For Your Home in Ithaca . . .

THIS home is located on Cayuga Heights Road, one mile from Cayuga Heights School, one and one-half miles from Cornell University, and two and one-half miles from the business section of the City of Ithaca; in a neighborhood of home-owned residences in the best residential section of suburban Ithaca.

A Pleasant, Lasting Home—The house is of the English type, lastingly constructed of brick and cement, with a heavy slate roof which will insure a minimum of upkeep.

The property has a frontage of over 350 feet on the road, with easy access to house provided by a circular drive; lawns at either side of the house, with plenty of attractively arranged shrubbery.

This Finger Lakes Region is notable for its scenery and in taking advantage of it, the architect has provided a comfortable paved terrace immediately outside the living quarters from which there is a splendid view of Cayuga Lake and opposite hills.

Planned for Comfortable Living—Entering, there is a reception hall with coat closet and lavatory; an alcove with entrance to playroom in the basement; a large panelled living room with fireplace; off which is an alcove arranged for a library; a pleasant dining room, also with a fireplace; a breakfast room; and a convenient kitchen with pantry.

On the second floor are seven bedrooms, and four modern bathrooms with tile floors and walls. There are closets with each bedroom, and numerous others, conveniently spaced.

Vapour heat is well provided for by a good Spencer boiler, with Motor-stoker connected to coal bin.

There are a one and a two-car, fireproof garages attached to the house.

Unusual Opportunity—This section is fortunate in having a low tax rate, so that the total maintenance cost, including taxes, water, insurance and heating, would not average $1,100 annually.

For a quick sale, this house is now available for $22,500, with a moderate down payment and liberal terms for the balance.

It is seldom that a property so well situated is placed on the market, and anyone looking for a real home would find it to his best interests to investigate.

FOR ALUMNI TRUSTEES Three Candidates Nominated

First nomination for Alumni Trustee to be elected this spring was that of Mrs. Robert C. Osborn (Agda Swenson) '20 of Ithaca, filed with University Treasurer George F. Rogalsky '07, March 17.

Women's secretary of the Class of '20, Mrs. Osborn was president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs and since 1934 has been a director of the Cornell Alumni Association and its predecessor, the Cornell Alumni Corporation. She is a past president of the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca, was a member of the Federation executive committee from 1934-41, and served two terms as president of the Federation, 1936-40. From 1938-40 she was vice-president of the Cornell Alumni Association and was a member of its executive committee 1940-42.

As president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, Mrs. Osborn was instrumental in establishing the Federation Scholarship Fund which is now endowed with more than $23,000 from gifts of Cornell Clubs and individuals, to provide scholarships at the University for young women of outstanding ability and promise. For the second year, she is chairman of the Federation Scholarship Awards Committee which recommends candidates for these scholarships.

Mrs. Osborn is active also in civic and community affairs. She has been president of the Ithaca Parent-Teachers Association; has held offices in the First Methodist Church of Ithaca and in interdenominational organizations including the Student Christian Movement of New York State; is a member of the State Republican committee and was an organizer and the first president of the Ithaca unit of the Women's Republican Club of Tompkins County. She is a director of the Ithaca branch, American Women's Volunteer Services, and chairman of its training courses, and a member of Delta Gamma.

She received the AB in 1920, and before her marriage in 1922 she taught one year in the Hood School for Girls at Summit, N.J., and the next was at the YWCA in Atlantic City, N.J. Her brother is Captain Donald C. Swenson '28, US Army. She and Mr. Osborn have two children, John Osborn, a sophomore at Dartmouth, and Ruth Osborn who will enter the Arts College next fall.

Present Trustees Renominated

Nominations were filed March 22, as this issue went to press, for George H. Rockwell '13 and Thomas I. S. Boak '14, the two Alumni Trustees whose terms expire this year. Their pictures and biographies, together with those of any others who may be nominated, will appear in the next ALUMNI NEWS, of April 15.

Alumni Trustees may be nominated by any ten degree holders who file nominations with the Treasurer of the University by April 1. Two are elected each year for five-year terms by means of ballots mailed to all degree holders shortly after April 1, the results of the election to be announced at the annual meeting of the Cornell Alumni Association in Ithaca May 22.

SERVICE EXAMS APRIL 2

Word came last week to Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, chairman of the committee on student war service, that young men of seventeen to twenty-one who wish to serve in the Army will be allowed to take the Navy examinations which are to be given at most high schools and colleges, April 2.

Such Army candidates, whether or not they have reached draft age, if successful in this examination will be given a certificate of qualification which will assure them of assignment, upon induction, as a potential trainee for the Army Specialized Training Program. After induction, if during their basic military training it is determined that such men have demonstrated potential officer qualifications, they will then be assigned for specialized Army training in colleges and universities, as enlisted men on active duty and with pay. The Army program

FOR "BONDED REUNIONS" Fund President Approves

Edward E. Goodwillie '10, president of the Alumni Fund Council, last week expressed his appreciation and approval of the plan of "Bonded Reunions" for this year initiated by the Association of Class Secretaries. "Purchase of Series F War Savings Bonds in the name of the University with the money that would ordinarily be spent to attend Class Reunions in Ithaca will be of immense help to Cornell this year," Goodwillie said. "This plan carries on the idea that Class committees for the Alumni Fund have found successful in the last two years—of accepting gifts for Cornell in War Bonds and Stamps.

"By special action of the Trustees, the University Treasurer is authorized to exchange uninvested endowment funds for War Bonds which come through the Alumni Fund. Bonds so acquired become part of the University investments, to be held until maturity, and their equivalent in cash is available for current expenses. This Bonded Reunions idea thus helps both the University with cash, and the country's war effort by relieving crowded transportation and helping to finance the war. With the assistance of Class secretaries and Class Alumni Fund representatives, it can bring the largest Alumni Fund to Cornell since the 1929 record of $178,000."

Approximately ninety men's and women's Alumni Fund committees of most of the fifty-two Classes since 1890 have worked for the Fund to bring it in two years from approximately $75,000 to $115,000 last year. These committees will shortly be soliciting their Classmates for this year's Alumni Fund which closes June 30.

To March 1, the unrestricted Alumni Fund given since last July 1 for current expenses of the University amounts to $80,287.65 from 2,775 contributors. This compares with $32,022.04 from 2,651 contributors at the same time last year. Letters from President Goodwillie at the end of 1942 to Cornellians and family-owned corporations brought generous response, including fifteen gifts to Cornell of $1,000 or more each.

Working with the Alumni Fund Council and its Class representatives this spring is the Bonded Reunions committee of which Dr. Lyman R. Fisher '28 is chairman and the other members are Class Secretaries Clark S. Northup '93, Anna Fielden Grace '10, Harriet Hosmer '18, Henry W. Roden '18, Mrs. Alvin R. Carpenter (Helen Worden) '28, and James D. Pond '28.

SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

doctors, psychologists, linguists, physicists, mathematicians, and foreign area specialists.

The examinations, as previously announced, are open to Navy candidates who will have reached the age of seventeen, eighteen, or nineteen on July 1, 1943. Professor Gibson points out that passing the examination does not bind the student to service in the Navy, nor does it commit him in any way if he fails it. Those who are successful and wish to enlist in the Navy V-12 program for officer training also have to pass the Navy physical examination and be accepted by a selection board. They will then be sworn into the Naval Reserve as apprentice seamen and sent to college at Government expense, with pay and in uniform.

The Navy has announced that so far as possible, preferences expressed for particular colleges and universities will be followed. The Navy program of officer training is expected to start about July 1, with college instruction given throughout the year in three terms of sixteen weeks, the first two terms emphasizing fundamental college work in mathematics, science, English, history, engineering drawing, and physical training. Length of course and curriculum will vary with the fields of specialization.

This is an opportunity, Professor Gibson says, for high school students who may wish to attend Cornell to be likely to do so with all expenses paid. As members of the Naval Reserve V-12 training program, they will receive a good college education, with pay, and be in line for commissions as officers.

Navy application blanks for the examination April 2 are obtainable from most high school principals and college officers, and it is expected Army forms will soon be available. The examination will be given at the University from 9 to 11 a.m. Navy application forms have been distributed to students for use here and at their home high schools, since the examination comes during the University's spring recess.

About ATHLETICS

ANNOUNCE SPRING SPORTS

Cornell will compete in the usual six spring sports, but schedules, announced last week, will be sharply curtailed. All intercollegiate contests are to be concluded on Saturday, May 15, two days before the start of final examinations.

The Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League will function with at least five teams, with the possibility that the US Naval Academy will join the lineup. Harvard and Yale have withdrawn. The US Military Academy has declined an invitation to compete. The teams will play doubleheaders to reduce the number of trips.

Dual meets with Princeton and Pennsylvania have been eliminated from the track schedule, but the team will compete in the usual championships and Colgate and Syracuse may come to Ithaca for the triangular meet postponed from the indoor season.

Cornell accepted an invitation to compete in rowing for the Adams Cup at Philadelphia, in which it will meet Harvard, Pennsylvania, and the Naval Academy in Varsity and Junior Varsity races. In the dual regatta with the Naval Academy at Annapolis, a Freshman crew will also compete.

Lacrosse, tennis, and golf will also be continued.

BASKETBALL RANKINGS

Samuel W. Hunter '43 of Staten Island, retiring captain of basketball, received two honors last week. He was awarded the Cornell Daily Sun Athletic Trophy as best exemplifying the Cornell spirit in athletics and he was selected by the coaches for a guard berth on the Eastern Intercollegiate League's all-star team.

Hunter was selected for the all-star team for the second successive year. His teammates are Myers of Dartmouth and Crossin of Pennsylvania, forwards; Palmer of Princeton, center; and Skaug of Dartmouth, guard. Hunter was named to the second all-league team in his Sophomore year.

On this year's second team is Richard K. Giles '43 of Reading, Pa., forward. Budko of Columbia is the other forward, Olsen of Dartmouth center, and Munda of Princeton and Martens of Columbia, guards. Giles finished fifth in League scoring with 130 points on 54 field goals and 22 free throws. Hunter placed eighth with 47 field goals and 19 free throws for 113 points. Top scorer was Palmer of Princeton with 73 field goals and 24 free throws for 170 points.

Giles topped the Cornell squad in the season's scoring with 216 points, Hunter was second with 192, Captain-elect Robert E. Gallagher '44 third with 129, Milton D. Coe '43 fourth with 124, and Roger D. Booze '45 fifth with 106. All told, fifteen players shared in scoring 964 points in twenty-two games.

The season produced seven victories and fifteen defeats, leaving the all-time statistics, since 1898-99, at 368 victories and 375 defeats.

The Sun trophy presented Hunter was donated by the Cornell Co-operative Society. Previous winners were Peter M. Wolff '42, Walter J. Sickles '41, Robert H. Mathers '40, Robert F. White '39, and Thomas A. Rich '38.

FENCERS FOURTH

The fencing team finished fourth in the three-weapon intercollegiate championships in the Salle Santelli, New York City, last Friday and Saturday. Cornell scored 30 points: a total made up of 10½ points for third place in the saber duels, 8½ points for fourth place in the epee bouts, and 11 points for fourth place in the foils competition.

In the individual championships, James P. Olney '46 of Englewood, N.J., placed third for the epee title won by Blalock of the US Naval Academy. Bernard Scheffler '43 of New York City placed sixth and George E. Rappaport '44 of Brooklyn eighth for the saber title taken by Richards of the US Military Academy.

The Naval Academy won the three-weapon championship and team titles in the epee and saber contests. NYU averted a sweep by winning the foils championship.

The team standings in the three-weapon point score: US Naval Academy 42½, NYU 39½, Columbia 32½, Cornell 30, Penn State 22, US Military Academy 15, Hamilton 7½, Pennsylvania 5, Princeton 0.

SWIMMERS PLACE

Best Cornell performance in the swimming Intercollegiates last Friday and Saturday in the Harvard pool at Cambridge, Mass., was the fourth place taken by John H. Eppler '43 of Baltimore, Md., in low-board diving. In previous years, Cornell entrants could do no better than fifth place.

Eppler scored 84.7 points. The winner, Buratti of Rutgers, earned 130.2 points.

Captain Warren H. Fisher '43 of Jackson Heights won a trial heat of the 340-yard freestyle in 5:09.1 and placed fifth in the final won by Rogers of Columbia in 4:55.4.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team placed second to the US Naval Academy in a heat and sixth in the final.

POLO TEAM LOSES

The ROTC polo team lost twice to the US Military Academy in another week end of indoor competition at West Point. On Friday Cornell lost, 3-5, and on Saturday, 5-10.

Roy S. Hawley '43, playing at No. 1, scored all three goals in the first game. His efforts put Cornell ahead, 2-1, halfway through the six periods, but the Academy trio rallied to win with Surkamp and Baldwin each scoring two goals.

In the second game Cornell again took the lead at 3-2 at the midway mark, but could not hold off the Academy's closing rush. William C. Flint '43, at No. 2, scored two goals; Mead W. Stone, Jr., '43, at No. 3, two goals; and Hawley, one.

ODDS AND ENDS

Thomas E. Mahnken, Jr. '44 of Rockville Centre, placing first in two of three races, last week won the McGinn Cup, emblematic of the novice cross country championship. Stuart L. Smith '46 of Montague, Mass., placed second, and Wallace B. Veeder '45 of Marilla, third.

There will be no regular spring football practice this year, Coach Carl Snively said last week, unless the students want it. There are but few prospective football players now on the Campus and several of them are engaged in spring sports, the coach pointed out. It is expected that Navy V-12 trainees will be assigned to Cornell July 1, and Snively expects to institute summer practice after that date. At present, Snively is conducting a football class as part of the physical fitness program. Approximately twenty-three men attend the week-end sessions in Bacon Cage. Few of these, however, are team prospects.

PRODUCTION AWARDS

Army-Navy "E" burgee for excellence in war production now flies over the plant of United-Carr Fastener Corp., of which Alumni Trustee George H. Rockwell '13 is an executive. Presentation was made by the joint Army-Navy board March 10 at the company's plant, 31 Ames Street, Cambridge, Mass. United-Carr fasteners are used extensively on airplanes, parachutes, tanks, cars, clothing for the armed forces, and many other items of equipment. Last fall, Rockwell spent three months in England, Ireland, and Scotland for the company.

Wannamaker Chemical Co., Inc. in Orangeburg, S.C., of which T. Elliott Wannamaker, PhD '35, is president, has also received the Army-Navy "E" Award for excellence in its production of explosives. Wannamaker was in the Graduate School in 1934-35, and for two years was plant development chemical engineer at Eastman Kodak Co. in Rochester before he returned to Orangeburg to start his own chemical dye plant. He converted and enlarged the plant in 1940 to manufacture explosives for the government.

His brothers are William W. Wannamaker, Jr. '21 and A. J. Matheson Wannamaker '24.

Employees and management of the Mid-West Forging & Manufacturing Co., of which Jay L. Hench '07 is president, received March 4 the Army Ordnance banner of the Chicago Post of the Army Ordnance Association. The award was given for the company's development of a new process for producing armor-piercing projectiles which has greatly increased the rate of production while saving both materials and labor. Mid-west Forging & Manufacturing Co. in its Chicago plant formerly produced redrawn structural steel tubing, railway supplies, and parts for agricultural implements. Now, virtually its entire output is material for the armed forces. Hench was vice-president of the company, and in 1941 became president and owner of the business.

"BEYOND THE HORIZON"

The Dramatic Club gave a distinguished performance in the Willard Straight Theater March 20 of Eugene O'Neill's American tragedy, "Beyond the Horizon," which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1920. The production was directed by Professor Alex M. Drummond, Director of the University Theatre, and Miss M. Daviss Hall '43 of Winchester, Mass., Jean M. Saks '43 of Hackensack, N.J., and Edward D. Eddy '44 of Ithaca played the leading roles.

CURTISS-WRIGHT ENGINEERING "CADETTES" GET FORGE INSTRUCTION

George A. Hill '22 (right), instructor in Materials Processing, oversees work with metals of Ida Dietz, from Montclair, N.J., State Teachers' College; Patricia Hopkins, from Syracuse University, at forge; and Jane Congleton, of Rutgers University, at anvil. From twenty-four States and seventy-two colleges and universities have come the 114 "cadettes" here for ten months of instruction to become junior engineers in the Curtiss-Wright airplane plant in Buffalo. Sixteen had full-time war jobs before they came to Cornell, and thirty-five were employed in other jobs, from newspaper reporting to modelling. They live together in Anna Comstock House and take their meals in Prudence Risley Hall.

SUMMER SESSION PLANS

To Run Six Weeks

University Summer Session will open June 28 and continue for six weeks, to August 6. Professor Loren C. Petry, Director of the Summer Session, is already receiving inquiries from teachers and others, and estimates that from 500 to 600 persons will attend. Official Announcement listing the courses and program will be ready shortly after the middle of April.

About 120 courses will be offered, in the Graduate School, School of Education, and the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Architecture, Agriculture, and Home Economics, including unit courses of one to three weeks in these Colleges and Hotel Administration. Teaching demands of the University's regular third term and the expected Army and Navy special training programs will prevent any Summer Session courses in Engineering, and only a few will be offered in the physical sciences, mathematics, and home economics. Most of the staff of the School of Education will be in residence, and courses of special importance to the war effort, such as meteorology and navigation, are being arranged.

The Workshop on Latin America, the Far East, and the British Commonwealth, directed by Professor Howard R. Anderson, Education, with a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, will be continued during this Summer Session. Last summer, thirty-one teachers and school supervisors from seventeen States enrolled in the Workshop, and reports have come from some of them that instruction materials developed here in the lectures and conferences are proving valuable supplements to the teaching of history and social studies in schools in Iowa, Indiana, Maryland, Utah, Texas, California, and other States. This summer, as last, courses and conferences on Latin America will be conducted by Professor Charles C. Griffin of Vassar, and Professors Knight Biggerstaff, Frederick G. Marcham, PhD '26, and Cornelis W. deKiewiet, History, will teach on the Far East, British Commonwealth, and Origins of the Second World War, respectively. Professor Anderson will direct preparation of teaching materials, and six or more visiting consultants who are authorities in the special fields will attend.

A new development this year will be the sending of Rural Education instructors, in cooperation with the Director of Extramural Courses, to convenient centers about New York State to offer special evening courses for high school teachers of agriculture whose summer duties prevent attendance at the Summer Session at Ithaca.

LEWIS IN CALIFORNIA

Director William A. Lewis of the School of Electrical Engineering spoke to twenty-four members of the Cornell Club of Southern California at luncheon at the University Club of Los Angeles, March 8. He described recent changes at the University, spoke of the new buildings including Olin Hall of Chemical Engineering and the High Voltage Laboratory at East Ithaca, and told of the projected training programs for the Army and Navy. Professor Lewis is also chairman of the Faculty committee to select recipients of the McMullen Regional Scholarships in Engineering, and he told of the changes the war has brought in University life and undergraduate activities.

The speaker was introduced by Floyd C. Brundage '06, president of the Club. Guest of Francis W. Maxstedt '16 was Dr. Royal W. Sorensen, head of the department of electrical engineering at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena. Both are close friends of Professor Lewis.

ALUMNI AT MIAMI BEACH

Lieutenant George H. Healey, graduate instructor in English 1940-42 who teaches Air Combat Intelligence in the Army Air Forces officer candidates' school at Miami Beach, Fla., writes of two other Cornellians who are on permanent duty with the faculty of the School. Captain Wendell E. Buck '23, Air Corps, is assistant to the academic director, and Lieutenant Owen D. Safford '33 is instructor in military leadership.

E. Vincent Eichler '40, former Varsity football captain, and Ira Stein '43 graduated March 3 as second lieutenants in the Army Air Forces. Eichler specialized in physical training and has been assigned to that kind of work as an officer. Stein earned his wings as an aerial gunner with the Air Forces in Africa before he was sent back to study for a commission. He is assigned as an Intelligence officer.

"All of us have enjoyed the News," Healey writes, "especially Mr. Berry's column and the military notes in the back."

CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA

Arthur Rodzinski returned to the Campus to conduct the Cleveland Orchestra in a varied and exciting program for the fifth in the University concert series, in Bailey Hall March 17. The orchestra performed with masterful zest and searching interpretation the Haydn Symphony No. 88 in G Major, the three symphonic sketches, "La Mer," by Debussy, and the difficult Fifth Symphony of Dmitri Shostakovich, closing their program with the National Anthem.

Their performance and Rodzinski's accomplished showmanship met with an enthusiastic response from the audience.

CONCERT PROGRAM

For New York Town Hall

Forty student voices of the Cornell Chorus, directed by Professor John M. Kuypers, Music, will present a varied program of English folk-songs, modern composers, and sacred music in Town Hall, New York City, April 3. Thelma E. Emile '45, talented student of Dr. Egon Petri, University Pianist-in-Residence, will play two groups of the program. The concert is sponsored by the Cornell Women's Club of New York to benefit the Federation Scholarship Fund for undergraduate women at the University.

The combined men's and women's voices will sing "Sing We and Chant It," "When Allen-a-Dale Went Ahunting," "The Turtle Dove," "Swansea Town," and "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind." A second group will include "Break Forth, O Bounteous Heavenly Light" and "All Breathing Life," by Bach, "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by Praetorius, "O Praise Ye God" by Tchaikovsky, Christiansen's "Lullaby on Christmas Eve," and a "Carol of the Russian Children." Soprano soloist for two numbers will be Rachel Weaver '45, daughter of Professor Paul J. Weaver, Music, and a pupil of Eric Dudley.

The Chorus will also sing two modern numbers, "Tambourin" from "Cephale et Procris" by Grétry, and "Freedom's Land" by Roy Harris, University Composer-in-Residence, with Barbara A. Prescott '43 at the piano.

Miss Emile, who is the first recipient of the Federation Scholarship at the University, will make two appearances. She will play Franck's "Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue" and a second group which will include the "Melody" from "Orfeo" by Gluck-Sgambati, "Gavotte" from "Iphigenie en Aulis" by Gluck-Brahms, Debussy's "Reflets dans l'eau," and the Chopin "Scherzo in B Flat Minor."

List of patrons and patronesses for the concert is headed by President and Mrs. Edmund E. Day, Dr. and Mrs. Egon Petri, Dr. and Mrs. George H. Gartlan, and Mrs. Guy P. Gannett. Honorary chairman of the Cornell Women's Club committee is Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04; its members are Mrs. John W. Arnold (Dorothy McSparran) '18, Mary H. Donlon '20, Mrs. Robert C. Osborn (Agda Swenson) '20, Alice H. Erskine '21, Mrs. Frederick W. Baum (Dorothy Brown) '25, Mrs. George H. Hill (Dorothy Lampe) '26, Mrs. Joseph Hajek (Olga Weber) '29, Marjory A. Rice '29, Mrs. Wilbur Ruck (Elizabeth Karutz) '34, Mary W. Lauman '37, and Betty E. Niles '41.

NEW PRESIDENT of the Ithaca Federation of Women's Clubs is Mrs. Robert H. Siegfried (Edith Harris) '24. Mrs. Walter H. Stainton (Helena Merriman) '31 is second vice-president.

FROM FAR BELOW . . .

By Frank Sullivan '14

Gift of a Vermeer to the Metropolitan Museum of Art could arouse no more enthusiasm than did the present the Cornell Club of New York recently received from Bob Treman '09—a fine, large picture of the renowned Theodore Zinck. This priceless ikon—if we can stretch a point and call it such—will be hung in the southwest corner of the grill, where the Dutch Treaters gather every day before lunch to fortify themselves with conversation and such other restoratives as the mood indicates. On the picture, just below the bewhiskered countenance of the late Theodore, Charlie Blair plans to inscribe the immortal and nostalgic words: "We'll all have drinks at Theodore Zincks when I get back next fall."

Incidentally, Charlie Blair laments the fact that although the Club's collection of bygone teams and crews is almost complete, there is yet a gap. The Club lacks photographs of the famous unbeaten Dobie teams of—correct us if we're wrong—1921, 1922, and 1923. Any philanthropist who has extra copies of these photographs would be overwhelmed with our gratitude if he were to make the Club a present of them, or even lend them to us on a permanent basis.

Pat Wardwell '07 of Detroit and Cy Weed of New York, stroke of the 1909 crew, dined at the Club recently.

Rare is the week when we fail to get a welcome visit from F. Ellis (Pete) Jackson '00, of Providence. Mr. Jackson is the architect of Myron Taylor Hall.

William Hazlett Upson '14 of Middlebury, Vt., is a frequent guest and was here for a few days a short time ago on his way back to the Snow Country from a lecture engagement in Greenville, N.C. Bill has just published another book about Alexander Borts, the tractor man, under the beguiling title of "Keep 'Em Crawling."

Red Laughlin '35 of Buffalo was in recently. So was Lieutenant (jg) Ed Dorr '38, USNR, of Elizabeth, N.J., who had just finished a course of training at Annapolis.

Chuck Francis '33 is a sergeant in the Army, stationed in New York at the moment, and reports for duty at East Forty-eighth Street whenever he gets leave. Chuck was with the Associated Press before joining up.

Members who got up early enough (say, ten o'clock) were edified one recent Sunday morning at the sight of our esteemed and cherished vice-president, Charlie Blair '97, assisted by Pink Bemis '09, tidying up the Club in spots where they deemed it needed tidying up.

One of our Navy guests, George Grant of Georgia, who has been a resident of the Club for the past year, is being congratulated on a promotion from ensign to lieutenant (j.g.). Lieutenant W. L. Haynes of Texas, who was an ensign when he lived here last spring, is now stationed aboard the USS Calvert, and recently spent a brief leave at the Club.

Whenever he is in New York, Jimmy Cagney, winner of this year's screen "Oscar" for his performance in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," manages to get to the Club, where a friend or two of his are usually in residence. Jimmy says he looks on the Club as an oasis. Nobody asks him for autographs; everyone just lets him have a good time in peace.

WOMEN INFORM SCHOOLS

Cornell Women's Club of Albany entertained principals and guidance counselors of seven high schools at luncheon at the University Club, February 20. Alumni Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20, introduced by the Club president, Mrs. William Streets (Ruth Luscher) '22, talked about Cornell and the wartime activities of the University. Raymond A. Dewey '25, president of the men's Cornell Club, and Prentice Cushing '05, chairman of the secondary schools committee, were also guests at the luncheon.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

In a single issue of the Cornell Sun, three dealers advertised lavishly that they were prepared to pay the highest prices for students' used suits, shoes, ROTC uniforms, and hats.

In my time, Pinochle Wells alone was able to handle all the business there was in this line. He told us once, in a moment of unprecedented carelessness, that the best of the Cornell garments bought by him were first cleaned and refurbished and then sent for resale to whatever Southern cities were prospering most at the moment. College clothes were more striking than regular clothes in the turn of the century, and the Negro population, when in funds, would gladly pay high prices for peg-top pants and Norfolk jackets as then designed and executed by Benny Rich, George Griffin, Bill Sisson, H. Goldenberg, et al.

But all garments purchased by Pinochle from students did not get as far as Birmingham, Memphis, and New Orleans. We recall one occasion when ornate, double-breasted waistcoats were vogue. Bro. Ewell Nalle '01 from Texas had got himself a fancy vest designed by George Griffin to end all fancy vests. He wore it once, and got so sick of seeing it around that he sold it to Pinochle for a quarter just to get rid of the horrid abomination.

On his way out with his arms full of purchases Pinochle sold the vest to Richard, our janitor, for $5 and Richard wore it when he brought in the soup that night at dinner. It cost Bro. Nalle $10 (plus whatever bloody threats they use to achieve their ends with janitors in Texas) to get back his fancy vest and burn it!

One would think the present moment an excellent time to buy old clothes. Most students are expecting to be called up at any moment and what good are one's old clothes going to be when that happens? No reasonable offer rejected!

But we're puzzled to explain the demand for second-hand ROTC uniforms. The present type of uniform has been official now for ten years, and on the basis of past experience a change is to be expected any minute. It was Civil War blue when we came to college, then West Point gray, and later World War olive-drab. We recall at least eight hat changes since the Spanish War: white helmets, forage caps, Hessian headgears with white pompons, etc. Probably the old clothes dealers know what they are doing, and man and boy we've never seen a dumb second-hand clothes dealer in a college town, but you'd think that a second-hand ROTC uniform would be pretty worthless property once a new type had been adopted.

You see, they have to change the uniform every so often. It's the only way you can force the boys to buy new ones.

The only term we drilled, we got our uniform from the fraternal uniform chest in the attic. Blouse and hat by Bro. Bill Forbes '06 (tall and slender); pants by Bro. Charlie Tourison '05 (very broad-shouldered in the trousers); white gloves from the hall table. We did not present a neat, military appearance, and almost immediately Major Van Ness ordered a complete change in the Cornell bill of dress.

NEXT ISSUE APRIL 15

In accordance with our custom of publishing the Thursdays following the Saturdays on which there are athletic contests, the next ALUMNI NEWS will be that of April 15.

The University's spring recess begins March 27 and ends April 4. Notices from the Second Service Command that they would be called to active duty in approximately two weeks were beginning to be received early this week by those undergraduate members of the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps who are not subject to deferment. The Student War Service committee office estimates that 500 to 600 students may not come back to the Campus but will be in Army camps by the end of the spring recess.

No definite word had been received on Monday as to when the first Army trainees to be assigned to the University would arrive, nor of the number eventually to be accommodated here in the Army and Navy training programs.
