Third New Platformer for Gulf...

COLUMNS BY

GRAVER®

The third of three new 26,000 b/d Platforming® units to be installed by the Gulf Oil Corporation is now on stream at Gulf's Port Arthur refinery. Built under license from the Universal Oil Products Company, this latest installation will substantially increase the high octane potential at the refinery.

The five large columns above and two separator units were shop-fabricated at Graver's East Chicago plant and erected by Procon Incorporated, the general contractor. Eighteen columns for the other two Platforming unit installations at Gulf's Philadelphia refinery were also shop-fabricated at Graver's East Chicago plant.

Large or small processing equipment for petroleum, petrochemical, chemical and nuclear energy installations are produced with dispatch and skill by Graver artisans. Graver's century of experience means quality construction.

Important basic research and development work is being conducted in such fields as advanced systems research; nucleonics; physics; chemistry; mathematics; metallurgy; design; test; electronics; aerothermodynamics; gas dynamics; structures; and astrodynamics. Programs under investigation at Lockheed include: man in space; space communications; space physics; re-entry; ionic and nuclear propulsion; cryogenics; magnetohydrodynamics; oceanography; computer development; noise suppression and damage; materials and processes; boundary layer control; electromagnetic wave propagation and radiation; and operations research and analysis.

The Division is systems manager for such major, long-term projects as the Navy Polaris FBM; Discoverer Satellite; Army Kingfisher; Air Force Q-5 and X-7 and other important research and development programs.

Headquarters for the Division are at Sunnyvale, California, on the San Francisco Peninsula, and research and development facilities are in the Stanford Industrial Park in Palo Alto and at Van Nuys in the San Fernando Valley. Facilities are new and modern and include the latest in technical equipment. A 4,000 acre Division-owned static test base in the Ben Lomond mountains near Santa Cruz provides for all phases of static field test. In addition, flight test facilities are provided at Cape Canaveral, Florida and Vandenberg AFB, Santa Maria, California.

Scientists and engineers of outstanding talent and inquiring mind are invited to join us in the nation's most interesting and challenging basic research and development programs.

When a lawyer wants advice...

George Clark handles the life insurance program of J. V. Morgan (seated at desk, above), partner in a prominent law firm in High Point, North Carolina.

It's not surprising, therefore, that Mr. Morgan conferred with him on the effect that pending federal legislation would have on the integration of insurance with his personal estate. (This legislation would allow a self-employed individual a tax deduction on funds used to set up his personal retirement plan.)

The ability to provide well-informed service on a continuing basis is characteristic of the New England Life agent. And he is closely supported by his general agency and home office with informative reports and expert assistance in various technical areas.

If a career like George Clark's appeals to you, investigate the opportunities with New England Life. You get a regular income from the start. You can work anywhere in the U. S. A. Your future is full of substantial rewards.

Contemporary Arts Festival:

A Stimulating University Experience

A CURIOUS FEATURE of the University's Thirteenth Festival of Contemporary Arts, April 9-25, was that although it seemed to stress avant garde art more heavily than ever before, this Festival nevertheless revolved to a considerable extent around a literary figure who can hardly be considered "contemporary." This literary figure is James Joyce, author of such modern classics as Finnegan's Wake, Ulysses, and Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man. The Festival this year called attention to the University's new and prized collection of Joyce's manuscripts, personal correspondence, and private papers. Given to the University two years ago by William G. Menen '08, with additional material donated by Trustee Victor Emanuel '19 and C. Waller Barrett, president of the Grolier Club, it is the most comprehensive collection on Joyce in existence.

Close Friend Speaks on Joyce

Particularly noteworthy was a Festival lecture by eighty-year-old J. F. Byrne of Brooklyn, a close friend of Joyce's while the two were students at University College in Dublin. Speaking before a capacity audience in Barnes Hall on "School Days with Joyce," Byrne recalled many incidents in which he and the author were involved. He also discussed at some length Joyce's autobiographical Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, in which Byrne is the character "Cranly." At the lecture, Wayne P. Olson '62, tenor, illustrated how Byrnes and Joyce sang together as students more than sixty years ago. Piano accompanist was Joy Wells '60.

Other lectures on the famous Irish author were given by two of the country's leading Joyce scholars: Professor Harry Levin of Harvard, who spoke on "Joyce Revisited," and Professor Richard Ellmann of Northwestern, who discussed "Major Themes in Joyce." A lecture by Professor Graham Hough of Cambridge University, who is visiting professor of English here, entitled "Death of an Avant Garde," dealt with Joyce and the literary scene of the 1920's.

The most impressive tribute to Joyce, however, was not at the speaker's rostrum but in glass cases in the lobby of the University Library. Here were displayed parts of the Cornell Joyce Collection: author's manuscripts of Dubliners, Ulysses, and Chamber Music (Joyce's first book), signed contracts, photographs, corrected galley proofs, notebooks, letters from Joyce to his family and friends, and letters to Joyce from such literary figures as Yeats, Ezra Pound, and Lady Gregory. The exhibit was one of the most well received events of the Festival.

Poet Reads Own Works

A featured speaker at this year's Festival was John Crowe Ransom, leading American poet and critic, who read and discussed his poetry before a large audience in Alice Statler Auditorium. Among the poems read by Ransom were "A Dead Boy" and "Bell for John Whiteside's Daughter," in which the poet views death as the most urgent of domestic crises; "Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son," a poem which attempts to recapture the experience of childhood; and "Of Two Worthies," which Ransom described as nonsense poetry and "a poet's doodlings." The Festival also featured readings of original poetry by undergraduates and by Professor William R. Dickey, English. Last November, Professor Dickey was awarded the Yale Younger Poets' Prize, and last month a volume of his verse entitled Of the Festivity was published by Yale University Press in recognition of the award.

Exhibitions of paintings and drawings were all over the Campus. Students in the Department of Art displayed their paintings in the Memorial Room of Willard Straight Hall and prints and drawings in the Franklin Hall gallery. Willard Straight also had a showing of paintings from the Yale School of Art & Architecture, while Housing & Design students in the College of Home Economics exhibited their work in the Martha Van Rensselaer Hall gallery. Five exhibitions of work in various media were hung in the White Art Museum, and it was here that the avant garde character of the

"Literary" Visitor—Readers in the University Library have not often come face-to-face with an important character in a major English novel. This happened when eighty-year-old J. F. Byrne (left) came to see items from the prized Joyce Collection, on display in the Library during the Festival of Contemporary Arts. Byrne, a close friend of Joyce's during their university days together in Dublin, was the character "Cranly" in Joyce's autobiographical Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man. The Library showed leaves from the manuscript of the novel in which Byrne appeared, the notebook in which Joyce sketched his character, and a picture of him taken with Joyce almost sixty years ago. With Byrne is Professor George H. Healey, PhD '47, English & Curator of Rare Books. Photo Science

Festival was most noticeable. The major display was of paintings by six young abstract artists of what is known as the New York School. The work of these artists all has certain characteristics, such as complete avoidance of recognizable objects or symbols in their work, preference for large canvases (one painting stood about ten feet tall and measured nearly twenty feet across), and a style that often looked as if the paint had been thrown against the canvas. The object of this seemingly casual style is to involve the viewer in the paintings through the use of space and bright colors. The six painters were Elaine de Kooning, Friedel Dzubas, Helen Frankenthaler, Michael Goldberg, Joan Mitchel, and Al Leslie.

The work of nine older painters who have had great influence upon the aforementioned six artists was also exhibited under the title, "The Emergence of the New Image: 1943-49." Their examples seemed surer, more thoughtful and deliberate than that of the younger painters. There was far less tendency to shock simply for the sake of shocking. Included in this exhibit were paintings of such well known modern artists as Jackson Pollock, Hans Hofmann, Wilhelm de Kooning, and Robert Motherwell. Far more conservative than the compositions of either the younger or older group of painters were the works of members of the Faculty, although here, too, realism had largely given over to emphasis on abstract design. This exhibit featured works by Professors John A. Hartell '24, Allen C. Atwell '47, Norman Daly, Kenneth Evett, Joseph M. Hanson, James O. Mahoney, Peter Kahn, Victor E. Colby, MFA '50, and Jack Squier, MFA '52, of the Art Department; Professors Clara Straight and Sara Neblett, Housing & Design; and Charles A. Ginnever, Alfred J. Pounders, and Leonard R. Wallace, graduate assistants in Art. Sculpture by Louise Bourgeois and photographs by Aaron Siskind, Van Keren Cooke, and Paul Caponigro were also on display at the Museum.

Students Present Operas

Two modern one-act operas, a concert of contemporary chamber music, a recital by a British violinist, and a performance of student compositions were musical highlights of the Festival. The operas, which were presented twice before capacity audiences in Barnes Hall, were Seymour Barab's comic "A Game of Chance" and Ralph Vaughan Williams's "Riders to the Sea," based on J. N. Synge's famous Irish tragedy. All of the leads in the operas were voice students of Professor D. Keith Falkner, Music, who also served as musical adviser for the productions. Particularly outstanding in altogether noteworthy casts were Eleanor S. Applewhaite '59, Alice Bernstein '60, and Alfred Pretty-man, Grad. Leo E. Kreter produced both operas and conducted "Riders to the Sea," while R. Scott Stringham conducted "A Game of Chance." Both men are graduate assistants in Music.

Feature Works by Music Faculty

Members of the Music Faculty joined with undergraduate and graduate students to present two concerts of contemporary chamber music. Featured were "Sonata for Violin and Piano" by Professor Robert Palmer, Music, and "Evocations of Slovakia" by Professor Karel Husa, Music. Yfrah Neaman, principal professor of violin at the Guildhall School of Music in London, England, gave a recital of contemporary music in Barnes Hall. His program included compositions by Bernd Alois Zimmerman, Richard Bennett, and Roger Sessions. The works of five students of Professor Palmer comprised a program of student compositions in Barnes Hall. Represented were Marvin Salzberg, Harry G. Trythall, John E. Watts, and Wilmer H. Welsh, all candidates for the Doctor of Musical Arts, and R. Bruce Archibald '55, who is now a graduate student in music at Harvard.

Peter Blake, New York City architect and an editor of Architectural Forum, lectured on "Modern Architecture in Disneyland." Later, he joined Professors H. Peter Kahn, Art, and John Q. Hejduk, Architecture, in a panel discussion entitled "Menace or Problem: The Contemporary Art Periodical." Blake was visiting critic in the College of Architecture this spring. Another interesting lecturer was Donald Oenslager, well-known Broadway scene designer who recently won the Antoinette Perry Award for his set for the play "Majority of One." He spoke on "Scene Design Today."

Dramatic Club Scores Success

One of the most talked about events in this year's Festival was the Dramatic Club's presentation of Dylan Thomas's poetic dramatization of life in a small Welsh village, "Under Milk Wood," in the Willard Straight Theater, April 16-19. It was, in the opinion of many, the finest thing the Club has done in recent years. It was certainly one of the most difficult, requiring all of the actors to play three or four roles and to jump in and out of characterizations. Frederick M. Congdon, graduate assistant in Speech & Drama, transformed what was originally written as a radio drama into a cogent, moving vehicle for the stage. The members of the cast handled themselves like professionals; particularly Gene A. Wright, Grad, and Richard G. Farina '59 as the two narrators, and David W. Seidler '59 as Captain Cat. Original music and musical direction was by Marvin Salzberg, Grad, and a simple but effective set was designed by Leonard R. Wallace, Grad.

The community saw one of the leading figures of modern dance in the presentation by Erick Hawkins of "Here and Now With Watchers" in the Alice Statler Auditorium. This dance has drawn numerous enthusiastic critical reviews. Those who saw the performance here can understand why, for the work is imaginative, fresh, and tremendously compelling. The choreography can best be described as a continuous (there were no intermissions in the hour-and-a-half-long program) exploration into the almost endless varieties of movement of which the human body is capable. It was pure movement that Hawkins presented, unhampered by symbolism or meaning and performed solely for its own sake. There were eight dances, performed either solo or in duet by Hawkins and his partner, Barbara Tucker. The accompanying music of Lucia Dlugozewski was interesting in its own right and achieved an organic unity with the dancers. It was, however, somewhat startling, even for Ithacans who have, over the years, heard many forms of experimental music. Miss Dlugozewski made extraordinary use of the piano, plucking the strings like a guitar, hitting them with percussion instruments, and even making sharp raps on the frame, along with conventional use of the keyboard. The result was far more effective than it sounds here.

Indian Film Ends Festival

The Festival ended on a note of high artistic endeavor with the presentation of the prize-winning Indian film, "Pather Panchali," in the Willard Straight Theater, April 23-25. This picture, detailing the everyday life of an Indian family, has won major awards at five international film festivals and has been called by the Museum of Modern Art in New York City "the first great work of cinema art from India." It was a fitting climax to what was certainly the most successful and stimulating Festival in recent years.

Chairman of the committee that arranged the Festival was Professor Henry Elder, Architecture. For the first time, the twenty-three member group had undergraduate representation on it. It also included members of the White Art Museum staff, the Faculty committee on music, University Radio Station WHCU, and the University News Bureau. Professor Robert M. Adams, English, was in charge of a subcommittee on lectures and performances; Professor Alan R. Solomon, director of the White Art Museum, was chairman of exhibitions; and Professor Kahn led a group on publicity and printing and designed a number of attractive posters and a program for the Festival.

Part 2—Of Student Recreation

THERE WAS LITTLE of what is euphemistically called "organized vice" in Ithaca a half-century ago, although the memory of a more robust and freer day still survived. The probably fictional tale is told of two young attorneys who came to Ithaca and formed a partnership here. They engaged assiduously in what is now termed "establishing contacts." They joined the fashionable church and went to some length to meet the best people. In those days it was customary for the solid citizens, after dozing away the immediate effects of the surfeiting Sunday dinner, to load the wife and offspring into a surrey and to drive around what was known as the Five-mile Drive. This went out Humbolt Street, west of the Lehigh tracks, circled around and, passing below Buttermilk Falls, re-entered the city by South Cayuga Street. Some of the younger bloods also followed this route, driving a single-seated road wagon behind a spanking grey or black or sorrel. This practice often led to rivalries of speed that were strongly, but perhaps enviously, disapproved by their elders because they involved some hazard to life and limb and, even worse, to property. Bicycling was, however, accepted even if not strongly endorsed.

On one spring Sunday, the two young professional men had 'cycled around most of the circuit. The day was warm and the gentlemen were all in a glow; in fact, they were perspiring, if one may use the word. As they approached the city limits, they saw a house by the roadside. There were rocking chairs on the shaded porch, but the house showed no sign of present occupancy. So they dismounted, leaned their mechanical steeds against the railing, removed their blue blazers, and sat rocking gently and fanning themselves with their straw boaters. The equipment of a leader of society approached. The young gentlemen nodded and spoke, but the occupants of the carriage passed with averted eyes and elevated noses. Made thus sharply aware of the gaucherie of their informal attire, the gentlemen donned their coats. Another party approached. Again they nodded and spoke, and again the party passed with disdainful unrecognition. Then the gentlemen suspected that their salutations had not even been observed. As a third party came nigh, they rose, removed their straw hats, bowed and spoke. Again the same lack of response. Puzzled and hurt, the young men pedaled back to Ithaca. Only later did they discover that they had been seated on the porch of what was referred to in whispers by the good ladies of the community as "that awful place."

Almost every graduate of years gone by will, if given the opportunity, remark, "The students walked more in my day." The implication is that students then were more energetic or more virtuous. This is hardly justifiable. Students walked more because they lacked means for going places fast sitting down. They walked in the country on pleasant spring and fall Sundays because there wasn't much else to do. They walked down the Hill, and usually up the Hill, to save money.

Local transportation was by trolley cars. The trolley loop was about the same as that followed by busses today, except that it traversed Eddy Street from State Street and up to the bridge over Cascadilla Creek. Open cars with transverse seats were used in summer. Even in good weather, the cars labored and groaned on the hills; despite the ministrations of men with brooms dipped in grease, the wheels shrieked loudly on the sharper curves. In winter, the wheels spun on the icy tracks; with loud complaint and frequent halts and with the help of sand dropped on the tracks from a box below the floor, the cars usually managed to get up State Street, except in unusually bad weather. The last car up the Hill at night was the "Owl Car" or "Jag Car," which left the Ithaca Hotel, according to my recollection, at 12:30 a.m. This car was jammed beyond capacity by late celebrants; carefree youths adhered to the outside like oysters to a mangrove root. As soon as the car started up State Street hill, some young man with a keen sense of humor would pull the trolley from the wire. With muttered imprecations, the motorman would open the door, walk around to the rear, and try to reseat the trolley wheel. In his attempts, he had the enthusiastic applause and friendly advice and constructive criticism of his passengers. Blue sparks would fly and blue flames flash, until finally the wheel would find its rightful place. The motorman would re-enter, close the door and resume his stance; the motor would groan and the wheels grind; the car would start, only to have the jest repeated. Another favorite bit of undergraduate humor was to grease the tracks on the hills. I cannot remember that I ever knew an elderly motorman!

Fewer Sports Available

Recreation was somewhat more limited then than now. In addition to the varsity athletic events, there were some intramural sports, on a less well-organized basis and with less adequate facilities than in later years. A good many students played tennis. They didn't play golf because no golf course was open to them and because golf was considered to be for older and more well-to-do men.

Last Car Up the Hill

Bowling had not yet quite attained respectability. There was a toboggan slide on Beebe Lake; in suitable season, tobogganing was very popular. In many years, there was not enough ice to ice the slide. The rise and fall of water in the lake shattered the ice and piled it in uneven masses. There were several rather serious accidents. For these and perhaps other reasons, tobogganing fell from favor; the slide lapsed into disrepair and was finally removed. There was skating on Beebe Lake. Skiing was not yet popular. Occasionally, the streets crossing Seneca Street were roped off on winter evenings and the street was opened to coasting from Eddy Street to beyond Aurora Street. When there was sufficient snow, bobsled parties were organized.

Broadway Tryouts Here

The dramatic arts supplied their share of entertainment and diversion. In those days, Ithaca was a favorite city in which to try out plays before they were put on stage in New York. Also, many of the plays on tour came here. Cornell and Ithaca audiences had opportunity to see almost all of the famous actors and actresses and almost all of the Broadway hits. The legitimate theater was the Lyceum, on South Cayuga Street. Many students sat in the gallery. This was far above the stage and very steep; the seats were hard and narrow, sloping and closely spaced, but they were so inexpensive that a young man could, by being very conservative in his expenditures for such luxuries as food, bring them into his financial range.

The principal owner of the Ithaca trolley system possessed a private street-car with mahogany trim and neatly curtained windows of red glass. On theater nights, the car would rumble grandly down the Hill, disgorge its cargo of ladies and gentlemen resplendent in evening dress, and depart, to reappear when the performance was ended. If the final curtain was somewhat delayed, the car waited on the track. Of course this interfered with the scheduled operation of the trolley system, but the schedules were not very rigid even under normal circumstances. In later years, the special car was relegated to the regular run down Tioga Street to Stewart Park.

Amateur theatricals were endemic at Cornell, as at all universities. There was then the Cornell Dramatic Club, The Masque, and the Savage Club. The latter was then, as now, composed both of townspeople and of University people of varied talents. There were also occasional spontaneous outbreaks of dramatic fever among the normally immune.

On one occasion, a group of graduate students produced a play. I do not now remember its title or the details of its plot, but I recall that there was a beautiful heroine, a dastardly villain, and a noble hero, and that at the end of the play the hero saved the heroine from a fate worse than death by shooting the villain in a sensitive but not necessarily vital spot with a very shiny revolver loaded with blank cartridges. As the final curtain fell, the villain sank to the ground moaning, "My God! I'm shot!"

The premiere went without untoward incident. The polite applause was mistaken for a popular demand for repetition. About a week later, the performance was repeated. The action proceeded smoothly to the climax. Then again the hero fired and again the villain fell, moaning, "My God! I'm shot!" This time, however, he rose immediately, grasped his right hip, and cried in consternation, "My God! I AM shot!" It was later discovered that some low person had placed a few crystals of salt in front of the powder charge of the cartridge. The play was not given again.

Harvard Law Students

FIFTY-ONE CORNELLIANs at Harvard Law School this year comprise the fifth-largest delegation of the 300 colleges and universities represented. Harvard is first; Yale, second; Princeton, third; and Pennsylvania is fourth.

This information comes to the NEWS from W. Fletcher Hock, Jr., '53 Class correspondent, who will shortly receive the Harvard LLB.

Cornell Fund Shoots for $1,000,000 New Plan Increases Alumni Support

THIS YEAR's new plan of broadening the Cornell Fund is bringing more gifts to the University and more alumni workers than ever before since campaigns for unrestricted gifts were started fifty-one years ago. It is apparent, from the record, that Cornellians welcome the opportunity to designate their annual gifts for particular uses. The Cornell Fund now includes, besides the regular alumni annual giving, gifts for Cornell Plantations, CURW, the Law School Fund, Library Associates, Medical College Fund, Museum Associates, and the Parents Fund. Gifts for all these purposes are credited to the donor's Class, beginning this year.

The goal for the 1958-59 Cornell Fund that closes June 15 is $1,065,000 from 20,000 contributors. To April 27, with seven weeks to go, $566,756 had been received from 12,549 contributors: 48.5 per cent and 63 per cent of the respective goals for the year. The Class totals for the first ten months are on the next page.

More than 2000 men and women are working on Class committees, soliciting their Classmates, and more are being recruited. Norman R. Steinmetz '26, chairman of the Cornell Fund for the second year, has stated, "I am most pleased with the manner in which this year's committees are undertaking their task. From conversations with various Class representatives, I believe that during the month of May the Cornell story will be carried personally to more than 10,000 alumni. We all commend these faithful workers for their splendid efforts."

William R. Robertson '34, chairman for alumni annual giving, says, "Committee strength this year is outstanding. We expect to have 2500 workers before the end of the campaign. For example, Peter Paul Miller, Jr., Class representative for 1944, already has a committee of 111 men and Howard David '53 is a close second with 93. The women are doing a good job, too, in building up their committees. Leading are Mrs. Nancy Webb Truscott '53 with fifty-eight committee members and Mrs. Kay Rogers Randall, Jr. '43 with fifty. The conscientious work of the Cornell Fund solicitors is producing lasting and valuable effects. As a result of their work, an increasing number of alumni are developing the habit of giving annual support to Cornell in accordance with their means."

Work for Reunion Goal

Richard K. Kaufmann '22, chairman for the ten men's Reunion Classes that have special campaigns this year, reports $128,244 in gifts and pledges toward a $290,000 Reunion goal. He notes that this year's goal is swelled by the fact that the Class of 1919, under direction of Class Representative Lawrence S. Waterbury, has elected to shoot for $100,000. To date, the Class of '19 has $34,160 in gifts and pledges.

Chairman of the committees which solicit "leadership gifts" of larger amounts is William L. Lewis '22. These larger gifts, credited to the donors' Classes, are secured by regional committees working in seventy cities across the country. As of April 20, these gifts amounted to $355,262 from 2674 contributors, 66 per cent of the total given to that date.

The tabulation shows Waterbury's Forty-year Reunion Class of '19 far in the lead in amount given, with $28,780 to April 27. Next comes '00, John T. McGovern, Class representative, with $19,029. Class of '32, led by Milton C. Smith, is third with $16,946.

Among the women, the Class of '29, headed by Charlotte Gristede, leads with $2079; Marjorie MacBain's Class of '27 is next with $1811; and the Class of '47, led by Mrs. Melba Levine Silver, is third with $1661.

Younger Classes Doing Well

One men's Class has already exceeded its quota in amount collected, '53 led by Howard David, with 116 per cent. The Class of '39, headed by Alfred F. Dugan, is close behind with nearly 91 per cent; and '32, headed by Milton C. Smith, has 82 per cent. In number of contributors, the '56 men, with Joe R. Woods as Class representative, have made 90 per cent of their goal for the year; '57, headed by Thomas W. Itin, has 88 per cent; and Newton C. Farr's Class of '09 is third with more than 85 per cent.

Women of the Class of '12, led by Mrs. Annie Bullivant Pfeiffer, have given 111 per cent of their goal. Second are the '45 women, Mrs. Jane Hanse Bishop, Class representative, with nearly 99 per cent; and third, Miss Gristede's '29 women with nearly 96 per cent of the amount aimed for.

Two women's Classes have exceeded their goals for contributors and another is close to it. '49, led by Mrs. Martha Coler Risch, is highest with nearly 133 per cent; Mrs. Silver's Class of '47 is next with nearly 125 per cent; and '13 women, led by Mrs. Ethel Vernon Patterson, have exceeded 97 per cent.

Announce 1959-60 Concerts

FACULTY COMMITTEE on music has announced the schedule of University concerts by visiting professional groups for next season.

The Bailey Hall series will open October 9 with the production, in English, of Verdi's "Rigoletto" by the Goldovsky Opera Theater. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, conducted by William Steinberg, will give a concert November 13. Rudolf Serkin, one of the world's leading pianists, will present a recital December 1. Andres Segovia, considered by many to be the greatest classical guitarist of the present day, will be heard in a solo recital January 12. February 12, the Cleveland Orchestra, under direction of George Szell, returns to Ithaca for the twenty-eighth time. Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, soprano, will close the series March 1.

Three string quartets and an ensemble of vocalists and instrumentalists will make up next year's chamber music series. The concerts will again be in Alice Statler Auditorium. The opening concert will be October 27 by the New York Pro Musica, a group of ten vocalists and instrumentalists under direction of Noah Greenberg. The Smetana Quartet, a string quartet from Prague, Czechoslovakia, making its second American tour in the last three years, will play here December 8. February 23, the Amadeus Quartet of London, England, will perform. The final concert will be given March 8 by the Julliard String Quartet, called one of America's finest chamber music groups.

Spring Sports in Full Swing

SPRING SPORTS have been favored with unusually conducive weather. Temperatures have been friendly and there has been less than the usual amount of rain. Schoellkopf track and Hoy Field have never been in better condition. The same may be said for Upper and Lower Alumni Fields, the tennis courts, and the golf course. Cayuga Lake has been cooperative with rowing plans, too.

Not all factors are so pleasant, however. The track team has been plagued with injuries to key personnel and the good lacrosse team has been bothered by injuries and illnesses. Lacrosse has been able to overcome these handicaps, but the track team's success will be sparser than at any time since Coach Louis Montgomery took over in 1950. Coach R. Harrison Sanford is having his problems with personnel, but he has a reservoir of glory to call upon. As someone remarked after the Goes Trophy Regatta, "The Yankees are in seventh place too, but no one in his right mind will bet against their winning the pennant."

Baseball Team Breaks Even

April 22 and April 24, local baseball fans were sure the Big Red was bigger than it had been in many years. It beat a reputedly good Syracuse team on the 22d, 6-3, and walloped a surprising Columbia team, 11-3, on the 24th. Columbia had won seven of eight games and had compiled the longest winning streak (7) it has had in any sport in a long time. The Red looked mighty accomplished in winning those two games. It got nine hits off Syracuse and fourteen against Columbia. So it was a rude shock that it was the lack of hitting strength which lost games to Princeton, 3-0, April 25, and to Navy, 4-1, May 1. All of these games took place on Hoy Field.

May 2, Cornell won the next one over Yale, 3-2, but it was a hard, tortuous route. It was a sixteen-inning game and lasted three hours and forty-eight minutes, probably the longest game ever to be played on Hoy Field.

Coach George Patte got a lot of mileage out of an alternated pitching staff. H. Laurence Fuller '60 of Park Forest, Ill., and Joel S. Birnbaum '59 of Roslyn Heights have been the staff except for John P. (Jake) Williams '59 of East Rockaway, second baseman and team captain, who has turned out to be one of the hardest working moundsmen. He was called in to finish off the tasks in the Navy and Yale games and started but did not finish the Princeton game. He pitched eight and one-third innings against the Tigers and did a fine job, giving up only two hits. He relieved Birnbaum in the third and went the rest of the way against Navy, giving up five hits and no runs, and he pitched four and one-third innings against Yale and allowed no hits and no runs in this baseballathon.

Bombard Columbia

The Columbia game was a glittering delight to the small, hard core of Ithaca baseball fans who turned out for this Friday afternoon performance after classes. Some of the heftiest clouting ever seen on the local field took place by this underrated Cornell team. Sophomore First Baseman and basketball star Ronald S. Ivkovich of McKeesport, Pa., hit two home runs over the right field fence, the only man ever to hit two over in one game, in fact the only player ever to hit two over, and one of only nineteen who have ever hit one over.

Another Sophomore, Robert L. Reed of Middletown, Ohio, cleared the fence. He also hit a triple, as did Shortstop Timothy H. Keliher '60 of Williamsport, Pa. Captain Williams, Third Baseman Michael H. Kaufman '60 of East Rockaway, and Outfielder Bruce H. Campbell '61 of Jackson, Mich. hit doubles. Pitcher Birnbaum had a big day. He went all the way on the mound, although he was touched for eight hits, and got his first hit in three years of varsity baseball.

Maybe this was too much for the spirited baseballers and, as a constant observer remarked the next day at the Princeton game, "Too bad about that Columbia thing. They are all hitting for the fences now and can't get a big enough piece of the ball to get it to the pitcher." It is true that Princeton hurler Herm Belz had little trouble with the Cornell batters. He held them to four hits, three singles by Keliher, Williams and Catcher Lyman M. Beggs '61 of Newton, Mass., and a double by Outfielder Robert L. Reed '61 of Middletown, Ohio. Princeton got seven hits off Williams and Fuller.

Navy Sinks Big Red

Navy took advantage of some sloppy infield play and three walks by Birnbaum to pick up two hits and four runs in the first inning. That was all they could get, but that was all they needed for the Red could only manage one run, in the eighth. It was not Beggs's fault. He hit three for four, one of which was a tremendous triple to deep center.

The spirit of the Big Red was shown in the Yale game when it kept fighting right through the long afternoon and finally won out. It fought from behind to tie in the eighth and in the twelfth before the winning run came with two out in the sixteenth. Mike Kaufman crossed the plate as Outfielder Leigh W. Schmalz '61 of Short Hills, N. J. beat out the short-stop's throw to first base. Both teams got eight hits. Good pitching from Fuller and Williams were important factors. It was not until the eighth inning that Cornell got its first hit off starting pitcher Stuart Beattie, and that was a single by Williams. That started Cornell off on its first run. Bob Reed singled to center and Jake got to third. Shortstop Molumphy's throw to first was low and wide on Mike Kaufman's grounder and Jake scored. So it was eight innings later to the denouement. ### Freshmen Lose Slugfest

Freshman baseball team lost its first one to Oswego State Teachers May 2 on Lower Alumni Field, 17-13. Oswego scored 11 runs in the last three innings to pull it out. Wins were over Syracuse at Syracuse April 22, 11-2, and Cortland

State Teachers April 25, 6-3, at Cortland.

Lacrosse Team Does Well

A let-down against an unusually strong Penn State team taught the Varsity lacrossers a lesson and they then took three strong teams in succession over a period of eight days. State rallied to win 10-6 on Lower Alumni Field April 22. Dartmouth was beaten at Hanover April 25, 7-5, and the same score was registered in defeating Colgate on Lower Alumni April 29 and in beating Yale at New Haven May 2.

Coach Ross H. Smith has had problems with injuries and sickness this year, but it was a sick man who was largely responsible for the Yale victory. Captain Bruce W. Pfann '59 of Ithaca had been suffering with a virus but he did not permit this to bother him against the Eli's. He started off the game by getting the ball on the face-off and going lickety-split right through the Yale defense to score. He made three goals and was a bulwark from his midfield position.

The Dartmouth game started out to be a rough one, but the visitors from Ithaca showed they were not going to wilt under the "treatment." They came from behind after the half to go from 3-4, to 6-5 in the third period and added one more in the fourth.

Colgate made it rough on the Big Red gladiators for a while too, but four beautiful goals in the third period brought it from a 3-5 deficit to 7-5, the right way. Cornell played possession ball the last period.

The Red played possession ball in the last period against Yale, too, but still managed to dominate the action. David L. Dresser '60 of Baltimore, Md., who has been the scoring star in most of the games, had an off day against Yale. He was high for Cornell in the Penn State game with three, in the Dartmouth game with four, and in the Colgate game with three. He did not score against Yale. Besides Pfann's three, Stuart M. Pindell '60 of Harrisburg, Pa., George W. Bogar '59 of Carlisle, Pa., Daniel L. Bidwell '60 of Horseheads, and Clifton V. Edwards '61 of Montclair, N.J., each made one. The summaries:

Saves: Parsons 13, Eaton 1, Ellis 18.

Freshman lacrossers had their comeuppance at the hands of Penn State, too, April 22, and by a 4-17 figure for the record book. They got back on the winning side April 25 by knocking off Syracuse, 5-4, on Upper Alumni Field. Vann K. Jones of Flushing, who was high in Penn State game with three goals, scored the winning goal in overtime. Russell R. Zelko of Bethlehem, Pa. and David W. Clayton of Patchogue were other key figures. Colgate restored their humility, April 29, on Upper Alumni by winning 7-6. James N. Davidson of Towson, Md., was high for Cornell with three scores. May 1 the Freshmen defeated Hobart at Geneva, 8-2.

Lose to Syracuse in Rowing

Rowing opened for the heavy crew with the Goes Trophy regatta on Cayuga Lake May 2. Honors were divided among the official competitors for the cup, Syracuse, Navy, and Cornell, but perhaps not the way one would have chosen the split. Cornell won the freshman race, Navy the junior varsity and Syracuse the varsity. Rutgers, an invited guest, was fourth in all the races. All races were at two miles. The Regatta summaries:

Varsity—1, Syracuse, 10:10.4; 2, Cornell, 10:19; 3, Navy, 10:23; 4, Rutgers, 10:47.

Junior Varsity—1, Navy, 10:21.6; 2, Cornell, 10:22.4; 3, Syracuse, 10:41; 4, Rutgers, 11:08.

Freshmen—1, Cornell, 10:24; 2, Navy, 10:36; 3, Syracuse, 10:42; 4, Rutgers, 10:50.

It was a calm lake they rowed on and it was a powerful Syracuse crew which took the big prize. "Best I've seen Syracuse have since I came to Cornell," remarked Coach R. Harrison Sanford. It was Stork's old assistant, Loren Schoel, who has rejuvenated rowing at Syracuse. The victory was the Orange's first on Cayuga Lake since 1937 and its fifth ever.

Syracuse, in winning the varsity race over second-place Cornell, repeated its victory of last year at Annapolis, but then it was by an eyelash, one second's time differential. This time it was two and one-quarter lengths and in the respectable time of 10:10.4. Syracuse led all the way except during the first 300 yards when Navy took a slight lead. The Orange led at the half-mile mark by a half-length and Cornell was a close third. Cornell picked up but Syracuse pulled gradually away and Navy held grimly on to second place by a small margin at the mile mark. Cornell raised the stroke to thirty-two and caught Navy with three-quarters of a mile to go but Syracuse was out ahead by two lengths. Cornell was at thirty most of the way, the Orange at a steady thirty-two. Navy was at thirty-three and thirty-four. At the finish, Cornell was behind the winner by 2¼ lengths, ahead of Navy by a length, and Navy had about five lengths on Rutgers.

The Cornell Jayvees almost caught Navy in the final yards of their race. The Middies had taken an early lead and built it up to a length with 1000 yards to go. Navy was at a high beat. It started at thirty-two and thirty-three and went to forty when Cornell challenged. It was barely able to hold it as the Big Red, at thirty-two, kept climbing on the eventual winners but failed by six feet.

Freshmen Win Easily

It started out to be a gay afternoon as the Big Red Freshman boat just eased away from its rivals right from the start and won by over three lengths. The time was only one and six-tenths seconds, slower than the Junior Varsity and five seconds slower than the Varsity. It was an extremely smooth and powerful performance by Coach Carl Ullrich's 1959 crew.

A second freshman race and a third varsity race, both with Syracuse, were additional and unofficial competitions and both were won by Cornell.

The 150-pound crew lost to Princeton in the varsity and won the junior varsity and freshman races over a one and five-sixteenths of a mile course on Cayuga Inlet April 25. Princeton's first boat led all the way and was ahead by a length at the finish. The time was 6:27.3. The 150's beat Detroit Boat Club May 2 by a length on Cayuga Lake over the Henley distance.

Injuries Plague Track Team

The track team is having its troubles. Co-captain Charles H. Hill '59 of Jarrington, Pa., ran a sparkling 4:13.3 mile, April 18, to break the Cornell record for a winning mile set by John Paul Jones '13. Then Hill strained a tendon and was unable to run in the Harvard-Penn-Cornell triangular meet, May 2. Co-captain and sprinter Harvey Weissbard '59 of Maplewood, N.J. has been nursing a pulled muscle. Theodore W. Voigt '60 of Staten Island, a pretty good half-miler, fell and injured his knee. Outstanding middle distance Sophomore Peter W. Brandeis of New Rochelle broke his foot prior to the triangular meet; nevertheless ran 1:54.5 in the 880 and collapsed in pain at the finish of that race in which he placed third. It was his best time ever.

Sophomore vaulter John S. Murray of Ames, Iowa has been holding up the prestige of this usually successful team with his fine performances. He became the first Cornellian ever to top fourteen feet in placing third at the Penn Relays at Philadelphia April 25. He broke the Cornell record of thirteen feet, ten and one-quarter inches, held so long by Everett L. Collyer '31 who set the record in 1931, by clearing 14 and barely missing 14 feet 4 on his next try.

In the triangular meet against Harvard and Penn at Cambridge May 2, he made thirteen feet seven and one-quarter and was Cornell's only winner. The Big Red had the unique and distasteful experience of finishing third in this three-way meet. Harvard won with 86½ points, Penn was second with 58½, and the Red team had a paltry 28 points.

Nathaniel J. Cravener '59 of Schenectady, did well in the Penn Relays by running 9:22.2 in the two-mile and placing third. He pushed Harvard's Dyke Benjamin to a fine 9:13.0 in the triangular meet as he took second.

Varsity golf lost to Colgate at Hamilton, 6-3, April 22 and won over Bucknell, 5-4, April 25 on the University course and over St. Lawrence, 6-1, on the University course, May 2.

Freshman golfers likewise lost to Colgate, April 24, by an 8-1 margin. Warner B. Berry of Jacksonville, son of the late Romeyn Berry '04, was the only winner.

Netmen Show Strength

Two tennis league victories over Columbia, April 24, and Army, May 2, made Cornell 4-1 for the year, having beaten Penn State and Colgate earlier and lost to Yale. Columbia was a 5-2 victim with a doubles match called off by darkness. Army was beaten 8-1, May 2. Both were on the Cascadilla Courts. Donald Rubell '61, at No. 1, took Lloyd Moglen 8-6, 6-0. Captain P. Kay Champion '59 was at No. 1 in the Army match and defeated Henry Fisher, 6-0, 6-1.

Colgate freshmen defeated Cornell's tennis Freshmen, 6-3, on the Cascadilla Courts April 25. John S. Custer, Jr., No. 1 Red player, won his match.

Other Sports

Robert M. Einaudi '60, son of Professor Mario Einaudi, Government, and grandson of the former president of Italy, ran in the Boston Marathon April 21. The twenty-year-old Architectural student and member of the track and cross country squads finished the twenty-six-mile race in 80th place. There were 190 starters and 125 finishers. Winner was Eino Oksanen of Finland. Two hours after the race Einaudi hopped a bus for Syracuse, waited five hours in a Syracuse bus station to catch a seven a.m. bus to Ithaca, made his nine o'clock class in History of Architecture and was at track practice that afternoon.

Ronald P. Maierhofer '60, Cornell's top soccer scorer and all-Ivy and all-East outside left, was named to the United States Olympic soccer team after a series of tryouts. He will take part in the Pan-American Games in Chicago, Ill., from August 25-September 11, and will play with the squad for six weeks prior to the Olympic Games in Rome next summer. He is from Buffalo and prepared at Park School in that city.

The National Collegiate champion Cornell polo team had to go all out to beat a Fairfield, Conn., team April 25 at the Riding Hall. Score was 15-12 and it was an alumnus, Fred G. Palmer '51, who scored eight goals and gave the champions most trouble. It was the last game of the year for the Cornell team.

April 24 and 25, the Cornell sailing team took third in the Middle Atlantic championships at Kings Point. Kings Point won and Columbia was second. There were eleven teams entered. May 2-3 at Annapolis, the Cornell sailors did not qualify in the Owen Cup competition. Clayton D. Root '59 of Crown Point, Ind., and Arnold L. Hart '59 of Greenwich, Conn., took several second places, but the team could not build up enough qualifying points.

BOOKS

Another Link With Brazil

SUGAR, GOLD, AND COFFEE: Essays on the History of Brazil Based on Francis Hull's Books. By Felix Reichmann, Assistant Director of the University Library. Cornell University Library, Ithaca, N.Y. 1959. xiii + 160 pages.

Soon after Trustee Herbert F. Johnson '22 decided in 1949 to purchase for the University the library of Brazilianiana collected by his friend, Colonel Francis R. Hull, Reichmann was dispatched to visit Colonel Hull at his home in Fortaleza, Brazil, and evaluate his collection. This book is published, the author says, "as a testimonial to a great bookman, as a sign of gratitude to a generous donor, and as an expression of the constans et perpetua voluntas of Cornell University Library to be worthy of this valuable gift." The edition of 500 copies is for members of the Library Associates and other friends of the University Library.

Colonel Hull was a successful British engineer who lived much of his life in Brazil. His library of historical and geographical source books about the country that came to the University after his death in 1951 is famous. Reichmann's volume has eight essays which, in his words, "summarize the contents of the books in relation to the questions which had been uppermost in the collector's mind." Illustrated with reproductions from the Hull collection, it makes a fascinating and useful treatise on the history and development of the empire of Brazil.

An Appendix on "Cornell and Brazil" tells of the long and varied association between the University and that country. The author mentions the work of Faculty members in Brazil from the first Cornell expedition led by Professor Charles F. Martt, Geology, in 1870, to the recent work in locating the new capital city, Brasilia; the Library's first collection of Brazilian books, acquired in 1895 from the library of Herbert H. Smith '72 and its accessions since; and the many students that have come from Brazil.

About Sheep

LETTERS FROM A TEXAS SHEEP RANCH. Edited by Harry J. Brown '30, associate professor of history at Michigan State University. University of Illinois Press, Urbana, Ill. 1959. 156 pages, $3.50.

George Wilkins Kendall was a Texas sheep rancher who, in 1860 and 1867, wrote to his friend in New York State, Henry Stephen Randall, an influential man and a leading authority on sheep. In a long, biographical introduction of both men, the editor presents them as remarkable and interesting figures. Kendall, especially, had been an adventurer, writer, publisher, war and foreign correspondent, and had lived in Europe for some years.

It is therefore somewhat disappointing that his letters are concerned almost entirely with the practical side of sheep raising. It would seem that a man of Kendall's talents could have offered a more colorful picture both of his personal life and the exciting period he lived in. But perhaps this is irrelevant. The book, Professor Brown's first, is the winner of the first Agricultural History Society awards competition.—D.D.

Adventures of a Naturalist

THE TRAVELS OF WILLIAM BARTRAM. Edited by Francis Harper '14. Yale University Press, 1958. 810 pages, $8.50.

Originally published in Philadelphia in 1791, in London in 1792, and then in eight or nine editions in six different countries in the next ten years, Bartram's Travels has now been re-issued in a "naturalist's edition." Bartram was a naturalist (he has been called the "grandfather of American ornithology"), ethnologist, philosopher, and intrepid explorer. Francis Harper is all those things, too. In the last twenty-five years, besides his travels in the Arctic, he has retraced Bartram's itinerary of 1773-76 from Pennsylvania to North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and the lower Mississippi. In a thirty-five-page Introduction, he gives a biographical appreciation of his man. Then come Bartram's words, 120 pages of commentary, 241 of annotated index, 21 of references, and a lot more of variants, general index, maps, atlases, and pictures. Harper checks on the names of plants, animals, and birds, and brings us down to date on developments in the area since Bartram's time. It has been a labor of love; he is a research associate of the John Bartram Association and held a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1950-52.

Professor Lane Cooper, English, Emeritus, was the man who originally kindled Harper's interest in Bartram, since the book was the source of some of Wordsworth's and Coleridge's ("Kubla Khan") finest imagery.

The book is not only a gold mine to the naturalist, but an exciting adventure yarn. The way that Quaker ventured, usually alone, into Indian territory was a caution! He narrowly escaped death many times. His battle with the alligators was hair-raising, followed by a remarkable account of a fishrun through a barricade of alligators. He mentioned that the bears were immoderately fond of oranges; they and the wild turkeys were exceedingly fat and delicious. Once he stewed trout heads in orange juice "which, with boiled rice, afforded me a wholesome and delicious supper." He told of the trader beguiled by his beautiful Seminole (sic) wife, and of the forty braves returning from selling horses who went on a ten-day "frolic" with their twenty kegs of rum; some of the women would pretend to drink but would pour into a private bottle instead, which they then sold back to the men later. He also told of a trader who barely escaped with his ears (cropping was the penalty) from an outraged husband. His ethnological observations on the Seminoles, Creeks, Cherokees, and other Indians, and on slaves and slave owners are extremely interesting. I would call him of the "noble savage" school of Indian appreciation.—E.H. '14

Perkins on "The American Way"

THE AMERICAN WAY. By Dexter Perkins, University Professor, Emeritus. Great Seal Books, a division of Cornell University Press, Ithaca, N.Y. 1959. x + 141 pages, $1.45.

Here are five essays based on a series of lectures that Professor Perkins gave on the Campus when he was the John L. Senior ('01) Professor of American Civilization. First published two years ago, they are now reissued as a paper-bound Great Seal Book at lower price.

In his chapter on "Liberalism in America," Professor Perkins says that optimism and faith in the democratic process are important marks of the true liberal. By this criterion, he is a liberal. He is also a scholarly historian and keen observer and his book, lively and provocative, gives vigorous support and promises an encouraging future for the American way of life.

As a historian, he examines, in turn, the causes and effects of conservatism, liberalism, radicalism, and socialism in the domestic and foreign affairs of this country. He is optimistic about "The American Way." "So long as the libertarian spirit exists, so long as Americans retain their strong preference for what works as against some doctrine of what ought to work, so long as the sources of American vitality are refreshed and invigorated through our schools and our colleges, we need not fear for the future. Strong in our libertarian faith, practical as to means, ever watchful to prevent the stratification of our society, we hope to go forward in the American way. We can even hope that that way will be an example, an inspiration, and an encouragement to the rest of the world."

Restaurant Men Study

The participants heard discussions by business experts and members of the Faculty, including Dean C. Stewart Sheppard of the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration and Professors Alpheus W. Smith '19 and Harlan B. Perrins, Industrial & Labor Relations. Walter H. Foertsch '39, president of Walter H. Foertsch & Associates, Rochester management consultants, was a speaker.

Professor J. William Conner '40 was director for the Hotel School and Henry A. Montague '34, chairman and president of Prophet Co., industrial caterers of Detroit, Mich., was chairman of the Restaurant Association committee and moderator of the seminar.

An Undergraduate Observes

By James Langdon III '59

It doesn't pay to be an athlete during the spring. The Cornell student body seems not to care much about the efforts of the Big Red sports heroes in baseball, lacrosse, rowing, track, golf, and tennis. Why? Maybe it's the warm weather which takes many Cornellians out on Cayuga Lake in sailboats. Maybe it's the pressure of final exams. Maybe it's just plain indifference. Whatever the cause, many Cornellians are missing out on an opportunity to watch talented teams in action this spring. The lacrosse team is one of the best in Cornell's history and is still undefeated in Ivy League play. At least two players, David R. Dresser '60 of Baltimore and Bruce W. Pfann '59 of Ithaca, are of All-American calibre. The baseball team has its most potent batting attack in twenty-five years. The tennis team is at its strongest since the days of Richard Savitt '50 and Leonard L. Steiner '51. The trackmen boast the greatest pole vaulter in Big Red history, John S. Murray '61 of Ames, Iowa, and a crop of splendid distance runners. The crew is given a good chance of winning the Intercollegiates in June for an unprecedented fifth consecutive time. The golfers have a winning record. Yet the fans refuse to come out in proportionate numbers.

Ambitious platform was advocated by Lawrence Murray '61 of Jamaica in last month's elections for the Executive Board, which replaced the Student Council. His program was as follows: "... credit card for town movies, shops and restaurants; State health inspection of the Straight Cafeteria and Ivy Room food facilities; two-day prelim moratorium after big week ends and vacations; termination of mandatory ROTC; publication of a complete student job listing; stop 'scalping' of students by used book buyers; live bear mascot; provision of all-night studying in a Campus building; return of Freshman beanies; sponsorship of 'big-name' speakers (Senators, ex-Presidents) at Cornell, . . ." Murray ran in the Independent Men's grouping and won second position. One of his opponents, Phillip J. Cook '61 of Ithaca, claimed that Murray had two busloads of Syracuse University coeds campaign for him here. Original, anyway.

The ninety-three winners of the Cornell National Scholarship were feted at a reception at the Big Red Barn, April 15. The National is the University's highest scholarship award. One of the featured speakers was Professor Morris Bishop '14, Romance Literature, whose topic was "The Early Cornellian." National winners are selected on the basis of test scores, grades, and recommendations.

Sigma Chi took first place in the Intramural Swimming championships in Teagle Pool. The hairy-chested men from Cayuga Heights copped only one gold medal, but showed considerable depth in the other events. The Sigma Chi 220-yard freestyle relay team was the lone victor. Team members included Thomas L. Cochrane, a graduate student in Business & Public Administration from Cincinnati, Ohio; David A. Carl '59 of Hollywood, Cal.; John M. Voss '61 of St. Louis, Mo.; and Peter B.

Weber '58 of Loudonville. Sigma Nu and Watermargin tied for second place in the overall team standings.

Three student organists presented an informal recital in the Sage Organ series May 4 in Sage Chapel. The performers were Margo L. Zimmerman '61 of New York City; Lorna A. Watt '61 of Dansville; Joseph W. Rogers '58 of Milton.

"Pledge Cozy" was held at Balch Field, May 1. Pledges from fourteen sororities gathered in a program sponsored by Panhellenic Council. Impromptu skits and object charades comprised most of the activity. The purpose of the "Pledge Cozy" is to better inter-sorority relations.

Cornell Collegiate Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, was granted inactive status by the fraternity's executive council in a meeting held in Washington, D.C., April 15. Lack of interest was the main reason for the local chapter's desire to go inactive. It was chartered by the national fraternity in December, 1919, and installed one month later in the home of the late Professor Bristow Adams, Extension Service, Emeritus. Professor Adams, the late Millard V. Atwood '10, associate editor and editorial director of the Gannett newspaper chain, and fourteen Seniors were charter members. Inactive status means that the chapter can be reactivated.

Steven A. Breth '60 of Hobart is editor-in-chief of the Cornell Countryman for the coming year. Edward L. Razinsky '61 of Greenfield Park will be the managing editor. Other officers elected were W. Stephen Midgough '62 of Chevy Chase, Md., business manager; and Jack E. Hope '61 of Hurleyville and Carole J. Wedner '61 of Pittsburgh, Pa., associate editors. Four members of the Class of '61 were elected to the editorial board of The Cornell Writer. Lawrence B. Lesser of New York City will be editor-in-chief; Edwin F. Ochester of Glendale, managing editor; and Julia Werner and Florence R. Cassen, both from New York City, prose and poetry editors respectively.

THE FACULTY

In Fortune magazine for April, Devereux C. Josephs writes on "The Corporation's Debt to the Great Schools." He tells about a self-constituted committee of twenty-one business executives, bankers, and lawyers who have undertaken to persuade corporations to make substantial unrestricted "extra gifts" to the leading universities that conduct basic research and give graduate instruction. Two of the members of this committee are Trustees John L. Collyer '17 and Arthur H. Dean '19. Joseph lists thirteen corporations that are making such annual grants, for a total of $1,140,000 a year, to seventeen named colleges and universities, of which Cornell is one.

Mrs. Horace C. Flanigan, wife of Trustee Flanigan '12, sponsored the 60,000-ton tanker Lake Palourde launched March 16 in Newport News, Va., by Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co.

A commission appointed by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to make "an urgent and comprehensive analysis" of unemployment in New York State includes Dean William I. Myers '14 of the College of Agriculture as executive officer of the joint Legislative committee on commerce & economic development.

Director Charles C. Winding of the School of Chemical & Metallurgical Engineering has been elected to the board of directors of Cowles Chemical Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Professor Cyril L. Comar, Director of the Laboratory of Radiation Biology, and Professor John S. Laughlin, chief of Biophysics at Sloan-Kettering Division of the Medical College in New York, described the progress being made in peacetime uses of the atom before some 500 junior and senior high school students and their teachers from throughout the United States, at a "Youth Conference on the Atom," April 30-May 1, in Atlantic City, N.J. Sponsored by more than sixty electric utility companies, the conference was the first of its kind.

Basic research on the reactions of fluorine with organic compounds is being undertaken by Professor William T. Miller, Chemistry, with a Defense Department grant of $14,762.50. Fluorine is being tested as a possible rocket fuel and Professor Miller is studying its chemical properties for this use. Fluorine reacts with organic compounds to produce free radicals and exceptionally large amounts of energy at low temperatures.

Professor Arthur M. Mizener, English, on leave this year, spoke on "The Dilemma of American Education" in a series, "Modern America 1919-59," at London University, March 9.

University Printer M. R. Kerns has been named grand representative of the Kansas grand lodge of Masons to the New York State grand lodge of Masons.

"Letters" column of the Saturday Evening Post for May 9 contains the picture of the aged Post vendor on Cascadilla bridge and poem about him by Professor Morris Bishop '14, Romance Literature, that appeared in the March 1 ALUMNI NEWS. It has the further information, from Bishop, that his name was John Teed and that at the age of seventy he won a competition for selling the Post and took $100 in lieu of a pony. "It is a pity that he did not accept the pony," Bishop writes the Post. "He would have made a fine model for an equestrian statue of the indomitable newsboy." Professor Bishop, March 18 at McGill University in Montreal, gave the first of three Sir Edwards Beatty Memorial Lectures on the St. Lawrence River and its association with the history and culture of North America. He said that the picture in most history books of Samuel de Champlain, founder of Quebec City, is a fraud; that it is really a picture of Michael de Particelli, a disreputable Italian who served as finance minister to French King Louis XIV.

Edward K. Graham, PhD '38, Secretary of the University from 1940-47, is now dean of the graduate school and of the college of liberal arts and college of general education at Boston University. His fourteen-year-old son, Edward K. Graham, Jr., has received an award from the Boy Scouts of America for "an outstanding act of heroism while ice skating." In February, 1958, young Graham saved a six-year-old boy who had fallen through the ice.

Scale of cuteness for babies is being developed by Professors Julian E. Hochberg and William W. Lambert, Psychology. They are also devising scales for judging people's intelligence, sexual attractiveness, meanness, and conservatism—all from faces. The research has been supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation and Office of Naval Research. Professor Hochberg showed drawings of facial expressions to hundreds of Cornell students, asking them to pick out the most intelligent face, the meanest face, and so on. Students in any given year generally agree about the faces, he says. But he found that students in 1958 didn't agree as well with those tested in 1957, and even less with those tested in 1956. "It's almost as if there were fashions in judging people," he says. The only people who seem to escape the "fashions" are babies. "Students of different years seem to agree on what constitutes a cute baby," Professor Hochberg declares. Incidentally, a son was born last June 7 to Professor and Mrs. Hochberg (Virginia Brooks) '56.

Professor Clifford N. Stark, PhD '27, Bacteriology, Emeritus, was assigned more than a year ago as dairy production adviser to Madras, India by the US Technical Cooperation Mission to India. On a two-year leave of absence from Middle Tennessee State College, in Murfreesboro, he is visiting professor at Madras Veterinary College and Madras University. The veterinary college staff elected him to the university's academic council which determines educational policies. Last July, he took a 3000-mile jeep tour in Madras State, observing dairying at the invitation of cooperative unions.

Department of Institution Management in the College of Home Economics has received a $17,500 grant from the US Public Health Service for research to determine the needs of New York State hospitals for qualified dietitians. The two-year study will also determine to what degree educational programs qualify dietitians for the responsibilities they carry, with a view to determining changes in such programs.

Professor Alan F. Westin, Government,

Dragon Reappears—President Malott inspects the fearsome dragon that extends along the Tower Road fence around the excavation for the new Research Library. Accompanying him is John M. Potter, Director of the University News Bureau. This dragon and another on the west fence, opposite the Library, were repainted by Architecture Freshmen at the President's suggestion after the one that appeared St. Patrick's Day was painted over by the building contractor to protect the fence from weathering. Students contributed money to buy the paint. The photograph is taken from the Central Avenue corner of Tower Road.

C. Hadley Smith

has resigned to become professor of public law and government at Columbia next fall. He has been on the Faculty for two years.

Management Conference

FOREIGN INVESTMENTS for American business was the theme of the eleventh annual Management Conference arranged by students in the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration. About 250 business and government executives and others attended the sessions in Statler Hall, April 17 & 18.

With the general title, "Investments International," the discussions covered three main areas. Each featured a main speaker who was followed by two concurrent panel discussions. The first area dealt with "Business Foreign Investment as a Way to Meet Competition in Foreign Markets" and had as its speaker E. V. Huggins, vice-president of Westinghouse Electric Corp. A member of one of the panels in this area was His Excellency M. C. Chagla, Ambassador of India to the United States. On "Business Foreign Investment as a Way to Meet Competition in Domestic Markets," the principal speaker was Andrew L. Gomory, vice-president of Manufacturers Trust Co., New York City. Stanley N. Shaw '18, editor of the Whaley-Eaton Service in Washington, D.C., was a panel member following his speech. The third area, "The Political Implications of Increasing Business Foreign Investment," was introduced by Dean Harlan Cleveland of the Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship & Public Affairs at Syracuse University.

At the Conference banquet, George V. Allen, director of the US Information Agency, told the assembled administrators that American business can play a leading role in bringing the image of the United States to the citizens of foreign countries. Books, exhibits, and films supplied by American business can establish direct contact and it is this contact that will dispel the fear of the unknown present in all people and all nations. Allen cited the success of recent cultural exchanges with Russia, saying that such cultural envoys as the Bolshoi Ballet now in the United States disseminate good will far more effectively than official propaganda sources. Allen was introduced by President Deane W. Malott.

Advisory committee for the Conference included President Malott; Dean C. Stewart Sheppard; Donald McMaster '16, chairman of the executive committee of Eastman Kodak Co.; Roland G. Fowler '22, factory manager of the Adding Machine Division in Ithaca of National Cash Register Co.; Oscar T. McMillan '24, vice-president of New York Telephone Co.; Eugene M. Kaufmann, Jr. '26, Philadelphia investment counselor; and Roger W. Jones '28, chief of the US Civil Service Commission. David A. Thomas, Assistant Dean of the B&PA School, was Faculty adviser for the Conference and Richard C. Herrmann, Grad, of Buffalo was chairman of the student board of governors.

Parents Visit University

ITHACA SPRING weather was at its best for the eighth annual Parents Week End, April 24-26. More than 1000 mothers and fathers of undergraduates visited the University. Summer-like temperatures and brilliant sunshine all day Friday and Saturday helped swell attendance at sporting events and for the hourly guided tours of the Campus that originated at Willard Straight Hall. The cold and rain that habitually plague Ithaca in April returned full force on Sunday, but most of the parents were by this time either on their way home or safely inside attending church services.

Parents Week End, arranged by a committee of students and Faculty, got off to a rousing start Friday afternoon with Varsity baseball and tennis with Columbia and an outdoor concert in front of the Straight by the Repertoire Concert Band. Arranged for parents, too, was an afternoon Messenger Lecture in Alice Statler Auditorium by Solomon Fabricant, director of research for the National Bureau of Economic Research and professor of economics at New York University. Professor Fabricant spoke on "Economic Research and 'The Law of Increase of Production'." Friday evening, parents had a choice of attending the Interfraternity Council song contest in Alice Statler Auditorium or the prize-winning Indian film "Pather Panchali" in Willard Straight Theater. The film was also shown Saturday evening as part of the Festival of Contemporary Arts.

Saturday morning, parents were invited to visit classes and tour the various buildings on the Campus. Most Colleges and Schools held special coffee hours at which parents and students could meet with Faculty members and student advisers. The College of Arts & Sciences featured a demonstration of laboratory techniques used in the teaching of Physics and a discussion of new trends in teaching by Professors Mark Kac, Mathematics, and David Novarr, English. At an assembly in Bailey Hall shortly before lunch, President Deane W. Malott welcomed the visitors and spoke on "The Mission of Cornell." He was introduced by Rodney P. Stiefbold of Naperville, Ill., Freshman Class president.

President Malott's address was followed by a chicken barbecue for parents and students at Schoellkopf. Highlights of the afternoon were a Varsity baseball game with Princeton, a Varsity golf match with Bucknell, Freshman contests in track and lacrosse with Colgate, and 150-pound rowing with Princeton on Cayuga Lake. Many of the dormitories and CURW organizations held open house for parents throughout the afternoon. Following a Parents Week End dinner in Statler Hall, many of the parents went to Bailey Hall for an evening of songs and humor by the Glee Club and the Savage Club of Ithaca. Parents Week End was brought to a close on a festive note with a gala Willard Straight open house which featured a casino, a variety show, movies, and a calypso dance for parents and students.

Chairman of the general arrangements committee was Jean M. Belden '60 of Cranford, N.J.

News of the Alumni

Addresses are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians are welcomed for publication. Class columns are written by correspondents whose names appear. Names & addresses in column headings are for Classes with group subscriptions or those in which at least half the members are News subscribers.

'00 BS—J. Bennett Nolan has been appointed by Governor David Lawrence of Pennsylvania for a second term as a member of the Historical Commission of Pennsylvania, which is responsible for the administration of Valley Forge, Ephrata Cloisters, and some forty historical shrines in Pennsylvania. He is a lawyer and his address is 54 North Fifth Street, Reading, Pa.

'05 ME—Anton Vonnegut is retired and lives at 7808 College Avenue, Indianapolis 20, Ind.

'06 AB, '07 MA—Rev. Frank B. Crandall, retired clergyman and Army chaplain, has been invited and received into membership in St. Matthew's Conclave, in the Christian Order of The Red Cross of Constantine, located in Springfield, Mass. He has also been re-appointed ritualist of the fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta. His address is 29 Winter Island Road, Salem, Mass.

'09, '10 ME—Alfred H. Hutchinson of 8949 South Hamilton Avenue, Chicago 20, Ill., won again this winter the Senior Men's Grand Downhill Slalom at Sun Valley, Idaho. He has won so many times against men up to thirty years younger that next year he will have to contest in the All-Corners Class. He keeps in shape in the summer by swimming, water skiing, and fishing. In April, he was visited at his Naples, Fla. temporary home by Gustave J. Requardt '09. Both will be back for their Fifty-year Reunion in June.

'11 Howard A. Lincoln
80 Bennington Street
Springfield 8, Mass.

Franklin Huling Branin (above), CE, has spent most of his years since graduation in foreign countries, Mexico, Belgium, and Union of South Africa, with consulting engineers for power stations, water treatment plants, and "oil from coal" projects. He has now retired and lives with his lovely wife atop a mountain on West Drive in Stanhope, N.J. Says he's busy with his family, music, and furniture refinishing, besides ranting about that beautiful section of New Jersey. Has two married sons, Robert of Wayne, N.J. and Franklin, Jr. of Poughkeepsie; also a married daughter, Virginia, husband being Major Oeder at Stewart Air Field, Newburg. Proudly boasts of nine grandchildren (6 gals and 3 boys). Had a family reunion last Xmas when twenty sat down at dinner to gobble up a twenty-four-pound turkey that had been fattening for the past year.

Frank will always be remembered as the master of the sweetest violin ever heard on the Cornell Campus and it has since paid off handsomely in many ways; best of all when it sort of introduced Frank to his new lovely wife at a musical festival where she starred as the harpist. Frank hopes to return to Ithaca for his first (50th) Reunion in 1961 and revive his many friendships, and has promised to bring along his celebrated violin. Maybe, also his wife, but no harp. Last summer, Whisper Heath visited Frank and family where he gathered the above news and also secured the snapshot taken beside his famous 1911 Chevie.

William A. S. Somerville, ME, 166 East Main St., Frostburg, Md., writes: "Since we are nearing our golden anniversary at Cornell, I would like to mention the fact that my class of '08 of Maryland celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last April 12 and then had further activities June 6 & 7. This school was formerly the Maryland Agricultural College, now University of Maryland, College Park, Md. Of our '08 members remaining, about 90 per cent were present for our reunion activities. I hope that we, the Class of 1911 of Cornell, will make just as good or better record of attendance on the Cornell Campus in 1961. I hope to be one among many for the occasion."

The following attended the annual spring dinner at the Cornell Club in New York, April 17: Frank Aime, Charlie Beavers, Herb Bellis, Bill Christy, Chuck Chuckrow, Davy Davidson, Hugh Gaffney, Claire Hardy, Fran Heywood, Bill Howard, Abe Lincoln, Herb Reynolds, John Rewalt, Vic Ritschard, Hod Ritter, and Jim Webb.

'12 Men—A happy feature of that party in March honoring Clarence B. (Kid) Kugler '03 was the presentation of the gold-headed cane that Theodore Zinck—the honest tavern keeper who is still held in revered memory after more than half a century—carried until his death in 1903. Mrs. Zinck entrusted the cane to Tom Herson. It had long been Tom's promise to bequeath it to the Class of '12. On Tom's death in February, his daughters Beverly and Nola presented the cane to Walt Kuhn, '12's president, and it was unveiled at the Kugler party. The above photograph, taken in color that evening by Fritz Krebs, is a more striking likeness of the stick than it is of Kuhn. In the original three-dimensional transparency, both subjects did well, but in the transfer to black and white, Walt suffered some. Mrs. Edith M. Fox '32, Curator and University Archivist, has gladly accepted the cane on behalf of the University. It will be on exhibition during the June Reunions, in the Cornelliana Room in the Andrew D. White Museum.

When Dean Hollister, soon to retire as Dean of Engineering, was guest of honor last month at a Cornell dinner in New York's Plaza Hotel, at least five '12 men were there. They were Tell Berna, Fritz Krebs, Walt Kuhn, Paul Leinroth, and Jack Magoun. They and Cornellians from all Classes hailed Holly as another Cornell Dean of Special Distinction.

A listing of "Men of '12 on Winter Trips" would have many entries therein. To give a small sampling: Floyd Newman with his wife Helen has been on a long-deferred airplane trip around the world. They flew from New York, February 16, were due back May 3. Three Ithaca Classmates, Fred Brown, Doug Gillette, and Jim McKinney, with their spouses, took the boat from New York to fetch up in Buenos Aires. Veterans aboard called it the roughest voyage ever. Then by air and at their leisure the sextet visited much of South America in a six weeks' tour. When George Goetz and his Mary sailed in January on a winter cruise, Jack Stoddard was the one-man sender-offer de luxe. His gift was twelve years old, all tied up in a Kelly-green ribbon, and it wasn't a hound dog. Then Jack and Mrs. Jack took themselves on a trip to Hawaii. Their ship was three days out, enroute back to California, when word came that the country had admitted its fiftieth State. The captain made it a celebration to remember, with his bosses picking up all checks. Smart schedule makers, these Stoddards!

CLASS REUNIONS IN ITHACA, JUNE 11—13

'99, '04, '09, '14, '19, '24, '29, '34, '39, '44, '49, '54, '56

Charles T. Wanzer has been with Duke Power Co., Charlotte, N.C., for many years. During 1958 the company indicated something of its esteem by four actions taken. He was elected a vice-president, chief engineer, member of board of directors, and member of executive committee.

Few teachers in the New York City school system have a longer record of continued service than does John Lusch. Last fall he retired after thirty-two years. He was then teacher of physics and chairman of the science department at the Great Neck High School. In July, Pierce Fredericks will leave the Federal Pacific Electric Co., Newark, N.J., to take up his residence at 12 Pine Ridge Road, Wakefield, Mass. Pierce has been a strong attender of '12 events in the New York area, as well as at June Reunions.

The recent death of Remsen Ostrander took from the Class lists one who showed rare courage and devotion in his participation in all possible Cornell gatherings. In recent years, Remmy rose above physical handicaps that would have discouraged most men. He was a good citizen, a good lawyer, out on Long Island.

'13 Harry E. Southard
3102 Miami Road
South Bend 14, Ind.

Sorry we had no '13 column in the last issue. Due to a mix-up in mailing, our material arrived too late.

Recently heard from Stermy (George J. Sturmfels), 1208 Southview Road, Baltimore 18, Md. He has retired from business except for some consulting engineering work. Right after our 45th Reunion last year, Stermy and his wife flew over to London to visit their daughter and their two grandsons. Their daughter married a Johns Hopkins doctor who is now doing research work in London. While over there, they made a 4000-mile tour of Europe in an English Morris 1000 car, visiting Brussels, Cologne, Frankfurt, Rheims, Zurich, Lucerne, Paris, Rome, Munich, and Holland, as well as spending ten days in Scotland. Stermy feels he has now seen enough of "overthere" and plans to make his next jaunt a trip to our own western country.

Stermy told me that Stan (Henry C. Stanwood), 3120 St. Paul St., Apt. 208 D, Baltimore 18, Md., has just been elevated to the rank of brigadier general in the Reserves. Mighty nice, Stan. I understand Stan has been doing a fine job in charge of the draft board in Baltimore over the years since World War II, although I believe he just recently retired.

Babe (E. Lysle) Aschaffenburg writes that he is now fully recovered from the operation that prevented his attending our 45th last year. He is now able to participate again in his favorite sport, salt-water fishing, with some fresh water in between. He is still president and managing director of Pontchartrain Hotel, New Orleans, but he expects that that fishing business will have him spending much time this summer at his country home in Pass Christian, Miss. However, I realize I have been wasting my time on trifles so far about Babe, because the big news is that he has just been presented with a grandson, Lysle Reginald Waterman.

Have a new address for Champ (Roy E. Clark). He writes that he is now permanently located "in the Sunshine State," at 1603 Braman Ave., Ft. Myers, Fla.

Received notice that Fotsie (Benjamin F. Foote), 643 Madison Ave., SE, Grand Rapids 3, Mich., was married last July to Miss Alice D. Maguire, sister of the first Mrs. Foote, and daughter of the late Edward Maguire '84. Congratulations.

Mrs. Heebner writes that her husband, Heeb (J. Wesley) Heebner, is slowly recovering from two serious eye operations this winter, so that she is serving as his private secretary "pro tem." Their address is 827 Chester Place, Long Beach 13, Cal. They were back at our 45th Reunion last summer and had been back at her 40th Reunion in 1956. They sold their Riverside turkey ranch in 1947 and have greatly enjoyed living "retired" in Long Beach. Their daughter and son-in-law and three grandchildren live about an hour's drive from them, which makes them feel very fortunate indeed. Thanks for writing, Mrs. Heebner, and here's hoping Heeb makes a rapid and full recovery.

Bud (Leon B.) Allen, RD 1, Ramsey,

N.J., writes that he has not retired and doesn't expect to. Business is much more fun than it used to be, says he. All he wants is a ten-month year, a four-day week, and a five-hour day. Not a bad idea at that, for us young folks.

So long!

'13 AB—A fund is being established at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., in honor of Esther C. Dunn, Jordan Professor of English at Smith, who will retire in June. Former students of Professor Dunn are contributing to the fund which will serve as an endowment to provide awards to recognize outstanding classroom teaching.

It suddenly occurs to me that there are only two more issues before Reunion! Of course the big issue (non-editorially speaking) is whether YOU are coming back, and only YOU can make that decision. I can raise my voice in encouraging YOU to come, but that's as far as anyone can go. I've seen a lot of Reunions. You might call me a fan, both of our own and of those of others. I'm not quite the fanatic that the '12ers are (they will reunite on the slightest provocation any time anywhere), but I certainly go all-out for one of the five-year affairs. Anybody who has the time, health, and money shouldn't miss it. Curiously enough, my observation has been that frequently the most enthusiastic attendants have been those who have not been back for years, sometimes never, since graduation. They love seeing old friends and making new ones and bringing up-to-date their memories of the beauty of our Campus, with its subsequent embellishments. Even frequent returners can always find something new in the line of building and landscaping. So join the crowd!

One who is coming and bringing his wife is Robert J. Auld, safety engineering consultant, Calle España 2015, Ocean Park, Santurce, Puerto Rico. He wrote asking what clothing to bring. I answered that I had ordered nice warm weather, but that it might be well to bring at least a sweater or even a topcoat. Bob wrote touchingly of the funeral of Arturo Rodríguez '91 last October and his last request that the record of Alma Mater on the chimes be played; Judge Martin Travieso '03 presided at an Elks ceremony. I told Bob about a 14' 6" pole-vaulter from P.R. at a mainland prep school; if his marks are good, perhaps the Judge will issue an injunction that he should enter Cornell.

New address: Ted Crippen, East Road, Sheffield, Mass. Used to live a bit north, in Great Barrington. They had had a short Florida vacation previous to moving in April. Ted is coming to Reunion. Heard through former Garden City friends that Hal and Grace Halsted visited them in Nokomis, Fla., at Easter. Pink Clark wrote that he had bad weather in his ten days in Palm Beach (should have stood in Dallas), but did enjoy seeing two '15 youngsters, Jack Schmaltz and Bob White. In mid-July, Pink takes his first jet ride to Europe; new places he will include are Vienna and the races at Dublin and Deauville. Heard on WQXR (New York) that Hal Riegelman, counsel to the Citizens Budget Commission, had taken a crack at what Mayor Wagner calls his "austerity" budget, then next day read a story about it in the Herald Trib under the by-line of Keith R. Johnson '56, recent Sun editor.

A plea for help, aid, and assistance from Timmy Timmerman in Pompano Beach, Fla. Seems his wife is a shell enthusiast and she discovered in the attic some of his "shingles" nicely mounted in shadow-box frames, which frames were just wonderful for her shells. Later, feeling a little "conscious stricken" (lucky she wasn't stricken unconscious), she redeemed herself by using the shingles to make him a nice desk-lamp shade, but the Cornell seals had deteriorated and he asked if I could help. I sent along the best I could find, not too good. Timmy said that Phil Coffey, wife, and aunt had stopped by recently and he was looking fine. He also said that he has bought a smaller villa in the village at the Palm Hill Club and has put "Sea Ledge" on the market; I have seen it and it's a lovely big place, 700 feet deep, fronting on both the ocean and the Intercoastal Canal. It will be a good purchase for someone.

Merritt J. Davis, Sycamore St., Wellsburg, W.Va., wrote an appreciative letter to Morris Bishop anent the old gent who sold the Satevepost at Cascadilla Bridge and Morris's poem. Davey has retired from Banner Fibreboard Co., saying: "After some forty-five years in the paper business and about that many billion bags ago, I have sacked out. I find that R stands not only for Retirement, but for Reading, Relaxing, Raking, Rationalizing, Recalling, Recording, Relating, Reminiscing, Remitting, Repairing—and Republicans. In fact, I Recommend Retirement. Have one wife, two sons, one grandchild, and will travel." Davey certainly has learned his twelve R's. His next Route should be to IthacaR.

D. Spencer (Chick) Hatch, '15 BS, '16 MS, '28 PhD, Community Development by Indian Americans, Colorado River Tribes, Parker, Ariz., after his last assignments directing United Nations projects in India and Ceylon, is now director of community development in the movement "Community Development by Indian Americans," Colorado River Tribes, Parker, Ariz. Associated with him in this pilot project is his wife, Emily Gilchrist Hatch, MS '28, PhD '34. She has also returned from directing a UN Organization project in India, and later one in Ceylon.

The project in Parker is a people's own program for development on all sides of life. It is similar in philosophy and method to programs Chick and his wife have helped develop in India, Mexico, Costa Rica, and Ceylon. After so much time in other countries, they are happy to be associated with the original type of Americans, and hope methods developed and put into practice by the tribes there will have carry-over value for other Indians. There are some thirty million Indians in the Americas. The above picture of Chick and his wife and daughter, Jane, a junior at University of Arizona, was taken recently in their garden.

Charles Alex Comfort, RFD 2, Middletown, retired from farm to village of Scotchtown in the spring of 1958 and is taking it easy there. He has two sons, a daughter, and twelve grandchildren. Claude F. Williams and his wife, 184 Ascan Avenue, Forest Hills 75, planned to go to Europe in April and return in time to drive up to Ithaca in June. Ithaca is Claude's home town; he likes to get up there at Reunion time even on off years.

Y. T. Char, AIA, Kaimuki Ave., Honolulu 16, Hawaii is active in the practice of architecture. A. L. (Les) Marks, PO Box 479, Honolulu, always faithful, is planning to attend the 1960 Reunion.

J. Dickson Pratt, 835 Kealaolu Ave., Honolulu 15, Hawaii, retired last year as plantation manager of Hawaiian "Dole" Pineapple Co. He is president for 1959 of the Chamber of Commerce of Honolulu. He regrets that he will not be able to attend the 1960 Reunion, is not interested in a Class Directory.

An item which reached my desk November 15 got over into the basket of used material. With apologies to Mac, here it is: D. Macmillan Kerr, Route 3, Box 742, Carmel, Cal., retired last fall as works manager of Moss Landing area plants of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. after sixteen years with this organization. In 1942, he served as superintendent of the magnesite plant while it was still under construction, became general superintendent with responsibilities for it, the basic refractories plants, and the Natividad Dolomite in 1946; and later moved up to works manager. He has served as a director of Monterey County Symphony Association, the Salinas Chamber of Commerce, was vice-president of Castorville Rotary Club and a director of National Lime Association. The Kerrs travelled in Europe last summer and part of last fall. At present, he spends a part of his time as a consultant in the chemical and metallurgical fields.

The Annual Reunion Dinner of The Class of '16 will be held in Ithaca at Statler Inn, in the Willcox (formerly Chinese) Room, Friday evening, June 12, at 6 p.m. Last year Chief Gahnkin, Fritz Fernow, Van Hart, Eric Erickson '20, Johnnie Hoffmire, Francis Mineka ('16 Professor), Tony Shallna, Roy Bird, Bub Pfeiffer, Fran Scheetz, Murray Shelton, Birge Kinne, Willis Henderson, Harry Caplan, Charlie Eppleur, Ted Jamison, Red Zeman, Dave Freudenthal, Pat

Irish, Allan Carpenter, Jim Moore, and Charlie Thorp were present.

Make your plans now to be with us this year and let me know at 51 East 42d Street, New York 17, that you will be there. See you in June!—BUB PFEIFFER, Class Secretary.

Marked scarcity of news items at the moment due, doubtless, to retirements, and more and more of the same. We attended the Carl Snively week end festivities in Ithaca recently, an event as impressive as it was unusual. More than fifty per cent of the boys who played under Carl showed, and from all points of the compass, and gave him a great reception. Some of the old coaches who were on the opposite sides of the gridirons in his era were also present, including Harper and Munger of Pennsylvania, Kerr of Colgate, and some others, names unknown at this writing. The affair was tendered by the Cornell Club of Ithaca and they did a splendid job of it. Jim Munns '14, Emerson Hinchliff '14, and Art Shelton '14 were among those present, as well as Herb Johnston '17. The conflict over the demolition of Boardman Hall still waxes warm, more as a protest against the type of incongruous edifice to take its place rather than the demolition of old Boardman itself, which was possibly inevitable. Opinions can become quite volatile as regards the new idea of architecture, especially in the engineering area, and in fact, on administration in general when the folks foregather. Also attended a '17 Class dinner at the Cornell Club in New York recently, with John Collyer presiding. Met Bub Pfeiffer and Charlie Eppleur among the crowd, and Walt Kuhn '12.

Alex Hamburg has a son, Donald '62, and a daughter, Doris '58, who is now with Harcourt Brace & Co. in New York. He recently made a gift to the Library of the Engineering College made up of a large collection of information bearing upon "Thrust Bearing" which he had acquired in litigation conducted for the late Professor Albert Kingsbury '89, effecting the basic patents on the same, and the same being accepted by Professor Morris Bishop '14, who is University Historian as well as the son-in-law of the late Professor Kingsbury.

Frank (Nick) Carter, after twenty-one years as director of purchases for Maryland Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., Baltimore, Md., retired December 31. Being unable to come to an abrupt halt after long years on the treadmill, Nick has opened his own office at 12 West 25th Street, Baltimore, for consultation and trade relations activities.

'17 Men—Another Class dinner has come and gone! And it was just what we advertised it to be, a "Baby Reunion," with fifty-nine present, three more than last year, despite the many regulars who couldn't attend because the night was changed to Tuesday from the customary Monday. The Cornell Club of New York was not available for Monday, so we chose the second best date.

Glen Acheson again deserves a kudo for his perfect arrangements. The "freshen up" hour started at 5 p.m., the dinner at 6:30, and the regular program about 8 o'clock. Ben Potar m'd the formalities with his usual aplomb and repertoire of good stories. Our own Rev. Pete Weigle gave his prepared invocation for the benediction because he was caught out on Long Island and didn't arrive until 7:30. Don Mallory reported progress to date for the Class participation in the Cornell Fund, with much more to go to meet our 1958-59 quota. Howie Ludington told us preparations were already started to make our 45th in 1962 our "biggest and best."

Ells Filby flew in from Kansas City and divided honors for distance traveled with Doc Crispell from Atlanta, Ga. George A. Newbury, 1959 candidate for Alumni Trustee, attended from Buffalo, and Charley Thompson was with us after three and a half years in Israel representing Uncle Sam in promotion of agricultural projects. Class President John L. Collyer brought us up to date regarding Campus affairs. We all regretted that he will retire June 30 from the chairmanship of the University Board of Trustees. Cornell needs him!

The pièce de resistance (or highlight, we mean) of the Baby Reunion was a talk by our own George J. Hecht who had just returned from a long trip through the heart of Africa. He told about conditions in various parts of the Dark Continent and illustrated his talk with wonderful colored pictures. He then took us on quick picture-trips through India, Japan, Thailand, and other interesting countries. George is truly an ambassador of good will!

The Class of '17 was honored by having Walt Kuhn, president of '12, present, Bub Pfeiffer, '16 Class secretary, ably guarded by two Classmates, Charlie Eppler, '16 photographer, and Harry Byrne, '16 scribe, and Ho Ballou '20, president of the Continuous Reunion Club, was with us and brought with him Al Stotz '18 of New Haven as a bodyguard. All '17ers vowed that our 1960 dinner will be bigger and better, as a warm-up for 1962 which will top them all.

There's no spring tonic equal to a visit to the Campus in April after the winter's snows have disappeared. The lawns are bright with new green, the trees and shrubs are in bud, and the waters go roaring down the gorges. And the Campus itself looks a great deal different when the undergraduates are still around. A visit to Cornell between Reunions is to be recommended anyhow, because the changes there are constant and frequent. This spring, though it's less than a year since our 40th, there are many new sights. Old Boardman Hall on the main Quadrangle is gone, and in its place a great fence surrounds the site of the new Research Library. Hollister Hall on the Engineering Quadrangle looks ready for occupancy, and the new generation may never know there was an Old Armory where it now stands.

There are other attractions at Cornell in the spring. One of these is the annual Management Conference of the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration. It's held in Statler Hall and it attracts a huge audience, not to mention a host of participants. This year's conference looked into problems of foreign investment and foreign competition. I would have thoroughly enjoyed it even had I not been a panel member at one of the sessions. The only other

'18er in attendance was Joe Barr, who looks the part of the prosperous Ithaca broker he is. We had a short two-man Reunion together at the main banquet of the conference. Speaking of banquets reminds me that I also attended the big annual dinner of the Cornell Daily Sun where were to be found many familiar oldsters, as well as the huge number of editors (50 or 60) it now takes to put out that sheet. At the Sun banquet I had hoped to see Paul Bradford who is one of the Sun's directors, but Paul had made the mistake the day before of starting to take down his storm windows while standing on an old ladder. The doctors expect to remove the cast from his broken leg in a few weeks. However, I did see Foster Coffin '12, Wright Gibson '17, Emerson Hinchliff '14, and above all Jessica Holland who ran the Sun in "our" day and for forty years afterwards.

Remember our Reunion dates, Friday & Saturday, June 12 & 13. Reunion Chairman Ed Carples reports that up to April 24 he had received checks for 100 Reunion fees which includes twenty-two wives who will join us. There are also almost 100 Classmates who say they're coming, but up to this time have not yet sent in their confirming check for $40 which will open the door to a wonderful week end in Ithaca.

Gene Beggs, chairman of housing arrangements, has made a special trip to Ithaca to see that we are well situated in the new residential halls. Under the skillful and hardworking guidance of Dinner Chairman Rudy Deetjen, our Class dinner, Friday, June 12, will be held in the brand new Noyes Lodge on Beebe Lake. Rudy called on the expert local assistance of Jack Gebhard who made these final arrangements. Another loyal Ithaca Classmate, Doc Shackelton, has taken care of all the details for another wonderful barbecue party at Bill Emerson's lovely home, Saturday, June 13. Ed Carples and his very able committees have been knocking themselves out, completing arrangements for this grand opportunity for you and me and all other '19ers to have the best Reunion on record. So don't let's wait until the last minute to send in that check!

Alpheus W. Smith, 705 The Parkway, Ithaca. It's nice to have a note from Al who served our Class so faithfully for so many years as Class secretary. As is generally known, Al is professor and Director of Extension in the State School of Industrial & Labor Relations at Cornell. His son, Strether Smith, is a Sophomore in Sibley College of Mechanical Engineering. After five years of Mechanical Engineering, he plans two or three years further work in Aeronautical Engineering. In a little postscript, Al commiserates with ye current editor on the frustrations involved in attempting to turn out eighteen of these bloody colyums each year. You know the funny part of it is that the fellows in our Class who really know how to write and can toss the words around like crazy, shy away from this task like it was poison. (Which it is!) But I digress! Al says, of course, he and his wife will join our Reunion in June.

Ross M. Preston, Stambridge Station, Quebec, Canada, is president of Champlain Milk Products Co., Ltd., and reports that he was to leave early in March for a two months' tour of Europe. Says further that he will be back in ample time to take in our Reunion.

Edward L. Duffies, 3206 N. Columbus St., Arlington 7, Va., has nothing new to report except the good news that he is returning to Reunion. Also mentions his move to a new home at the above address after twenty-five years in his former home.

Era A. Ladd, 1423 N. Medina Line Road, Akron 13, Ohio, reports no births, deaths, promotions or demotions since the last advice from him. In others words, he is still comptroller of Ohio Edison Co., Akron. Has made definite plans to return to Reunion.

Edmond N. Carples, Box 183, Rocky Hill, N.J., our extremely busy and capable Reunion chairman, reports that "my address after November 30, 1960 will be 540 Acacia Road, Vero Beach, Fla. We look ahead in the Bell System to retirement and I have secured a license to teach mathematics, physics, and chemistry in high school after I leave the cold north and finish a well-earned vacation after this Reunion number 40 is over."

S. Charles Lerner, 245 West 107th St., New York City, reported a West Indies and South American cruise on the SS Gripsholm last winter to recuperate after minor abdominal surgery. Charlie owns and operates Associated Analytical Laboratories, 336 Lexington Avenue, New York City, rendering testing service to the food and beverage industries. Charlie will attend our Reunion.

Robert K. Story, Jr., 11 Park Place, New York City 7. I have just learned in a round-about way how come Bob can practice law in New York City and spend so much time in Florida. Actually my spies inform me that Bob is also with William K. Chester & Associates, attorneys-at-law, Palm Beach Towers, Palm Beach, Fla. This is certainly a lovely arrangement, and the jet service being what it is, it's about the same as commuting to New York from Westport, Conn. on the New Haven. Bob will be reuniting with us in June.

Colonel Charles Ennis, Ennispak Farm, RD 1, Lyons, is very hopeful of joining our Reunion. He says: "I am now just one of the many senior citizens of this community. Have a part-time job as court crier for Wayne County Court and Supreme Court."

Jacob Mertens, 13 Campden Road, Scarsdale, is not only hopeful of returning to Reunion but will bring his wife, too. He says: "Expect to publish a six-volume work on the Law of Federal Gift and Estate Taxation. After that I'll either need a quiet retreat, or the Cornell Campus, and I much prefer the latter."

We're really getting pretty classy in this column now; we've acquired an Ithaca correspondent, no less, who reports all the '20 news that's fit to print, and some that's not! We daren't mention his name because he sorta does this surreptitiously, sneaking up on his victims unawares-like. Besides, his new advertising boss might object to this extra-curricular activity in the editorial line, and we don't want to injure his amateur standing aquatically either. So we expect some spicy, tangy tid-bits nown-then. He was johnny-on-the-spot to note that Class President Walt Archibald and Dottie were in Ithaca recently to hear their son Bruce '55, an accomplished composer of contemporary music, perform his latest work at the Festival for Contemporary Arts. Les Townsend, who hangs out on Sheldon Road, Ithaca, earlier this year flew to Dallas (Texas, that is) to take his granddaughter to see her mother get her degree from North Texas State. Sounds confusing, ain't it?, but true!

Out Cleveland way on the very day his seventh grandchild was born Kirk Reid just had to send a message that the new arrival is Scott Robin Reid, third son of Mr. & Mrs. Kirk Reid, Jr. '50. Grandpop's gift was a tennis racket to help carry on the family tradition. Also, there's a new gleam in the eye of Emil Kline in the same Ohio city as his only son Howard A. Kline '54 gets prepared to wed Florence DeHuller of Medina. Emil says it's pretty lonesome not being a grandfather.

A. Lester Fay of Arlington, Va. works as a civilian engineer for the Chief of Engineers, US Army. Lester says he was Father of the Bride three times and out. His daughters and families are scattered to the three winds, in New England, Florida, and Southern California. He says there's no sense to his moving to Washington State just to be in the fourth corner of the USA. When the time is right, Les will retire to his old home in Longmeadow, Mass., but not until he's finished with a half-million-dollar church building program.

Our travel department reports two postcards in the same mail, both pictures of beautiful ocean liners, one from Coonskin Jeff Kilborne who with Gordon MacKenzie is learning Spanish fast from the señoritas in Rio, Buenos Aires, and Montevideo, and the other from Moneybags Joe Diamant, living it up on the SS Homeric bound for the Virgin Islands and other spots. This might be a good time to audit the Class books! By now Jeff should be back in merry Moravia, and as for Joe, he might be waiting for the auditors to give the all-clear signal.

Don't look now, but guess who's in Bermuda? Yeah, Prince Philip! But who's telling him to watch the birdie? Right! Shutter-sick Stew Solomon! After a strenuous siege in the hospital, Stew has to lay around on the beach and pick up some sun-kissed vitamins, or whatever you call those Spanish babes. We'll get a card from Stew, too, but it won't be of an ocean liner. No sir!

'20's back in the political news on the shores of Lake Mich, as we announce the election of W. Edwin Richmond to the board of trustees of the Village of Kenilworth. Last year Tom Wakeley retired as president of this thriving metropolis of 2800 souls to give more attention to the investment firm of A. C. Allyn & Co., of which he is vice-president. Ed is still vice-president of Automatic Canteen, Inc., but finds retirement creeping up on him. Being a village trusty'll keep him from getting rusty!

As we tenderly and gently pull the chain on the old cuckoo clock, we sigh and say "That about winds it up." And so it does!

W. Brooke Graves, specialist in American government and public administration, senior specialists division in the Legislative Reference Service, Library of Congress, has been granted leave of absence from September, 1959 through January, 1960, to serve as Carnegie Visiting Professor of Political Science at University of Alaska, College, Alaska. He will give one course in American State Government and some lectures at the university and other places in the State, particularly at the community colleges at Ketchikan, Juneau, and Anchorage. He will also serve as consultant to the State Legislative Council and to several officials in the executive branch of the State government.

'22 Men—We knew right along that Oliver Comstock is a consultant in the Office of the Secretary of Defense in the Pentagon but didn't know exactly what kind of consultant and whether he is there to save or spend taxpayers' money. It now comes out that he is working principally on the reduction of operating and maintenance costs. His past experience as city manager at Bangor, Me. and Council Bluffs, Iowa qualifies him for the job inasmuch as the Pentagon is largely municipal in character. Ollie is also a director of the Military Government Association and would be very happy to see Cornellians who served in military government at the annual conference in Washington, June 13. He is also on the Fairfax County (Va.) Economic & Development Committee, in which capacity he is listing the advantages of moving industrial facilities to his area, but inasmuch as this editor is doing the same thing in his own town, he is not going to advertise another area in this space. He will admit, however, that early green peas probably do better down Ollie's way than in his neck of the woods.

William Gale has been and still is with General Electric in Syracuse and is currently working on a special radar project. He plans to retire in 1962 and move to the Lynchburg, Va., area where his daughter, son-in-law, and grandson, the L. R. DoYLES, are located. As treasurer of Gamma Theta Property Association, who own Sigma Nu lodge in Ithaca, Bill's contacts with Cornell have been quite frequent during all these years. The Gales live at 815 Lancaster Ave., Syracuse 10.

Douglas M. Moorhead has been elected to his tenth consecutive term as president of National Grape Cooperative Association, Inc., with headquarters in Westfield. Under his guidance, the 3500 members of the Association have received higher returns on their crops than any other group of Concord growers in the US.—JOE MOTYCKA

Chamberlain, Me.

Nelson (Nels) Schaenen, one of our stalwart galley slaves, recently visited his son Dave '52 and his family in Casper, Wyo. Then, enroute to Central America for a brief holiday, he stopped overnight in Denver, Colo. and remembered that the former overseer of the galley slaves, Bobbie Millar, was boss of the Denver water system, and the two of them talked over old times at breakfast. Bobbie, now more than six feet tall, and tipping the scale at over 200 lbs. was as garrulous as ever, and the good old days on the Hill came to life again with Bobbie's spicy embellishments.

Another good letter from Bob Matlock from down Owensboro, Ky. way, and he speaks of "cabbages, kings, and many things," telling of Larry Pryor's first experience catching bone fish in Bimini; "catching five or six pounders on light tackle makes you think you've got a whale," says Larry. George Holbrook "tapped" Bob for the southern region chairman for the Cornell Fund, and the Southerners, as usual, are coming through fine with Fund contributions. Thanks, Bob; I enjoyed the picture of the Ol' Colonel, pot belly and all.

Johnny Huttar, director of poultry industry relations, recently inducted into the National Good Egg Club New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller at an egg breakfast at the Governor's Mansion, with about thirty-five poultry industry leaders in the State attending.

In his Senior year on the hill, Clarence H. (Clem) Clemminshaw managed Jack Moakley's track team. Then he went to Harvard law school, graduating in 1926 and became a member of a leading law firm in Cleveland. But his interest in science made him enroll in a night extension class in astronomy at Case Institute of Technology. That did it. After a few classes, he decided then and there to give up law and concentrate on astronomy. It was no easy decision to make, this business of changing jobs at age 28, going into an entirely new field of endeavor, where there were few opportunities, especially during the depression. But part-time work, the sale of a piano, and a small fellowship paid expenses while Clem earned the Master's at Case, and after getting the PhD at University of Michigan in 1935, he got his first big break, astronomically speaking, a $900-a-year position with University of Pennsylvania. A year later, Clem applied for and received the position of assistant director of the new observatory in Griffith Park, Los Angeles, Cal., and soon became its director. The observatory staff estimates that in the last twenty-three years, Clem has given some 6200 lectures to more than 1.5 million persons. Clem is now glad he had the courage to switch professions, and so are the million who have come to know a little more about the universe around them. We sure are proud of you, Clem.

Dewitt C. Miles still practices law in Yonkers and Hastings-on-Hudson. Son Dewitt, Jr. is flying for Uncle Sam's Navy in the Philippines and daughter Priscilla Ann is at Cornell, Class of '60.

It's a great Class, my friends, the Class of 1923; and remember, mirth is good medicine. They who laugh, last. Must throw some lobsters in the pot. See you in two weeks.

The closing date for manuscripts is September 1, 1959.

'24 AB—Florence Daly of 15 Davis Avenue, New Rochelle, does drafting, technical drawings, and handles technical data for a company that designs and manufactures control devices for aircraft. During the last few years, until recently, she also had the job of editing a small magazine, Nike, which is the official publication of the New York State Federation of Business & Professional Women. She is looking forward to Reunion in June.

On a quick trip to visit the Cornell Clubs in Florida and New Orleans, it was a pleasure to see Robert D. Lair of 612 Velardie Ave. at the Coral Gables meeting, and to visit with Arthur V. Taft, who is controller of the Tampa Terrace Hotel. Art and his wife (May Wickes '25) reside at 1508 S. Howard Ave., Tampa. A note from Mordello Vincent of Lake Charles, La. advised that a business trip would prevent him from attending the New Orleans Club meeting.

Dr. Samuel T. Buckman of 70 S. Franklin St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., writes that his older son, Samuel, Jr., has graduated from Wilkes College and is presently in the Coast Guard on a weather ship off Labrador. His younger son, Lewis T. II, is a junior in civil engineering at Union College, Schenectady, and last year had an exchange scholarship at St. Andrews in Scotland.

John C. Trefts is executive vice-president of the Bank of Buffalo, formerly the Buffalo Industrial Bank. Jack is a director of the Automobile Club of Buffalo and the Buffalo Club. The latter was established in 1867 and has had two presidents of the United States as former members, Millard Fillmore and Grover Cleveland. Jack's home address is East Quaker Rd., Orchard Park.

Winton Patnode is a consultant in science and technology with headquarters at 30 Country Club Drive, Tacoma 99, Wash. Winton has had thirty years of teaching, research and development, and general management of technical enterprises of national scope during his career, has spent twelve years in the Pacific Northwest, has been employed by Cornell University, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, and Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. He is a member of American Chemical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, New York Academy of Sciences, Forest Products Research Society, and American Society for Engineering Education.

In early April, it was a pleasant surprise to receive a phone call from Andy Biemiller, whom we wrote about in the April 1 column, and learn that he was in Ithaca to give a talk before a seminar at Statler Hall. Luncheon with Andy and his sister gave us the opportunity to catch up with each other and the various Classmates we had seen recently.

'28 H. Victor Grohmann
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York 20, N.Y.

Robert D. Murdock (above), vice-president of Charles F. Noyes Co., Inc., has been elected to the board of directors of that New York City real estate firm. His election was one of six, as a first step in plans to broaden the company's activities in commercial and industrial real estate. Bob, who was business manager of the Cornell Daily Sun during his undergraduate days, has been in charge of leasing for Noyes in the city's financial district, since joining the firm in 1941.

Professor Barnard Hewitt delivered a Forbes Heermans Lecture this March at Cornell on "The American Theatre, Yesterday and Today." A professor in the department of speech at University of Illinois, Barney teaches history of the American theatre and aesthetics of the theatre. One of his main points was that if the theatre is to take its rightful place in our culture, it must spread to all large cities, through resident groups, rather than through the touring companies of today. He also deplored the current decrease in the number of productions, which has deprived aspiring playwrights of a showcase for their work. Barney is an active contributor to the literature on the theatre and has published several books on various aspects of the subject.

Henry L. Page has just been named director of the Division of Plant Industry in the New York State Department of Agriculture & Markets by Don J. Wickham '24, Commissioner of the Department. After graduating from Cornell, Henry became assistant country agricultural agent at Oswego and then county agent in 1930. He was agricultural agent of Erie County from 1935-43 when he became general manager of the Producer-Canners Cooperative at North Collins. He held this post until 1956 when he joined Red Wing Co. of Fredonia as upstate sales representative for that food processing concern. He resigned from the sales position to accept the appointment by Commissioner Wickham.

Don't forget to send in information about yourself with a current photograph.

We often find ourselves scraping the bottom of the barrel for news. Towards the end of our volume year this is especially true. We are there now; so we fall back on some of our old standbys.

Amos G. Allen, Jr. can always be counted on to keep us informed of doings in the Chicago area. In fact, he keeps Chicago informed of our doings. Each June, they hold a practice Reunion and predict that the 1959 practice will be held in the infield at Arlington Park. The 1958 trial run was held at the Chicago Yacht Club with Bill Hudson, Dick West, Chris Wilson, Glenn Herb, Harry Osgood, and Mose Allen, all in attendance. In case more '31ers would like to join the practice, Mose's address is 228 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago 1, Ill.

Herman Stuetzer, Jr. should be planning his vacation again. He and his family have spent the last two years at Prince Edward Island, golfing and swimming. His eldest daughter, Mrs. Peter Lauterbach, was a Naval widow for six months while her husband was on duty with the USS Wasp off Lebanon.

John O. Whitaker is a practicing dentist in Oneonta, with offices at 53 Chestnut Street, and home at 34 East Street. John took his dental degree at University of Penn in 1933. His oldest son, John Whitaker, Jr. '57, is now married and back at Cornell for graduate study. Second son, William, is in US Naval Academy ('61), plays varsity tennis, and is a member of the 150-pound football team. His youngest son is at Bugbee School, a practice school for the teachers college at Oneonta. The Whitaker family seems to be doing very well.

We cannot complete this column without news from our 50th State. William H. Pruyn has been in Honolulu for some years and has been a source of news to these columns. He has three children, 10, 7 and 4, is vice-president of Pacific Construction Co., Ltd., general contractors, and probably could not be paid to return to the other 49 States. He lives at 443 Aukoi Avenue, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Arthur L. Boschen became vice-president for finance, a newly-created position, of Vick Chemical Co., April 1. He was formerly vice-president and controller. He is also a director of several companies and past-president of New York City Control of the Controllers Institute of America. He is the brother of Henry C. Boschen '28 and George Boschen '35. His son, Spike, is a senior at Dartmouth; his daughter, Elaine, a freshman at Skidmore; and only Betsy, his 13-year-old, is at home, home being at 11 Lavender Lane, Rye.

N. I. Nilsson reports that he is now general superintendent for Turner Construction Co. in Chicago. He has two boys, the oldest of which expects to go to Cornell in 1960. He lives with his family at 2020 Highland Avenue, Wilmette, Ill.

Selig M. Kordon, MD, was appointed July 1 superintendent of the Mental Health Institute, Independence, Iowa. This is an 1100-bed hospital with 500 employees, associated with University of Iowa medical college. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Psychiatry & Neurology and a Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association. He is married to the former Beatrice Goldman of Hartford, Conn., and they have three daughters, Eileen 15, Jane 10, and Cathy 5.

Foster Cochran writes that he owns and operates a gift shop in Little Rock, Ark. and on buying trips to Chicago he often sees Frank Warren, who has three children, the oldest of whom graduated from Wells two years ago. He saw Towner Webster in New York last summer, who is still with American Can Co., but has since been transferred to Cincinnati. He also wrote "you may have heard Jack Starbuck died last spring." Foster lives with his family at 5709 Kavanaugh Boulevard, Little Rock, Ark.

Benjamin J. Lowenstein has two children of high school age, destined, he hopes, for Cornell. He resides at 169 Forest Hill Drive, Syracuse 6.

Charles A. Storke of Santa Barbara, Cal. writes that he has five children. His oldest daughter graduates from Smith this year and the youngest starts first grade. He says he rarely sees a member of the Class in California. His business interests involve mainly newspaper editing and publishing.

We hear from Robert W. Metzger, DVM, that he is director of quality control, Dairy-men's League Coop. Ass'n., Inc., president of the New York State Milk Sanitarians Association, and chairman of Milk & Food Sanitarians. He is also a member of Cornell Club of New York and Limestone Creek Hunt. '35, '36 BArch—Serge P. Petroff has become director of architecture for the planning-architectural-engineering branch of Charles Luckman Associates in New York City. He was formerly senior partner of his own architectural and engineering firm. For those of you who are going to pay a visit to our 49th State, please be sure to look up Edward J. O'Brien, general manager of Baranof Hotel in Juneau, Alaska.

David C. Amsler writes from 170 Chatham Road, Syracuse, that he recently spent a pleasant evening with Jim and Carol Forbes in their home in Cleveland, and also a week end with Bob Birchenough and his family in Slingerlands. Dave was recently elected a vice-president of Pass & Seymour, Inc., Syracuse.

Donald P. Keel, who sells for Penn-Dixie Cement Corp., in the Buffalo area, has a son, Don, Jr., in the Freshman Class at Cornell, studying Chemical Engineering under an NROTC scholarship. Edward J. Doyle, Jr. has just taken a new job as general manager of Ardmore Products Division of Amco Corp., Chicago, Ill., after twenty-three years with Commonwealth Edison Co. He lives at 616 Lake Ave., Wilmette, Ill.

We were terribly sorry to hear that Barry Howard passed away last October. We received word from his wife, from 1332 Savannah Street, SE, Washington 20, D.C., telling us the sad news.

Robert Holland Jones is assistant general agent for Texas & Pacific Railway. He has two sons: Holland, Jr., a senior at Sewanee Military Academy, and Midgeley, a junior at Lawrenceville School. His home is at 522 Unadilla Street, Shreveport, La.

A. P. Mills checks in from 310 Beverly Drive, Alexandria, Va., and advises that after thirteen years as Washington representative of Hearst Publications, he has opened his own consulting business at 1224 National Press Building, Washington, D.C., specializing in serving the advertising and publishing fields. He has several Hearst units as clients, and I know that Del has the best wishes of all of us for every success in his new venture.

Albert Koenig, in the foreign service of the International Cooperation Administration, is currently on an assignment in Washington. Due to Albert's career, his 12-year-old daughter has attended a host of schools in the last few years: Athens, San Francisco, Karachi, Seattle, and now Arlington, Va., where the Koenigs live at 429 North Norwood Street.

Edward A. Suchman, 116 East 78th Street, New York City, is on leave of absence as professor of Sociology at Cornell, to serve as director of social science activities for the Department of Health in New York City, and also as visiting professor of medical sociology at Columbia University.

John W. Kelly, our Class representative for the Cornell Fund Program, has been doing a good job for this all-important project despite an extended bout with the flu. John is secretary-treasurer of Kelly Bros. Nurseries, Inc., Dansville, and spent an interesting summer last year viewing nurseries in Germany, Holland, Belgium, Italy, France, and England.

Last heard from, Richard Kunkle and his wife were living at 9112 Wenonga Road, Prairie Village, Kan., with their son and daughter. They enjoy that section of the country, where Dick still indulges in hunting, fishing, swimming, and the PTA.

Edward A. Miller was recently promoted from vice-president to executive vice-president of Fenestra, Inc., Detroit, Mich. He continues in charge of the building products division. Ed has been with Fenestra for about sixteen years and now lives at 827 Whittier Street, Grosse Pointe, Mich.

There was an interesting article in the

New York Herald Tribune 1959 Preview of Scientific Progress recently by Millett G. Morgan entitled "Does Sun's Gas Pervade Outer Space?" The article was written in connection with his position as chairman of the technical panel on ionospheric physics of the US National Committee of the IGY. Millett is director of engineering at Dartmouth College.

Aburrahman Nasit Sarica wrote a most interesting letter from Ankara, Turkey. He is married to a Turkish girl and they now live at Gazi Egitim Enstitusu Ogretmeni in Ankara with their three children. His daughter attends a law school in Ankara. One son is a junior in high school and the other son, in the fourth grade of an elementary school there. He adds, "I hope some day they are going to be Cornellians." Nasit teaches educational psychology at Gazi Institute of Ankara and hopes to visit Cornell soon. How about our Twenty-five-year Reunion in 1962?

'37 Women—My brother, Bob Cline '39, is bringing his wife, Rita, to Reunion for her first view of the Campus. He says to tell "Kip" (Austin Kiplinger '39) to bring "Gogo," too. I hereby warn '39ers not to get brother started talking about his two daughters! (But Aunt Carol always carries photos of Julie, 5, and Meredith, 3, and she'll be glad to give you a report on her two remarkable nieces.)

I must remember to ask Emerson Hinchliff '14 and Foster Coffin '12 whether the Continuous Reunion Club and the Interclass Alumni Club take in women members. If not, we'll have to start a Ladies Auxiliary for the many gals who trek back to Ithaca each June to renew old acquaintance, gaze at the far off hills, and go home rejuvenated. Staying up all night in those dormitory bull sessions, huffing and puffing up and down the hills, and wearing out the knees climbing steps in Clara Dickson may show up our age physically, but there is nothing like a yearly check-up of the Campus for recharging the batteries mentally.

Flo Cohen Strauss reported months ago that Alice Gray was spending this year in California working on the PhD. Alice was also working on an encyclopedia article. Last summer, she taught teenagers of the Junior Entomological Society at the Museum of Natural History in New York. She's temporarily at 2215 Rose St., Berkeley 9, Cal.

Flo also passed along an article from the June 22 New York Times Magazine, entitled "Why They Run Away," which contained this paragraph: "Ruth Ehrlich Bro of the Travelers Aid Society of Los Angeles has reported that many youngsters, despite their expressed requests to that agency for jobs or financial help in maintaining themselves on their own, need only the gentlest prodding to express their longing to return home. Their only anxiety may be what kind of reception they will receive when they get back and whether they will be welcome. 'Return home,' Mrs. Bro said, 'need not be an ignominious ending to a gesture of defiance but the possible new beginning of family relationships on a different level of understanding for all concerned' . . ."

Good old Flo, who got lost in the St. Lawrence in the Thousand Islands with no charts and also "had some hair-raising adventures on the Hudson River" with her family in their new boat last summer, is a doll about helping us keep this column filled. Here's part of a letter she got from Ruth Fenninger: "I was working in Rochester from October, 1957 to May, 1958 when I came home again to live. Now I'm secretary to my father who is executive secretary of the American Technical Education Association. I like this work very much." Ruth lives at 22 Oakwood Place, Delmar, five miles from Albany.

Clare McCann, can you leave the Girl Scouts in Norwich long enough to join the gang in Ithaca Reunion week end? You are such a lousy correspondent but such an excellent raconteur and no late dormitory bull session is complete without you. Besides, we have to check up on your health. Lots of gals write and ask "how's McCann" and all I know is that you were in the hospital again for ten weeks last year and are now back at your job.

Hope everyone read and re-read "The College Teacher: 1959" in April 1 issue of this illustrious magazine. It is definitely required reading. See that all your friends and neighbors read it too.—CAROL CLINE

'38 Men—Hi-ho, here we go again with a grab-bag of news items.

The first one is rather sad, the report of the death of Dee Henry's wife, Elaine, last December. Dee's address is 2445 County Rd., Palm Beach. Jim Wilcox is director of the mortgage loan & real estate branch of State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America, Worcester, Mass.; also the father of five children, ages 2 to 12. The Wilcoxs live at 17 Laurelwood Rd., Holden, Mass.

Gert Schmidt reports his tractor business hit an all-time high in sales last fall. Says he occasionally sees Bill Miller, who's in charge of dining facilities at University of Florida. Al Bacon is a master sergeant in the US Army, currently stationed in Okinawa. His permanent address is RFD, Jaffrey, N.H. Bob Williams got married recently and moved to the West Coast. Address: 150 Baylor Dr., Ventura, Cal.

For those of you on the travel or vacation circuit, here are some '38ers who will fling wide the doors for you at various hostilities here and abroad: Bruce Rogers, mgr., John Bartram Hotel, Philadelphia; Al Fry, mgr., Bohemian Club, San Francisco; Johnny Faiella, owner, Waterlet Inn, Southampton, Bermuda; Charlie Toombs, mgr., Lombard Hotel, San Francisco; Hack Blaisdell, gen. mgr., St. Clair Country Club, Pittsburgh.

Changes in address (and I'm not at all sure we're not going around a second time, the number of cards that are streaming in): Fred Skinner, 335 Pelhamdale Ave., Pelham; Bob Shaw, 264 Bradford St., Albany 6; Archie Petty, 8 Mechanic St., Oxford; Rick Perna, Somerset Lane, Riverside, Conn.; Sy Kaplan, 1688 Merriman Rd., Akron 13; Buzz Hines, Lakeview Ave., Hamburg.

(Twenty-year Reunion)

Ralph Smith has been appointed executive secretary of the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Inc. of Syracuse. He has been on the staff of the Farm Security Administration, US Department of Agriculture, and has served in the capacity of field supervisor for the Agency. Jerome Schneek has been appointed associate visiting psychiatrist at Kings County Hospital Center, Brooklyn.

John Moir, director of industrial engineering and industrial relations at Kekaha Sugar Co., Kekaha, Kauai, Hawaii, is being sponsored by his firm at the Stamford executive development program for men 40 to 55 at the graduate school of business, starting June 21. He will drive to Palo Alto after the '39 Class Reunion. Jack has four children, two older daughters and two young sons, one of them John IV. Besides all this, he was president of Kauai Junior Chamber of Commerce and "Man of the Year"; is now president of The Hawaii State Chamber of Commerce. He will, as president, be the West Kauai Rotary's delegate to the Rotary convention in June. This all sounds to the writer as a way to get to the Reunion in June. I imagine what would happen if we all tried that hard.

Time is fleeting; only a month before Reunion. So send your reservation and money to Lovejoy and let's get crackin'!

Arthur E. Durfee
RD 2
Ithaca, N.Y.

It is unfortunate to have business interfere with pleasure, but that seems to be the experience of W. Jordan Severinghaus whose travel for Ford International Division kept him so busy that he was unable to make much use of the small "Ketch I" which he launched in July after spending three years of building it "from scratch with no kit." His travels took him for a month in Argentina followed by a month in Sao Paulo, Brazil. On the return trip he spent a week with friends in Caracas, Venezuela. His address is 1704 Sunset Blvd., Royal Oak, Mich.

Robert W. Pressing (above) has been appointed general manager of the new products department of Linde Co., division of Union Carbide Corp., New York City. Bob will be in charge of all production, development, and processes.

On the political front, the New York

Herald Tribune reported that the Metropolitan Political Club has expanded its board and one of those added is Charles T. Stewart, secretary of R. H. Macy & Co.

More on the industrial front, George A. Gentes has been named production manager of the Western Chemical Division recently formed in Hooker Chemical Corp. George has been with Hooker since completing Chemical Engineering in 1941. Most recently, he has been works manager of the Tacoma Plant. He is also a director and vice-president of Solar Salt Co., Great Salt Lake, Utah. He and his wife reside at Brown's Point, Tacoma, Wash., with their three children.

From far away Karachi, Pakistan, comes word that Robert W. Caldwell and family is now established and enjoying a new assignment. Bob reports that it is fascinating country with many interesting things going on. He is Labor Attaché with the American Embassy and finds that that brings him into contact with a cross-section of the people and in touch with many of the difficult and urgent problems, including economic, social and political affairs, of the young nation. He informs us that Pakistan is the sixth largest nation in the world. His address is American Embassy (State), APO 271, New York City.

Angelo Repas is now sales representative with Dome Chemicals, Inc. He reports that he still lives in Albany and can be found at 160 Old Hickory Drive.

One year and eighteen issues ago, an article appeared among the front pages of the ALUMNI NEWS entitled "Welcome to '41" and noting that "'41 is the youngest Class to adopt the group subscription plan." Farther back in that June 1 issue appeared "News of the Alumni" and our first column to reach the entire Class. Pete Gifford's picture led the parade. Since then photographs have headed each column and news has been recorded concerning more than 165 Classmates.

ers of St. Louis, as president. Mrs. Simmons is the former Ann Horr, Wells College. They have four children. Thanks to Simmy, Delta Tau Delta is approaching full participation in our Class dues program. To the many interested Classmates who have aided the cause by contacting other '41ers, go our hearty thanks. If space permitted, individual names would follow.

Howard A. Schuck, Hq.AAC, OA, APO 942, Seattle, Wash., writes: "In order to make my presence known to Cornellians who may either be located in the 49th State, or are contemplating a visit to it, I would like to announce that I am now established in Alaska. In October I was appointed chief operations analyst of the US Air Force in Alaska (Alaskan Air Command), and my wife and I drove up the ALCAN Highway from our former home in Colorado Springs, Colo. We are located at Anchorage, on Elmendorf Air Force Base, and would be happy to see other Cornellians when they are in this area."

From Djarkarta, Indonesia comes word from Henry N. Spohr, operations manager of Standard Vacuum Oil Co. there. For thirteen years Hank has worked for Stanvac and is already planning for his future retirement in Waquoit, Cape Cod, where he has been building a house. During the middle of next year, he expects to return to "the States" for four months and another look at Cornell. Deborah 7, Kathleen 6, and Tucker 3 are the children. Mrs. Spohr was the former Elizabeth Baker of Maplewood, N.J. Address mail care of N.V. Standard-Vacuum Sales Co., Kotak Pos No. DKT-2048, Djakarta, Indonesia.

Closing story: Sarah Bennett Bartholomew arrived at Hartford Hospital, April 11. Sally is the third child and first daughter of Janie and your reporter. Her mother is the former Jane Leavitt of West Hartford. Her grandfather is Walter L. Bartholomew '10 and one of her uncles is the Reverend John P. Bartholomew '53.

'43 Women—It was just about a year ago that we were all pepped up about our 15th and while I was duly elected your Class correspondent there is a slight misconception. Mrs. Charles Albert (Mary June Linsley), 125 Broadbridge Rd., Bridgeport 10, Conn., was late in arriving for our Class dinner and election; however, she will serve as co-correspondent, as she missed formal nomination last June. I find a big lack in the news department, but recently set about to find some by telephone calls to our Ithaca Classmates.

By now the J. Basil Abbinks '43 (Barbara Brittain) have probably moved to their new home at 510 Henley Drive, Birmingham, Mich. Mrs. O. B. Billings's '37 (Sue Moffitt) Christmas greetings came from Florida; her oldest daughter is a freshman at Alfred University this year. Mrs. William Rockwell's (Mary Lib Taylor) reason for not attending Reunion arrived in August, a girl. Mrs. John Cullen's (Betsy Keller, 3 Locust Ct., Old Bridge, N.J.) reason was a boy born August 9. Mrs. John Klitgord '40 (June Gilbert) sent along another item, too; Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Horger (Sue Krehbiel), 477 Esplanade, Pelham, have added number six, a girl, Joanna Mary, born March 14. Mrs. John Munschauer '40 (Grace Wood) was all set to vacation in Florida but plans went astray. Grace reports that Mr. and Mrs.

William Cochrane '43 (Anne Patterson) visited at 105 Comstock the week end of the Heptagonals.

Mrs. Donald Schworer (Mary Foster) is due to return from Manila for a visit late next fall. Mrs. Elmer Pelham (June Chambers), Rt. 1, Ukiah, Cal., has a job with the Department of Employment, State of California and is ranch keeping, too. Mrs. Howard Evans, PhD '49 (Mary Alice Dietrich) and family of three, including son Timothy, born last November, are with Dr. Howard E. in Ceurnazaca, Mexico until June. By July, they hope to be finishing their leave from Cornell at the Southwestern Research Station in Portal, Ariz. Mrs. Louis Conti '41 (Dottie Kellogg) is feeling much better after a bout with the doctor and hospital. Dottie lives at 648 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, Ill. Mrs. C. B. Mitchell (Mary Kolar), husband, and three children are currently houseless; they have left the Chicago area and are going to be located, at least temporarily, in Wilmington, Del. Mary's husband is with DuPont.

Mrs. Charles Ostrander '41 (Gracia Byrne) was chairman of the Hospital Aid's Charity Ball held in Ithaca during the winter. Gracia tells me that Mrs. James Lakis '43 (Margaret Dilts), 9 Greenacres Ave., West Hartford, Conn., had a new arrival last December 6, a baby girl named Leslie Anne. Mrs. John Turnbull '41 (Constance Luhr) has just been re-elected president of the Ithaca Senior High PTA. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Melchen '44 (Betty Vose) will be co-presidents of the Ithaca South Hill School PTA. At the annual meeting of the parents' committee of the children's ward of the Tompkins County Hospital, I was the proud recipient of the award of "The Order of the Yellow Tulip." The award reads: to Sally Bradley for tender, loving care she has given to their organization through years of generous and unstinting service. As county membership chairman, as secretary, and as 'Pinky's' Edgar Bergen, she has helped, in no small measure, to make parents' committee an ever-growing agency." Pinkie is a hand puppet, a hospital volunteer, given to each child admitted to the pediatric ward.

It's never too late to support the Cornell Fund. Kay Rogers Randall needs your interest and support in her efforts on behalf of the Fund.

You can see I have exhausted the Ithaca news, so let's hear from each of you.

'44, '47 AB—Hubert A. Gerstman is an insurance agent and broker, and his address is 138 Highland Avenue, Buffalo 22. The Gerstmans have four children.

'44, '46 AB; '52 BSinNurs—Dr. Morris Goodman practices pediatrics at 80 Oak Street, Binghamton. A daughter, Janis Beth, was born last August 24 to him and Mrs. Goodman (Lillian Goldman) '52, joining brothers Philip and Edward. The family lives at 66 Aldrich Avenue, Binghamton.

'47 Men—Back in February, Charles R. Mischke journeyed to Easton, Pa. where he took part in a panel discussion at Lafayette College. Four mechanical engineering department heads participated; our boy holds that position at Pratt Institute. The panelist considered current trends for unified curriculum plans in engineering schools, the theoretical versus the applied approach to an engineering education, and the five-year curriculum plan.

The other day I happened to uncover a 1958 Christmas card (don't worry I had opened it in season) with news which might be spread around this column. Boris Oxman outlined three major overseas trips during his lifetime. The first one I sense to be at the request of our Government in that the years involved were 1943-46. Dotted line on map shows France, Germany, Italy, Africa, and other spots of beauty and adventure. Sitting on top of the dotted line is a boat, all of which means troop ship to me. Looking across to the other side of the map, we see a neatly dotted line starting at San Francisco running over to some little islands off Asia and back again; more troop ship? Interspersed all over the United States of America are dotted lines going north, south, east, and west. The latest trip occurred in 1958 with the route being south and the following cities written on the Christmas card: Lima, Buenos Aires, San Pablo, Rio de Janeiro, Caracas, San Juan. Inside there is this quote: "Four weeks in South America was a wonderful experience especially since it was unexpected and at very short notice!" Did Oxman use an expense account or is he spending happy bachelor money?

Just a few miles from here, Pete Schwarz continues his fine ambassadorship for Cornell in the Rochester area. Why, he becomes involved occasionally in Cornell Club activities! Pete works with his father, Ralph C. Schwarz '08, and they have a firm that manufactures industrial equipment. Business address: 75 College Ave., Rochester 7.

Every once in a while, I receive a letter from overseas which reminds me that we have some dedicated Classmates who are spending their lives working on fascinatingly different projects. March 10, John Gould fired a few lines from Geneva, Switzerland. He's working for Comite Inter-gouvernemental Pour Les Migrations Europeennes, 63 rue de Paquis, Geneve, Suisse, otherwise known as ICEM. Plays in the European migration field. Since John states that he hasn't been in communication with Classmates during recent years, I pass along the information that Ken O'Day has just moved to Geneva, where he is in the accounting department for Chrysler Corp. Ken's new address is Chrysler International, PO Box 281, Mt. Blanc Station, Geneva, Switz. Our Class has 42 foreign-dwelling Classmates, putting us very close to top dog when compared to other Cornell Classes for foreign strength; in fact, the Classes of '23 and '24 are the only older Classes having more physical bodies residing overseas. Does anyone have an idea as to how we can spread the spirit of Cornell to these men? And, I'm not referring to the fund raising!

Not only is Dave Dulaff working down in New Jersey for our Fund this year, but he has submitted some personal news about himself and family. Seeing his name reminds me of his effervescent personality during our last Reunion when he managed to ensnare many Classmates and other Cornellians for rousing periods of off-key singing! Dave writes he is a senior project engineer for Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N.J. No mention of his wife's name, but the children are Kathy, 8, Paul, 3, and Karl, 6 mos. Dave, you'd better start building up for our big 15th in 1962. We need solid stuff and a bunch of men with gregarious natures. Keep the date.—BARLOW WARE

'47 Women—Word has travelled from the western part of this country that Trudy Muller (Gertrude Y. Muller) is setting up stakes out there. Trudy writes: "I have recently moved into my own place in this wonderful Valley of the Sun, at 1117 East Alice Avenue, Phoenix, Ariz. I am busy trying to learn how to be a homemaker and a gardener. This is in between such things as my busy office schedule, activities in the Association for Advertising Women of Arizona and the Cactomaniacs Club. I also have visitors fleeing the rigors of the Eastern winter." After your friends see to where you have moved, Trudy, you may have more visitors, especially if next winter is as bad as this last one was here in Western New York. Trudy has been secretary to the Phoenix Association of Home Builders for the last four and a half years.

Activities are buzzing now that people are drawing from their winter holes. I went to the Rochester Cornell Women's Club fashion show last week, held for the scholarship fund. I saw there Barbara Masseth, Ann Buck '53, Joan Donovan '53, and Elizabeth Lloyd '50. I also met Barb skiing this winter at Mt. Snow, Vt. She finally decided to enjoy winter rather than fight it. I also met at Mt. Snow Margaret Moser '48. She is now doing 4-H Club work in Amherst, Mass.

I hope you will keep up the good work and send me more news. Don't forget the Alumni Fund if you haven't already sent in your contribution.—URSULA HOLAHAN

'49 Men—M. Lawrence Bayern has been appointed staff assistant to animal industry products manager, agricultural division, American Cyanamid Co. and has the family at a new address: 152 Terhune Road, Princeton, N.J. H. Follett Hodgkins, Jr. is moving June 15 to 504 Rugby Road, Syracuse. Just trying to make the distance to Reunion shorter, I guess. Another '49er on the move is James C. Huntington, Jr. who now lives at 5067 North Lake Drive, Whitefish Bay, Wis.

Norman Tinkle outlined his last three hectic years in a letter. Norm started his own business, "Cindy's, Brattleboro's largest women's specialty shop" and became father of a son in 1957, then father of a daughter in 1958, and finally has a new home at 56½ Western Ave., Brattleboro, Vt. He is coming to Reunion to rest! William E. Johnson, 96 Broad Street, Flemington, N.J., reports that his advertising-public relations firm is doing just fine and a fourth youngster is expected to help fill up the house.

Walter J. Bugby II, Hotel Dennis, Atlantic City, N.J., has another son, David, born August 13. James Sliger writes from 4315 South Madelia, Spokane, Wash., that his third child, Edward James, was born last July. Charles E. Wolf is an agricultural engineer in the farm service department of New York State Electric & Gas Corp. and says the family (three children and Rhoda) is fine. Charles lives on West Church St., Box 106, Eden, and has made plans to return for the Terrific Tenth with Bob Staplin and Jack Wolf. James P. Purcell is project manager for DeLevin, Cather & Brill, general consultants to the Greater Hartford Bridge Authority in Connecticut. When Jim is not at 138 Freeman St., Hartford, Conn., watching over his six children, he is constructing new toll bridges across the Connecticut River.

Walter S. Ainsworth has moved to Woodstock Rd., Gates Mills, Ohio, and is now assistant district sales manager with Phelps Dodge Copper Products Corp. He has two children, a boy and a girl, and definitely expects to make Reunion.

Speaking of making Reunion, how about you? Come June 15, it will be too late to bemoan your fate because you will have missed the greatest show in the world, The Terrific Tenth of the '49ers! So send in your reservation, pack your bag and let's go to Ithaca, June 11-12-13.—DICK KEEGAN

'50 Men—Robert Collins, 4812 Harlem Rd., Snyder 26, remains in forging and casting sales with Miller & Collins. He and his wife have four children. The current address of another member from the Buffalo area is: Dewey E. Ertell, Jr., 272 Voorhees Ave., Buffalo 16.

Ellner, 1515 Grand Concourse, New York City 52, announces the opening of his office for practice of urology. He has also been appointed clinical instructor in urology at New York Medical College, Flower & Fifth Ave. Hospitals.

Jack B. Foley, 2364 S. Octavia Dr., Mobile, Ala., is with Erwin Engineering Corp. He says that son William B. started school this fall. (That would mean he should be entering Cornell with the Class of '75.) William E. Gibb, RD1, East Lake Rd., Dunkirk, is a mechanical supervisor with Stone & Webster Engineering Corp. and is currently engaged in the building of a 440,000 KW steam plant in Dunkirk. He and his wife had their third daughter in April, 1958. Samuel C. Johnson, 1737 Wisconsin Ave., Racine, Wis., is now the father of two boys and a girl, with son Fisk having been born last May. As of a year ago January, Sam has been vice-president of service products division, S. C. Johnson & Son. George J. Pandl, 4729 N. Idlewild Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., is co-owner of the Whitefish Bay Inn in that area. He and his wife have three children.

As of the time of writing, Class Treasurer Ralph M. Starke, 240 Milton Road, Rye, reports that an overwhelming .6% of the Class has responded to the several preceding notices with regard to the payment of your 1959 dues of $2. Needless to say, this veritable flood of checks, some ten in number, is not anywhere near sufficient to meet the continuing Class financial deficit, much less provide a balance for subsequent Class activities. In view of this, it would be much appreciated if the other 1590 of you who have not as yet paid your dues would take care of this matter by sending a check or money order to Ralph at the above address. In addition, if performing this deed of financial loyalty doesn't exhaust your energies, you might send me a card or note containing some news for the column.

What news items have been received recently concern weddings. The principals at Southport, Conn., April 5, were Harold Oaklander, Arlington, N.J., and Dr. Isabelle Juliette Marthia Rapin of Lausanne, Switzerland. Harold is currently studying under a university fellowship at Yale, and he is a member of the faculty of New Haven College. His wife is an instructor in neurology at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. She took her residency training at the neurological institute of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, after having graduated from the school of medicine of University of Lausanne, where her father is a professor of English.

The previous week, in Darien, Conn., Murray Adams, son of John C. Adams '26, president of Hofstra College, and Mrs. Adams, married Lucy Porritt Green. Chip Shelton, 3353 Martha Custis Drive, Alexandria, Va., was best man, and his wife Joan (née Adams) was the matron of honor. Murray received the LLB at Harvard in 1957, and since then has been with the New York law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell. Murray's wife was graduated from the George School in Bucks County, Pa., and Radcliffe College. She is on the staff of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York.

'52 Women: Alison Bliss Graham
2211 The Plaza,
Schenectady, N.Y.

Hi! Have you missed us the last couple of months, I hope? Sorry to have been silent for so long, but ladies, I can't invent news, and my mail basket has been absolutely empty for lo these many weeks. So get busy and write me the latest about yourselves and your friends, before this column vanishes altogether. And, while we're registering complaints, lack of dues paid is keeping the long-projected Class newsletter on the shelf; so how about sending in your $2 to Barbara Galvin Rittenhouse, at 66 Leigh St., Clinton, N.J.

A card from Class secretary Jeanne Brown Craig announces the arrival of son William Cassin Craig, January 20, to be little brother to 2-year-old Pamela. And from 'way out West in San Francisco, Carolyn Flint writes that her work as dietician for the Southern Pacific Railroad Hospital takes most of her time. However, she has managed to get in a two-week hop over to Las Vegas, with side trips to the Grand Canyon and Disneyland in Los Angeles, and she's hoping to get back to the civilized (?) East in December. Carolyn's address is 3237 Rivera St., San Francisco 16, Cal.

A nice letter from Elaine Rose Ruderman says that she and husband Sidney, with children Joan, 3½, and Paul, 1½, moved into a fine split level at 2600 Phyllis Drive, North Bellmore, last August. Elaine writes: "For the last three months, I've been employed part time as an Extension home economist by the Nassau County Extension Service in Mineola. Three days a week, I conduct a food marketing information service for county residents. My work involves taping three telephone messages a week on timely topics of food and food shopping. (I hope Long Island Cornellians will call Pioneer 6-8340.) I also enjoy writing press releases, and attending conferences, lectures, and institutes. Who said that moving to the suburbs was a stifling experience?"

'53 Men: W. Fletcher Hock Jr.
60 Sherwood Road

Class of '53 has a people-to-people representative in the best traditions of The Ugly American. He is Ray Borton, who embarked last October on a two-year mission with an International Voluntary Services team in Vietnam. Some of Ray's latest reports read:

Most of the time now I'm in Dalat, a town in the mountains about 180 miles north of Saigon, where we are developing a plant propagation and experiment station especially for vegetables, flowers, and small fruits. In this general area are about 70,000 people, two-thirds of whom are refugees from the north who fled Communism in 1954.

An elevation of 4500 feet gives Dalat an average temperature of 63° to 68°, the coolest in Vietnam. Many of the vegetables sold in Vietnam are produced here, especially cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, and lettuce which need cool weather. We plan to test the adaptability of new varieties of vegetables and to compare them to existing strains which originated in France. We also hope to demonstrate new kinds of irrigation and to try different fertilizer combinations and insecticides than are now being used. However, multiplying and testing seed for distribution will be our real goal.

A former Sun feature writer, Borton's last domestic position was in the extension editorial office of the college of agriculture at University of Connecticut. His journalistic talents are put to good use in the monthly digests he sends back across the Pacific. Ray made the trip to Vietnam via Hawaii, Tokyo, and Hong Kong. At first his time was divided between Ban Me Thuot, where the main group of the team is setting up an agricultural experiment station, and Gia Ray, where a smaller number are converting a former French facility into a propagation station for crop seeds and home fruit trees. At these sites Ray would spend mornings working on the team's farms and afternoons learning Vietnamese from an interpreter.

Since arriving at Dalat he has been appointed acting co-chief-of-party for the IVS team in Vietnam. Ray says:

This bit of the Orient is a country with a myriad of new sights, sounds, smells, and sensations. We travel through flooded rice fields and lush banana groves. Beyond the heavily populated areas are miles of rubber trees set in ranks and files on rich looking plantations. Then comes the thick green jungle which towers and twines above and around you. Higher in the hills are the coffee and tea plantations and at the end of a 200-mile trip Ban Me Thuot seems like a real metropolis even though it is not much more than a big frontier town.

For those who would like to be on Ray's mailing list, the price of admission is a newsy letter to him. His address: IVS Team, USOM/Agri. Division, c/o American Embassy, Saigon, Vietnam.

By now, everyone should have received a letter from Class Secretary Sandy Berkman with Reunion plans. If you haven't returned the reservation form yet to Edie Buermeyer at Anabel Taylor Hall, do it today! And, don't forget to send $2 for Class dues, for without the dues, there can be no newsletter! As Sandy's letter points out, reservations need not be absolutely definite, but will help the committee in making Reunion plans.

A postscript to the news about Sallie and Reg '52 Marchant in my last column is word of the arrival of a new member of the family, Katharine Ann, born March 12. Another new arrival is Jill Ellen Fein, born March 28, according to a note from her mother, Monica Hess Fein. She has a brother, Larry, who is two and a half. The Feins live at 51 Gregory Street, New City.

This seems to be the year for girls, for there are two more potential Cornellians added to the roster of '54 offspring and both are girls. Aline (Nitzsche) and Arthur Ashkin, PhD '52, are the parents of Judith, born April 3. They also have a son, Michael, who is three and a half. They live at Washington Corner Road, RD 1, Bernardsville, N.J.

Last, but not least, is word of the arrival of Rebecka Eileen Grahm January 16. Her mother, Juliet Bohman Grahm, writes that they are living at 680 Poly Place, Apt. 4A, Brooklyn 9, where her husband is stationed at the Military Sea Transport Service for the duration of his service career, which is due to be completed in March of next year.

Have several items of news for which I thank Ruth Behrens who sent a long letter, in response to my plea for news.

Diane (Freeman) and Fred Kuehn '55 live at 209 South Geneva Street, Ithaca. Diane is head dietician at Riskey while Fred completes his work in the School of Electrical Engineering, which was interrupted by a stint in the service. Noga Gelman is teaching and working toward the PhD at Barnard College. She lives at 1415 Linden Blvd., Brooklyn 12. Joanne (Wilson) and Walter Wietgreffe live at 565 East State Street, Salamanca.

Ruth also sent me a clipping of a story from the December issue of Cosmopolitan magazine which featured Joan (Skillicorn) and Rodney Morris '55. The article, "Who Goes into Religious Life," contained several pictures of Joan, her husband, and their daughter, Kathleen Susan, who was born in Kenya, British East Africa, where the Morrisses served for two years as agricultural missionaries.

How about some mail from those of you who haven't written recently? And, don't forget Reunion, June 11, 12 & 13!

'55 Men: Frederick W. Rose
Cornell Univ. Hall #2
Ithaca, N.Y.

Someone from the Class has finally managed to get a letter out of the confines of New York City and thus bring us up to date on some Cornellians down there, first hand. Otto Schneider, "Toot" from his undergraduate days, is the recipient of the '55 Award for the month of May for his outstanding news coverage of Class activities in the metropolitan area, overcoming the burden of apathy which occasionally discourages the lifting of the pen in such undertakings. This award and your Class badge will get you free liquid refreshments in the tents on Alumni Week End, Toot. We will try to do justice to your letter which we appreciated so much.

Toot starts with news of his roommate, Jack McCartie, who is in the industrial relations department of Western Electric. They have an apartment in the "Village" and would appreciate hearing from any of the members of the Class normally featured in the column following this if they are in town. They have been residents of the city for some sixteen months now and I would imagine that they would provide an excellent guide service. Don Meyer was down that way until March when he went with MLPF&S in Toronto where he is now, pending a June wedding. He was living with Hirsch Abelson who, Toot also reports, is contemplating a marriage in May. Don Greenberg has been touring Germany at Army expense, but is presently stationed at Aberdeen, after having just missed out being on the military soccer team that is trying out for the Olympics. Mike Sena is back in town doing graduate work at Columbia.

Toot also reports a letter from the Jeff Machamers (Sue Hurd '55) who write that they are anxiously awaiting their first-born. Jeff finishes the Master's in geology at McGill in May. Toot's own informants tell him that Jeff was first in his class for the first year and received a fellowship for his efforts, the first American to do so in many years. Last but not least, Toot writes of his job with Home Life Insurance Co. and his enjoyment of city living.

Bill Scott, office manager of Ithaca Insurance Co., has been elected regional vice-president of the Finger Lakes Junior Chamber of Commerce. Bill is married to the former Jean Willman '56 and they have one son, Gary, 2.

A postcard (that's all it takes, remember!) tells of the wedding of Ed Emmet to Kathleen M. Ledgard, April 18. They honeymooned in the Caribbean and upon return will live in Jackson Heights. Ed is with Procter & Gamble, where, by the way, he met his wife.

From Iowa State College where he is a graduate student in ag engineering, Dave Link writes of the receipt of a National Science Foundation Fellowship for next year's study. Dave, we are sorry that your past "yellow slips" haven't found their way into the column, but we assure you, as well as all of the other members of the Class, that if you'll write we'll get it in. A letter to my wife from Jo Schoff (Joanna Haab '55) says that Jim is really enjoying being an assistant buyer for Marshall Field's in Chicago and that they will be back in Ithaca for graduation.

'55 Women: Tay Fehr Miller
Penzel Apts. A-32
Upper Darby, Pa.

Communiques from our Class officers are still being received, and it is good to hear from these hard-working gals. Ann Overbeck writes of a busy existence in Boston, Mass., while living at 50 S. Russel. "I am actively and enthusiastically pursuing a career of psychiatric social work at Massachusetts General Hospital. I got the Master's degree in social science at Smith in August, 1957 and have been at the hospital since. I work with both the adult patients, psychiatric ward patients, and child psychiatry mothers. Outside of working hours, I'm busy with Boston activities, housekeeping, and, of course, bridge. My most mammoth work is that of president of the Smith social work alumnae which follows also president of the student body while I was at school." Ann is planning a vacation trip in August to Puerto Rico to visit Rae Pullen Alexakos and husband Leo (Box 1152, San Juan). She also hopes to visit East Coast Cornellians on her way home north to Boston.

Ann says that Petie (Carol Jenne) Welch is nicely situated with husband Dick '53, son R. D. W. Jr. (August, 1956), and daughter Susan Anne (April, 1958) in a lovely home at 1600 Manchester Rd., Glastonbury, Conn.

Flossie Smyers Lathrop and husband Don live a suburban life at 104 Thornton Rd., Chestnut Hills, Mass. They have two little girls, Debby and Lydia. Don is doing a residency at the Children's Hospital, but recently was at Massachusetts General for a brief period. Nancy Stevens is also at the hospital and plans to be married this summer and to go to San Francisco to live. She is a dietician on the special research "Ward 4," and lives at 1572 Mass. Ave., Cambridge 38.

From Jan Kahn comes news of the New York crowd. Jan is still plugging away with college textbooks for Henry Holt & Co. and still living with a Columbia graduate student at 58 East 83d St., "in a 'reconverted' brownstone (it's grey), with one Victorian living room complete with fireplace, church-like ceilings, and flowery moldings." She is studying life drawing at the Modern Museum of Art as a side line. Joan Fellerman, Anne Morrissey, and she had lunch together recently, and it seems that Joan is with the producers of NBC-TV's "Ellery Queen." To find out "Who Done It" write her at 124 W. 79th St., New York 24. Anne now lives on East 89th St. in Manhattan and is with the publicity department of NBC. Carolyn Dell, 71 E. 80th St., Apt. 2B, New York 21, has been promoted to head of IBM demonstrations in her division. Our congratulations.

Sally Alger Browning is still teaching school and is looking forward to the summer vacation. John '54 is working for Raymond International, and it appears that they may stay longer in Maryland than expected. "We both like Washington but of course miss New England. Nancy Galusha '56 had a cocktail party recently in Georgetown. Ellen Kemper also lives in Georgetown and is working for the US Information Service." Sally and John are at 306 Patterson Ct., Takoma Park, Md.

Dr. and Mrs. Alex C. Solowey (Roberta Strell) have announced the birth of Beth Alison December 9. Bobby writes: "We still live in Peter Cooper Village at 5 Peter Cooper Road, New York 10, near to Bellevue Hospital where Alex is finishing his internship. We'll be around awhile, because in July he starts a residency in surgery there." And from Larchmont comes word of the engagement and marriage of Alice Wasserman to Arthur Hollander of Brooklyn. Alice is with Radio Free Europe as secretary to the program director. Her husband is secretary-treasurer of A.M. Hat Co., Inc.

'56 Men: Keith R. Johnson
308 West 4th St.
New York 14, N.Y.

The big old first Reunion is right around the corner, men; let's make sure we've got June 13 & 14 marked down for that jaunt back to Ithaca.

Larry Brown says he is back from two years as a Naval officer in Japan and now working for Northern Trust Co., a Chicago bank. Has a son, Mike, almost a year old. Address: 1408 N. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights, Ill.

Bob Lynch is a design engineer with Marquardt Aircraft; married Terri Goodfriend, Wells '59, in December, 1957; has daughter, Katherine Ann, born earlier this year. All the above live at 20353 Enadia Way, Canoga Park, Cal. Now father of two daughters is Lynn Wilson, an Air Force weather forecaster stationed at McChord AFB, Wash. Address: 409 S. 34th St., Tacoma 8.

The Davis (Cal.) branch of University of California has as graduate students Lester Fuller and Benjamin Zur. Former is at 822 D St.; latter, at 223 J St., both in Davis. Rick Nordlander says he is "still studying toward the PhD in organic chemistry at Caltech. Anticipate about a year to go." Rick's address is Blacker House in Pasadena.

The Medical College here in New York accounts for, among numerous others, Ed Dean ("married and have a daughter ten months old"), Bob Timberger, and Keith Quinton. Keith reports: "Got married December 21 to Seana Weissman. She is now a first-year student at Women's Medical College in Philadelphia. I'm now in my third year here, enjoying it very much, plan to finish my training in Philadelphia after graduation (can't commute forever). The other 21 Cornellians in my class are all fine." Keith and Timmy can be reached in care of the Medical College, 1300 York Ave., New York 21. Ed Dean is at Apt. 3H, 626 E. 20th St., New York 9.

Ken Kwit allows as how he will graduate from Columbia Law School in June; he's currently on the law review and will be law clerk next year for Judge Carroll Hincks of the Federal Court of Appeals, 2d Circuit. Ken's address is 2391 Webb Ave., Bronx 68.

Bill Lauck is with the 535th Engineer Co. (APO 28, New York) in Mannheim, Germany, and expects to be there until late 1960. He says he sees a good deal of Dick Strouce, who is an officer in the Transportation Corps, and Bob White '57, who is with 7th Army headquarters.

Bill Hudson is (or has been) on active duty with the Navy on USS Philip (DDE-498) stationed at Pearl Harbor, and has made two cruises to the Far East. Married to Margaret Royal, Wells '58, has son, William J. III. Address: 305 Kenilworth Ave., Kenilworth, Ill.

That's it for now. See you all on the Hill for the beer and bull session bit shortly.

'57 Men: David S. Nye 12 Kimball Road Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Men Whom the Years Touch Lightly

Now and then you meet a man who seems young and vigorous to a degree that belies his age. People who have known him for years are apt to say admiringly, "How does he do it?"

Often, part of the How is his ability to delegate some of his most taxing and time-consuming responsibilities—and to his advantage. One effective means is reliance on an Investment Management Account at the United States Trust Company.
