform itself from a world of sorrow to one of joy; or be annihilated by a planet from outer space. The islanders ludicrously try to correct their unhappy ways. Gloworm, the Man with a Conscience, is the hero who urges the islanders on. In this role, Arthur Sherman '60 demonstrated dash and fervor. Other members of the cast were Michael F. Ackerman, Rodney J. Mason, Vivian Rainman '60; Leonard Edelstein, Margaret Chow, Donald S. Coburn, Joanne B. Schapiro, Xerxes J. N. Mehta, Sharon F. Malamud, Lola Cohen, and Edward Levin '61; Daniel Tarsy, Robert M. Newman, Rochelle Shaw, Allan C. Greenberg '62; J. Peter Vajk, Doris S. Wood, John R. McDonald '63; and Roland Dallas, Grad. Professor Joseph Golden, Speech & Drama, directed the play and effective scenery was designed by Professor Kahn, Art.

Show Dance Films

Modern dance was represented at the Festival in a showing of four films, of which "A Dancer's World" and "Appalachian Spring" were choreographed by Martha Graham. "Appalachian Spring" is set to the music of Aaron Copland. José Limon dances in "Lament for Ignacio Sanchez Mejias," based on a poem of Garcia Lorca. "Dance in the Sun," choreographed and performed by Daniel Nagrin, expresses a man's abandonment to the sights and sounds of the earth that respond to the sun's beneficent power.

"Lessons of Love," one of the first films produced by prize-winning Swedish producer, Ingmar Bergman, was shown in the Willard Straight Theater.

Jazz Enters In

One of the most popular events was a performance by a modern jazz group, the Lennie Tristano Quintet. Tristano, a blind pianist, has the reputation of being able to teach even those who cannot carry a tune. His music has been characterized as "a special jazz blend of swinging rhythm, cerebral creativity, and imaginative melodic intaglio."

The influence of jazz was evident in compositions by students in the Music Department which constituted an afternoon concert. A Faculty group performed "Sonata for Trombone & Piano" and "Quartet for Piano & Strings" by Richard A. Monaco '52 that he wrote as a candidate for the Doctor of Musical Arts, and the first movement from "String Quartet No. 1" by Myron Fink '48. Both were students of Professor Robert M. Palmer; Monaco is teaching at Western College for Women in Oxford, Ohio, and Fink is teaching at Alma (Mich.) College. Andrew W. Thomas '61, a student of Professor Karel Husa, played the piano part of his "Variations for Violin & Piano," with Phoebe J. Mason '61 the violinist.

Delia Calapai in her piano concert played "Three Epigrams" by Professor Palmer and "Sonata for Piano, Opus 11," by Professor Husa.

The Krasner Chamber Music Ensemble from Syracuse performed in Sage Chapel. They played Schoenberg's "Second String Quartet, Opus 10," composed in 1907-08.

The University Chorus and the Rochester Philharmonic Brass Ensemble ended the musical portion of the Festival with a program in which only the concluding work could be considered contemporary. The first selection, "In Ecclesiis Benedicite Domino" by Giovanni Gabrieli, was composed in the seventeenth century; thus lending contrast to the final and featured work, "Budavari Te Deum," written in 1936 by Zoltan Kodaly. Professor Thomas A. Sokol, Music, directed the concert. Soloists were Dolores Reagin, soprano; Marie Gast, contralto; Wayne P. Olson '58, tenor; and Professor Lauriat Lane, Jr., English, bass-baritone. For this event the seats in the Chapel were reversed so the audience could watch the performers in the choir loft.

Chairman of the committee that arranged the Festival was Professor Henry Elder, Architecture. The committee had members from University Radio Station WHCU, student Radio Station WVBR, and from the Faculty.

Organ for Auditorium

STATLER FOUNDATION has added to the equipment of Alice Statler Auditorium an Allen Organ that can be used either on or off the stage. The largest electronic organ in Ithaca, the instrument is completely transistorized and is designed for either classical or theater use. It was supplied through Richard E. Flight '47, Allen Organ Co. Ithaca dealer.

Engineers Invite Boys

CORNELL SOCIETY OF ENGINEERS had as guests at its annual meeting in New York City, May 12, ninety-seven boys accepted to enter the College of Engineering next fall. Dean Dale R. Corson told of the opportunities the College offers and he and Donald H. Moyer, Director of Student Personnel, answered many questions asked by the prospective Freshmen.

The Society elected Paul O. Gunsalus '24, president, succeeding Stephen H. Teator '43; Donald D. Haude '49, executive vice-president; William F. Gratz '53, secretary-treasurer; F. Crampton Frost '34, recording secretary; and George F. Mueden, Jr. '40 remains assistant secretary-treasurer.

Alumni Bring Boys for Cornell Day

THREE HUNDRED EIGHTY BOYS, juniors in secondary schools from as far west as Illinois and Wisconsin, came to see the University for Cornell Day, May 6-8. The guests were selected and invited by members of thirty-seven Cornell Club and regional secondary school committees and brought to Ithaca for the week end by 100 volunteer alumni "chauffeurs."

Undergraduates at the University had a greater share than ever before in taking care of the schoolboy visitors. They were guests for rooms and meals in forty-nine fraternity houses and student residences, arranged by J. Bruce Fraser '60 as undergraduate chairman for Cornell Day. Members of Sphinx Head, Quill & Dagger, Aleph Samach, and Red Key transported the boys to and from their lodgings and served as guides for tours of the Campus; and the girls of Mortar Board registered them in Willard Straight Hall upon arrival. An evening of entertainment in the Willard Straight Memorial Room was run by the undergraduate secondary schools committee, of which Frederic H. Genck '60 and Stephen W. Hatch '60 are co-chairmen. And the schoolboy visitors were conducted by students through the varied displays and demonstrations of Engineers Day, where students showed the work of the College in all the Engineering buildings. Arnold S. Jacobs '60 was chairman of Engineers Day.

The undergraduate Colleges and Schools had Faculty members and students on hand Friday evening and Saturday morning to show and tell the visitors about possibilities and requirements in their divisions. The boys had an opportunity to hear about athletics in Lynah Hall and to meet the coaches and see the facilities for various sports. They were guests at the athletic events Saturday afternoon and that evening heard the Glee Club and the Sherwoods sing, saw the new Campus movie, and visited with students in Willard Straight Memorial Room. Master of ceremonies for the program was Jonathan M. Hinebaugh '62.

"Chauffeurs" Give Time & Cars

The alumni "chauffeurs" who brought the boys to Ithaca were guests with invited Faculty members at Saturday luncheon in Willard Straight Hall and at a smoker that evening in the Big Red Barn. David H. Young '44 of the Cornell Club of Pittsburgh presided at the luncheon. He introduced Vice President James L. Zwingle, PhD '42, who thanked the alumni for their devoted work in interesting well qualified students in the University; and Director of Admissions Herbert H. Williams '25, who also expressed his thanks. Williams said that applications for admission this year are about 10 per cent more than last year and the Freshman Class will

Boys Arrive for Cornell Day—Cornell Clubs of Chicago & Milwaukee sent a group of thirty-one high school juniors, who were met at the train in Elmira and brought to Ithaca by bus. be about the same in number, so pressures for admission will increase. Alumni Field Secretary D. Harvey Krouse '25, in charge of Cornell Day, called to their feet the undergraduate chairmen who he said had arranged the details of the week end. Assistant Director of Admissions Ross P. Jackson '54 said that of the 371 high school juniors at Cornell Day last year, about half had applied for admission next fall and that about 60 per cent of these, perhaps 125, have been or will be approved for admission. He pointed out that the boys who come to Cornell Day are those whom all colleges want and said that the proportion accepted shows the value of their visits.

Peter M. Wolff '42 of the Cornell Club of Chicago, chairman of the national secondary schools committee, presided at a dinner in Noyes Lodge Saturday night of chairmen of Club committees and members of the Admissions Office. There was general discussion of the work of local secondary schools committees.

New York Boys Visit Agriculture

College of Agriculture held "open house," May 7, for eighty-four boys who are juniors in high schools from seventeen counties of the State. They were brought to see the College and learn about career opportunities it presents by nineteen alumni who are active in county committees of the Agriculture Alumni Association. The youngsters had a chance to talk with Faculty members and students of all Departments of the College and were taken to see the buildings and facilities.

They were luncheon guests of the GLF Exchange in the Dairy Department cafeteria, where Russell M. Cary '36, president of the Agriculture Alumni Association, called on Dean Charles E. Palm, PhD '35, and E. H. Fallon, president of the GLF. Alan W. Merrill '60 of Norwich, Vt. and Allan R. Marion '61 of Ithaca told them about student life at Cornell and Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, Director of Resident Instruction, welcomed the visitors and summarized what the College offers as they left for their homes.

Open Geneva Building

GOVERNOR NELSON ROCKEFELLER opened a two-day program to dedicate the new $4 million Food Research Building at the Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, May 5. He termed the new building "the finest food research laboratory anywhere."

With about 50 per cent of all fruits and vegetables produced in New York now being processed, the new building meets the need for more comprehensive research. Experimental work at the Station centers upon fruit and vegetable production, processing, and marketing. New work in food processing and storage will be added with the facilities of the new building. Commercial food processing equipment will be tested in an adjoining 8500-square-foot pilot plant. Plant physiologists have a greenhouse on the roof for their research. In the main building are offices and laboratories of the Department of Food Science & Technology, storage rooms, facilities for radiation research, a glass-blowing shop, experimental kitchen, and a small-animal laboratory. Studies of fruit and vegetable processing will be carried out both under laboratory and simulated commercial conditions. The new building has facilities to run several assembly lines simultaneously, thereby trying out more than one crop at a time. New packages will be developed and tested and market surveys carried out.

The modern brick and limestone three-story building, erected by the State, has floor space of approximately 60,000 square feet, with sub-basement and penthouse for operating equipment. Architects were Shreve, Lamb & Harmon of New York City. General contractor was William E. Bouley Construction Co. of Auburn.

President Deane W. Malott presided at the afternoon dedication exercises, where Governor Rockefeller spoke. Other speakers were President Thomas H. Hamilton of the State University of New York; Don J. Wickham '24, State Commissioner of Agriculture & Markets; Dean Charles E. Palm, PhD '35, of the College of Agriculture; Director Arthur J. Heinicke, PhD '16, of the Experiment Station; and Erwin L. Petersen, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, whose topic was "The Significance of Agricultural Research in the Development of an Improved Food Supply." Dean Palm presided for an evening program. Professor William I. Myers '14, former Dean of Agriculture, introduced the guests. J. George Harrar, director for agriculture of the Rockefeller Foundation, spoke on "Food in National and International Welfare."

For a May 6 symposium on "Food & Health," Professor David B. Hand, PhD '30, Food Science & Technology, presided. Speakers were William J. Darby, Director, Institute of Nutrition, Vanderbilt University; Emil M. Mrak, chancellor, University of California at Davis; Philip L. White, executive secretary, Council of Foods & Nutrition, American Medical Association; and John B. Youmans, technical director of research, US Army Medical Research & Development Command, Surgeon General's Office.

Hotel Students Stage French Fete

HOTEL EZRA CORNELL presented "the world's only hotel for a day," May 6-8, in the thirty-fifth of its series. Some 400 hotel executives and School of Hotel Administration alumni attended the week end of entertainment, meetings, addresses, and exhibits. Hotel students were in complete charge of planning and staging the gala "opening," including its financing.

Friday afternoon, an antique, horse-drawn coach with liveried driver and footman met Mrs. Alice Statler, chairman of the Statler Foundation board and widow of the late hotel magnate, Ellsworth M. Statler, at Ithaca Airport. She was transported to Statler Inn of the Hotel School, which had been converted to a scene from seventeenth-century France. French beards specially grown added an authentic note to the costumes worn by male students. Women students were dressed in hoop-skirted gowns and powdered wigs.

At a Champagne Reception, six blonde finalists for the title "Champagne Queen" served different types of champagne to the guests. A "Travelers Feast" featured some thirty gourmet items in a banquet hall decorated with colorful shields representing the Court of Louis XIV. Later in the evening, dance music and student entertainment were provided at L'Auberge de L'Ours Qui Dort Cabaret.

Saturday breakfast was entitled Petit Déjeuner Continental. Champagne Queen Kerstin M. Westman '62 of Timra, Sweden, was presented at a Wine Merchandising Symposium, where experts discussed wine merchandising, purchasing, and promotion. The Spanish Sherry Institute provided a complete selection of sherry wines for tasting. Saturday luncheon was enjoyed in a garden-like setting with splashing waterfall and wooden footbridge arched over a flowing stream. James B. Smith '31, manager of Wentworth-by-the Sea in Portsmouth N.H., gave an address in honor of Professor Frank H. Randolph '17, who is retiring in June. Presentation of scholarship checks to Dean Howard B. Meek by the Cornell Society of Hotelmen followed. During the afternoon, guests visited the exhibits, "Research for the Future," or attended Ivy League athletic events. The exhibits displayed innovations in the hotel and restaurant industry.

In keeping with the banquet theme, Soirée a Versailles, the Statler Hall ballroom was decorated to resemble the Hall of Mirrors of the Royal Palace at Versailles. Mirrored panels reflected a scene of soft candlelight, sparkling crystal, and red roses. Waiters were dressed in seventeenth-century costumes and powdered wigs. The dessert course was served by a breath-taking procession: to Tchaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers," a five-foot-high "royale icing rosebud" flanked by eight white-garbed chefs was wheeled into the room. As the procession reached the head table, Executive Chef Holten Brandi '61 touched the bud with a wand and its petals slowly unfolded to reveal the lighted dessert, La Bombe Glacée en Surprise Grand Marnier.

At the close of the banquet, radio and television star Tony Marvin introduced Mrs. Statler and keynote speaker Vernon E. Herndon, president of the American Hotel Association and general manager of the Palmer House, Chicago. Concluding the festivities was a concert of seventeenth-century music by the University String Trio followed by a formal ball in the "Hall of Mirrors."

Hotel Alumni Elect

About forty-five members of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen attended the annual meeting, May 7. Roy Watson, Jr. '48 of Hotel Kahler, Rochester, Minn., was elected president, succeeding James B. Smith '31. Frank J. Irving '35 was elected first vice-president and J. Frank Birdsall '35, second vice-president. Professor Robert A. Beck '42 was re-elected secretary-treasurer. New regional vice-presidents are Edward J. Vinnicombe, Jr. '33, Eastern; William W. Shields '33, West Coast; re-elected are Richard E. Holtzman '41, Southern; and Richard B. Carlson '48, Midwest. The Society also elected directors from the even-numbered Classes. They are Professor Charles I. Sayles '26, Howard L. Dayton '28, F. Max Dean '30, Harry S. Jackson, Jr. '32, William P. Batchelder '34, William B. Morrison '36, Ira C. Saurman '38, Curtis W. Lafey '40, Leonard W. Lefevre '42, John G. Lord '44, Mrs. Richard Mather (Jacqueline Rogers) '46, Roy M. Niel, Jr. '48, John J. Carr '50, Louis E. Rogers '52, Philip Pistilli '54, Charles E. Dorman '56, and Thomas P. Root '58.

Faculty Members Retire

THEODORE P. WRIGHT, who came to the University in the new position of Vice President for Research in 1948, will retire June 30. In the twelve years of his administration, sponsored research at Cornell has increased in annual volume from about $9,000,000 to more than $30,500,000. He has also been president and board chairman of the University-owned Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, where research has increased from some $3,500,000 a year to more than $16,000,000; is president of the Cornell Research Foundation; and for six months in 1951, was acting President of the University. He represents the University as a trustee of Associated Universities, Inc. and member of its radio astronomy committee and as a trustee of the University Corp. for Atmospheric Research, Cornell-Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center, and Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research; is a member of the administrative board of the University Council.

A graduate of Lombard (now Knox College) in 1915 and of MIT in 1918, he has been a leader in development and production of aircraft and air safety. He learned to fly in the Navy in World War I, became an engineer with Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. in 1921 and advanced to vice-president, director, and chairman of engineering planning and general manager of the airplane division of the successor Curtiss-Wright Corp. He directed development of the Curtiss "Tanager" plane that won the 1929 Guggenheim Foundation prize of $100,000 for safe aircraft. He was called to Washington in June, 1940, as a consultant to William S. Knudson, head of the National Defense Advisory Commission, and in February, 1941, became assistant chief, Aircraft Section, Office of Production Management. When the War Production Board was formed, he organized the Aircraft Resources Control Office and was made director in March, 1943, and a member of the five-man Aircraft Production Board which greatly stimulated the war production of planes. He was a member of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics from 1942-53; was appointed Administrator of Civil Aeronautics in 1944 and that year was technical secretary of an international civil aviation conference in Chicago that established rules for all aspects of world air transportation adopted by fifty-three nations. He has received many honors for his accomplishments in aviation, including the Wright Brothers Medal, Medal & Citation for Exceptional Civilian Service and Freedom Medal of the War Department, Presidential Medal for Merit, Daniel Guggenheim Medal for Aeronautics. In May, 1945, he delivered the Wilbur Wright Memorial Lecture before the Royal Aeronautical Society in London and was elected an honorary fellow; is a founder, past-president, and honorary fellow of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences; member of Sigma Nu, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, and Quill & Dagger. He is a trustee of the Fund for Peaceful Atomic Development and of Power Reactor Development Co. and member of its safety committee, and a director of the Flight Safety Foundation.

Wright is an interested supporter of Cornell sports teams. He and Mrs. Wright will make their home in Ithaca and hope to travel extensively. Douglas L. Wright '42 is their son.

Three Faculty members of the College of Agriculture here and four at Geneva will become emeritus professors, June 30.

Gibson '17 Leaves Agriculture

Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, Director of Resident Instruction since 1940, started teaching Farm Practice in 1915, while he was an undergraduate. He received the BS in 1917, then farmed in Virginia until he came back to the College to organize the alumni records in 1921. He received the MS in 1923 and was appointed Associate Secretary of the College; since 1937, has been professor of Personnel Administration. He has served on many University committees; during the war, was armed services representative and chairman of the committee on student war service and for a time was acting Counselor of Students. The University Faculty elected him a Faculty representative to the Board of Trustees starting January, 1956, and in June of that year the Board elected him as one of the first Faculty Trustees for the term to June 30, 1961. Last Farm & Home Week, he completed forty years as secretary-treasurer of the Agriculture Alumni Association; has been a director of the Cornell Alumni Association, member of the board of managers and board of governors of Willard Straight Hall, a director of The Cornell Countryman and Cornell Daily Sun. He has been active in the Association of Land Grant Colleges; served two years as national president of Alpha Gamma Rho, and has long been secretary-treasurer of the Cornell chapter corporation. He and Mrs. Gibson will continue to live in Forest Home. Their children are A. Wright Gibson, Jr. '42, Philip B. Gibson '43, and Mrs. Lionel M. Noel (Sally Gibson) '47.

Scientists To Retire

Professor Alexis L. Romanoff '25, Chemical Embryology, Poultry Husbandry, has made many scientific contributions in his field; is the author of two monumental volumes, The Avian Egg, published in 1949, and The Avian Embryo, published this year. He is a fellow of the New York Academy of Sciences and the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of numerous other scientific and professional societies and of Sigma Xi. Born in Leningrad, Russia, and a graduate of Vladivostok Polytechnic Institute, he was in the White Russian Army and came to the United States by way of China in 1921. He entered Agriculture in 1923, received the BS in 1925, MS in 1926, PhD in 1928. He became instructor in Poultry Husbandry in 1928, assistant professor in 1932, associate professor in 1943; has been professor of Chemical Embryology since 1948. He and Mrs. Romanoff, MEd '54, expect to live in Ithaca.

Professor Walfred A. Anderson, PhD '29, Rural Sociology, joined the Faculty in 1931 from North Carolina State College, having graduated from Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. in 1917 and received the BS in 1921 and MS in 1922 at Iowa State. In 1930, he was a member of the research staff of the Methodist Laymen's Foreign Mission Inquiry in several Asian countries and made a special study of rural conditions in China. In 1939, he studied rural communities in England and Scandinavia, and in 1947-48, he studied rural reconstruction in Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, India, Burma, and China for Agricultural Missions, Inc. In 1950, the Chinese National Government awarded him a gold medal for his research and recommendations on reorganizing farmers' associations in Taiwan, where he went for ECA. He has written extensively; is a fellow of the American Sociological Society, was president of the Rural Sociological Society of America; is a member of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, and Gamma Sigma Delta. Recently elected district governor of Rotary, he will spend much of next year in those duties and will live in Ithaca.

At the Geneva Agricultural Experiment Station, Director Arthur J. Heinicke, PhD '16, will retire June 30; Professor William T. Tapley, Vegetable Crops, retired January 1; Professor George E. R. Hervey, PhD '30, retired

April 1; and James D. Luckett, Editor & Public Relations Director, retired May 6. Director Heinicke became a graduate assistant in Pomology in 1914; was appointed assistant professor in 1916, professor in 1920, and headed the Department of Pomology in Agriculture from 1921 until he went to the Geneva Station as Director in 1942. Professor Tapley, receiving the BS at University of New Hampshire in 1916, taught at Minnesota, where he received the MS in 1920, and at Penn State; has been at the Experiment Station since 1930. Professor Hervey came to the Graduate School in 1924, having received the BSA at Toronto University. He joined the staff of the Geneva Station as a research associate in 1929 and was appointed professor in 1949. Luckett went to the Experiment Station as editor & librarian in 1920, and started the quarterly publication, Farm Research, published by the Station and the College of Agriculture at Ithaca. He edited the Journal of the American Society of Agronomy and the Proceedings of the Soil Science Society of America and was made a life member of the former Society.

Four Other Teachers Leave

Professor Frank H. Randolph '17, who was the second member of the Hotel Administration Faculty and started the Department of Hotel Engineering in 1923, will retire June 30. He received the BA at Yale in 1915, then went to MIT and entered Sibley College in 1916, receiving the ME the next year. He graduated from the US Navy Steam Engineering School in 1919, served as a Navy officer, practiced engineering, and taught at Yale. At Cornell, he developed courses and texts in Hotel Engineering; has served as a consultant to the hotel and restaurant industry and to the Hoover Commission. He is a licensed Professional Engineer and will continue as a consultant.

In Arts & Sciences, Professors Edwin A. Burt and Harold R. Smart, PhD '23, Philosophy, and Charles M. Nevin, PhD '25, Geology, will become emeritus professors June 30. Professor Burt, graduate of Yale in 1915, of Union Theological Seminary with the BD in 1920 and STM in 1922, and with PhD of Columbia in 1925, came to the Philosophy Department in 1932; has been Susan Linn Sage Professor since 1941. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and of numerous learned societies and has written extensively. In 1958, Columbia awarded him the Nicholas Murray Butler Medal.

Professor Smart, a graduate of Wesleyan, came to the Graduate School in 1920; received the MA in 1921 and PhD two years later. After a year at University of North Carolina, he returned as assistant professor of Philosophy and was appointed associate professor in 1940. A member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi, he has written several books on logic and was associate editor of The Philosophical Review and secretary of the Rhythm Club. Mrs. Smart was Mabel Wilson, PhD '24.

Professor Nevin received the BS at Penn State in 1916 and entered the Graduate School in 1921, receiving the MS in 1923 and PhD in two more years. He has taught in the Geology Department since 1921; has been professor since 1936; headed the Department from 1939-44. He is the author of The Principles of Structural Geology, published in 1931 and revised in 1949. He was a bowler of note in Ithaca.

Professor Lucille J. Williamson, Economics of the Household & Household Management, will receive emeritus rank during the summer. A graduate of University of Oklahoma and with the PhD of Columbia, she joined the College of Home Economics as an Extension specialist in 1932 and since 1945 has been engaged in teaching and research. A member of the American Home Economics Association and its representative to the American Standards Association, member of Sigma Xi and Sigma Delta Epsilon, she is the author of many articles and Extension Bulletins. She is the widow of Professor Paul S. Williamson, PhD '34, Agricultural Economics.

Cornell Goes To Pittsburgh

REGIONAL CONFERENCE arranged by University Council members and the men's and women's Cornell Clubs in Pittsburgh, Pa., April 30, brought out approximately 140 Cornellians to hear about the University. Starting with luncheon at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and ending with the annual dinner and dance of the Cornell Club, Cornell was brought to them by Faculty members and University officials. And the evening before, 118 prospective Freshmen, parents, and counselors invited from the schools were told about the University.

David H. Young '44, chairman of the Cornell Club secondary schools committee, opened the evening meeting and guests saw the new film, "Cornell University Presents Its College of Arts & Sciences." Then at separate sessions, guidance counselors met with Young and Dean Francis E. Mineka, Arts & Sciences; and prospective students and their parents had their questions answered by Vice President James L. Zwingle, PhD '42, and Ross P. Jackson '54, Assistant Director of Admissions.

At the Saturday luncheon for Cornellians, David G. Hill '24, general chairman of the conference committee, presided. Dean Mineka told of the objectives and plans of the College of Arts & Sciences. Three sessions followed, with Vice President Zwingle and William R. Robertson '34, chairman of the University Council, discussing the opportunities for alumni service to Cornell; Professor Thomas Gold, Director of the new Space Research Center, telling of its plans and possibilities; and Professor Frederick W. Edmondson, Jr. '37, Architecture, showing a model and describing the city designed by his students for protection against nuclear attack. Presiding at these sessions were George M. Heinisch '15, conference chairman; Charles M. Thorp '16, assistant chairman; and John W. Eichlay '26 of the University Council.

At Pittsburgh Alumni Conference—Officers and speakers at the regional conference were at the head table for the conference banquet at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, April 30. From left are Professor Frederick W. Edmondson, Jr. '37, Architecture; Mrs. William N. Manning (Pauline Carpenter) '32, president, Cornell Women's Club of Pittsburgh; Dean Francis E. Mineka, Arts & Sciences; Mrs. Arthur H. Dean; Charles M. Stotz '21, toastmaster & assistant chairman of the conference; Arthur H. Dean '19, chairman of the University Board of Trustees; David G. Hill '24, conference chairman; Mrs. Hill; Vice President James L. Zwingle, PhD '42; Mrs. Robert M. Simpson (Janice Evans) '47, whose husband '45 (not shown) retired as president of the Cornell Club of Pittsburgh.

Charles M. Stotz '21, assistant conference chairman, was toastmaster at the banquet. Arthur H. Dean '19, chairman of the University Board of Trustees, just returned from a United Nations conference on law of the sea at Geneva, Switzerland, where he headed the United States delegation for the second time, told of the extended negotiations there. Russia and her satellite countries, he said, blocked by one vote in the fifty-two nations represented a principal proposal to limit control of the seas by any country to three miles offshore. He and Mrs. Dean have travelled 70,000 miles and visited eighty countries in support of international agreement since he attended the 1958 conference at Geneva.

Observations by Sam Horton '27

"Poppy" Burr '81

THE JOHN M. OLIN Research Library is progressing with such rapidity as to provide a recent cover for the NEWS. So it seems appropriate to recall Professor George Lincoln Burr '81 and his works. For "Poppy" Burr, more than any other, was probably responsible for the true greatness of Cornell's Library tradition.

I knew him, though in my day he had retired; in a sense! He was living then as the honored guest of the Telluride Association, whose pleasant quarters he enjoyed for more than twenty years. For the Telluride boys he served as inspiration, adviser, father-confessor, and on the rare occasions when it was needed, as chastener. A momentary attack of anti-Semitism, arising from plans for a dance at the house, ended with the abruptness and force of a thunderbolt when Poppy stood up in a meeting and offered his resignation. Men like Professor Burr, of course, never really retire. Neither their temperaments nor their friends will allow them to do so.

Thus, an annual feature of Wallace Notestein's courses in History was the appearance of Poppy Burr, his small erect figure almost hidden by the stack of books he carried, to give his guest lecture on witchcraft and the great Witchcraft Collection at Cornell. That was a talk that drew stowaways: students outside the roll-call came to it in crowds that must have alarmed the fire department. Professor Notestein properly didn't mind the stowaways; he rather invited them.

And though he was nominally retired and therefore ancient in the eyes of uninformed youth, I can attest from personal suffering that it was dangerous to go for a walk with Poppy. His notion of a casual stroll ran to at least six miles, and if the weather was fine, he preferred fifteen or twenty. But what your head and heart attained on such marathons usually atoned for your aching legs!

Burr was a "find" of Andrew Dickson White's, one of whose great traits was a sixth sense for greatness in others. When Burr was a Sophomore, he kept drifting in to a History course that President

White gave for Seniors. Such precocity was nothing new for Burr, who had become a school teacher at sixteen. When the Seniors had an examination, Burr took it too, confronting White with answers which not only excelled those of the best Seniors in the course, but caused the President to remark, "I doubt whether I could have passed a better examination on my own lectures." White made Burr his marker in the course, enjoining him to secrecy to prevent the President's being mobbed by outraged upperclassmen. At Burr's graduation, White offered him a job as his private secretary and also appointed him instructor in History. But he went further than that; out of his own pocket, he paid the ex-

SAM HORTON '27 died at his home at 214 Stewart Avenue in Ithaca, May 16. Just three days before, he had brought in his copy that appears here and said he had had a virus infection, but was feeling well again. Horton's "Observations" in the Alumni News since last September have brought more appreciation from readers than any feature of the paper since the "Now In My Time!" columns of the late Romeyn Berry '04; especially his column on Professor Martin Sampson last February.

Samuel P. Horton was one of the group that started the literary magazine, The Columns, in 1926, and he was editor-in-chief the next year. The son of the Rev. Henry P. Horton, Episcopal minister in Ithaca, he entered Arts & Sciences in 1923 and received the AB in 1927. After graduation, he worked in New York City for Simmons-Boardman and Haïre business publications and wrote sketches for vaudeville actors. During World War I, he was in the Naval Reserve; then was in the personnel office of Pan American Airways and with the Human Engineering Research Laboratory at Stevens Institute of Technology. He and Mrs. Horton came back to Ithaca in 1944 and he was a book dealer and for the last two years, had had a Sunday-afternoon radio program on University Station WHCU.

penses of three years of travel and study in Europe for Burr.

The debt to White was less George Lincoln Burr's than Cornell University's. For in Europe, Burr proved himself one of the best book-scouts ever known. The White Library has long been one of the glories of Cornell; that it is, we may credit Burr in the main. His achievements in discovering (and bargaining for) valuable manuscripts rapidly became fabulous in Europe. One of his acquisitions in France—several cubic yards of the papers of the last Bourbon king, Charles X, which Poppy bought from an incompetent book-dealer for $90—was so priceless that Burr kept it entirely secret until he had smuggled it out of the country. He feared the French government might hold up the MSS and then outbid White for them.

But it was his accomplishments in digging up precious works on witchcraft that won him his greatest fame as a book-hunter. Before starting his European excursion in 1883, he had turned up for White the manuscript of the witchcraft trial of Dietrich Flade at Treves in 1589. And when he went to Treves, his genius for detection resulted in one of the most celebrated book-finds of the nineteenth century. This was a work against the logic of persecuting witches which had been confiscated when only a few sheets were off the press. The author, Cornelius Loos, was forced to recant his "heresy" and it was thought that the Inquisition had destroyed the MS after using it in evidence against him. Now, after 300 years, George Lincoln Burr's hunting instinct was aroused by the description of a coverless, titleless work on "magic" in the catalog of Treves Library. He examined it and it proved to be the Loos treatise. He obtained a tracing of it, which you can still see in the White Library.

Examination of the manuscripts which Burr acquired for that Library, by the way, will give you a first-hand understanding of qualities. It was not merely necessary for the book-scout who assembled such a collection to be able to read many languages, but to read them in the multitude of handwriting styles prevailing in several countries and centuries. Some of those chicken-tracks would defeat any ordinary linguist.

George Lincoln Burr's own publications were scant, perhaps due to his scholarly caution and to his passion for assisting men like White in their work. But in every line of his writings, as in every beautiful line of his kindly face, one sees shining his devotion to truth, reason, justice, tolerance, and love for others. Of souls like Burr's it is only possible to paraphrase Pericles in his Funeral Oration for the Athenian Dead. "Their true sepulchre is not built of stone; they live on forever, woven into the stuff of men's minds."

Crews Spring A Surprise

ONE OF THE MOST pleasantly unforeseen happenings in the history of Cornell sports took place on Lake Quinsigamond at Worcester, Mass., May 14. Cornell won the big one, the varsity race in the Eastern sprint championships at 2000 meters, and the next most important, the junior-varsity race, and came within ten feet of winning the freshman race, which Navy won in the last 100 yards. Cornell won the Rowe Cup with the second-largest number of points ever scored in the fifteen-year span of this regatta, 23 points. Navy was second with 19; Harvard was third with 16.

The Harvard varsity boat was such a favorite that the experts figured it was just laying back when Cornell beat it by three-quarters of a length in the morning trial. The Crimson had not been defeated since 1958, had looked invincible in two earlier races, was labelled as one of the great crews of all time by some estimable experts, and was the leading candidate to represent the United States at the Olympic Games. Cornell, on the other hand, had not won a varsity race since 1958, had lost its stroke and No. 4 man by scholastic probation, had been beaten by Navy in a foreshortened Goes Trophy Regatta the week before, and the Junior-varsity of that day was the Varsity in the Sprint Regatta because it had beaten the previous Varsity boat by three lengths in a 2000-meter trial the preceding Tuesday. Only two men rowed in the Varsity in both tests. Richard A. Schwartz '60, No. 4 man, and Coxswain Alan S. Krech '60 were demoted from the Varsity to the Jayvees after the Goes race. So they were in the sprint championship eight.

When Cornell won the earlier junior-varsity race, some of the more jaded aficionados at the scene figured that Coach R. Harrison Sanford had switched the two boats hoping to salvage some glory out of a paltry situation. But when the big one came up, the new Varsity boat wasted no time at all showing its supremacy. It took the lead right from the gun with a leaping get-away that shot the Red shell into a clear-cut lead. It piled it on even when Navy was rowing at 37 and 38 and Harvard at 34 and the Cornell beat remained at 31. Rowing against a twelve-mile-an-hour headwind, the smooth oarsmanship of the Sanford-coached crew was a thing of beauty. It beat Harvard by a length and a quarter and Navy was less than six feet behind the favored Crimson. Next were Syracuse, Princeton, and Penn. Winning time was 6:33.5.

The Junior-varsity was not extended in the trial or the final and rowed the second-fastest time of the finals to win in 6:37.5. So presumably either Cornell crew could have won the varsity race. Like the Varsity, the Jayveeboat jumped to an early lead off its racing start and just poured it on. It won by a length and a half over Navy and Harvard, Yale, and Penn followed.

The Freshmen also got off to a winging start, and they kept the lead until the Navy caught and passed the much lighter Cornell boatload 100 yards from the finish. The Freshmen average 172 pounds to Navy's 186. The other Cornell entries, on the other hand, were among the biggest. The Varsity crew averaged 191; the Junior-varsity, 186. Trying to stay ahead of the Plebes, the Red Freshman boat was up to 39 strokes a minute in the last 200 yards, but Navy, at 36½, was too powerful.

Coach Sanford, greatly pleased with the showing of the crews, remarked on Monday that they looked "rather rough in spots" and "still have a long ways to go." The Cornell boatings and heavy-weight times:

Varsity: Cornell, 6:33.5; 2, Harvard, 6:38.4; 3, Navy, 6:38.9; 4, Syracuse, 6:42.0; 5, Princeton, 6:42.5; 6, Pennsylvania, 6:49.7.

Junior varsity: 1, Cornell, 6:37.5; 2, Navy, 6:43.0; 3, Harvard, 6:43.8; 4, Yale, 6:48.3; 5, Pennsylvania, 6:49.0; 6, Dartmouth, 6:54.9.

Freshman: 1, Navy, 6:44.1; 2, Cornell, 6:45.1; 3, Harvard, 6:48.5; 4, Syracuse, 6:51.7; 5, MIT, 6:53.1; 6, Princeton, 6:54.2.

An estimated 15,000 spectators watched sixty-three crews in a full day of racing on Lake Quinsigamond. The lightweight championships were also held on this same sunny day. It was the first time either regatta was held there and conditions were adjudged excellent.

Harvard was not disappointed in the 150-pound regatta. It won, as predicted, all three races. Cornell was third in the varsity race just behind Navy; third in the junior varsity, also behind Navy; and fifth in the freshman race behind Harvard, Princeton, MIT, and Yale; leading Penn.

The Goes Trophy Regatta, scheduled for May 7 at Syracuse, had to be postponed until the next day because a forty-mile wind made Lake Onondaga a roaring, angry maelstrom. It was not much better the next day, so the race was rowed on adjoining Seneca River. Only a five-eighths-of-a-mile course could be found to accommodate three crews. The race was scheduled for two miles.

Navy's incredibly high-stroking varsity (37, 38, 39) won by going out in front and staying there. Cornell won the junior-varsity and Navy took the freshman race. Syracuse was third and last in all three. The Navy varsity started at 46, settled at 39, and was back to 46 again at the finish. Cornell started at 38, settled at 31, and got up to no more than 32 in its bid to catch the Navy shell, but was beaten by a length. Winning time was 3:39; Cornell, 3:43; Syracuse, 3:44. The Red Jayvees won by two lengths in 3:46. The Freshmen lost to Navy by about eight feet. Navy time was 3:49; Cornell's, 3:50; Syracuse, 3:64.

The Geiger Cup 150-pound regatta was blown off Cayuga Lake May 7, too, but it was raced on the Inlet. The distance was reduced to a mile from the planned mile and five-sixteenths. The three participants divided honors. MIT won the varsity race with Cornell second; Columbia, third. Cornell won the junior-varsity; MIT was second; Columbia, third. Columbia won the freshman event; Cornell was second; MIT, third.

Other Sports

VARSITY BASEBALL team won one League contest, against Princeton, May 6, in a twelve-inning game at Princeton; lost to Yale the next day at New Haven; was rained out of a Harvard game scheduled for Ithaca, May 11; and lost a twelve-inning game to Columbia in New York, May 14. May 10, it played a non-League 5-5 tie game with Syracuse at Ithaca.

Pitcher H. Laurance Fuller '60 was a vivid factor in the games on the road against Princeton & Yale. Recently elected Tau Beta Pi for high standing in Chemical Engineering, Fuller was sent into the Princeton game when Sophomore Arlo R. McDowell weakened in the eleventh with the score tied at 2-2. There was one out and a runner on second. Fuller intentionally walked the first man and then proceeded to strike out the next two. The next inning, Fuller hit a booming triple to help pile up 3 runs for Cornell to win, 5-2. He had little trouble retiring Princeton the last of the twelfth. Patrick J. Pennucci '62, shortstop, and John R. Smutko '62, outfielder, made the other two runs in the big twelfth.

Yale Wins Narrowly

The Yale game told a different Fuller story. He replaced footballer David E. McKelvey '62 on the mound in the eighth with the score 2-2. Fuller committed an error covering first base, which put on base the man who scored in the last of the ninth on the only hit Fuller permitted, to let Yale win, 3-2. Catcher Lyman M. Beggs '61, who accounted for two of Cornell's three hits off pitcher Bill Leckonby, tied the game in the eighth with a single which brought in centerfielder Robert L. Reed '61. Beggs scored the other run after he had hit a triple.

The Syracuse game on Hoy Field, May 10, was called at the end of the eleventh inning because of rain and darkness. On the cold, raw day the Syracuse pitcher, Dave Guisti, was effective for the whole eleven innings; Cornell used three pitchers. Footballers Beggs and McKelvey came through with pinch-hit singles to score 3 Cornell runs. Beggs did not get into the game until the fourth inning because he had a late lab.

Columbia had a fine pitcher, too, in Bob Koehler. He helped his host team out of a dilemma when he came in in the seventh inning. He allowed only one hit and Columbia won in the twelfth, 4-3. Pitcher McDowell and first baseman Ronald S. Ivkovich, Jr. '61 hit home runs off earlier Lion pitchers. A throwing-error by Eugene J. Shea '61, who came in the game when second baseman Michael H. Kaufman '60 sprained his ankle, permitted Columbia's winning run.

Ithaca College freshmen edged Cornell's, 3-2, on Hoy Feld, May 6, which gave the Red youngsters at 2-2 record with three games to play.

Sixth in Heptagonals

The Varsity track team suffered the unfortunate loss of sprinter George A. Ekstrom '61 in the Heptagonal Games at Cambridge, Mass., May 14, and an almost assured 12 points. As a result, the team placed sixth. Ekstrom pulled a muscle in the trials of the 220-yard dash and could not run in the finals. He had won his heat easily in the 100 and defeated Sprague of Army, the eventual winner. In the 220 trial, with fifty yards to go, he was six yards ahead of Snyder of Yale, the eventual winner, when he suffered the pull.

Captain John S. Murray '61 was the only Cornell winner. He pole-vaulted 13 feet 8 inches to win the event. Eric

P. Groon '62, indoor Heptagonals winner, placed third in the mile behind Mark Mullin and Fred Howard of Harvard. Winning time was 4:14.8. Groon led most of the way, but was overtaken on the last lap. Peter W. Brandeis '61 ran a fine 880-yard race, taking second (by a stride) to Tom Carroll of Yale, whose time was 1:52.4. Murray B. Moulding '61 was fourth in the 440, won by James Stack of Yale in 0:47.0, a new record. Moulding ran 0:47.6. Albert M. Finch '60 was in a three-way tie for third in the pole vault at 13 feet. The mile relay team of James J. McSweeney '62, Peter B. Smith '61, Brandeis, and Moulding finished fifth.

Yale was the team victor with 73 points. Harvard was a distant second with 40; next came Navy with 39½; Penn, 26; Army, 23; Cornell, 18; Princeton, 17; Brown, 16; Dartmouth, 11; Columbia, 2½.

Track Team Takes Penn

May 7, on Schoellkopf Feld, Cornell defeated Penn, 78-62. Ekstrom ran phenomenal times of 0:09.6 for the 100 and 0:20.6 for the 220, but he had a following wind of considerable velocity, so records were not accepted. Moulding's fine 0:48.3 for the 440 was legitimate, but no record. Acceptable as a record for Schoellkopf Field was the Cornell mile relay team's time of 3:18.8; Captain Murray's 14-foot vault as a meet record; and the tying high-jump meet record by Thomas W. Mikulina '62 of 6 feet 2 inches. Bob Batdorf of Penn won three events: the discus with 170 feet 6 inches, a meet and Schoellkopf record; shotput with 52 feet 1½ inches, a meet record; javelin throw with 198 feet 8½ inches, a meet record.

The Colgate freshmen defeated Cornell, 92-47, May 6. David M. Donbusch was the only track winner, in the low hurdles. Two field men took the only other first places for Cornell. Richard C. Miller won the discus with 133 feet and the hammer throw with 119 feet. Robert L. Potter won the pole vault with 12 feet and the high jump with 6 feet. A May 14 meet with Syracuse & Colgate freshmen was called off because of inundated conditions at Syracuse.

Lacrosse Team Goes Along

Victories over Cortland, Penn, and Hobart and a disheartening loss to Syracuse were the Varsity lacrosse results from May 4-14. Cortland succumbed, 13-4, May 4 at Cortland. Captain David L. Dresser '60 and Sophomore Vann K. Jones each scored 3 goals. May 7, the Red team won a hard-fought defensive battle with Penn at Philadelphia, 5-3. Jones scored 2. Dresser, Daniel L. Bidwell '60, and John E. Beeby '61 each scored one.

Syracuse won, 7-6, May 11, on rain-drenched Alumni Field with a goal in the last thirty seconds by Orange star Dick Finley. Cornell led, 3-0, in the first quarter, and seemed to have the game well in hand. Score was 3-1 at the end of the quarter, 4-2 at the half, then Syracuse got 3 in the third quarter while Cornell was held scoreless. It was tied at 6-6 when Finley shot his last-minute goal. Cornell was handicapped without the stellar attack man, Dresser, who was hospitalized with mononucleosis.

Captain Dresser was not available for the Hobart game at Ithaca, May 14, either. Also played in the rain, Cornell won this, 7-2, to give it an 8-2 record with one game remaining, with Princeton, May 21. This was a rough game in which spectators got into a couple of altercations. Hobart students and house-party-arrayed Cornellians shared the spirit of the frenzied intermingling when a Hobart partisan ran on the field and threw a punch at midfielder Charles P. Parsons '60. Bidwell, Beeby, and David A. Ferguson '61 scored 2 apiece.

Freshmen Win Six in Row

While the Red Varsity was winning on Lower Alumni Field, the star Freshman lacrossers were defeating the Hobart freshmen at Geneva, 14-4, for their sixth in a row. Their record was 91 goals to 12 by opponents. They gave Syracuse a good licking, 15-0, May 7 on Lower Alumni. Richard C. Gibson of Rochester and Thomas H. Beeby of Dersingham, England, brother of Varsity player John, were high scorers for the Red with 4 apiece. Coach Robert L. Cullen used thirty players.

Tennis Team Falters

Columbia ended the winning streak of the Varsity tennis team at six. After Cornell had defeated Penn State, Colgate, Harvard, Syracuse, Navy, and Army in succession, the Lions took the Red in New York, May 14, 5-4. In so doing, they won the Allison Danzig ('21) Trophy, which was placed in competition for the first time this season as a testimonial to the renowned sports writer of The New York Times. It is a perpetual trophy given by Columbia alumni for competition between Cornell and Columbia.

The six singles matches were split evenly. Donald Rubell '61 at No. 1 defeated Lloyd Moglen, 7-5, 6-2; Captain P. Kay Champion '60 at No. 2 was even more impressive as he beat Don Patterson, 6-0, 6-0; at No. 3, Peter H. Moeller '61 ran his unbeaten string to eight by winning over Les Moglen, 6-3, 6-3. H. Larry Braverman '61, Samuel Dugan '61, and Perry W. Fisher '61 were beaten. Columbia's Moglen brothers won the critical match over the fine doubles team of Dugan & Moeller. The Cornell team of Rubell & Champion won their match and Braverman & Victor Ripp '60 lost. That made the season record 6-2. An earlier loss was to Yale, 8-1.

Army was defeated, 6-3, May 3 at West Point; Navy was defeated by the same score on the Cascadilla Courts, May 6; Syracuse was given an 8-1 licking, May 4, on the Cascadilla Courts.

Low in Golf Intercollegiates

Varsity golf team placed tenth in the Eastern Intercollegiate championships at University of Pittsburgh's Wildwood Club, May 7-9. George Bickley '61 led the Cornellians with 155 total for thirty-six holes. He had a 79 and a 76. The other Varsity scorers were David P. Goles '61, 159; Captain David M. Dawson '60, 160; Robert V. Wagoner '60, 160; Warner B. Berry '62, 161. Army won the team title and Don Norbury of Penn won the individual title for the second year in a row.

Freshman golf team defeated Orange County Community College of Middletown, 5-0, on the University course, May 14.

Cornell's triathlon team was beaten again by Army, May 14 at Ithaca. The Cadets scored 8632 points to 7577 for the Red in competitions involving swimming, track, and pistol shooting. Park S. Noble '60 won the swimming competition.

A Cornell rugby team defeated Villanova, 9-0, on Upper Alumni Field, May 7. Edward P. Cunningham, Grad, of Waterford, Ireland, and David J. Rynne '62 scored 3 apiece. Previously, the team defeated New York Rugby Club, 55-0, at New York and the Westchester Rugby Club, 16-3, at Blirstown, N.J.

Raoul P. Sudre '60 of Casablanca, Morocco, voted "fencer of the year" at the NCAA championships, was named to the 1960 All-American fencing squad in the foil.

There will be a Cornell tent at the finish area of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta at Syracuse, June 18. Tickets are available at the Athletic Association office in Teagle Hall for bleacher seats for the races, which start at 3. Reservations for the IRA stewards' dinner the evening before at Hotel Syracuse may be made with Syracuse Rowing Association, Hotel Syracuse.

Band To Travel

CONCERT BAND will play at high school assemblies June 7 in Suffern, June 8 in Port Chester, June 9 in Union, N.J., and will give a public concert the evening of June 8 in the White Plains High School. Fifty members of the Band and the director, Professor William A. Campbell, Music, will travel in two chartered buses and make their headquarters at the Concourse Plaza Hotel in New York.

Arrangements for the concerts were made by Band members while they were at home for spring recess, to fill the time between the end of term examinations and the Band's engagements here for Reunions and Senior Week. It will play at the Reunion luncheon in Barton Hall, June 11, and that evening at the closing Rally; give a Sunday afternoon concert on the Library slope, June 12; and play for the ROTC commissioning ceremonies and at Commencement, June 13.

Support for Athletics

EDITOR: I hope every subscriber read your March 1 article, "University Leads All Others in Sports," by Robert J. Kane '34. I hope too that they noticed the sentence, "We can take pride, on occasion, in our athletic successes, but in our sportsmanship all the time." That's Bob Kane. That's Bob Kane's pride in being a Cornellian.

After James Lynah '05 put Cornell well on the road of the Ivy League, one man and one man only—Bob Kane—not only kept it there in the forefront, but has been the single factor in winning the high regard in which Cornell is held by her sister universities.

Yes, Bob Kane deserves much praise. He has built a magnificent plant. It needs alumni support—money support—right now. If we get together, we can do much. If need be, let's include the Department of Physical Education & Athletics in the Cornell Fund and see that a big part of our donations reaches it. Bob Kane has earned that support. Give it to him!—MARCEL K. SESSLER

Kane's article in the News has been widely reprinted and commented on in newspaper sports pages over the country—Ed.

New Hotel Quarterly

FIRST ISSUE of The Cornell Hotel & Restaurant Administration Quarterly, dated May, 1960, appeared during Hotel Ezra Cornell and was well received by visiting hotel men. Editor-in-chief of the new journal is Dean Howard B. Meek of the School of Hotel Administration; Professor Helen J. Recknagel is managing editor; and the Faculty of the School constitutes the editorial board.

Dean Meek explains in the first issue that "There has been for a long time a need for a definitely scholarly type of hotel and restaurant publication. As education in the field has advanced, that need has become increasingly evident. At last it is to be met."

"Supported as it has been almost exclusively by student fees, the School of Hotel Administration at Cornell has heretofore felt obligated to concentrate its resources on resident instruction, on the instruction of the student actually enrolled at the University. But the School has nevertheless always recognized its responsibility to give such assistance as it could to the education of hotel men active in the field. Now with expanded resources and the assistance and encouragement of the Statler Foundation, the School proposes to share its teaching material with hotelmen at large through this new Cornell Hotel & Restaurant Administration Quarterly.

"It will be the purpose of the Quarterly, without impingement on the commercial trade press, to provide a forum for serious discussion by all interested and competent parties of the problems and progress of the hotel industry; to report without abridgment the operational ideas of leaders in the field; and to bring to all hoteliers the results of investigations and studies by Cornellians and other researchers. . . ."

Extension Leaders Die

TWO FORMER MEMBERS of the Home Economics Faculty, both active in the Extension Service, died in Ithaca in May. Dorothy C. DeLany '23, professor and administrative specialist in Extension studies until her retirement in 1958, died suddenly May 10. Three days later, Professor Ruby Green Smith, PhD '14, Home Economics, Emeritus, died after a long illness.

Mrs. Smith was a pioneer in the organization of home demonstration work, starting in 1917 with the US Department of Agriculture Extension Service, when she assisted in organizing the work in thirty-three States and represented the USDA on many World War I committees. The next year, she joined the Faculty of the College here and became State leader of home demonstration agents in 1932, retiring in 1946 with a special citation from the USDA Director of Extension. She was the widow of Albert W. Smith '78, who was Dean of Sibley College from 1904-21 and acting President of the University in 1920-21. They were married at Stanford University where she was a student and he was a teacher. Their children are Professor Alpheus W. Smith '19, Industrial & Labor Relations, Mrs. Robert P. Ludlum (Ruth Smith) '27, and the late Mrs. Harold Raynolds (Dorothy Smith) '22. Paul E. Green, Grad 1921-22, playwright and author, is her brother.

Professor Smith was widely known as a writer and speaker. She helped formulate the constitutions for Farm & Home Bureau Associations of New York and other States; wrote the "Home Bureau Creed" and in 1949, The People's Colleges: A History of the New York State Extension Service in Cornell University & the State. With Professor Glenn W. Herrick '96, she edited The Cornstocks of Cornell, published in 1953. She was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and of many professional organizations.

Miss Delany was born in Ithaca. She received the AB in 1923 and MS in 1931; studied also at Columbia and Michigan. After two years as home demonstration agent in Oncida County, she joined the Home Economics Faculty in 1926 as assistant State leader of home demonstration agents; became assistant State 4-H Club leader in 1934; and in 1937 was appointed professor in the Extension Service. In 1945, she organized the Office of Extension Studies and for her research received an Award of Merit from Epsilon Sigma Phi in 1953. She was president of the New York State Home Economics Association, 1952-54, and in the latter year, was chairman of State presidents in the American Home Economics Association. She was active in civic affairs and was an organizer and a trustee of the Finger Lakes Library Association, president of the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca, member of Alpha Xi Delta, Mortar Board, and Omicron Nu.

Foreign Teachers Visit

TEN EDUCATORS from Austria, France, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom and nine others from Mexico visited the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration and the School of Industrial & Labor Relations the week starting May 8. Both groups were brought to this country for a month by the International Cooperation Administration, their respective programs arranged by the European Productivity Agency and the US Department of Health, Education & Welfare.

Club Gives Track Awards

"JINKY" CROZIER Gold Medal of the Cornell Club of Hawaii was won this year for best performance in the Cornell Relays by Alvin Yamashiro of Iolani School. The Medal was established by the Club in 1953 in memory of George D. Crozier '24, former Varsity quarter-miler and assistant track coach, who was an attorney in Honolulu and died in March, 1953. Yamashiro won the 100-yard dash and was a member of a record-breaking half-mile relay team at the meet in Honolulu, April 23.

The Cornell Relays were started in 1913 by the Cornell Club of Hawaii for the nine schools of Honolulu. Cups and medals are given to winning teams and individuals each year and the school whose teams win three years receives a permanent trophy. Edgar A. Kudlich

'40 is president of the Cornell Club and Frederick W. Koch '17 is chairman of the activities committee responsible for the Cornell Relays.

Student Board Considers Students

EXECUTIVE BOARD of Student Government has voted to form a new committee to be a "clearing house for student sentiment." The group will "examine planning and development in the construction area from the student's point of view; initiate studies and make reports to the Executive Board in specific construction areas; and work in close contact with all other University student groups in preparation and presentation of their individual reports." This group was formed after a state of unclarity and inconsistency in student views existed concerning the widely-discussed Report on Student Housing by the Faculty Committee for Student Affairs.

Most significant in this aftermath of sentiment was a report submitted to the Executive Board by Freshman Class President David C. Costine of Baltimore, Md. His report summarized trends found in a survey of the Freshman Class conducted by the Class Council. The survey dealt with problems presented by that part of the Faculty Committee's report having to do with the living conditions in University Halls. There was a 75 per cent return of a questionnaire which dealt with (1) living & study facilities, (2) dining facilities, (3) Faculty residences, (4) Willard Straight Hall, and (5) the proposed commons unit and contract dining. Two trends were noted as "obvious" in the survey results: (1) the Freshmen living in University Halls are extremely conscious of the inadequacy of study facilities in the dormitories and feel that something should be done to remedy the situation, and (2) the Freshmen are definitely opposed to contract eating if required for a full year.

The new 1960-61 Executive Board has already started to spotlight its attention to its biggest problem area: that of gaining student interest and support. One project of the Public Relations Committee is to write a Student Government Handbook to be distributed next fall. The new Board has also established an "advisory cabinet" composed of the heads of other groups, among them the IFC, Willard Straight Hall, WSGA, and Men's Independent Council. Although it seems an impossible task to rid the Campus of apathy, it is gratifying that the Executive Board is aware of its great task and responsibility in this area.

Further evidence of student disinterest was shown in the recent elections of Class and College Council officers. Peter E. Sitkin '61 of Brooklyn was elected president of the Arts College Council by 140 votes. Thomas W. Gittins '61 of Ridley Park, Pa. was elected president of the next year's Senior Class by 130 voters. Other officers will be Hillel I. Swiller '61 of Brooklyn, secretary-treasurer; Marian R. Pearlman '61 of New York City, vice-president; and Penelope M. Nixon '61 of Miami, Fla., secretary. 149 votes were cast to elect Terry R.

Champagne Queen—Kerstin M. Westman of Timra, Sweden, was selected to preside at the wine merchandising symposium of Hotel Ezra Cornell. She is an exchange student here this year on a University tuition scholarship and guest at the Chi Gamma house. Rison '60

Baker '62 of Pittsburgh, Pa. president of the Junior Class, and president of the Sophomore Class will be Anthony C. Kahn '63 of Middle Village.

Pi Lambda Phi won the interfraternity swimming championship, having achieved 40 points. Sigma Chi was second with 30 points, and Phi Kappa Psi placed third with 20 points.

Douglas B. Martin, Jr., Law '61, of San Francisco, Cal. succeeds Edward S. Cogen '56 as editor-in-chief of the Law Quarterly. William I. Weisberg '54 is managing editor.

Chosen by the Executive Board of Student Government to fill two-year posts on the Men's Judiciary Board are Alan J. Dybvig '61 of Toledo, Ohio; Chris Hadpitheodorou '61 of Thessaloniki, Greece; Garret R. Codrington '61 of Babylon; and James R. Sweeny '62 of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Cornell Countryman editor is Edward L. Razinsky '61, of Greenfield Park; Alan W. Burg '63 of Bellerose is business manager; Carole J. Wedner '61 of Pittsburgh, Pa., managing editor; and Jack E. Hope '61 of Hurleyville and Jane E. Brody '62 of Brooklyn are associate editors.

Theta Delta Chi Award to a student outstanding in leadership, scholarship, and activities went to Stuart M. Pindell, Jr. '60 of Camp Hill, Pa., retiring president of the Interfraternity Council. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

New Head of Willard Straight Hall—Willis S. Clark '60 of Tulsa, Okla. (second from right) succeeds David M. Johnson '60 as 1960-61 president of the student union. Clark will be in the fifth year of Chemical Engineering; is a member of Chi Psi. At left are Edgar A. Whiting '29, Director of the Hall, and Dean of Men Frank C. Baldwin '22; at right, John Summerskill, University Vice President for Student Affairs. Rison '60

THE FACULTY

Alumni Trustee Frederic C. Wood '24, consulting engineer of Cos Cob, Conn., spoke at the annual convention of the National Association of Educational Buyers, in Pittsburgh, Pa., May 3. His topic was "Central Stores: Material Handling & Stores Technique."

Study of glass making in ancient times will be part of the 1960 Cornell-Harvard expedition to the site of Sardis in Turkey, which was one of the great cultural and trading cities of the Middle East before its destruction by Tamerlane early in the fifteenth century A.D. Associate Dean A. Henry Detweiler of the College of Architecture is associate director of the expedition. Corning Glass Center has made a grant to the expedition and will send Dr. Axel von Saldern of its staff, an expert in the study of ancient glass, to the excavations. The expedition, which is sponsored by the American Schools of Oriental Research and supported by the Bollingen Foundation of New York, Cornell, and the Fogg Art Museum of Harvard, has made important discoveries of Lydian, Roman, and Byzantine antiquities during its two seasons in Turkey, and will continue its work from June to September this summer.

Director Henry G. Booker of the School of Electrical Engineering, who is also Assistant Director of the Cornell Center for Radio Physics & Space Research, and Professor Alfred T. Blomquist, Chemistry, have been elected to the National Academy of Sciences. They were honored for their distinguished and continued achievements in original research.

Letter from Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, Emeritus, that appeared in the April 15 ALUMNI NEWS was reprinted in The Congressional Record. It deals with the desirability of reducing the size of the House of Representatives, a subject to which Professor Willcox has devoted much attention for many years. He wrote the letter the day after he was ninety-nine, last March 22.

Professor M. Gardner Clark, Industrial & Labor Relations, aided by a Guggenheim grant, is in Europe to study productivity in the iron and steel industry there. He is visiting mills and research operations in both eastern and western Europe. He left about February 1 and will be back in early September. Professor Clark was in Russia and Eastern Europe for the same purpose in 1957 and again in 1958.

John W. Humphreys '36, Superintendent of Design & Construction in the Department of Buildings & Properties, has been re-elected to a five-year term on the Ithaca board of education.

Professor D. Keith Falkner, Music, who becomes director of the Royal College of Music in London in June, gave a farewell recital in Sage Chapel, May 12. He sang J. S. Bach's bass solo Cantata No. 82, "Ich habe genug." He was accompanied by Don Wells, oboe; Carol Sienko, cello continuo; University Organist James F. Armstrong; and a chamber orchestra conducted by Professor Karel Husa, Music.

New variety of wheat that will resist three costly diseases has been developed at the College of Agriculture by Professors Neal F. Jensen, PhD '43, Plant Breeding, and Leon J. Tyler, Plant Pathology. Called Avon, the wheat will resist common bunt, dwarf bunt, and loose smut, three highly destructive diseases which frequently plague wheat farmers. Genesee, the most widely grown wheat variety in New York State, will resist loose smut but not the other two. The new wheat will be available in commercial quantities by next fall.

Professor John W. MacDonald '25, Law, chairman of the State Law Revision Commission, was cited May 5 at a dinner in New York City for thirty years of State service. The twenty-sixth annual report of the Commission was presented to the Legislature.

William J. Rae, PhD '59, of the Aerodynamics Department of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, won the doctoral division of the 1959 Minta Martin Award, a competition sponsored by the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, with his thesis, "Viscous Effects in Steady Two-Dimensional Potential Flow at Hypersonic Speed." A plaque was presented to him by IAS President William Littlewood '20, Alumni Trustee, January 25, at the annual meeting of the IAS in New York City. Rae has been doing graduate work at the University during the last three years on a fellowship from the Laboratory. He returned to the Laboratory in November.

Professor Lauriston Sharp, Sociology & Anthropology, has been named president-elect of the Association for Asian Studies, to take office in 1961. He is Director of the University's Southeast Asia Program which was established in 1950. He recently returned from a UNESCO conference in Saigon, Indo-China, on "Social Research in Southeast Asia."

Raymond C. Wedlake has been appointed field representative in charge of the western district office, in Buffalo, of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. He has been assistant field representative in that office since 1958. As field representative, he will be in charge of the School's extension programs for management, labor, government, and community groups in a ten-county area. He is a graduate of Union College and studied at the graduate school of University of Wisconsin.

Professor Eric A. Blackall, German Literature, has been awarded the honorary Doctor of Letters by Cambridge University. He was a member of the Cambridge faculty from 1938 until he came to Cornell in 1958 as chairman of the Department of German Literature, and received the BA and MA there. He is the author of several books, including Adalbert Stifter and The Emergence of German as a Literary Language, both published by Cambridge University Press.

Professor Robert K. Finn '41, Chemical Engineering, participated in an International Symposium on Fermentation held in Rome, May 9-14. He is chairman-elect of the fermentation subdivision of the American Chemical Society and delivered a paper on "Characterizing the Shear in Stirred Fermentors." His studies include the broad problem of agitation and aerating fermentation tanks, such as are used in the manufacture of vitamins and antibiotics.

Cover picture on the April 3 issue of The Living Church, Episcopal publication, shows the Rev. Richard B. Stott, Episcopal Chaplain at the University, celebrant, and Carol Alton '59, organist, at Sunday Eucharist in Anabel Taylor Hall. The issue contained a special report: Church Society for College Work.

Mrs. Pauline R. Lindsay, widow of John R. Lindsay, PhD '36, instructor in English at the University from 1923-37, died at her home in Woodbury, April 30, 1960.

Professor T. Norman Hurd, PhD '36, Agricultural Economics, on leave as State Budget Director, has been appointed by Governor Rockefeller to a committee to draft a plan to eliminate wage differentials among State institution employees doing similar work.

Professor John G. Kidd, Pathology at the Medical College, has been elected president of the American Association of Pathologists & Bacteriologists.

James P. Decker has joined the University News Bureau as a news-writer. A graduate of Canisius College, he was previously with Rumrill Co. public relations division in Buffalo and Rochester and worked for the Buffalo Evening News.

Professor Hugh M. Wilson, Soil Conservation, Agronomy, and Mrs. Wilson celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, April 24. Twenty-two members of their families attended a surprise dinner given by their children, Lois J. Wilson, Grad, Elizabeth J. Wilson, Senior in Home Economics, and Edward N. Wilson, Freshman in Arts & Sciences.

National Science Foundation has made an award of $35,000 to David M. Lee, instructor in the University's newly-created Solid State Physics Laboratory, to pursue investigation of liquid helium-three and solutions of helium isotopes at low temperatures. One of the first universities in the United States to create a division in its Department of Physics for solid state study, Cornell has been equipping an experimental laboratory to permit the studies of solids in a hitherto inaccessible low temperature range. He<sup>4</sup> and He<sup>3</sup>, both helium isotopes, are the only two substances that have no known freezing point. Lee is conducting basic research primarily on He<sup>3</sup>, which has been rare and prohibitively expensive until recent years. Nuclear reactors are capable of insuring an adequate supply of He<sup>3</sup>.

Professor Allan G. Newhall, PhD '29, Plant Pathology, is one of seventeen volunteers from eight States and Puerto Rico who recently completed a week's course in radiological monitoring for instructors given in Brooklyn by the US Office of Civil & Defense Mobilization. He assisted at the control center in Ithaca during this year's Civil Defense exercise, Operation Alert 1960.

Addresses are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians are welcomed for publication. Class columns are written by correspondents whose names appear. Names & addresses in column headings are for Classes with group subscriptions or those in which at least half the members are News subscribers.

'99 ME—Frank H. Eastman of 6733 Lee Highway, Arlington 13, Va., recently retired from eighteen years of service, without pay, as chairman of the Arlington Selective Service Board. The Northern Virginia Sun for March 21 had a long article on him with a picture showing him with a certificate of appreciation from the President of the United States that he received after fifteen years of service. Eastman retired in 1956 from his office in Union Trust Co. in Washington, D.C. where for some years he had represented manufacturers of electrical supplies.

'04, '05 AB—Henry W. Bryant writes from Ocean Springs, Miss.: "Apparently we have reached maturity and our ranks are thinning each year. I see a great deal of Dutch Prussing, Chicago, and Henry Talboys, Milwaukee, and note that Fred Warner lives in the neighboring village of Montgomery, Ala. As for the others, I have to go to Ithaca at least once a year to see Bill Bleakley, and the others are far between. Outside of that, I live here in Mississippi half the year and find it an ideal place in which to hole in. I work at raising horses and growing pine trees on a sizable ranch north of here, from May to November, and still enjoy running things at the factory [Century Fence Co.] in Waukesha, Wis., with the help of two of my three Cornell sons. I just hope that Mr. Justice Bleakley of Yonkers will see this and send me that promised list of still living '04 Classmates. As for my sons, John '48, Brate '50, and Tony '52, I will let them speak for themselves."

'06 AB, '07 MA—Rev. Frank B. Crandall, retired clergyman and retired Army chaplain, a member of The New England Committee of the Newcomen Society in North America, a branch of the Newcomen Society of England, has been invited to be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Society to be held next August. Printed copies of the addresses are sent to the 13,000 members. A recent issue of Banta's Greek Exchange features an article on "Ritual on Commencement Day," an account of the traditional rites and ceremonies of Harvard commencement which Rev. Crandall wrote at the request of the editor.

'07 BSA—Horace F. Prince, proprietor of Bailiwick Nursery, 660 Avenue A, NW, Winter Haven, Fla., recalls: "My last three years at Cornell I lived on the top floor of Cascadilla Hall. Professor Corson was on the second floor and we knew how to get his 'goat,' and I don't mean maybe! All we had to do was to get a stick and run around the banisters with it snapping against each one. When we saw his door open, we would drop to the floor so he couldn't identify who was making such a 'dog gone' racket. None of us was ever caught. It sure was a mean way to take advantage of an old codger, but Doc should have kept his goat hidden and then we wouldn't have had any fuss." Scoutmaster of Troop 6, Buffalo Scout Council, for many years, Prince is the author of a booklet, "Mom, Dad and Johnny The Boy Scout," which is the only booklet the National Scout Office handled not written by some one on the national staff.

'08 Men — Wednesday, April 27, members of the Class of '08 had a dinner at the Cornell Club of New York. Those present were John Tausig, Seth Shoemaker, Bill Mennen, Warren McArthur, Ed Boeghold, Phil Hoge, Herbert Mitler, John Holt, and Ned Davidson.
—J. EDGAR DAVIDSON

'09 CE—Albert Deermont was chosen by the Kiwanis Club of Chipley, Fla. as the Chipley citizen to be honored this year. A civic dinner was held in his honor, April 29, at which the Cornell colors and music were used extensively and to which all surviving members of his Engineering Class were invited. The mayor designated that day as "Albert Deermont Day." Deermont, a resident of Chipley since 1933 and president and senior member of Coggin & Deermont, Inc., construction firm, is a former mayor of Chipley and a past-president of the Kiwanis Club. He did much of the planning for many of the city's streets and the sewer system. He was instrumental in obtaining a hospital for the county and was first chairman of its board of trustees. He is a past-president of the Florida Road Builders Association.

'10 Roy Taylor
Old Fort Rd.
Bernardsville, N.J.

Elmer Eugene Barker (above) found his way from Crown Point to Ithaca to enter Cornell with the Class of 1910. He stayed not only to get the AB but also later the PhD. Eugene was born, was brought up, went to school, and now has returned and lives in the historic town of Crown Point on Lake Champlain where he has become an authority on the local history of that area. After retiring from the New York State Department of Public Works, where he was a landscape architect and site planner, he returned to his old home town. Family ties, he says, and congenial surroundings have a strong attraction. Recently he completed the manuscript for a book, The Place of the Crown Point Forts (Colonial, French and British) in American History. Eugene writes:

As I view my present status and my career in retrospect compared with those of my Classmates, it appears that I am unique. I have not accumulated a competent fortune during these fifty years since our graduation. I have not sat in with the board of directors of a large corporation, or even been president of a board. I haven't played golf (though I laid out several courses), nor fished for tunas in tropical waters. I do not spend my retirement basking on Florida beaches, but am keeping my professional activity going by acting as a site-planning consultant to my son Gilbert's architectural-engineering firm of Barker & Henry, Glens Falls. The days do not contain enough hours for doing all the things I would like to do. I long since discovered that old Ponce-de-Leon was on the wrong track when he sought the Fountain of Youth in Florida. It exists, in reality, at every ski-center in the North Country where winter's bracing air embues even an oldster with some of the élan that makes the cheeks of the youngsters glow. In spite of numerous physical frailties, I keep up appearances with a thatch of hair atop my head and can still buckle a small belt around my midriff. I shall attend our 50th Reunion and bring my wife, if circumstances permit.

'11 Howard A. Lincoln
80 Bennington St.
Springfield 8, Mass.

"Dear Diary: Gee. I'm a lucky guy - First Charlie Beavers and Edith came by for lunch. Then Bob Kappelinger and his Ann stayed at the beach for two weeks. Then Heath and Madge arrived, visit, and Chi Bai brother. Ned Skeridan and Agnes stopped by on their way to Jamaica."

Whisper Heath and Ed Wheelan (above) seem to be enjoying life, taken during a recent visit by Whisper to Ed in Fort Myers Beach, Fla. Since leaving Litchfield, Conn. a few years ago, Ed has settled down in Florida, and the only trip he is contemplating in the near future is our 50th Reunion in 1961. It would be nice if the Florida group would charter a bus for the trip to Ithaca and make it available for Campus tours during their stay.

Notes and Quotes: "As I grow older, the memories of my four years at Cornell grow dearer. Still going strong and a little past seventy-three."—Harley C. (Bud) Wheaton, 195 James St., Kingston, Pa. "Who? Me? Nobody is interested in this old fossil. Let's hear from some of those hard-working, non-loafing guys who have done such a magnificent job in keeping our gang together. Like, for instance Johnnie Rewalt, Wheels, Frank Aime, etc."—John L. Bacon, 2020 Stoddard Place, Pomona, Cal. "Dear John, great bodies and old men move slowly; hence the delay. Hope to be in the big city and see you later on. Everything pretty good here, but the old dogs aren't what they used to be. Regards to everybody."—James E. (Gene) Bennett, 1106 Union National Bldg., Youngstown 3, Ohio.

"Was transferred to Charlottesville, Va. last summer and like it so much I'm thinking of becoming a native son. Only trouble is there are too few Cornell men here, and none from '11."—Claire W. Hardy, 700 East Jefferson St., Charlottesville, Va. "Having sold the family meat business which had been in existence for 101 years at Spring & Greenwich Streets, New York, I retired and after several months doing nothing, I decided to return to the practice of law. Now I wish I had stayed retired. My wife to whom I had been married forty-five years passed away in April and I still have not recovered from the shock. I am anxiously awaiting the 50th Reunion, and am even thinking seriously of going back for the 49th. Give my regards to all the gang, and I'll be back ere long."—William L. Davenhaver, 160 South Middle Neck Rd., Great Neck.

'12 Men—Continuing their unique custom of staging four warm-up Reunions between the quinquennials, the men of '12 are promising to return in goodly number again this year. Several have already signed up. Last June, forty-one men came back. Seven Ithaca Classmates brought the total of green jackets to an even four dozen.

This year, the program, if such it can be called, will be nothing if not informal, as seems appropriate in the "off years." The dates are Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11. But alumni are learning that a Reunion is better fun and more relaxing if Thursday is checking-in day, Sunday or Monday the time of departure. Beds in the dormitories will be ready any time after one o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The University will reserve rooms in South Baker, the usual haven of the reuners of maturer years. '12 men who bring their wives will be housed in University Dormitory No. One. It is important to make advance reservations, and as early as possible. A note to the undersigned at Willard Straight Hall will do the trick.

'13 Harry E. Southard
3102 Miami Rd.
South Bend 14, Ind.

Sorry to report that Ben Weitzer is at George Washington University Hospital, 901 23d St., NW, Washington, D.C., for one or more operations on diverticulitis.

June 1, 1960

Let's hope that when this is read, he will be well on the road to recovery. His office address is 1712 New Hampshire Ave., NW, Washington 9, D.C. Cheer him up with a letter.

Harry (William H.) Barnard, Jr., 2023 Rosemont Ave., NW, Washington 10, D.C., who retired in 1957 as bridge engineer of Southern Railway Co., is now connected with the consulting engineering firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry & Carpenter, Inc., Harrisburg, Pa. He was in Florida for six weeks this spring on a combined business and pleasure trip. Harry (ah, there's a good name!) has one granddaughter, of San Diego, who is trying for a scholarship at Cornell. Believe it or not, she wants to be a veterinarian.

Harry sent me a clipping telling that Swede (Edwin F.) Koester, 1303 North Van Buren St., Wilmington, Del., had been named district technical officer of Delaware for the 1960 census, as announced by the US Department of Commerce. He has been a member of a two-man team having top responsibility for the census operations in the State. Swede retired as city engineer of Wilmington after forty-one years of service. He is a director of the Delaware chapter, American Red Cross; a member of the Board of Park Commissioners; a director of the Delaware Motor Club (AAA); and a director of the Delaware Safety Council. During World War II, he was coordinator of Civil Defense, and for ten of the last thirty years has been State chairman for Delaware of the American Public Works Association, which made him a life member. Sounds like a full life, Swede. Congratulations.

Babe (E. Lysle) Aschaffenburg, Ponchartrain Hotel, New Orleans 40, La., and his wife are on a three-month trip around the world, due back in the United States in June. Roy Manny has a new address: 50 E. 42d St., New York City 17. Toot (Frank C.) Cornet, 600 N. Kingshighway, c/o George Washington Hotel, St. Louis 8, Mo., reports he is still enjoying single blessedness. Says he is still too young to be married. Wes (Wesley H.) Bronson, 51 Prentiss Lane, Belmont 78, Mass., retired two years ago, but is still active in the milk business on a consulting basis. Doc (H. Warren) Arnold, 11 Allen Rd., Winchester, Mass., is retired; has six grandchildren, five boys and one girl, ranging in age from 1 to 14 years. Denny (Ralph H.) Denman, 972 Cliff St., Ithaca, retired in 1948, but is working as a "sideline only" as rural consultant. He deals with rural towns and villages on house numbering surveys and directory making. Denny has one wife, two children, and four grandchildren. His principal form of exercise seems to be home upkeep and home chores.

Here is the last item to grace this sterling column. It deserves special mention and a special paragraph. Pink (James F.) Whitehead, 206 Stephens Rd., Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., has seventeen (17) (XVII) (Dix-sept) grandchildren! That, I believe, is the record. Can anyone beat it? Nuf ced. So long!

'14 Emerson Hinchliff
400 Oak Ave.
Ithaca, N.Y.

We were indebted to the son of Fritz Rees for the clippings about Fritz's passing. I remember that Fritz wrote several years ago that he and his wife (the former Ruth Ely of Ithaca) were moving to Atlanta to be near this son and the grandchildren. I hate to see the old St. Louis bunch diminishing in number.

No more recent news of Hu Shih and his heart trouble, so I go on the theory that no news is good news. Bill Myers was in Taiwan from February 19 to March 4; in fact, Doc saw them off at the airport, much to the surprise of the airport officials; this would be only sixteen days before Doc's entering the hospital. Doc arranged a meeting of the local Cornell Club, with thirty to forty there. Bill was making a study of Taiwan and tells me that the Free Chinese are making outstanding progress in agriculture and the food industry and are making a show place of the island, off the China mainland. He says they are intelligent and thrifty; they are licking the illiteracy problem by running double shifts in the school, with 95% of the island's children attending. He is enthusiastic and was much impressed by the evidence of the esteem in which Doc Hu is held. March, April, and May are big months for corporation annual meetings, so Bill had to get back for them. I saw him at one such, the ultra conservative New York State Electric & Gas Corp. At the other extreme is the aggressive active Avco Corp., heavily involved in defense work, of which he is a board member and on the executive committee. He also mentioned Continental Can, and I know there are others.

At Rotary recently, I sat with Arthur E. Durfee '40, professor of Extension Service and assistant director of the division. He is married to Martha Cross '41, daughter of our Roger H. and Grace Bristol Cross. The Durfees have three daughters and Martha is now a graduate assistant in Child Development & Family Relationships in Home Ec and is working for the MS.

My Star Class scout has given me his copy of the April Starlights with a picture of Hal Halsted at the start of a race in the 1960 Acapulco Invitation Regatta. He also tells me that Hal was ninth in the North American Star Class Championship.

Paul P. (Pete) Ashworth wrote from Salt Lake City last December: "... my family continues to grow apace: 5 children (no gain there for 30 years), 20 grandchildren, 3 great-grandchildren; so it seems quite unlikely that the name will soon run out! About 4 months ago, Ben Armstrong made a flying trip out here from Lake Worth, Fla. (160 19th Ave. N) to visit his son and daughter who live here, and I had a short visit with him. He had intended to attend the 45th, in response to a phone call from Jim Munns, but something interfered with his plans. We seriously discussed plans to attend the 50th; so stick around and we may be there."

Lint Hart May 2 was home in Birmingham, Mich., recovering from two operations last March. Came out of hospital weighing 118½ and has brought it up to 128, so should soon be at fighting weight. Ruth remains about the same. Best wishes!

Reunion: Our hardworking Reunion chairman, De Abel thinks of everything. Recalling that at our every Reunion, hat sizes have been too small, he has instructed our official hatter of Bond Street, London, to err this year on the generous side. "History tells us" that the erosion of forty-five years out of college should, normally, reduce any cranial swelling that might have been acquired in undergraduate years, but the Class of '15 seems perverse. Why?

The answer is simple. Recall that world renowned (so he said) professor of phrenology, with the high octane breath, who roamed the Hill in the spring of 1915? You may remember that he "dropped in" at the boarding and fraternity houses about meal time and announced that he would "read" the heads of Seniors only; that would be us. He said he specialized on the graduating Class, for it was they "who were about to embark upon the stormy seas of life" and needed his guidance. Bumpy, as the more irreverent called him, never busted anyone. There was not a bum in our Class. His forecasts of individual success in "all walks of life" were rosy in the extreme. The gravy (heavy) train was waiting on Frank Lehigh's siding with steam up, ready to pull out on Commencement Day. You know the rest. So if your Reunion hat proves too small, it's your own fault. You took Bumpy too seriously.

Charles P. Clark, RD 2, Skaneateles, expects to be at Reunion. Speaking of grandchildren, he reports "sixteen at present with no fractions to the best of my knowledge and belief." Percy H. Halsey, 9919 Rivermont Terrace, Warwick, Va., writes: "After a year of retirement, I can heartily recommend it to anyone. I'll admit an occasional feeling of nostalgia for my old associates with Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., where we were getting into many new and interesting problems in connection with the installation of atomic power in ships."

Philip H. Stevens, Box 13, Main St., Preble, writes: "Another year, another grandson; mother, Elizabeth Ann (Stevens) Feldt '49. Hope to attend 45th Reunion." Armand R. Tibbits, Dingtletown Rd., Greenwich, Conn., reports: "Am as busy as ever, landscape architect. Have seen this year Walter H. Sheffield, National Park Service, Washington, D.C., and F. A. Davis, landscape architect, New Haven, Conn., both very active."

Luis Cianchini, PO Box 213, Coano, Puerto Rico, was due "to visit New York State about Easter, then New Jersey and Maryland, and very likely Ithaca about 10 June." Abraham Chuckrow, 681 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn 26, says: "Am looking forward to the Reunion."

We are approaching our annual '16 dinner to be held June 10 at 6:30 p.m. in the Willcox Room of The Statler at Ithaca, and we have acceptances from Johnny Hoffmire, Al Carpenter, Van Hart, Birge Kinne, Grant Schleicher, Pat Irish, Jim Moore, Murray Shelton, Charlie Eppler, Herb Snyder, Larry Gubb, Fran Scheetz, and Bub Pfeiffer. Our guests will be Professor Francis Mineka, occupant of the '16 Chair, and '16 Scholars Phil Rogers and Conrad Balliet. We have yet to hear from many of the "regulars" and they will doubtless be there regardless. So just let me know that you are coming, so that we can be assured of proper accommodations for the dinner.

Had a pleasant evening at the '17 Class dinner at the Cornell Club in New York City a few weeks ago and saw many old friends. Met Rosie De La Roza and a friend of his, Guillermo Martinez Marquez, ex-president of International Press Association, who had dropped in the Club, and heard many interesting tales that they had to relate. Charlie Eppler and Rolly Bennett were among the listeners.

Grant Schleicher wrote from Kailua, Kona, Hawaii, enclosing a clipping from the Honolulu Star about a joint venture between Arthur Godfrey and Andy Anderson '16 and some associates to produce a musical to be known as "Aloha Hawaii." Andy to provide the music. Ed Mendinghall wrote he has retired after twenty-five years with Du Pont and is now living on his estate on the eastern shore of Maryland at Chestertown, and would like to see any '16ers motoring or boating in that area. Another world traveler, Frank Madigan, reports he had flown to England last August, visiting Oxford and Cambridge, and made a call on the Duke of Bedford (incidentally, I saw the gentleman on TV a few nights back), and that he then went on to Brittany and many other places in Spain, Portugal, and Italy, including visits to Rome, Barcelona, Malta, Tripoli, and many other spots too numerous to remember. Al Carpenter tells me that he has given up his insurance agency in Buffalo, and will tell you more at the dinner, June 10.—BUB PREIFFER

'17 Men—We're loaded! With news, that is! So we must keep our notes brief to cover as much ground as possible. Had a nice visit by phone with Jim Munns, president of the '14 Class, who was at his estate in Landrum, S.C. He said he expected to see Doug Kingsland that day. Doug was visiting near Jim. Doug spent many years in Haiti, but his address is now c/o M. Aubrey Harwood, Mill Valley, Cal. Dave Burpee is still in Washington, by "remote control," that is. January 11, Senator Dirksen introduced a bill to the Senate proposing the marigold as the national flower. Dave has long been promoting the marigold for this purpose. The resolution was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

More retirements! Dr. Irving Beach retires June 1 after heading the chemistry department at the College of the Ozarks for many years. His address will be 611 Johnson St., Clarksville, Ark. At our Class dinner in April, Eddie Anderson announced he had retired from Discount Corp. and Jim Brinckerhoff said he had retired from Babcock & Wilcox, but would still do some consulting work for them. Eddie's home address is 136 East 64th St., New York City 21, and Jim's is 59 W. Montrose Ave., South Orange, N.J. Wiser Brown wrote that he had retired from Alcoa in November, 1958. His winter address is 142 North Dr., Pittsburgh 38, Pa., and Landsdowne, Ont., Canada, in the summer. Charlie Rowland, who attended our New York dinner, retires June 30. He has been head of the college of business administration at Penn State for many years. His address is 614 W. Fairmount Ave., State College, Pa.

Then there are our globetrotters! J. Paul Blundon reported that he had just returned from a trip around the world on SS President Buchanan. Paul's address is 84 S. Main St., Keyser, W.Va. There's Charlie Bunn and Dr. Ray Crispell who started on world tours last November. Had an interesting report from Charlie, too long to include here, but no word from Cris. Charlie expects to return in time for our April, 1961 Class dinner and Cris says he will take "80 weeks around the world," but will not miss our 45th. A card from Beirut stated Bill Vanderbilt and Mrs. Vanderbilt were having a grand trip, and George Hecht, publisher of Parents Magazine, reported he and Mrs. Hecht were home in April after their third trip around the world. One of the real Cornell globetrotters is M. K. (Ses) Sessler '13, the Squire of New Hampshire, who lives on his Riverbridge Farm at Lyme, N.H., the few weeks he is home each year. He and Mrs. Sessler returned a few weeks ago from five months of "following the archeological muse" in Italy, Sicily, Egypt, Lebanon, Crete, Cyprus, Turkey, and Greece, taking in a time spread of 5000 B.C. in Egypt to 200 A.D. in Athens. But Ses is a good planner! He never misses Reunion week end in Ithaca and always manages to be "on Campus" for a few other week ends also.

This summer, 1917 will have at least two representatives at the Olympic games in Rome, Italy. Windy Windnagle of Portland, Ore. and Don Maclay of Summit, N.J. have reported that they will be there. Aaron Nadler, Joe Aul, and several others expect to return June 10-11 for our off-year Reunion '17 Class gathering. We expect to be there, too. Why not you? We will have dinner together Friday night, maybe Saturday, too, and we can plan for our Big 45th in 1962.—HERB JOHNSTON

Hark, the herald angels sing of another annual '18 Class picnic for those in the general area of New York City and any others who can manage to get there. Again this year, the party will be held at Harry Mattin's beautiful estate up the Hudson River. It will be on, we hope, another of those beautiful September Saturday afternoons for which that part of the country is famous. And it will be held early enough in the fall so as not to conflict with football games or even the World's Series. Time, Saturday afternoon, September 10; place, Harry Mattin's, at Ossining. Full directions will be sent in advance to everyone who thinks there is the slightest chance he can make it.

Up to now, the direct invitations have gone only to nearby New Yorkers and Jerseyites, but they'll be sent anyone else who sends in his name. Just drop a note to Harry Mattin, Box 191, Ossining, or get in touch with Paul Wanser, Paul Miller, Charlie Muller or another others of the Class regulars and they'll set you right. Last year we had some fifty people there for steak and lobster, drinks, swimming, bridge, general conversation, and even, in some cases, just a nap on the bright sunny lawns for above the shiny river.

Keeping up-to-date with what goes on in the great Midwest, O. G. Daily '20 has sent on various Chicago newspaper clippings reporting that Wes (Wesley M.) Dixon has taken on the jobs of chairman and chief executive officer of Container Corp. of America, of which he has been president since 1946. Wes happily reported to stockholders that 1960 started out with fine prospects of further increases in earnings, and even managed to placate the customary complaint from one irate shareholder that officers got too much salary and bonuses. Wes, incidentally, was also honored last year when he was elected president of the Northwestern University board of trustees. And up at Ithaca, Paul Bradford, who retired two years ago from Tompkins County Trust Co. after twenty-five years in the banking business, was honored recently by the Veterans of Foreign Wars with its citizenship award at a big dinner in his honor.

Just to show that some members of the old Class remain most photogenic here is a picture of one of them: Lee Clark, who has just been elected vice-president in charge of all Eastern activities of his 109-year-old company, Pennsalt Chemicals Corp. Lee started with Pennsalt as a chemist back in 1929 and has held production and management posts all the way up the ladder to vice-president, a position he first achieved in 1955.

It seems to your scribe that we should run a few lines about our Class president, Rudolph H. Deetjen, together with a photograph. While those of us around New York see Rudy frequently, it is quite possible that Classmates around the country cannot visualize him so easily. After all, most of us have changed slightly these last forty years. Rudy is a good mixer, but does not set much store on personal publicity, and it took the active cooperation of his secretary to get some details and a photo.

First of all, he is an investment broker and banker. At our Thirty-five-year Reunion, some of us were kidding around and asked him to give us a good tip on the stock market. All I can say is that if I had followed the tip he gave, I would have made enough to hire a ghost to write this column. Since 1929, Rudy has been with Emanuel, Deetjen & Co., and has been senior partner since 1937. He is also president of Emanuel, Deetjen & Co., Ltd., Nassau. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Midwest Stock Exchange, and Commodity Exchange, Inc. He is a director of a number of well known companies, including Avco Corp., of which Victor Emanuel is chairman of the board, Baruch-Foster Corp., Big Laurel, Inc., Dixon Chemical Industries, Dobbs Houses, Inc., Emanuel, Deetjen & Co., Ltd., Piasecki Aircraft Corp., Unette Corp., and Upstate Small Business Investment Co., Inc.

Besides being president of the Class of '19, Rudy is a member of the corporation executive committee of the Cornell University Associates and a member-at-large of the University Council. He is a charter trustee and former president of the Montclair Academy Foundation. He also belongs to a number of clubs, including the Cornell Club of New York. Rudy is married, has two children, a son and a daughter. Like most of us, he likes to brag about his grandchildren, of whom he has three. His home address is 28 Clearman Place, Belleville, N.J., and his office address is 120 Broadway, New York City 5.

M. Warren Benton, who lives at 3013 Marble Ave., NE, Albuquerque, N.Mex., writes: "Recently Albert Mitchell '17, a Cornell Trustee, invited all Cornellians in New Mexico to attend a Cornell dinner and get-together here. Vice-president J. L. Zwingle, PhD '42, of Cornell delivered an excellent address. Mrs. Benton and I enjoyed meeting Cornellians from all over this part of the country." Despite his distance from Ithaca, Warren manages to get back for Reunions. His business address is 413 Simms Bldg., Albuquerque, N.Mex.

At last it's June, what a happy tune!
And very soon we'll all re-une;
No time to sit and read this bit,
The minutes flit, "get up and git!"
Ride or walk, fly or fall,
Get there somehow, even crawl,
Important guys, short and tall
Are there to greet you, "How y'all!"

Some of the "last-minute-men" who'll be in that reception line are Sam Althouse, Tom Chiavetta, Dick Edson, Ed Fritz, Orland Helms, Ira Houston, Jack Israel, Leo Markthaler, Len Masius, Les Merrick, Les Townsend, and Sam Wolkind. *For making the 100th reservation, Ira Houston gets a big star and something special to be awarded at the Reunion dinner. Sorry we can't list everyone who is expected, but a score or more are sure to confirm their reservations after this writing.

One thing is sure: the joint'll be jumpin' with outstanding personalities, like fr'instance George Rogers (above), president of George W. Rogers Construction Corp., this year celebrating its ninetieth year in the business of building and rehabilitating waterfront structures, docks, and piers. It's the oldest concern in the marine construction field operating over the 300 miles of waterfront in the New York harbor. In its wet basin at Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island, with its 800 ft. mooring pier, it stores its modern equipment, pile drivers, whirleys, derrick boats, crawler cranes, auxiliary steamers, concrete mixers, timbers, and piles of piles. "Safety on the Waterfront" is the watchword of George's company, with an outstanding record of accident prevention, recently being awarded the coveted Certificate of Merit by the New York Fire Department. "Safety alertness" is the key to success in effective accident control, and if the old dock builder doesn't slip in the bathtub, George'll be on deck next week.

Another important personality to the Port of New York is Dr. A. C. Purdy, president of Bull & Roberts, Inc., consulting chemists, and the only laboratory serving the maritime industry almost exclusively. Al and his fifty-seven-year-old firm solve ocean-going chemistry problems in advance, is constantly consulted on how to stow newly-developed products such as ammonium thioglycolate, isopropylenediphenol, and methyl polyethanol amine, to mention a few of the simpler ones. Bull & Roberts services to marine shipping are many and varied, applying highbrow science to the daily problems of economical operation of ships in the world's trade. Al promises not to pull any of those highbrow names on us at Reunion and will confine his consulting service to how to get rid of that boat-rocking or ship-sinking feeling the morning after.

Cornell '20; a good year for men! They've stood the test of time. Come, see for yourself at the fabulous Forty-year Reunion!

Pittsburgh 22, Pa.

The '21 Class dinner was held at the Cornell Club, 107 East 48th St., New York

City, April 27. All of the dinner committee attended except Kig Kiggins who sent this telegram from Sausalito, Cal.: "Had nice visit with Jack Shaw in Los Angeles and Carl Livingston here. Both say they will be at Reunion next year. Will be thinking of you all tonight and wish I could be there. Only the charms of two granddaughters could keep me away. Regards to all." Sam Bird sent a telegram of regrets from Wilmington, Del., Ches Bailey wired from Hyde, Md., Bill Bickel from Pittsburgh, Bill Murray of 1603 Sherman Dr., Utica, hoped to see all us "handsome gentlemen" at the next event. Sonny Ostrom asked why we couldn't have the next one in his town of Largo (just south of Clearwater), Fla.

Two Californians, Paul Branyen of 553 Milton Dr., San Gabriel, and Dr. W. S. (Walt) Townsend of Blue Mt. Estates, Colton, wired regrets. Rit Ritterhausen, as president of the Nyack Public Schools, got himself committed to a board meeting. Trygve (Red) Hoff wrote a letter of bitter resignation; he had also gotten himself gummed up with some tiresome business deal.

However, the 38 of us who were there are here preserved for the records. From New York City, there were J. K. Holbrook, Harry O'Brien, Tony Gaccione, Rodg MacPherson, Jack Moran, Mennie Menaker, Doug Johnson, Scew Smith, Dick Parsell, Jess Stark, Frank Robinson, Bill Steinmann, and George Boyd. Harry Donovan came all the way from 112 Westminster Dr., Yonkers, Heath Van Duze from Montclair, and Karl Miller from Rye. Pat Regan, Shorty Liebeskund, and Joe Sterling emigrated from Brooklyn without passports or visas.

There were only three of us from Pennsylvania, Clyde Mayer of Montoursville, Pat Thornton of Philadelphia, and your correspondent from Pittsburgh. Thad Collum showed up from Syracuse, R. B. Steinmetz from North Tarrytown, Ducky Drake from Summit, N.J. We also had Ed Blue of New Canaan, Spence Olin of Alton, Ill., and Al Treman from Ithaca. Mark Sagal of Framingham, Mass., and Al West of Great Neck came early and stayed late. New Jerseyites included Al Schade of Fair Lawn, George Munsick of Morristown, Obie Davison and Bill Cooper of Orange. A. R. Nolin represented Skaneateles; Al Danzig, Roslyn; and "Whistling" Joe Cannon spoke for that southern bastion of Cornell strength, Charlottesville, Va.

We provide this roster of those who attended the meeting so that you might spot a long-lost Classmate. Pictures of the party will be published in our next issue, provided all went well with the Minox. As might be expected, most of those in attendance came from New York City and vicinity. We will have one or two more such dinners before the Forty-year Reunion in 1961 and we hope to find some method of attracting more out-of-towners.

The program was impromptu and interesting. Harry O'Brien called on every man to speak his mind, and there were very few who passed up the invitation. Al Treman and Spence Olin reported at length on Trustees' views of Campus activities and personalities. One important statistic I remember is that Spence has seven grandchildren. Also, Tony Gaccione offered a prize of a case of champagne to the first great-grandfather in the Class of '21. Tony is the first one to take me seriously. The meeting lasted until late and in spite of an adequate intake of beverages had a serious tone. With all of the congeniality of the evening and the anticipation of a pleasant Forty-year Reunion, there was evident a desire to do something for Cornell that will be worthy of our Class.

'22 Men—The annual spring party of the Class will take place June 11 at the Clinton House, beginning at six or earlier if you prefer a little longer social hour. The arrangements were made by our Ithaca committee of Jim Trousdale, George Hanselman, True McLean, and Ted Baldwin. They are guaranteeing a first-class roast beef dinner with all the trimmings plus refreshment of other forms on the table. In former years, these parties were held at Jack Maloney's place out at South Lansing and intended to be outdoor barbecues. However, it was usually too cold or too damp, so they were moved into his spacious house. This year, the house is being renovated and is not available. Besides, it might be about time that we refrain from overindulgence in the Maloney hospitality. The committee should be congratulated on getting reservations at the Clinton House and, at least, the party can be held as planned, come what may or high water. We usually draw about forty people, including wives, children, and friends. If you are planning to be in Ithaca at that time, it is imperative that you attend; if you don't live too far away, it will be worth your while to attend. Just notify James Trousdale, Day Hall, Ithaca, or any of the other members of the committee, so they will have an idea of the number to expect. It will cost a little money, but a mere pittance in comparison with what you might expect to pay in other places.

May 28, I arrived on the Campus for the first time since last fall. I visited Upson Hall, Day Hall, Teagle, and Schoellkopf. It was the day that Ted Baldwin was busy giving away his second daughter. Polly Baldwin '59 became Mrs. Peter Van Duzen Dott, Jr. '59. I also learned of the promotion of F. C. Baldwin from Dean of Men to Secretary, Cornell University. From another source, I heard that my son, John ME '61, had been elected captain of the swimming team, and to Sphinx Head and Scabbard & Blade. I also saw the first game of lacrosse since the days when I used to get bloody and caused others to bleed in the commitment of organized and legal mayhem. That was when face masks were worn only by baseball catchers and those needing spectacles. There were many other events during that week end, most of which my wife and I took in, and we arrived home late Sunday, tired but rejuvenated.

—JOE MOTYCKA

'23 Dr. George J. Young Chamberlain, Me.

Three more citations are in the news. One for outstanding service to the poultry industry was awarded John C. Huttar, GLF director of poultry industry relations, during PENB annual meeting in Chicago. He was one of four men so honored. Burton A. Scott was granted the Department of Commerce Meritorious Service Silver Medal

Award "for major contributions to the development and successful operation of the Federal-aid program, and for outstanding competence as division engineer in Alabama."

The Medal of Honor for City Planning, an award established in 1939 and conferred on only three previous occasions, was given to Lawrence M. (Larry) Orton (above), a member of the New York City Planning Commission. This award is sponsored jointly by the metropolitan section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the New York Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects, and the Brooklyn and New York chapters of the American Institute of Architects. Larry has been on this job a long time, ever since Mayor LaGuardia named him to the original body in 1938, but, as the New York Times said back in March, 1957, when Larry was reappointed for another eight years, "Mr. Orton's service to New York is distinguished more for its quality, its energy, its independence of thought than for its longevity." Congratulations, Larry, and let's thank Charlie Kells for spotting this choice bit of news in the April 26 issue of the New York Times.

George A. (Westy) West of Penfield gives us a good slogan for our next Reunion: "Count on me for '63." Writes Westy: "Several of us of the '23 vintage in the Rochester area are training sights on the 1963 Reunion: to mention a few stalwarts, all presidents, Art Treman, president of T.K.M. Electric Co.; John Hartnett, president of Haloid-Zerox Corp., and George Calvert, president of Pfadler-Permutt Corp." Westy, after twenty-five years of public service, is rendering private service as executive secretary of the Rochester Milk Dealers Association. Thanks for the slogan, Westy.

The winner of first prize in the picture puzzle contest goes to George Flint of Hempstead. Writes George: "It is the one and only Bruce Evans. I saw him put on a wonderful performance last April at the Masonic Grand Lodge in New York City. In 1930 he was at the Actors Equity in New York, and in 1938 it was Wichita, Kans." Congratulations, George. A few of the Classmates lost out by sending in the name of Wade Duley. (No hard feelings, Bruce.)

Don't worry about your wrinkles. I think it was Mark Twain who said, "Wrinkles should merely indicate where the smiles have been." See you June 15!

The annual Class dinner, Friday evening, April 2, was a great success. The following toasted all Cornellians near and far: Sam Bernart, C. Schraubstader, C. H. Adler, W. A. Davis, W. I. Jackson, Norm Miller, Charles MacDonald, Lou Champlin, Max Schmitt, R. M. Fuller, David S. Cook, Charles E. Benisch, F. J. Quillinan, Harry Turk, Kermit Green, Chet Ludlow, John C. Gibb, Donald J. Post, E. D. Betts, C. A. Norris, R. M. Lintz, Ed Kirby, Roland Schultheis, Haig Shiroyan, O. R. Severn, and yours truly. Plans for next year's dinner are in the making.

George Ladas sent us a report of his winter trip: "Mrs. Ladas and I jetted to San Francisco, then we motored to Carmel by the Sea and arrived in Los Angeles Christmas Eve, where we met our son. Spent four days in Los Angeles and then jetted to Honolulu. We spent eighteen days in the Hawaiian Islands visiting Oahu, Hawaii, Maui, and Kawaii. The highlight of our trip was meeting Charlie Cassidy and Mrs. Cassidy. I hadn't seen Charlie since 1924 and meeting him brought back very pleasant memories of Cornell. The night before we flew back to California we had dinner at the Oahu Country Club with Charlie and his wife and with Perry Gray '30 and Mrs. Gray. Afterwards, we motored to Charlie's house and Mrs. Cassidy showed us her oil painting which she was going to exhibit the following week. Charlie is now an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Hawaii. All in all, it was a very pleasant trip."

Sally Beard sends us some news about the "girls": Madeline D. Ross, 136 East 36th St., New York City, is our free-lance journalist, most recently being published in The Reporter Magazine. She is at present consultant for the Human Betterment Association and an active member of the Overseas Press Club and is working on a humorous novel. Madeline has been invited by the Belgium Government for a special tour of Belgium as a reward for her work handling US public relations at the World's Fair.

Natalie Walker (Mrs. Frank E. Owen) of 2 Redfield Parkway, Batavia, is a trustee of the Batavia Public Library. Kathryn Myers (Mrs. Nicholas Albertson) of 52 Babcock Dr., Rochester, is doing research on the legislative career of US Senator Tom Hennings. She is also a member of the board of visitors of the Rochester State Hospital. Her son Nicholas '51 is with National Carbon and is building a house for his wife Dorothy and their three youngsters in Fostoria, Ohio.

Lewis W. MacNaughton of Dallas, Tex., busy with his hobbies of stamp collecting and photography, tells us that his son Bruce is with Cities Service Oil Co. and his son Lewis, recently graduated from University of Wyoming, is just back from a four months' walk in Europe.

Georges Knaysi of Stocking Hall at Cornell writes: "I am now on sabbatic and filling a six-month appointment as consultant at the US Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. My two older children, George, Jr. and Edmund, remain in Ithaca to pursue their studies (George is a Sophomore at Cornell and Edmund, a senior in Ithaca High). My wife and younger son, Fareed, are with me in Arlington, Va. for the term of my appointment."

'24 BS—Mrs. John W. Larcomb (Margaret Kenwell) became January 1 home economist and her husband, superintendent, of the Ohio Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf, 6971 Sunbury Road, Route 3, Central College, Westerville, Ohio. She is legislative chairman of the Ohio Home Economics Association, associate editor of the Association publications, and a member of the Women's State Committee of Ohio for Public Welfare, Health & Education.

Maintaining an enviable Cornell family record, Dr. Alvin O. Severance writes from San Antonio that he has just finished his year as president of San Antonio's International Medical Assembly of Southwest Texas. Two of Alvin's sons are Cornellians: Robert A. '63 is a student in Arts & Sciences; Richard C. '58, the elder one, is now at Cornell Medical College in New York and was married last August to Beverly J. Hall '59.

Edward K. Thompson of 941 Wade Lane, Oakmont, Pa., is vice-president of Special Coatings, Inc., a division of Thompson & Co., paint specialists. His son, John V. Thompson II, strayed from the fold and was graduated from Lehigh in 1957 although he was named after Ed's older brother, Vince Thompson '15. (Editor's note: Never was able to sell Vince anything when I was in Pittsburgh.)

With no Cornellians in sight until his six grandchildren grow up, Vincent J. Schwengel has to content himself with having two of his fine daughters attending colleges elsewhere. Vince continues as secretary-treasurer of Foster Wheeler Corp. and lives in Basking Ridge, N.J. He hopes to be with us at Reunion this June.

Dr. Edward G. Thorp is practicing internal medicine in Melrose, Mass. and is chief of medicine at Malden Hospital, Malden, Mass. His three children are married, one finishing medical school this June after which he will intern at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Bjorn R. Edstrom writes from Stockholm, Sweden: "My wife and I are going to the US this spring, visiting California first, then our daughter, Cisela, Sp, married to Warren C. Wildes '58 and living in Ogden, Utah. . . . ending up at my 35th Reunion in June in Ithaca. . . . Europe is still a fascinating place to live in and many Cornellians agree after visiting over here. We ran into Gil and Anna Weeks in Florence last April; Frank Affeld '26 with wife and daughter visited Stockholm last fall. All of us Cornellians from wherever we are, are proud of the great progress Cornell has made through the years, being one of America's finest universities."

Thumbnail sketches in a recent prospectus of Advisers Fund, Inc. include several officers and directors who are members of the Class of '26. I quote:

Eugene M. Kaufmann, Jr., 1616 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.—Chairman of the board and director of the Fund. From 1936 to June 30, 1955, Mr. Kaufmann was engaged in practice as investment counsel under his own name in Philadelphia, Pa. Prior to that time, he was engaged in manufacturing and distribution, devoting himself particularly to financial management, and was associated with Wertheim & Co., investment bankers, New York, and William Stix Wasserman & Co., investment managers, in Philadelphia. From June 30, 1955 to December 31, 1956, he was a vice-president and director of Trainer, Wortham & Co., Inc., investment counselors. He resumed practice under his own name January 1, 1957.

Warren A. Beh, 105 Christie Hill Rd., Darien, Conn.—Director. Since December, 1959, Mr. Beh has been active as an industrial consultant under his own name. From 1944–50, Mr. Beh was director of sales, nylon division, E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., Inc., and from 1951–53, general manager, development department of Textron Inc. From January, 1954 until December, 1959 he was vice-president, secretary, and director of Fullerton Manufacturing Corp. and vice-president and director of Franklin Research Corp. of Boston, Mass.

Donald S. MacDonald, 745 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y.—Director. Since August, 1957, he has been executive vice-president and a director of Douglas Gibbons-Hollyday & Ives, Inc., and since December, 1958, a trustee of the East River Savings Bank of New York City. From 1946–53, Mr. MacDonald was vice-president of, and from 1953 to August, 1957, he was president of, Douglas Gibbons & Co., Inc., real estate managers, appraisers and brokers in New York City, and from 1948 to August, 1957, he was a director of that company.

Samuel H. Shriver, 2225 North Charles St., Baltimore, Md.—Director. Since 1933, Mr. Shriver has been associated with Alexander & Alexander, Inc., insurance specialists and consulting actuaries, and is now senior vice-president and treasurer. He is also a member of the advisory board of the Fidelity-Baltimore National Bank, Pikesville, Md., Branch. He was president of the Peoples Bank of Pikesville, Md. from 1934–51. Mr. Shriver is also a director of Delvalle Dairies, Inc., Baltimore County Mortgage Co., and Somerset Canning Co.

Harry V. Wade, Standard Life Insurance Co. of Indiana, Indianapolis, Ind.—Director of the Fund and president and director of Advisers Fund Management Corp. Since 1946, Mr. Wade has been president and director of Standard Life Insurance Co. of Indiana. He likewise is currently a director of Acme-Evans Milling Co., General Grain Corp., and Early-Daniels Grain Co., all of which are in Indiana.

This could almost be classified as a '26 Mutual Fund!

If you did not see the article in the May 7 issue of the Saturday Evening Post entitled "How to Start a College from Scratch" by Harold H. Martin, I recommend that you get a copy and read this fine story about the excellent job of our own, and only college president in our Class, John C. Adams, in developing Hofstra College in Hempstead. Among the photographs is a picture of Jack, "Hofstra President and Noted Shakespearean Scholar," with his model of an Elizabethan theater.

'26 PhD—Kung Chuan Hsiao, professor of Far Eastern languages & literature at University of Washington in Seattle, has been awarded by the American Council of Learned Societies one of its $10,000 prizes for outstanding contributions to the humanities and social sciences.

Don Hershey
5 Landing Rd., S.
Rochester 10, N.Y.

It's greetings from our Classmates outside the USA. Arturo Saldana (above) is president of Functional Builders, Inc., architect and engineer, Santurce, Puerto Rico. From 1938-52, Art was manager and president of Ciade Alumbrado Electrico de San Salvador, the electric utility company serving San Salvador, El Salvador, Central America. Teaming up with an architect and engineer, he became Puerto Rico's first developer of Condominium property applied to shopping centers. Having successfully completed his first one in San Juan, he is about ready to start No. 2 shopping center based upon the American method of leasing. It should be an interesting experiment. Art is a member of that famous Dorado Beach Golf Club which President Eisenhower described as one of the most beautiful and very best courses he had ever seen or played on. Art agrees 100% and adds, "magnificent and most relaxing, except on your pocket book." The Saldanas have one son, one daughter, one grandson, and three granddaughters. Address: PO Box 9127, Santurce, Puerto Rico.

As in Puerto Rico, Ike was also well liked in Brazil. Antonio Nami states in his interesting letter, "He was indeed enthusiastically greeted everywhere he went, not only in Rio but also Sao Paulo, where I had a chance to see him, and in Brasilia, the new capitol of Brazil." Antonio returned to Brazil after graduation, joining Sao Paulo Light Co., where he is chief engineer of surveying, mapping, and boring section. In 1951, he spent three months in the USA and Canada collecting information relative to a future development of two 2500 M.W. power houses on the Rio Grande River, between Sao Paulo and Minas Gerais. He was greatly impressed with the works of the Tennessee Valley Authority, but was sad not to be able to visit the Campus. Hope you make it in '62, Antonio. The Namis have two sons and two daughters. Home: Rua Austria, 512, Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Cornell Day brings back to Ithaca each year a group of loyal Cornellians chauffeuring top junior secondary school boys for a look at Cornell. I was an observer this year, retiring myself after ten years of service. Carrying on for '27, as usual, were Stan Allen, Norm Bissell, Glen Bennett, Bob Hobbie, Al Jacobson, and Wilfred Malone.

The Campus seems to get more beautiful each year with added and well-kept landscaping and many new fine buildings. Have no fears about the new Olin Library. It is a thrilling piece of architecture, well conceived. It will make you tingle with pride! From its great terraces you will be able to hover over the main Quadrangle and observe breath-taking views of the Campus, such as only can be seen from Libe Tower. Cornell and the architects are to be commended for this outstanding job.

H. Victor Grohmann

New York 20, N.Y.

Congratulations are due Philip Will, Jr. (above) who was recently elected president of the American Institute of Architects at their national convention in San Francisco. He had served in various capacities with the Chicago chapter of the AIA and the national organization and was serving his second term as vice-president when elected to the top office. In 1951, he was named a fellow of the American Institute of Architects for his contribution to design. Phil is a partner in the firm of Perkins & Will with his former college roommate, Lawrence B. Perkins '30. They have offices in Chicago and White Plains. One of their latest projects is the splendid new Engineering Campus "on the Hill." Phil has two children studying at Cornell: Phillip S., Sophomore in Architecture, and Elizabeth S., Senior in Arts & Sciences. Phil's father is Phillip Will '00. The Wills live at 2949 Harrison St., Evanston, Ill.

Congratulations also to Richard W. Crannell who received the 1960 Golden Deeds Award from the Easton, Pa. Exchange Club. Dick is president of Lehigh Foundries Co., a division of Lehigh, Inc. He has been active in fostering vocational education and has served as chairman of the educational committee of the Easton Area Chamber of Commerce since 1945. At the request of the Easton area joint school board, he and his committee planned the vocational department for the new senior high school and it is expected to be one of the outstanding departments of its kind in the Pennsylvania school system. He is founder of the Foundry Educational Foundation which administers some 500 scholarships to engineering students at nineteen institutions. Dick also serves on the secondary schools committee for the Cornell Lehigh Valley

Men—As per the column's promise and because of the receipt of a slew of letters (one postal card) requesting the names of those who attended the Thirty-year Class Reunion, here they are:

Vojta F. Mashek, Jr., 134 South LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; John B. Moreton, New Hope, Pa. (John, exact address, please); William J. McCabe, 11 New Main St., Haverstraw (Bill, you haven't sent me your latest weight); Dr. Bob Northrup, 56 S. Portage St., Westfield (address right, Doc?); Maurice W. Nixon, RD 3, Madison Heights, Va. (or should it be Lynchburg?); Theodore C. O'Hart, 17 Chestnut Hill, Loudonville (Original notes listed Albany; which is it, Ted); Henry A. Pfisterer, 1111 Whitney Ave., New Haven, Conn. (What's new, Henry, personal or business-wise); John S. Riedel, 7 Elmwood Ave., Elmsford (John, bumped into any '29ers lately? Please write); Lewis M. Rumsey III, 4372 Westminster Place, St. Louis, Mo. (Lew, would appreciate some Midwest '29er tidbits); L. S. Reis, 7140 Upper Blvd., Ridgewood, N.J. (Address correct, Sanford?); John D. Russell, Bradford Woods, Pa. (The record sheet said, Pittsburgh. Is a street address needed, John?); B. E. Shear, Delmar (Hey, Bruce, how about an exact address and a few news notes?); S. B. Shults, Hornell (Sherman, could use an exact address and a few lines of legal or family news, please).

Walter W. Stillman, 500 Woodland Park Dr., Tenaflly, N.J. (Ten lines of up-to-the-minute news, Budd, about yourself, family, and Buick agency); Dr. Arthur W. Strom, 320 S. Broad St., Hillsdale, Mich. (How's Ferris, Doc?); James E. Smith, Jr., 5315 St. Albans Way, Baltimore 12, Md. (Bump into any '29ers in your great city?); J. S. Thompson, 334 W. Clinton Ave., Tenaflly, N.J. (How's the MG spinning these days, Stanley? Wish you would drop some news notes); Howard M. Taylor, Jr., 5414 Burlington Way, Baltimore, Md.; John B. Tuck, Jr., 1453 Comstock Ave., Syracuse (Can you send in some news from Onondaga County about yourself and other '29ers?); Chrystal Todd, Newton Rd., New Haven, Conn.; Henry Tasker, 603 First St., Greenport (Dear Judge, the column urgently needs a photo of you); Alpheus Underhill, 114 Durland Ave., Elmira; Edgar Whiting, 115 Northway Rd., Ithaca; Dr. W. A. Wickham, 420 W. Michigan Ave., Jackson, Mich.; J. M. Wright, 924 Nicholson Rd., Wynnewood, Pa.; S. T. Wild, PO Box 2356, Winston-Salem, N.C.; Arve S. Wikstrom, RD 1, Skaneateles. Did I leave anyone out?

I am desperate for any news: travel, weddings, births, children in college, trips to Ithaca, etc. Believe it or not, the least important are job changes and promotions. They are welcome, but don't wait. Please send in the personal stuff. Bumping into, hearing from or about other '29ers is of very special interest. Thanks in advance for sending news to 233 East 32d St., New York City.—ZAC FREEDMAN

Alfred Lovell is president of Lovell Factors, Inc. and also owns a doctors' answering service, both in New York City. Fred is now a proud grandfather. Moe Goldstein was recently elected president of the medical staff of Booth Memorial Hospital in Flushing. Moe practices pediatrics in Forest Hills and reports that he meets Al Abrams once a week at Queens College where they both lecture. The same mail brought word from another doctor, Al Marshak, who is professor of radiation biology at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. The Marshaks live in Rydal, Pa. with their two sons.

After twenty-nine years of active farming, Jim Rice changed his occupation last summer and became executive director of the Health Association of Tompkins County. He still lives on the Rice Farm in Trumansburg. And not too distant from there, Marion Kelsey lives on a farm near Candor which his family has owned since 1818.

Phil Miller is with the office of Naval Research in San Francisco, but spends an increasing amount of time in Washington and anticipates being transferred there in the near future. Dr. Al Rosenberg practices internal medicine in Morristown, N.J. His two sons hope to enter Cornell. Art Stevens is president of the Cornell Club of Hartford, Conn. and vice-president of the Rotary Club in that city. He plans to attend our Reunion.

Henry Williams is still at the Commodore Perry Hotel in Toledo. His older son, Alden, is with the El Rancho Hotel in Sacramento, Cal. and Stuart is a Junior in the Hotel School at Cornell. Warren Dennis is director of product development for the Lady Esther Division of Chemway in Chicago. The Dennises live in Glen Ellyn, Ill. Jim Paxton writes from Omaha that his expanding business keeps him busier than ever, but he plans to be in Ithaca this June. Fred Muller is vice-president of Continental Piston Ring Co., which recently opened a new plant in Hernando, Miss. Fred has three daughters and one son, and he, too, expects to travel to Ithaca in June. It's not too late for you to pack a bag and join us too.

Dr. Robert Hood is one of the chief medical officers with WHO, the World Health Organization in Geneva. Bob is the doctor who issues the world-wide applicable WHO international sanitary regulations. Tom Risk is manager of the materials fuels & lubricants department of Ford Motor Co.'s advanced product study office. His son John is in the Class of '61 at Cornell and the Risk family lives in Birmingham, Mich.

Herbert Barrett is president of Herbert Barrett Management, Inc. in New York, which manages many of the country's leading concert artists. Willard Haskins was recently transferred from the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md. to the Rocky Mountain Laboratory in Hamilton, Mont., and says that his entire family loves it.

I look forward to seeing you in the '30 tent.

Colonel William E. Jennings (above, right), Veterinary Corps, US Army, is shown receiving an honorary degree in veterinary medicine from Professor Doctor Fritz Preuss, dean of the Free University of Berlin, at the meeting of the International Association of Veterinary Anatomists during the VII International Anatomical Congress at the Statler Hilton Hotel, New York City, April 14. He is the first American to receive the award and is chief veterinarian, Headquarters, Fifth US Army, Chicago, Illinois. He has been with the Army Veterinary Corps for the last twenty-six years and before his present assignment was chief veterinarian for the US Army in Europe. Bill is serving his tenth year as a member of the Council on Education and has been chairman of its committee on veterinary education in foreign countries since 1950. Besides his work on the Council and as secretary of the Council and the advisory board on veterinary specialists, he has taught at Cornell, Kansas State University, and the Army Medical Service School, Fort Sam Houston, Tex. Home at present is 4900 Woodland Ave., Western Springs, Ill.

E. Alan Nordstrom, 530 Ashland Ave., Buffalo 22, is now in a new business, E. Alan Nordstrom Associates, industrial realtors, 560 Delaware Ave., Buffalo 2. He was previously coordinator of plant facilities for Sylvania Electric. Al was commissioned brigadier general, NYNG, after twenty-seven years' service.

Edmund C. Newton, 11 School House Lane, Broomall, Pa., is maintenance supervisor for Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia. His son, F. Christian, is in the Class of '63, and his daughter, Margaret, is a junior in high school. William P. Kocher was recently promoted to assistant professor at Pennsylvania State University. He teaches electrical engineering. Home is 1401 E. Gibson St., Scranton 10, Pa.

'31 AB—Gladys M. Dorman (Mrs. Benjamin R. Raphael), attorney at 66 Court Street, Brooklyn 1, was sworn in, May 24, by Mayor Wagner for another nine-year term as a member of the board of higher education of the City of New York. She also has been re-elected chairman of the administrative committee of Brooklyn College.

'33, '32 BChem, '33 ChemE—Herbert H. Peckham has been appointed division industrial engineer of the General Chemical Division of Allied Chemical Corp. With General Chemical for twenty-six years, he will direct industrial engineering activities of its forty producing plants across the country. He will be stationed at the division's New York City headquarters. Peckham was previously industrial engineer at General Chemical's largest plant in North Claymont, Del.

'34 Men—I regret to say that I cannot compete with Tom Haire. He not only gets the news before I do, but he publishes it and sends it to you before I am aware of it. I don't wish to belittle the service we are getting; it is the best that any Class gets. Tom and our officers have given life to our Class, which was dead for many years, and if we respond with only half the spirit that they display, our University can be as proud of us as we are of having been Cornell graduates.

Some time ago, I wrote a paragraph about John Todd, who was in engineering but wound up as an Episcopal minister in Texas. He suffered severe health setbacks, but has battled his way back and now reports that he is much improved and expects to be back to work by this summer.

A report comes to us of the activities of Jesse Frankel who has established an office at 180 E. 79th St., New York City 21, as a consultant in the problems of older people. These are non-medical problems, but it is believed to be the only such private service available to older people. He helps them in the areas of social and family problems, housing, use of leisure time, employment, finances, and all of the many problems of retirement and old age. After his Cornell degree, Jesse studied at College of the City of New York, Columbia University, and the New York School of Social Work, and found time also to be a lieutenant colonel in the Air Reserve following service in World War II.

We have belated word that Howard S. Friedman passed away May 25, 1959, in Dallas, Tex. Further bad news for our Class comes in the form of notice that Frank Castle died after a short illness March 4. He resided at 4642 Weldin Rd., Liftwood, Wilmington 3, Del., and is survived by his wife and children.

As a result of cocktails indulged in by Frank deBeers and Al Stalfort, I learn that Robert D. Tyler is a visiting instructor at the College of Architecture, giving courses in industrial design.

I suggest that anyone who's going to be anywhere near Ithaca at Reunion time, drop me a note. I got my jacket out last week and found that my straw hat is still useable, and we could get together for a cocktail and then go visit the Class of '35. If you don't do that, send me a copy of the fifty words that you wrote to Tom Haire, so I can put them in the ALUMNI NEWS before he puts them in the '34 directory.

—BOB GRANT

'35 BS—Charles H. Voorneveld, PO Box 87, Syosset, is an estate superintendent. He is married and has one son.

'35 AB—Mrs. Thomas N. E. Greville (Florence Nusim) of 5011 Strathmore Ave., Kensington, Md., entertained at luncheon, April 23, members of her Class in the Washington area. Present were Dr. Estelle Brodman, Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Robert F. Conrad (Katherine Edwards), Washington, D.C.; and Margaret C. Tobin, Class president, Arlington, Va. Mrs. Greville is a programmer-analyst with General Kinetics, Inc., Arlington, Va.

Great Neck, N.Y.

An extremely pleasant evening was spent by a group from our Class, May 12, at a dinner get-together at the Cornell Club of New York. Besides reminiscing about "the good old days," the group swapped stories about the status of their respective families, the problems our kids are having in being accepted at the college of their choice, and, of course, the enthusiasm that everyone seems to have in terms of our Twenty-five-year Reunion next year.

Jack Humphreys, who came down from Ithaca, brought us right up-to-date on the physical changes taking place on the Campus. Jack stated that things are moving so quickly it is hard to recognize Cornell from one day to the next, and since he had been away from Ithaca for three days, attending a meeting at Harvard, he was not completely sure that his short absence would enable him to recognize Cornell on his return.

After dinner, our group was particularly fortunate in being able to see an amazing collection of color slides taken and presented by our very eminent photographer Classmate, Barrett Gallagher. The pictures, largely devoted to aircraft carrier activity, took us on a stimulating journey that covered all points from the Suez Canal to Korea. Barrett is not only a top drawer photographer but, through his years of experience working with the Navy, is so completely conversant with planes, ships, and Naval personalities that the commuters present May 12 missed several trains asking questions when the showing of the pictures concluded.

Other bits of intelligence gleaned at the get-together: Wally Lee, general manager of the Waldorf Astoria, came to Charlie Dykes's rescue during New York's big storm this winter. Wally was able to find Charlie a very valuable bed that night when trains to New Canaan, Conn. failed to run.

Cruising sailors on Long Island Sound should keep a sharp lookout this summer for Bill Stoddard's yawl, "Cayuga;" Dick Wiss's cabin cruiser, "Gay Blades;" and Bob Hamburger's sloop, "Mary Jo."

'37 Women—Florence Cohen Strauss was sponsored by two PTAs for the PTA Education Institute held at Cornell in April! (Guess she was successful as a delegate and speaker there two years ago.) She dropped us a line from Ithaca: "Did you ever see Disney's 'Fantasia' in which Mickey Mouse was the Sorcerer's Apprentice and couldn't get the brooms to stop multiplying and stop sweeping? That's the way I feel. Last year I 'subbed' and was only called to teach occasionally. This year they called me so often for all sorts of subjects from 11th year English and commercial subjects down to 4th grade that I have begun to dread the telephone either at night or early in the morning. And when I wasn't subbing the school called me to do all sorts of office work, bookkeeping, payroll, report cards, and the like, now I feel so tired that I was thrilled with the opportunity to run away to Cornell for a few days. It is so beautiful here now. The birds have been serenading me all morning, the leaves just opened on the trees, nostalgia for other springs! I have a niece, Cynthia Jaffee of Brooklyn, who is a Freshman in Arts here and a nephew, Ricky Shaffer of Copake, a Freshman in Hotel School. Mary Wood took me to dinner and out to her new 'play' cottage on Cayuga.

She promised to write you about it and about her new job in Home Ec. Mary is the most gracious hostess; I don't know how she does it. I get so thrilled and excited when any '37ers come to see me that I forget all the things I should do as hostess. Did I write you about the new DAVOS ski run that Buster helped build in Woodridge (3 miles from S. Fallsburg)? My boys, Russ and Ted, made excellent use of it every week end along with hundreds of skiers from New York City."

Haven't heard from modest Mary Wood yet, but a release from the University announces Mary's appointment as assistant to Dean Canoyer of Home Ec. Mary, you know, is an associate professor in the Department of Economics of the Household & Household Management and extension home economist in the program of Marketing Information for Consumers of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics. Let's deluge her with personal notes of congratulation. She lives at 423 Oak Ave., Ithaca.—CAROL CLINE

Selly Brewer is really going all out to make this a fabulous Reunion. If you haven't made up your mind to come, do so now. If you can't arrive on Friday, we will still be going strong on Saturday. See you June 10 and 11 for our rejuvenation. Life begins at our '40 tent!

'41 Women—The more avid readers of the ALUMNI NEWS, those who read about all the Classes they knew, will realize I was "scooped" by the '40 Men. Their correspondent has already reported a good portion of the wonderful Christmas newsletter I received from our own Mrs. Joseph C. Naglee '40 (Elizabeth Bennett) who lives on O'Brien Rd. (PO Box 35) in Smartville, Cal. For those of you who did not read the '40 column, it starts out "Season's Greetings from Ghost Town, USA." They explain their move from the Peninsula to their new home "between Timbuctoo, Sucker's Flat, and Rough and Ready" by saying "all we gave up was material ossification, and what we have here is the true freedom and satisfaction in a life so simple that we are busier, creatively, than was ever possible in the city." She goes on to describe their wonderful new way of life "simple, fundamental, the children are beginning to grow up more slowly, savoring each day, find satisfaction in their chores. . . . Bruce, Mary, and Barbara attend the one-room school house at the bottom of our 18 acres and are drilled in the 3R's as we were. . . . Joe sells insurance in Grass Valley and Marysville. . . . knows how to talk turkey with turkey farmers and nuts with nutty farmers and steers with bigger ranchers. . . . Come see us, be part of our life for a few days and you'll either be happier with your own city lives, or know why we feel so young again. . . . Just know you are welcome as 52 other people were this summer, in a steady flow of families who came curious and left knowing why we are so happy in our diversified life here, and returned again for 'second helpings' of our fun." I could read and re-read this letter and I would love to share it all with you. I shall put it in the Reunion Scrap Book for all to see in 1961. Incidentally, it was signed by Elizabeth and Joe, Karen, almost 16, Bruce, 13, Mary, 8, Barbara, 7, Peter, 4½, and Brian, 3.—VIRGINIA BUELL WUORI

'45 Eric G. Carlson
69 Carlton Ave.
Port Washington, N.Y.

By the time you read this, Reunion will be almost here! But don't think it is too late to send your reservation to Tod Knowles, treasurer, 107 East 48th St., New York City 19. Send your $40 check, your hat and coat size. I must confess that I have just sent this off to Tod myself and as to whether Judy is coming with me or not, that will depend on baby sitter for Lee, Ellen, and the two beagles, Gremlin and Snooper. Also June 10 and 11 could well be moving day for the Carlsons. That, of course, would insure my presence in Ithaca for our 15th!

For those Classmates who haven't been back since graduation, I can't emphasize enough the importance of making the trip this year. Understandably, these are busy days for all of us at this stage of our career, family life, etc., but looking ahead to our 20th and 25th (God willing!) the 15th is when associations and relationships are cemented as a foundation for all future Reunions. Too, the Campus has changed so much that a full orientation while we can still navigate under a full head of steam, will help save steps at future Reunions when conservation of steps is important. If finances are a question and there doesn't seem to be an item in the budget that can take a little shrinking, look at it this way, you have 1822 days in which to recover financially before our 20th. At 2 cents a day or giving up a cocktail a month, you will have returned to normalcy for the next Reunion.

Now a special report from Bill Knauss and Lud Vollers with some special comments about Reunion:

We know the following are returning but how about you, if your name isn't included?: Bill Allison, Bill Bertelsen, Bob Boas, Rick Carlson, Pren Cushing, Joe Davis, Bob Dow, Bart Epstein, Mort Eydenberg, Bill Foster, Al Goldstein, Tom Greenlees, Jerry Haddad, Dick Hagen, Phil Herbert, Don Iseman, Laddy Katzman, Tod Knowles, Len Landis, George Rautenberg, Carl Lichtenfels, George Martin, Jack McCarthy, Hank Bernhardt, Stu Moak, Bill Rothfuss, Seaward Sand, Dave Shepard, Ed Spear, Frank Swingle, John Updegrove, Dave Sawyer, Doug Archibald, Willy Davis, Rod Dusinger, Howard Fernow, Wayne Flemming, Walt Hamilton, Dick Harap, Bruce Kane, Fred McNair, Bob Smith, Woody Bacon, L. R. Crowell, Ralph Edsell, Dan Mickey, Bob Scharff, Werner Spitz, Dick Dixon, Harry Furman, Hank Gordon, Stan Johnson, Bill Knauss, Tom Jackson, Bill Ebersol, Jim Jenks, Bi Leonard, Lud Vollers, Elias Barkolow, Ed Cohen, George Nichols, Bob Olmsted, and Bob Ormitz. This year there's just about complete balance in the plans. Want to party party? Go ahead, we'll have plenty of beer. Don't care to party! There will be 10 Faculty Forums, seven of which don't overlap, beginning Thursday night at 8 p.m. and including widely-scattered fields of current interest. You can get in the act, too; they'll be followed by discussion periods.

Regardless of how recently you've seen the Campus, you'll be amazed at the changes, the tremendous expansion of the new Engineering Campus and the new Research Library which necessitated putting a new road to the west of the still untouched Libe we knew, to name but two! We'll be headquartered all together in the new dorms between West Avenue and Stewart Avenue with our own lounge. Those who bring their wives will be put up there, too. Friday at 7, we'll eat roast ribs of beef at the Statler Club it's in Statler Hall right in front of Barton, nice and centrally located and it has a bar. This is stag! After that there's beer at our tent on lower Alumni with our own Schnickelfritz German Band or the Glee Club concert in Bailey. Saturday, there's the usual Barton Hall lunch, followed by the baseball game on Hoy Field. Our barbecue at 5 p.m. is patterned after the one we had at our 5th simply because it was so successful. It includes the '45 gals and wives and will include clams, fried chicken, and the riotous baseball game on the football field. If it rains, we duck under the Crescent like we did last time. After that there's the Rally in Barton Hall which we all but broke up at our 5th, and 10th too! For $40 you get a beer jacket and crew hat uniform, Friday and Saturday night lodging, the dinner and barbecue, all the beer you can drink, the Reunion photograph, and that rare opportunity to "convivify" with friends remembered and forgotten. For an extra $10 bring your wife, but she buys her own Friday night dinner. For an extra $5 on top of that she gets a uniform.

But brother, it's getting late, so write Tod Knowles and let him know you're coming if you haven't already. A check for $40 would go a long way toward getting Tod solvent again, since with a virtually non-existent Class treasury he has financed this thing so far out of his own pocket.

Congratulations to Lud Vollers for his adept chairmanship, to Bill Knauss for his prose, to Bob Smith for his ability to duplicate (come and see them in the flesh), to Walt Hamilton for his taste in music, and to each and every one for being a part of our 15th even if you cannot make it. A special round of applause to Tod Knowles for all he has done effortwise and moneywise.

'46 Men—It's a pleasure to announce the promotions of a few Classmates. George L. Fearnley (above), 51 Oak Manor Lane, Pittsford, has been promoted to plant manager of the Macedon plant of The Kordite Co., division of National Distillers & Chemical Corp. Before joining Kordite in January, 1959, George was with General Electric Co. in Massachusetts.

Duncon B. Parsons, Sperry Gyroscope Co.,

Donald W. Douglas, Jr., President of Douglas, discusses valve and fuel flow requirements for space vehicles with Dr. Henry Ponsford, Chief, Structures Section.

Spaceliners have the biggest thirst in the universe

Each 6,000,000 pound thrust rocket ship now being planned for manned interplanetary exploration will gulp as much propellant as the entire capacity of a 170 passenger DC-8 Jetliner in less than 4 seconds! It will consume 1,140 tons in the rocket's approximately 2 minutes of burning time. Required to carry this vast quantity of propellant will be tanks tall as 8 story buildings, strong enough to withstand tremendous G forces, yet of minimum weight. Douglas is especially qualified to build giant-sized space ships of this type because of familiarity with every structural and environmental problem involved. This has been gained through 19 years of experience with missile and space systems.

Douglas is now seeking qualified engineers, physicists, chemists and mathematicians for programs like ZEUS, DELTA, ALBM, GENIE, ANIP and others far into the future. For full information write to Mr. C. C. LaVene, Douglas Aircraft Company, Inc., Santa Monica, California, Section H.

Great Neck, has been promoted to technical planning consultant in the office of the vice-president for research & development for Sperry. Duncan joined Sperry in 1950 and was an assistant project engineer at Point Mugu, Cal., before returning to the main offices in Great Neck. Our congratulations to both Duncan and George for these fine promotions.

Honors have been bestowed recently on several of our Classmates. Dr. Charles A. deProsse, 1470 Trumansburg Rd., was elected president of the newly-formed Northwest Civic Association of the Town of Ithaca. And our perennial Sol Goldberg of the Ithaca Journal has been named the National Press Photographers Association's New York State photographer of the year for the second consecutive year.

Those of us in the education profession will be particularly pleased to hear the following newsworthy items. Bruce Y. Brett is now president of The Macmillan Co., book publishers, 60 Fifth Ave., New York City. Bruce's wife is Jacqueline Dewey '46 and they live at 9 Gerdes Rd., New Canaan, Conn. Word came from Lehigh University that Russell E. Benner received the PhD in mechanical engineering during the past year.

Any news items you would like to see included in this column in the near future can be mailed directly to me at 2234 S. Madison St., Denver 10, Colo.—DAVE DAY

'49 LLB—Sinclair Powell was recently appointed executive director of Greater Johnstown (Pa.) Committee, an organization formed to help improve the operations of municipal governments in the Johnstown area. His address is 403 Swank Building, Johnstown, Pa.

'50 Women—With Reunion only a few days off, I'll try to cram as much news as possible into this column, one of the last I'll write before turning over my duties to the new ALUMNI NEWS correspondent who will be elected at the Class banquet Friday, June 10. Aileen Enright Moore (Mrs. Harry L. Moore, Jr.) will move from Vestal to Albuquerque, N.Mex. immediately after Reunion. "Harry has already gone," she writes. "He has a new job as salary administrator for the nuclear products division of ACF Industries. We are looking forward to the delightful climate of New Mexico." Marian D. Francis reports: "It is now two years that I've lived in my own home in Schenectady. Anyone need any painting, carpentry, electrical work or plumbing done?" Last December Marian joined Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory as a thermal design engineer. She has been attending Union College in the evenings, and received her New York State professional engineer's license last October. N.Y.S.P.E. No. 36314 is her new designation.

From George Washington University in Washington, D.C. comes notice that Mary Helen Sears received the LLB with distinction, February 22. The address given for Mary Helen is 1300 North Meade St., Arlington 9, Va. Janet Lippincott Lugo, another Washingtonian, writes: "I am still working at the Pan American Union in Washington, doing research and informational work for the division of education. I have been going to law school at American University at night for three years, and expect to get my degree in June, 1961. I have been married, am now divorced, and have a daughter, Julie, five years old." Janet's address is 2900 Adams Mill Rd., NW, Apt 104, Washington, D.C. And here's a new address for Harriett Washburn Pellar (Mrs. Marshal M.): 2912 North Sheridan Rd., Chicago 14, Ill.—MARION STEINMAN

'51 Men—This has been a busy couple of weeks for me. I completed a successful campaign for election as vice-president of our local Jaycees, received the silver Key Man award for service to the Junior Chamber during the year, spent two weeks in Erie, Pa. on an audit assignment and finally completed writing the spring newsletter. The latter is quite a job, just sorting through the news items to get them in logical order takes several evenings.

With the kind permission of Fortune magazine, the following information on one of our Classmates is reprinted for your edification. In an article entitled, "Great American Scientists: The Astronomers," Fortune states . . . "a small band of monumentally patient men have made the U.S. a leader in the new astronomy. Only casually interested in the moon, they are peering into the trillions of miles beyond." It continues:

Frank D. Drake, twenty-nine, is a young veteran in a new field. He was among the first half-dozen Americans to get a PhD degree in radio astronomy—from Harvard in 1958. Born in Chicago, he had studied engineering physics at Cornell and broadened his knowledge of electronics while in the Navy. At the new radio observatory in West Virginia he has measured the atmospheres of planets and is now trying to detect radio messages from other intelligent beings in space. His wife, Elizabeth, is a professional composer; Drake himself plays the accordion and likes to hunt.

An attempt to detect coded messages in celestial radio noise has been launched by Drake, a staff member of the new National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Green Bank, West Virginia. His project is called Ozma after the queen of the land of Oz. Drake has started by tuning his receiver to the twenty-one-centimeter wave length on the theory that scientifically sophisticated beings would probably choose to broadcast at the readily identifiable frequency of hydrogen atoms. If he can find a narrow band-width signal, distinctly pulsed, he will have good reason to suspect that information is being beamed from another planet.

Then the problem will be to decode the message. . . . Presumably, intelligent beings trying to communicate would use a code designed to be easily broken. They would use the simplest sort of symbols: binary language, such as dot and dash. . . . Of course, Drake points out, the whole process of understanding would be speeded immeasurably if the messages were transmitted by television. He is sure he could readily recognize a television signal. . . .

What should be done if Drake does detect messages from space? When he first learned of Drake's project, Nobel Prize winner physicist Chen Ning Yang said reflectively: "I don't think we should answer."

Richard C. Morris has left Prudential Insurance Co., Newark, N.J., and, according to a reliable source, will be traveling in Europe until October. When we last heard from George Vlahakis, 519 Rand St., Camden 5, N.J., his Nassau Restaurant in Pennsauken had just introduced a ¾ lb. sirloin steak special for $1.24. He now reports that business is "going great"; that the special is still very much in demand, and that his restaurant now offers curb service. George also reports that he and Marina, his wife, visited Eric and Janet Jensen in Allentown a few months ago, and that the following Cornellians have dropped by to see him recently: Bill Dunn '51, Golden Dipt Co., N.J.; Bill LaLonde, Public Service Electric & Gas Co.; Ray Cantwell, Old Mill Inn, Barnardsville, N.J.; Joe Langley, Howard Johnson's, Springfield, N.J.; Bob Bennett '40, Ben Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia; Tom Whelan, Slater System, Philadelphia; James Peterson '50, Slater System, Philadelphia; and Eric Jensen '51, an attorney with Bethlehem Steel.

Robert S. Chabon (above), 114 Franklin St., Morristown, N.J., was recently appointed training administrator at CIBA Pharmaceutical Products, Inc. Bob and Judy (Resnick) '53 have one child. In addition to the BS from the University, Bob received the MEd in 1955. Before joining CIBA, Bob was training coordinator with Linde Co. and assistant training manager with Pillsbury. He is a member of the American Society of Training Directors and has served both as research committee chairman of the New York metropolitan chapter, and as publicity chairman of the southern Minnesota chapter.

With news from Stateside Classmates at a low ebb again, our leadoff report comes from the '53 ambassador to Southeast Asia, Ray Borton. Ray is well along into his second year as a member of an International Voluntary Services, Inc. team in Vietnam. The basic principle of IVS is technical assistance on a people-to-people basis. The team members act as a link between the American aid program and the Vietnamese natives, and are scattered throughout the country working on various kinds of crop and livestock improvement stations.

Among the highlights of Ray's past year was a vacation trip which took him from Saigon to Bali and back by way of Thailand, Malaya, Singapore, and Indonesia. He reports that practically every known means of transportation was employed on the junket. The journey opened via plane to Bangkok; then train through Malaya; boat to Bali; bus, train, and taxi to Djakarta, etc. "Along the way we used at least a half dozen kinds of pedalcars, various pony carts, and a borrowed bicycle for local transportation and sight seeing."

Ray also has engaged in a bit of movie making about the IVS work in Vietnam. Watch for "The IVS Story" on your local screen. Ray traveled with the crew and helped set up the scenes for which he also made arrangements and suggestions. Ray's headquarters are at 3 Nguyen Thuong Hien, Dalat, Vietnam, and he will be happy to answer any of your questions about life in Southeast Asia.

As to our non-overseas brethren, Jack Brophy has a new address and a new job. They are, respectively, 136 Henderson Rd., Fairfield, Conn., and manufacturer's representative for Northeast Sales Engineering Co., Hamden, Conn. Dr. Morris Shorofsky reports his marriage, March 12, to Roanna Moskowitz. Presently an intern at Beth Israel Hospital, New York City, Moe will become a resident in internal medicine there in July. Steve and Sherry (Vogel '55) Greenberg are the proud parents of a second son, Eric Lea, born March 26. Bob Engel is an assistant treasurer with Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

We have a column in this issue because I received a letter from Mrs. Allan Byer '54 (Nan Behrbohm). She wrote about their new daughter, Tracey Lynn, born March 31, just in time for the census report! Tracey has a four-year-old sister, Gena Kathleen. Nan lives at 119 Lowell St., Andover, Mass. "Out here" she says there aren't many Cornellians, and she hasn't a single piece of news.

Neither do I have any more news. How about you? Items to be published in the July issue, before our summer break, must reach me by June 10.

One of the most interesting letters we've received in a long time comes from Gordon E. White of 1201 Press Bldg., Washington 4, D.C. Written on the letterhead of the Deseret News Salt Lake Telegram, and datelined Washington, D.C., Gordie's experiences of the last few years make us wish that we, too, were members of the Fourth Estate. For the benefit of those of us who labor in classrooms, offices, labs, and the like, the following chronicle is set forth: "Since 1955 I've made $125 a week in an insulating materials warehouse in N.J., as unskilled labor; made $55 a week as a reporter on the Paterson, N.J. Evening News; worked as a press secretary in Albany for State Senator George R. Metcalf, who represents Tompkins County, among others; graduated from Columbia with an MS in Journalism; put in six months of active duty at Fort Chaffee, in occupied Arkansas, after contracting pneumonia in New Jersey in August; worked a month in Wall Street

Also covered: last atomic test series in Nevada in 1958; nuclear ramjet and rockets, also out of Las Vegas; opening of first road to Glen Canyon, largest current US dam project, in Arizona; Flaming Gorge, second largest, in Utah; Nelson Rockefeller election in New York; tour of six A-Power reactor sites from New York to Los Angeles; missile test and flight tests, including the X-15, at Edwards AFB, Cal.; three-week flying coverage of Europe, including a week in Berlin over the Khrushchev 'deadline' of May 27, 1959; Olympic site selection in Munich; German Army training (Bundeswehr) at SETAF missile command, Italy; US guided missile fleet units at Naples; new US base complex in Rota-Madrid; Moroccan bases at Sidi Slimane-Port Lyaute, in French Morocco; covered Operation Deepfreeze '60 with the Navy in November, 1959, three weeks away from Washington, nine days on the ice, flights from McMurdo Sound to South Pole, Little America, and much of the adjoining portion of the Antarctic; week in Christchurch, New Zealand, with a near catastrophe in Kilauea Iki volcano, Hawaii, on the way back—flew over it in rented Piper Tri-Pacer, practically under the 1100 foot spout, later realized that the plane was fabric covered—all that spattering of lava on the wings had been red hot; covered Strategic Air Command HQ (red phones) at Offutt AFB in Omaha, as well as politics, ICBM bases, nuclear reactors, etc., in Nebraska; presently cover the White House, Pentagon, House, Senate, Interior Department, AEC, and what-have-you in Washington." He writes that in addition to all of the above, he is the "proud skipper of a 34' schooner, Brigadoon, home ported at Annapolis, (all on) $90 a week salary." The letter closes with a very intriguing invitation: "Now all you dull corporation executives, just come down here and join me for a sail this summer. Bring along a case of beer and we'll have a ball, and to h— with trimethyl phosphate, rate bases, and short positions."

A flash has been received from Ann (Busch) Githler. If there is anyone interested in being on the Class council or in nominating someone for the council, would she please send the names to Ann at 412 Wood St., Ithaca. The group of officers to be elected at our Five-year Reunion will serve for the coming five years, so please put on your thinking caps and help out the nominating committee. Incidentally, Ann has just been elected president of the Cornell Law Wives. Husband Charles Githler '55 will be graduating from the Law School in 1961, and the couple have enjoyed their stay in Ithaca with their two active children.

Naomi Freistadt sends news of Reunion. Everyone is welcome, even at the last minute. But please remember to register at the official table so that others will know you are "on the Hill" and so that you can find out who else is back. Even if you pop in for ½ a day, you can be counted in with the official count. The largest number of gals ever to return for a Five-Year Reunion was 85 in 1932. We certainly can beat that all-time record, can't we? The same Class costume as last time will be used: the white duck jacket with Class numerals on the pocket. If you didn't get one last time, they can be ordered from Naomi. We hope to have a Class bulletin board on which will be posted photos, messages, etc. Would anyone volunteer to be in charge of it? Drop me a line if you are interested. It will be time to think of Class dues soon. Thank goodness they're paid just once every five years! It really is no pain or strain this way. And if you have any ideas for Reunion, please write Naomi at 134 West 58th St., New York City 19.

Her husband Paul graduated from Yale law school and they moved to Columbus, Ga. for a six-month hitch with the Army at Ft. Benning. Now the Zimmermans live at 4890 Battery Lane, Bethesda 14, Md. Paul's with a small law firm in Washington (which Margot says they find "quite small town and lots of fun") and she's teaching seventh and eighth grade history at Takoma Park Junior High. Saved the best 'til the last! Jeffrey Michael Zimmerman, who arrived September 21, is learning to crawl and "he's every bit as handsome as his Dad! How's that for a prejudiced mother?," adds Margot.

address indicates, back from Japan. Phil is now an instructor in management procedures, systems, and administration at the Air Force Communications Officer School at Keesler.

Dwight Ryan, 226 Riddle Rd., Cincinnati 15, Ohio, and wife Cindy (Hales) '59 "welcomed Boy #2, Jeffrey Filon, March 4." Dwight is engaged in "mechanical planning" with Procter & Gamble, and has purchased a home in Cincinnati. Steve Miles, a Chicago resident, single, working for General American Transportation Corp. as a plant engineer, hopes to return for Reunions.

Another Procter & Gamble employee, Todd Simpson, father of three, is "synthetics manager" at the Dallas plant. Don Ackerman and wife are the parents of a daughter, Helene Paulette, born February 5. Don is stationed with the Army in Fayetteville, N.C. Bob Watts, married to Linda Jockman, Skidmore '59, in June, is stationed with the Navy in Norfolk. He is with an "ASW squadron operating off the USS Valley Forge, and leaving for the Mediterranean June 9." Ross Bell is working at the Baranof Hotel in Juneau, Alaska.

Dave Harvey, 205 W. Mayfair, Orange, Cal., reports no topcoat, no gloves in sunny southern California in the middle of February. Dave is a manager-trainee with J. C. Penney Co. in Garden Grove. He welcomes visitors, and notes that Disneyland ("it's fantastic") is just ten minutes from his doorstep.

Early returns on the Cornell Fund are not particularly encouraging. Neither dollar nor donor figures are up to expectations. Educational needs do not stand still. Last year's Class records don't solve this year's problems. Start making Fund giving with your Class a habit.

'58 Men: William R. Hazzard
Box 502, Olin Hall
445 E. 69th St.
New York 21, N.Y.

Pablo Toro writes from Bogota, Colombia. (Apartado Nacional #13-71), that he will extend the hand of welcome to any Cornellians visiting his hometown. He is an engineering manager at the Colombian Soluble Coffee Plant, but I would suspect that week ends find him on horseback as of old.

More news from successful servicemen: Carroll Blake, Dick Eales, David Fredericks, and Lynn Pilaroscia have completed their officers' basic course at the Marine Corps Schools in Quantico, Va., and Dick Rittenhouse has finished his advanced flight training at Pensacola, Fla. Also at the end of a training period, but of quite a different sort, is Neil Baker, who graduated from the American Institute for Foreign Trade in January and is presently employed in that field by Gustav A. Danielson.

Ray Vespe was in town not so long ago, and he had many interesting stories to tell (primed by a friend of mine named Jim Beam) about his studies at Western Reserve in Cleveland. He received the Master's in psychology last June and is well into his Doctoral work now. At the same time he is applying his knowledge as an extern at a local mental hospital. Ray's address is 49 East 212th St., Euclid 23, Ohio, but he's giving no free advice just yet.

An interesting note accompanied the dues payment from Carlos Lopez Martinez, Duque de Sesto, No. 26, 3d D. Madrid, Spain. It begins "Senores" and ends "Gracias," but in between are many words which I, in my ignorance of the Spanish language, cannot understand. Thank you for your thoughts anyway, Carlos. All are welcome, especially when accompanied by nourishment for our treasury.

'59 Men: Howard B. Myers
308 Mercer St.
New Castle, Pa.

George M. Randall's new address is 1401 Sussex Rd., Wynnewood, Pa. He's with the Stouffer Restaurant chain. Bob McClellan is finishing at Cornell this year and recently ran into your reporter while visiting Rick Dyer in New York. The latter is at Cornell Medical College. Jack Lieber, 417 Allentown Rd., Yardville 20, N.J., is at University of Pennsylvania doing graduate work in landscape architecture. His school address: 3719 Locust St., Philadelphia 4, Pa.

H. Donald Scott, Covelawn, Covesville, Va., is a food production manager for University of Virginia in Charlottesville and his old pal Paul Teicholz is a student at Stanford. Paul wrote that he married Susan Swire last June and enjoys California, Stanford, and married life very much. The Teicholz address: 482 Ravenswood Ave., Menlo Park, Cal. Bob Wegryn and Ken Cestone both wrote recently from med school. Wegryn, informative as usual, lives at 445 E. 69th St., in room 620. Bob also mentioned that the med school was Cornell, along with the fact that he is planning a June wedding to Roberta Fendrick. Cestone, on the other hand, took his nose out of Gray's Anatomy only long enough to scrawl his address as 1300 York Ave., Box 117, New York City 21. He didn't say what medical school he was attending, but it's a fact that he only lives a short walk from Cornell.

Carl Kowalski is furious. It seems that he denies an earlier report in this column announcing his engagement to Shirley Banana. However, a discrete letter from his roommates on Stewart Ave., Steve Tweedie and Dave Portman, while not overtly stating such, intimates that a date has been set, a hall has been hired, and even the caterers arranged for. Kowalski, who are you kidding? Let's hear more about you and Miss Banana or I'll get the information directly from Don Leon and Wally Wolff. After all, Carl, your roommate Dave Portman proudly announced his engagement to Stephanie Fay; what's with it?

Alan Yehle, 209 Highland Ave., Syracuse 3, is a second lieutenant in the Army, now stationed at the Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N.J. Tony Baker recently wrote of an interesting bit of European travel while on duty with the Navy. Frankfurt, Naples, Rome, and Gibraltar were all on Tony's itinerary. He's now on the USS William M. Wood as an anti-submarine officer. Address: USS Wm. M. Wood (DDR-715), FPO, New York City.

Harold W. McCrone also wrote a while ago from Ft. Lee, Va. At the time he said that Ron and Sally (Schwartz) Muzii, Harry and Barbara Stern and Chet Nichols were among the Cornellians there. Buck intends to enter Yale or Harvard law school next fall. His permanent address is Holly Dr., Route 2, Annapolis, Md. Mase Mc-

Cracken, like Tony Baker spoken of above, is also cruising in the Mediterranean with the Navy. Mase is on the USS Forrestal (CVA-59). He reports that he's involved in flight deck operations. Address: Operations Department, USS Forrestal, FPO, New York, New York.

Discover a New World of Thrills in Mexico

University City Library

Mayan Altar, Chiapas

Come to Mexico and visit its University City, a model of modern architecture, the outcome of a great cultural and artistic tradition... Mexico had the first printing press on the American continent, its first College, founded in 1539 and its University, in 1551.

Mexico's monuments and temples remind the visitor of a great past...

The dead cities of the Mayas, the giant heads of the Olmecs, the Totonacs' pyramids. Plumed serpents and sacred jaguars are waiting for you to discover them...
