VOL. XXIX, No. 31

ITHACA, N. Y., MAY 12, 1927

PRICE 12 CENTS

THE major sensation of the week, reperculsing even in the New York papers, was the allegation by the Sun that in the election of officers of the Student Council a number of students had voted five or ten times. "Expulsion or suspension from the University is none too light a penalty," said the Sun. It further advanced the suggestion that such cases came under the jurisdiction of the undergraduate honor-system. The acting president of the Student Council, Robert B. Brown '27, then issued an appeal for information as to fraudulent voting, and the chairman of the Central Honor Committee, Jervis Langdon, Jr., '27, announced its intention of prosecuting all violations of the election rules. At this point the matter rests. The R. O. T. C. has not as yet been called out.

FEW BETTER EXAMPLES of the dependence of moral standards on public custom could be found. The offenders, says the Sun, boasted of their misdeeds. They did not therefore consider themselves as spotted with moral turpitude. They were, no doubt, attempting to give the impression of their own humorous eminence in a Campus comedy. Yet the Sun does well to take the matter with all seriousness. The venality of voters in other and greater elections (teste Pennsylvania) should not be allowed to spread to men of the college type. A few mockers at probity in Student Council elections can rapidly convince the whole student body politic that dishonesty is the best policy. The recovery from such a point of view is a long process, attended with much pain. There have been times and places when cribbing in examinations was held commonly to be a ludicrous and not discreditable proceeding. To eradicate such an idea is a task comparable to the removal of fleas from a collie.

THE FRESHMAN ADVISORY COMMITTEE has announced the election of George C. Butler '28, of Columbus, Ohio as president for next year. Theodore H. Anderson '28 of Greenwich, Conn., will be secretary, and Bruce S. Cornell '28 of Ridgewood, N. J., senior representative on the Council.

THE INCREASE IN TUITION in all colleges except Law and Medicine and the State-supported colleges, which was announced last week, seems to have aroused little protest. One letter-writer to the Sun objects, but suggests no alternative. Even with the increase, the student still pays less than half the cost of his instruction; the remainder is born by our endowment. It sometimes seems wonderful that the youth of our Eastern States are able to get their education through the more or less haphazard benefactions of men of good will. Higher education, changing gradually from a luxury to a necessity, seems properly the affair of the State. But after all, this is none of our business.

THE APPOINTMENT of Allan Nevins to a chair in American history is an interesting departure from custom. Mr. Nevins (see our last issue) has not followed the scholastic high road. He has established himself as a historian of the first rank by his scholarly work, but this has emanated, not from some peaceful campus, but from the editorial offices of the New York Post, Sun, and World. By this appointment the University proves that it welcomes scholarly eminence as such, and is not bound by any rules of progression within its own hierarchy.

DEMOCRACY AND GOOD GOVERNMENT often have to be chosen between, according to Professor Charles R. Morris, who spoke on April 22 on "The Meaning of Democracy in England." The effort to produce a government mechanism which will make real democratic control possible and effective is difficult, he said, and asked the question, "What do we want, democratic government, even if under it mistakes are made, or good government, even if that government does not happen to be democratic?"

THE ART EDITOR of The Widow next year will be Charles C. Porter, Jr., '29 of East Orange, N. J. Other members of the art staff are Richard G. Belcher '28 of Park Ridge, N. J., and Louis B. Carver '29 of Hanover, Pa. The business manager will be Donald A. Nesbitt '28 of Dayton, Ohio, assisted by Joseph M. Rummel '29 of Chicago. Elected to the editorial staff were Bruce S. Cornell '28 of Ridgewood, N. J., William M. Glass '28 of Albuquerque, N. Mex., Robert L. Bliss '30 of Binghamton, William B. Edwards '30 of Chatham, N. J., and Arthur P. Hibbard '30 of Elizabeth, N. J. The editor-in-chief will be elected in June.

THREE PLAYS by Cornellians were presented by the Dramatic Club on May 6 and 7. They were "The Door," by John M. Young '28 of Binghamton, a serious play about the American farm family: "A Tear for Harlequin," a tragi-comedy by George Fass '29 of New York, and "One of Cleopatra's Knights" a comedy by John Emperor '26, now a graduate student.

THE SAMPSON FINE ARTS PRIZE for 1927 has been awarded to Joseph G. White '27 of Granville, N. Y. The prize is given annually to the student who shows the most intelligent appreciation of the graphic and plastic arts and of architecture. It consists of books or reproductions bought with the income of one thousand dollars. Julius V. Coleman '28 of Los Angeles, Calif. received honorable mention.

A SUMMER SCHOOL for clergymen will be held from July 11 to July 23, under the direction of the Department of Rural Social Organization of the College of Agriculture. Cooperating organizations include the United Christian Work at Cornell, the New York State Sunday School Association, and the New York State Council of Churches. Professors Ralph A. Felton and Dwight Sanderson '98 will give courses, also the Rev. James A. G. Moore, director of the extension service of the United Christian Work at Cornell. Faculty members of the Colleges of Home Economics and Agriculture will give lectures on "Agricultural Problems." The Rev. Mercer P. Logan, D.D., dean and chaplain of Du Bose Memorial Church Training School at Monteagle, Tenn., the Rev. Colin C. Young, D.D., associate secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the United Church of Canada; and Father Hawkins of the Order of the Holy Cross will give a series of evening lectures.

THE CORNELL SECTION of the American Chemical Society on May 3 held a research meeting which was addressed by Frederick M. Brower of London, a graduate student here under the Commonwealth Fund, who spoke on "Valency in the Fourth Group"; and Carl W. Tucker, a graduate student from Iowa City, Iowa, talked on "Photo-voltaic Cells."

PENDING LEGISLATION relating to the home was discussed at a lecture given May 3 by Miss Dorothy Kenyon of New York, attorney-at-law and legislative chairman of the New York League of Women Voters.

THE MESSENGER LECTURE series, given this year by Professor Herbert J. C. Grierson of the University of Edinburgh, ended on May 5. These lectures were made possible by the will of Hiram J. Messenger '80 of Hartford, Conn., who left $77,000 to the University, the income of which is to "provide a course of lectures on the evolution of civilization, for the special purpose of raising the moral standard of our political, business, and social life." Last year Professor Robert A. Millikan, director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics at the California Institute of Technology, gave the lectures, on "The Evolution of the Elements."

Cornellians Win Prizes

Louis Bromfield '18 Given Pulitzer Award for Novel—Paul Greene, Former Graduate Student, Honored as Playwright

Two Cornellians, Louis Bromfield '18 and Paul Greene, '22-3 Grad., are included in this year's Pulitzer Prize awards. Bromfield will receive one thousand dollars for his "Early Autumn" as "the American novel published during the year which shall best present the whole atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manhood."

Bromfield entered Cornell in 1914 but, according to press reports, wanted as broad an education as possible, and left at the end of a year to spend his next three years in three different colleges.

Paul Greene's "In Abraham's Bosom" won him the thousand dollar award as "the original American play, performed in New York, which shall best represent the standard of good morals, good taste, and good manners." Greene graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1921, and was a graduate student in philosophy and English at Cornell the following year. He has since been associated with the Carolina Playmakers, the well known Chapel Hill dramatic organization.

THE EZRA CORNELL HOTEL

For one day the campus had a hotel that any city might be proud of. It was created from Prudence Risley Hall, transformed into an exclusively modern "Ezra Cornell Hotel" by the students in the hotel administration course. Every detail was flawlessly executed, from the time the guests were received by a snappily dressed doorman, until the final notes of Vincent Lopez's orchestra closed the evening, and the life of the hotel.

The students planned and managed everything themselves, even cooking the elaborate dinner which was served. A marquis was constructed over the entrance, flags waved on the turrets, fountains played in the court, and the ballroom was elaborately decorated. Faculty members, a few students, and townspeople were invited. Also attending were a number of prominent hotel men from other cities, including Ellsworth M. Statler, president of the Statler Hotels.

Dean Albert R. Mann '04, Professor Martha Van Rensselaer '09, and Thomas M. Bright '27 of Lansdale, Pa., extended formal greetings to the guests, which were responded to by Mr. Statler.

This is the second year the hotel has been opened. The idea was suggested by Professor Jessie A. Boys, who is in charge of the cooking and other courses. Professor Howard B. Meek is head of the department.

'17 BOOMS REUNION

The men of the Class of 1917 have issued an attractive paper to compete with other publications which are coming out so rapidly these days to announce the various doings when the classes come back for their reunions in June. Under the caption of "Cornell, We Are Here" the class editor makes a strong appeal to the men of the ten-year class. The product was the result of a team, Charles H. (Charlie) Ramsey writing the copy, with his wife drawing the pictures.

The list of '17 men who are definitely expected for the ten-year reunion is assuming encouraging proportions: Acheson, Acker, Anderson, Ballantine, Beach, Brinckerhoff, Budd, Carr, Collyer, Coursen, Crim, Crispell, Danenhower, Dugan, Eckley, Erwin, Garnjost, Goertz, Goodman, Hathaway, P. Howell, S. Howell, Innes, Jannotta, King, Klingelhofer, Likly, Maclay, Mellon, Morgan, Munsick, Orme, Paskow, Potar, Ramsey, Robertson, Schweimler, Seaver, Sieburn, Sprong, Steleman, Strotz, Stuckler, Tallman, Vail, Van Cleve, Vanderbilt, White, and Whitney.

SPORT STUFF

The crews clear for action against Princeton and Yale on the 21st at Princeton. It's a perverse fate that matches them in their initial action against what now appears another one of those phenomenal New Haven navies. A crew could be beaten by these people and still be a pretty good crew.

Quite irrespective of the outcome at Princeton I want to record here in advance that this crew has been well handled, it's rowing pretty well now and will be better before the season is over. It's a snarly outfit and isn't rowing for second money any time.

All the other teams have already shown their wares and the undergraduates are perked up about them.

So far the nine has been playing better baseball than any other Cornell team has shown since the war. The tennis people have been winning right along. The track team has more bright spots in it than has been the case in recent years and the lacrosse outfit is getting better each week.

There is still time to organize that Spring Day party.

R. B.

PHI BETA KAPPA's annual banquet was held on May 4, at Prudence Risley Hall. Professor Herbert J. C. Grierson of the University of Edinburgh, who has been elected a member of the Cornell chapter, gave the principal address. Professor Roswell C. Gibbs '06, president of the chapter, was the toastmaster.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler Dead

Distinguished Scholar Taught at Cornell Thirteen Years Before Going to California as President

Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president emeritus of the University of California, died on May 3 in Vienna. He had been in poor health for several years, and with Mrs. Wheeler had gone abroad a year ago to be with their son, who is taking graduate work in the University of Vienna.

Although known to the world chiefly as the head of the University of California, of which he was president for twenty years and president emeritus for eight more, Dr. Wheeler, before going West in 1899, was for thirteen years a member of the Cornell Faculty, and is still held in affectionate memory by those who knew him.

He came to Cornell in 1886 as acting professor of classical philology. The next year he became professor of comparative philology and in 1888 the teaching of Greek was added to his chair. He was a most inspiring teacher. His lectures on the every-day life of the Greeks were always crowded, as were all other semi-popular lectures that he gave.

It has been said of him that he was the link between the students and the Faculty, because of the deep interest he took in all students. In the athletic policy of the University he took an active part, and was particularly interested in the crew. Also he gave much attention to the C. U. C. A., taught large Bible classes, and spoke occasionally before large audiences at the First Baptist Church. He served as a bond between the town and the University, and between the alumni and the University. He was interested in politics, both local and State, in which he took part actively.

Few men have received more academic honors than had Dr. Wheeler. He received his A. B. and A. M. from Brown, his Ph. D. from Heidelberg, LL. D. from Princeton, Harvard, Brown, Yale, Johns Hopkins, the University of Wisconsin, Dartmouth, Columbia, and the University of Kentucky; Ph. D. from the University of Athens, and L. H. D. from Colgate. He was a member of Alpha Delta Phi and Phi Beta Kappa.

He was born at Randolph, Mass., July 15, 1854. In June, 1881, he married Amey Webb of Providence, R. I. Mrs. Wheeler, and a son, Benjamin Webb Wheeler, survive him.

FRANK BRANCH RILEY talked on "The Lure of the Great Northwest" at the Sunday Evening Hour in Willard Straight Hall on May 8. Mr. Riley, a lawyer and publicist of the Pacific Coast, is on his fourteenth annual transcontinental tour, and has spoken at many colleges this year. Colored slides depicting the lure illustrated the lecture.

THE CLUBS

Southern California

The Cornell Club of Southern California is planning a dinner meeting on May 17, when one of the features will be a showing of the motion pictures of Ithaca, which were taken under the auspices of the Alumni Office last May. All interested Cornell men are invited to get in touch with Walter C. Yeatman '09, secretary of the club, for further particulars. His address is 3847 Ingraham Street, Los Angeles.

Northern California Women

At the regular monthly meeting held on April 9 at the home of Mrs. Walter Mulford (Vera Wandling) '03, the entire slate of officers was re-elected for the coming year. The officers are: president, Mrs. Caroline B. Morrison (Caroline Baldwin) '95, vice-president, Sophy P. Fleming '74, secretary and treasurer, Frances H. Ufer '20.

New York

The annual meeting of the Cornell Club of New York was held on Thursday, May 5, in the Club rooms.

President Farrand was the guest of the evening. He gave a résumé of developments at the University during the past year, including the financial condition, some problems of the various colleges, the working of the honor system, the increasing number of lecturers from other universities, particularly European, and concluded with an outline of the trend in University education in the entire country with particular reference to conditions in Ithaca.

R. Harold Shreve '02, president of the club, gave a brief outline of the condition of the club, showing that at the close of 1926 the membership had increased to 2,100; that more use had been made of the club quarters; that the financial condition had improved as compared with that of last year; and that additions had been made to the 1933 building fund, which was established to provide against the expiration in that year of the lease on the present property.

At the close of the meeting, announcement was made of the unanimous election of Floyd L. Carlisle '03, P. Alexander Clogher, Jr., '04, Andrew E. Tuck '98, and Christopher W. Wilson, Jr., '00, as members of the Board of Governors to serve for four years, and Arthur F. Brinckerhoff '02, J. Bradley Delehanty '10, Arthur M. Acheson '14, Donald J. Nightingale '18, and Edward P. McKee '22 as members of the Committee on Admissions to serve for three years.

After the meeting, President Farrand talked informally for two hours with members of the club who had questions to ask. Refreshments were served in the main dining room.

What is advertised as the "Annual Spring Forget Your Worries Smoker" will be held at the Club on Friday, May 20, the night before the triangular regatta at Princeton. The party will be known as Princeton Night, will start at 8.30 in the lounge room, "spreading all over the Club during the rest of the evening." The committee announces stunts galore from both Princeton and Cornell, and a "few speakers who will say something but not much." A special club dinner will be served in all the dining rooms, the women's dining room being temporarily closed for the evening, and refreshments will be served in both the Campus Room and the main dining room following the stunt program.

A Cornell Club special train will make the trip to Princeton on May 21. The train will leave the Pennsylvania station at 1.55 p. m. daylight saving time, Newark at 2.05 p. m., arriving at Princeton at 3.25 in plenty of time to walk or taxi to Lake Carnegie before the freshman race. Members of the Club may purchase tickets for guests, including ladies.

Returning, the train will leave Princeton after the varsity race about 7 o'clock, arriving at Newark at 8 o'clock and New York at 8.15.

Tickets will be on sale only at the Cornell Club.

South Florida

The second meeting of the Cornell University Club of South Florida was held on April 23 at the Miami City Club. A constitution was adopted, voting to call the club the Cornell University Club of South Florida, with the annual business meeting the second Saturday in February.

The following officers were elected: president, Everette J. Hunt '11; vice-presidents, Charles G. Hanneck '02 and Russell B. Hurlburt '10; secretary, C. Hobart Sherwood '20; treasurer, H. Kenyon Sharpe '23. Hunt was formerly secretary of the Cornell Club of Buffalo and Sherwood held a similar position with the Cornell Club of Yonkers.

At the suggestion of Hermann W. Hagemann '13, the club voted to give a tennis cup, in memory of William A. Larned '94, to the Floridian winning the Miami tennis championship three times.

The next meeting will be a spring Day smoker, to be held on May 21.

The Club has invited the Cornell Musical Clubs to come to Miami for a concert next Christmas.

Youngstown

At a gathering of alumni of Youngstown, Ohio on April 22, a committee was appointed to concentrate efforts on the strengthening of the Cornell organization in that territory. The following were selected to serve on the committee: chairman, George H. Young '00, James C. Argetsinger '05, Walter C. Conger '12, Wade L. Bascom '18, and Jerold S. Meyer

'23. The committee is planning to include in its organization the territory lying in northeastern Ohio and central northwestern Pennsylvania.

Detroit Women

The Cornell Women's Club of Detroit held a benefit bridge party on April 29 at Webster Hall. The proceeds are to go to the Women's Entry in the War Memorial. A large number attended and the evening was enjoyable as well as successful. Home-made candy donated by the members of the Club was sold, and this helped to swell the already substantial sum which had been realized on the tickets.

MORE '01 REUNERS

Since the last reports on the reunion of the class of '01, when men of the class had signified their intention of celebrating in Ithaca next month, the following members have joined the ranks: Harry M. Bostwick, Arrey Doerffling, Clifton B. English, Roswell S. George, Leslie V. Grantire, Bascom Little, Francis W. Mastin, Walter E. Phelps, David Paine, Jay H. Stevens, George L. Southard, and Manton M. Wyvell.

A get-together was held at the Cornell Club of New York, on Friday evening, April 29. The party was marked by a large attendance and plenty of enthusiasm for the coming reunion.

The next get-together will take place at the Cornell Club on Wednesday evening, May 25. All men of the class are welcome.

RALLY PLANS PROGRESS

In discharging its duties as the host class at the Reunions the Class of 1912, in a letter to class secretaries has invited all men who can be in Ithaca in June and who belong to classes which are not holding reunions "to join 1912 for June 10, 11 and 12 and have 'The Time of Their Lives.'"

About the annual general alumni rally which will be in charge of the Class of 1912, the letter from Secretary Ross W. Kellogg says:

"I am not at liberty to divulge the program. Plans are in charge of Walt Kuhn and Jake Fassett, assisted by George L. Coleman '95, who will be present with the Cornell Cadet Band of 30 pieces. I can assure you that members of your class will never forgive you if you let them miss this party."

The number of 1912 men who have promised to return for the reunion has reached 153, the additions during the last week being as follows: Eugene Auchter, Gregory Dean, Curtis Delano, Maurice Dubin, Ken Hildreth, George Kuchler, Harry Markson, D. P. McCarthy, Bob Wigand and Erv Rankin.

Rankin is a contender for the long-distance cup, coming from Calcutta, India, where he is in the employ of the Standard Oil Company.

Memorial Near Goal

Fund Now Stands at $228,000—Wide-spread Response to Final Appeal—Campaign's Peak May 24

The War Memorial Fund now stands at $228,156. The status of the various group projects follows:

	Contributed to May 9, 1927
Army Entry	$7,576
Navy Entry.....	6,785
Women's Entry.....	3,674
1877 Room.....	3,623
1887 Room.....	2,365
1906 "	1,935
1907 "	5,000

(The entire amount has been underwritten for 1907).

1909 "	4,105
1912 "	1,025
1913 "	3,100
1916 "	500

(A special campaign is under way for 1916).

Sun Room.....	1,480
Zeta Psi Room.....	1,359

An effort is being made to complete all individual projects by May 24.

Interest in the memorial has been stimulated by the special War Memorial Bulletin which is now in the hands of all Cornell alumni. Robert E. Treman '09, chairman of the committee, has been deluged with contributions during the past week. From Maine to California alumni have responded to the appeal asking for small contributions in the Shower of Gold. Over 1100 responses have thus far been received and the amounts have varied from the $2.50 check, which everyone has been asked to sign, to a number of contributions of $250.

The total received in the so far Shower of Gold is now $6,892.50. The results are satisfying to the Committee and indicate that there is a wide spread desire on the part of alumni to be identified with this project.

Over one hundred Cornell clubs throughout the United States and Canada have received a special telegram from Chairman Treman urging the full cooperation of every Cornellian who is affiliated with any Cornell Club to the extent of participating in the Shower of Gold.

As their fiftieth anniversary gift to the University the Class of 1877 has provided funds for a room in the War Memorial Towers. The Class has been collecting this Fund for a number of years and when invited by the Memorial Committee to make their gift a part of the memorial group, Professor Henry W. Foster, secretary of the fund, submitted the invitation to the acting officers of the class. Prof. Simon H. Gage and William O. Kerr.

Last week the class officers voted to have the fund turned over to the War Memorial Committee for the purpose of definitely associating the fifty-year Reunion class with one of the rooms in the building. Over the fireplace in the room will be placed a memorial tablet expressing the tribute of the Class of 1877 to the Cornell men who made the supreme sacrifice.

DISTINGUISHED COURT SITS HERE

Sitting at the Court of Appeals of the State of York Island, Judge Frank H. Hiscock '75, Justice Leonard C. Crouch '89, and Justice Rowland L. Davis '97, on April 29 heard the final case in the Law School moot court series and rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff-respondents, represented by Simon Rosenzweig '29 of Brooklyn and Maxwell H. Tretter '29 of Brooklyn.

The moot court work was introduced this year for freshmen in the Law School, to afford them actual practice in the preparation of briefs and the presentation of oral arguments. It will be a long time before these young students will again try a case before so distinguished a bench.

A dinner was held in the evening for the justices, Faculty members, and students who worked in the moot court. The next evening the Law Quarterly banquet was held, the speakers including President Farrand, Professor Robert S. Stevens, Judge William L. Ransom '05, Professor L. Brierly of Oxford, visiting professor of international law, and Professor Morris R. Cohen of the College of the City of New York.

BRITISH ATHLETES VISIT CORNELL

Lord David Burghley and three of his fellow students in Cambridge University, who had competed in the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival, spent two pleasant days in Ithaca last week. They came up from Philadelphia last Tuesday afternoon and remained until Thursday night.

While at the University they were the guests of the Cornell track team, and lived in Willard Straight Hall. Their visit was purely informal. The Britons renewed acquaintance with members of the Cornell track team who went to England last summer to compete with the Princeton athletes against Oxford and Cambridge. They also became acquainted with some of the Cornellians whom they are likely to meet in the next international games. The British students were accompanied to Ithaca by Henry A. Russell '26, captain of the Cornell track team last year.

In the party were Lord Burghley, T. C. Livingston-Learmouth, J. F. Richardson and G. C. Weightman-Smith. At Philadelphia these men outclassed their American competitors in the shuttle hurdle relay race.

ATHLETICS

Nine Keeps Winning

The Campus is awakening to the fact that Cornell has a real baseball team this year. The team last week defeated both Princeton and Dartmouth. It was the second victory over the Green, and the second Cornell victory in the Quadrangle Cup series. The only cup game lost so far was that with Columbia on April 29. Cornell will play Columbia again on May 28, at Ithaca, and has two cup games to play with Pennsylvania, which at present is leading the league.

Effective pitching by Vickers, smart fielding, and timely hitting were the factors which won both the Princeton and Dartmouth games. Both were played on Hoy Field. Vickers was hit hard in the first two innings of the Princeton game, but he then settled down and pitched capably, though occasionally he was unsteady for brief periods. Princeton scored five runs in the first two innings. From then on no Tiger crossed the plate.

Cornell got a run in the opening inning, and in the second clinched the game, driving Kellogg from the mound and scoring seven runs on four hits and some Princeton misplays. The team batted around in this inning, and again in the sixth, when five runs were scored off Palmer, Kellogg's successor, on three hits, more Princeton misplays and Palmer's wildness. The box score:

Allows Only Two Hits

Vickers pitched a splendid game against Dartmouth Saturday. The Green batters had even less success with his delivery here than at Hanover, and they were shut out. The score was 4 to 0, and the Cornell pitcher allowed but two hits.

Only one Dartmouth batter got beyond first base, Michelini, who reached third in the first inning, only to be run down at the plate while attempting to score while Elliot was trying to steal second. Only six Dartmouth men reached first in the game.

Cornell scored a run in the second inning on hits by Glassner and Heinzelman and two sacrifices. In the third McConnell drove a home run to center field, the ball rolling to the fence. Shaw singled and went to second on an infield out. He came home on a wild pitch. The final count came in the sixth on singles by Balderston and Heinzelman, the latter's third hit of the game.

The game scheduled with Syracuse last Wednesday was called off on account of wet grounds.

Victory in Track

The track team defeated Massachusetts Institute of Technology in a dual meet on Schoelkoff Field, Saturday afternoon by a score of 91 to 44. Cornell won nine firsts, M. I. T. five, and honors in the high jump were divided. In five events, the 440 yard dash, discus throw, hammer throw, shot put and pole vault, Cornell made a clean sweep.

Elmo Caruthers, Jr. '28, set a new Cornell record in the 120-yard hurdles, when he defeated Streinbrenner, the M. I. T. captain and the hurdle star, by a yard in 15 1-10 seconds. The best Cornell performance prior to this was by Walker Smith, who won this race of the Intercollegiates at Cambridge in 1919 in 15 1-5 sec.

Other Cornell performances above the average were Anderson's victory in the shot put, in which he set up a new meet record of 45 ft., 5½ inches, and his discus throw of 140 feet of 3¾ inches, another dual meet record; and Wright's performance in the hammer throw, 159 feet, 9 inches, a new mark for Alumni Field. Captain Werly showed class in the 440 yard dash, which he won in 50 1-10 seconds and Benson romped away with the two-mile run.

Captain Streinbrenner of Tech was the leading individual scorer. He won the low hurdles and the 220 yard dash, and took second in the high hurdles. Anderson, with two firsts, was high man for Cornell.

Spelman, entering the sprints for the first time, got second place in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Fuller and Beyer furnished a surprise in the 440 by finishing second and third, defeating Meagher. In the mile run, Brumder by a late sprint, closed up the gap on Kirwin, but the M. I. T. man had plenty to spare at the tape. Cornell was outclassed in the 880, Smith and Fay showing coming in well ahead of Orthman.

The 120 yard high hurdle race was a pretty battle between Streinbrenner, who had won the event at the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival, and Caruthers. The latter is usually slow to get under way, but in this race he got a beautiful start and was abreast of Streinbrenner at the third hurdle. He passed him 40 yards from the tape and won by a yard. In the low hurdles, Caruthers was on even terms for three hurdles when he tripped and lost his chance.

Benson showed impressive form in the two mile run, but lacked fast competition and his time was slow.

Wright's performance was not the only encouraging hammer throw development. Worden, a sophomore, who finished second, threw the hammer 152 feet, 6½ inches, and Cohen was third with 145 ft., 8 in.

Schlect came through with a fair performance to win the javelin throw, and Williams' pole vault of 12 feet, 4 inches.

The summaries:

Track Events

100-yard dash: won by Wiebe, M. I. T.; Spelman, Cornell, second; Smith, M. I. T., third. Time—10 1-5 seconds.

220-yard dash: won by Steinbrenner, M. I. T.; Spelman, Cornell, second; Schults, Cornell, third. Time—23 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles: won by Caruthers, Cornell; Steinbrenner, M. I. T. second; Cassebaum, Cornell, third. Time—15 1-5 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles: won by Steinbrenner, M. I. T.; Cassebaum, Cornell, second; Caruthers, Cornell, third. Time—25 seconds.

One-mile run: won by Kirwin, M. I. T.; Brumder, Cornell, second; Worthern, M. I. T., third. Time—4:42 3-5.

440-yard dash: won by Werly, Cornell; Fuller, Cornell, second; Beyer, Cornell, third. Time—50 1-10 seconds.

880-yard run: won by K. A. Smith, M. I. T.; Fay, M. I. T., second; Orthman, Cornell, third. Time—1:58 1-5.

Two-mile run: won by Benson, Cornell; Pond, Cornell, second; Austin, M. I. T., third. Time—9 minutes.

Field Events

Broad jump: won by Rhodes, Cornell, 21 feet 8 inches; Wiebe, M. I. T., second, 21 feet 5 inches; Berry, Cornell, third, 21 feet 3-5 inches.

16-pound shot put: won by Anderson, Cornell, 45 feet 5 3-4 inches; Murray, Cornell, second, 41 feet 5 inches; Furman, Cornell, third, 41 feet.

Pole vault: won by Williams, Cornell, 12 feet 4 inches; tie for second, Reed, Pittman, Oldberg, Cornell, 12 feet.

Discus throw: won by Anderson, Cornell, 140 feet 3 1-2 inches; Furman, Cornell, second, 122 feet 1 inch; Moore, Cornell, third, 113 feet 11 inches.

Javelin throw: won by Schlecht, Cornell, 171 feet 3 1-2 inches; McCarthy, M. I. T., second, 169 feet 6 1-2 inches; Klots, Cornell, third, 159 feet 3 inches.

Hammer throw: won by Wright, Cornell, 159 feet 9 inches; Worden, Cornell, second, 152 feet 6 1-2 inches; Cohen, Cornell, third, 143 feet 8 inches.

High jump: tie for first, Allen, M. I. T. and Vollmer, Cornell, 5 feet 7 inches; Bradley, Cornell, third, 5 feet 6 inches.

HANDS ACROSS THE BORDER

President Farrand has been named one of the four Americans in the nucleus of the executive organization of the North American Relations Foundation. The aim of the foundation, which recently was incorporated by act of the Dominion of Canada Parliament, is the perpetuation of the friendly relations existing between Canada and the United States.

Besides President Farrand, the American members are Dr. Samuel P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, James A. Russell of Akron, Ohio, and E. L. Brooks of Cleveland. Others are Justice Riddell of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Sir Henry M. Pellatt of Toronto, Dr. H. P. Whidden, chancellor of McMaster University, Professor George M. Wrong of the University of Toronto, and Major E. L. McCormick of Toronto.

The foundation has the approval and active support of men of international reputation in Canada and the United States. Its capital stock is $1,250,000, and its head office will be located in Toronto. It will make no profits and pay no dividends. It is organized for the purpose of "promoting, maintaining, and safeguarding international amity and friendly relations between the people of the United States of America and Canada, and the British Commonwealth of nations generally, and of fostering co-operation in all matters affecting the moral, social, and economical development of the people of these countries."

ALUMNI FUND GROWS

Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, reports that the Alumni Fund made gratifying progress during the month of April. On May 1 the Fund for the current year amounted to $181,347, showing an increase from the preceding month of $19,519.

Credit for this showing is due in large part to the work done by the class representatives of the Cornellian Council, each of whom addressed personal letters to his classmates urging support of the Fund.

Secretary Flack said that President Farrand was particularly pleased with the increasing interest of the alumni in helping him solve the budgetary problems of the University. He stated further that the availability of the unrestricted funds made possible through the timely gifts of the alumni was permitting President Farrand to carry out vital projects which otherwise might be seriously impaired.

Of the quota of $400,000, which has been set for the fiscal year the alumni have already contributed 45 percent. As more than half of the alumni pledges fall due in May and June the indications are that this will be a banner year of helpfulness to Cornell.

The Friend of the People

Jean Paul Marat: a Study in Radicalism. By Louis R. Gottschalk '19, Ph.D. '21, Associate Professor of History in the University of Louisville. New York. Greenberg. 1927. 23.5 cm., pp. xvi, 221. Price, $3.

Our author begins his preface with a quotation from the late Professor Ralph Catterall: "All present lives of Marat are well nigh worthless. The biography of Marat remains to be written." One regrets, of course, that Professor Catterall did not live to execute the task which he had set himself, of writing a life of the Swiss physician-patriot; but it is a satisfaction to know that he passed the torch on to his pupil, who has now produced a work that seems to be an entirely just and impartial estimate of the work and influence of Marat. He has carefully sifted the vast literature on the subject; he knows his sources; and he is independent in his attitude and his judgments. We venture to think that this portrait of Marat will be found lifelike and will not soon be superseded.

It is a strange story, that of the humble son of a Sardinian Catholic (who later embraced his wife's faith) and a Genevan Calvinist; who, after enjoying a considerable medical practice among well-to-do Englishmen in a fashionable quarter of London, and after acquiring some reputation as a writer on scientific subjects and missing election to the French Academy, engaged in the Revolution, supporting the theory of monarchy as long as there was any chance of retaining that form of government, and swinging over to the side of democracy only with reluctance and without ever wholly trusting the plain people whose devoted Friend he professed, and with evident sincerity, to be. Gottschalk emphasizes some of the springs of action in the life of this remarkable man: the love of glory, the martyr complex, the desire to insure the people's welfare in spite of themselves, as it were, and a remarkable gift of suspicion, which, while it led him into mistakes, also enabled him to prophesy with considerable accuracy.

It is now clear why Marat was so long a loathed and detested figure, "a fiendish ogre." He was, to a considerable degree, the scapegoat of the Revolution. His friends, on the whole, did not write memoirs; his enemies did; and their picture of him has been accepted by the unthinking public, the so-called unerring public (perhaps there never was a greater myth than Securus judicat orbis terrarum). Unless the orbis terrarum includes careful scholars who will sift the facts and render impartial judgments, the world goes on viewing Cromwell and Marat as ogres and Napoleon the Great as well as Napoleon the Little as saviors of society.

Under the microscope of Gottschalk's study Marat emerges as a figure not to be admired for his greatness—he fell short of that—nor always to be trusted, for he did not always tell the truth, but at least to be regarded with some measure of gratitude for his work in assisting at the birth of democracy in France. He was not necessarily the worst or most bloodthirsty of the Revolutionists; nor did he enrich himself by the Revolution. A misguided radical who would have waded through seas of blood to a dictatorship? Yes, perhaps; and yet, since the Revolution was fated to be attempted, it would have been a pity if it had not succeeded; and Marat did much to make it succeed.

The world has seen few more comic scenes than that of the body of Mirabeau solemnly un-Pantheonized as that of Marat was borne into the great church. What a guffaw Merlin would have given, knowing that in less than six months Marat would follow his enemy to an outside burial ground!

Mrs. Georgia Cary Baker Wyckoff died at Peoria, Ill., on October 3, after an illness of two months.

She was born in Bangor, Maine, in 1867. She entered Cornell in 1888 and remained for a year, taking the optional course. She later entered the University of Chicago, and received her bachelor's degree there in 1896. In 1897 she was married to Charles Truman Wyckoff, and went with him to Peoria to begin work in the new Bradley College established at that time. Her husband is now dean of the college.

Mrs. Wyckoff was a vital force in the charitable and civic activities of Peoria. She helped found the women's Civic Federation, of which she was president for several terms. She was active in the Public Health Nursing Association, was chairman of the philanthropic committee of the Women's Association of the First Congregational Church, and at the time of her death was president of the Board of Deaconesses.

The College Women's Club and her husband have each endowed a Bradley scholarship in her memory. Women representing different interests in Peoria have contributed $1100 to establish an endowment fund in her memory in connection with the Dorcas work at the Neighborhood House settlement in Peoria.

Wilbert W. Long '24

Wilbert Walter Long died on February 20 of pneumonia, at Fort Hamilton, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

He was born in New York on December 6, 1900, the son of George and Pearl McKesson Brown. He attended the Claussens Point Military Academy for a year, then going to St. James School in Maryland. He entered Cornell in 1919, and remained a year.

Upon graduation he went with the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, but as his real interest was in motors and aviation, he enlisted in the U. S. Aviation Corps. He rose to the highest rank of non-commissioned officer. At the time of his death he was returning to France Field at Panama after a two months' furlough. He is survived by his mother.

Elizabeth M. Allis '96

Elizabeth May Allis died in Paterson, N. J., on April 23, 1927.

She was born in Prattsburg, New York on May 28, 1863, the daughter of Elizabeth and Emily Hayes Allis. She received her A. B. from Elmira College in 1886, and her A. M. from there in 1887. She entered Cornell as a graduate student in 1895, and remained a year. She also took graduate work in the University of Berlin.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

AT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA the gross receipts from football have increased from $21,067.56 in 1919 to $544,248.57 in 1926. The net income in 1926 was $191,849.65. The expense from other sports for the year is estimated at $111,236.63, leaving a net athletic profit for the year of $80,613.02.

COLUMBIA has this year a total net enrollment of 35,229 students. Of these 3,169 are undergraduates, 11,436 are enrolled in the graduate and professional schools, 10,175 are in extension courses, and 13,219 were in the summer session. These figures include 2,770 duplicates. There are also estimated to be 7,000 non-resident students in home study, 1,500 in extramural courses, and 1,100 in special courses in extension.

AT MICHIGAN a committee on undergraduate studies has recommended the establishment of a new University College to include all freshmen and sophomores under a separately organized faculty and dean. The problem which the committee has undertaken to solve is to make the first two years of college work of greater value to the student. To do this the institution must ascertain the abilities and special aptitudes of each student; distinguish as early as possible the students of various grades and types of ability and provide for each sort; provide the type of instruction best adapted to each individual; provide more adequate means of dealing with the student as an individual in his intellectual life and more adequate means for insuring his physical and mental health; provide some common knowledge of certain fields of learning for all students as an indispensable foundation; provide opportunity for a limited degree of exploration of other than the required fields of knowledge; prepare the way for later specialization; supplement previous training by additional subject matter so correlated as to produce a unified view of the general social structure. If the plan goes through, it is expected that University College will give a comprehensive examination to all students seeking transfer to other schools or colleges of the university.

THE WISCONSIN Library, with 8,200 students registered in the university, is now able to supply only one seat to every 23.5 students. The situation with reference to book storage has grown critical.

Beware the Indifference Bug It Shakes a Wicked Wing

It's been said that the biggest boob in the world is the man who tried to counterfeit Russian rubles.

This man is a mental heavyweight compared to the man or woman, the alumnus, or the member of 1912, even, who is indifferent.

Some who say good-bye to this world through the death house at Sing Sing will enter Heaven. Some will get there taken from the back seats of Rolls Royces. Some others even may get in who have made their swag by printing phony gin labels.

But the man who is indifferent—who never feels or heeds the call of friendship, who lacks the human touch—will surely be always on the south side of the pearly gates if the gates swing north.

The indifference germ is one of the deadliest bugs that can bite an alumnus. Its result is sleeping sickness of the heart, hardening of the friendship arteries, and spiritual gout.

The place where the indifference bug gets the knock-out is in Ithaca around June. Reunions are stony soil for indifference. But, man alive! what fertile soil for the hardy perennial of rejuvenation!

Beware the indifference bug!

It shakes a wicked wing—and sting!

You be the Judge

Are You Interested in Good Cross Section Papers?

We find that many are and they seem satisfied after using the Co-op quality for one order. We judge by frequent re-orders. The ink, paper and plates are made special for us. Write for a copy of the sample book which is free. The sample book shows the quality of paper used and the cross sections. Special orders are printed in lots of five hundred sheets or more.

Book of Views Only $4.00

Thousands bought at the higher price because the proceeds go to the University thru the Cornellian Council. At the lower price the balance of the edition should easily be sold. Surely you are interested in having one of them. Write the Co-op at once.

von Engeln's Concerning Cornell

Here is a book for Cornellians which shows decidedly increased sales during Reunion week because many examine it. If that is so why not buy a copy on the information of those who have read the book? Leather bound, thin paper edition $5.00. Cloth bound, regular paper edition $3.50. The price includes postage.
