THE Stewart Avenue bridge over Fall Creek has been closed to all traffic and is undergoing repair. The bridge is not likely to be open until after the Alumni Reunion on Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12. If it is still closed at that time, alumni who are in Ithaca for the reunion should remember that the street cars on the Eddy Street line only will provide direct conveyance between the town and the Campus. The Stewart Avenue cars are running as far as the bridge but no farther.

PROFESSOR D. S. KIMBALL left Ithaca this week for a lecture tour. On June 2 he was to give two talks before the Engineers' Club of Dayton, Ohio, and on June 3 was to address the Cornell alumni of Dayton at their annual banquet. From Dayton he goes to Chicago, where, on Monday, June 7, he will speak at a luncheon which the Cornell University Association of Chicago is giving for the high school boys of the city. On June 8, 9, and 10 Professor Kimball will give three lectures on the subject of industrial organization before the students of the school of commerce and administration of the University of Chicago. From Chicago he will go directly to Atlantic City and on June 11 will speak to the Sibley graduates who will hold an annual banquet at the time of the convention of the Railway Master Mechanics' Association. Seventy-five to a hundred Sibley men usually attend that banquet.

A NEW BOOK OF VIEWS has been published by the University. It contains twenty-four large pictures of the buildings and grounds, besides a drawing which gives a bird's-eye view of the whole campus. There are eight pages of reading matter which contain a brief statement of the history and present organization of the University. The book is intended for distribution in preparatory schools, but copies may be purchased for twenty-five cents apiece.

THE Era IS THE LATEST Cornell publication to join an association of its contemporaries among the other eastern colleges. A meeting was held in New York last Saturday to form a combination of college pictorial magazines. Leslie Jacob Rummell '16, of Newark, N. J., editor-in-chief of the 1915-16 Era, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year, and J. C. Raymond, of the Princeton Pictorial Review, was elected secretary. Delegates were also present representing the Harvard Illustrated Magazine and the Yale Courant. The other similar magazines of the East are expected to enter the association. The purpose of the organization is to facilitate the exchange of special articles and engravings, and to standardize advertising rates. Dr. Talcott Williams of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, at Columbia, attended the meeting and spoke to the delegates on the advantages of co-operation in journalism.

PROFESSOR VLADIMIR KARAPETOFF, who is in San Francisco serving on the international jury of awards at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, has been elected by his colleagues to be chairman of the electrical group in the department of manufactures and varied industries. As such he automatically became a member of the next higher jury, which consists of the chairmen of the various groups. When the first jury had completed its work the higher jury began to review its recommendations and adjust the awards. The latter work was expected to be complete by June 3.

AN ADVANCED READING COURSE in vegetable gardening has just been started by the extension department at the College of Agriculture. The course is conducted by means of a textbook, by questions, and by correspondence, and a special effort is made to assist in local application of the principles and practices discussed. The work of those taking the course is graded. The only expense is for a standard textbook, not published by the college. Persons who desire to receive information on practical farming problems without even this expense may register for the general reading course lessons. Residents of New York State may obtain further information about the reading courses, general or advanced, by addressing the College of Agriculture.

ASSISTANT MANAGERS for two major sports have been chosen from the sophomore class—Charles Stuart Cooper, of Philadelphia, in track, and John C. C. Gardiner, of New York, in baseball. Cooper is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and Gardiner belongs to Kappa Sigma. H. B. Albrow, of Oak Park, Ill., was elected assistant manager of the freshman track team. He belongs to Beta Theta Pi. William Addams, jr., of Cynthiana, Ky., was chosen assistant manager of the interscholastic track meet. He is a Sigma Nu man.

THE COMPETITION for the assistant managerships in minor sports was won by B. F. Willcox, of Ithaca. He could not take the basketball managership, which is regarded as the pick of the lot, because G. M. Stevens, the present manager, is from the same house, Psi Upsilon. So he chose wrestling. The others in order are: Basketball, W. C. Kreuzer, Syracuse, Phi Kappa Psi; tennis, R. Burnham, Brooklyn, Phi Delta Theta; lacrosse, John Haydock, 3d, New York, Kappa Sigma; soccer, Richard Brandt, jr., Brooklyn, Noyati; hockey, W. S. Vanderbilt, jr., Greenville, N. Y., Sigma Phi Sigma; golf, M. B. Sanford, La Grange, Ill., Spanish-American Club; fencing, D. L. Mallory, Brooklyn, Delta Tau Delta; swimming, L. K. Neff, New York, Zeta Psi.

THE ALPHA CHAPTER of the Society of Sigma Xi has elected the following officers for 1915-16: President, J. G. Needham; vice-president, F. K. Richtmeyer; recording secretary, J. G. Pertsch; corresponding secretary, James McMahon; treasurer, O. A. Johannsen.

BOOK AND BOWL has held its annual election from the junior and sophomore classes to complete the upperclass membership for next year. The members for 1915-16 are: Professor C. L. Durham, Professor J. F. Mason, Professor Laurence Pumpelly, Louis A. Fuertes '97, Woodford Patterson '95, R. E. Treman '09, C. R. Hugins '11, D. P. Beardsley '13; from the class of 1916: A. W. Carpenter, H. A. F. Eaton, A. L. Feick, R. J. Foster, jr., R. A. B. Goodman, M. W. Howe, A. F. McCann, W. Pfeiffer, G. W. Rapp, A. B. Sherry, G. M. Stevens, H. Vose, jr., R. Welles, H. Wyman, 2d.; from the class of 1917: W. D. Crim, R. E. Mackenzie, H. G. Place, J. G. Schurman, jr., H. C. Strotz, P. Wyman.

SENIOR SINGING will take place on June 6, June 11, June 13, and June 15.

Progress on Dormitories

Pictures Showing Most of the North Elevation of the Proposed Group

The pictures on this page and the next are copies of drawings for two of the proposed buildings of the new residence hall group, made by the architects of the group, Messrs. Day & Klauder, of Philadelphia. These two buildings are designated on the plans as E and H. The one on this page is E. In each case the drawing is of the north elevation.

The two drawings taken together as they are shown here represent most of the north side of the entire proposed group, running from West Avenue westward to Stewart Avenue—the University Avenue front of the group, in other words. The only building in that front not shown here is the main entrance tower, which is at the corner of West and University Avenues, directly east of and close to the site of Building E. If the reader will imagine a massive tower building at the left of E he will have in the two drawings shown here a picture of the future dormitory group as viewed from the north.

In these cuts the two buildings are not shown in exactly the proper relation to the grade of the ground. The photographs from which the cuts were made were on different scales, and as the cuts had to be made to column widths the difference was not wholly corrected. The tops of the towers which terminate the two buildings will be on the same level, and so will the gate posts near the bases of the towers. The towers are to be closer together than they appear to be here. The distance between them will be equivalent to about one-half the length of the building on the right.

Between these two towers will be the northern entrance to the group, running straight south between parallel dormitory buildings to a large court, on the south side of which will be one of the two dining halls. The reader will observe that there are no doors shown on the north sides of these two buildings. That absence of entries on the outer side is typical of the dormitory buildings throughout the group. They will be entered not from the street but from interior courts, which will be reached through main entrances between the buildings, or, in the case of the northeast tower, through a grained vault in the building itself.

No provision has yet been made for either of these two halls. Building E is likely, on account of its situation, to be next in order after the four which are now provided for—A, B, C, and D. On University Avenue this hall corresponds to Building D on West Avenue, which is to be paid for out of the Alumni Fund. Each of these two buildings is in effect a wing of the tower, A.

Of the buildings now authorized, D is approaching completion. Workmen last week began to install the iron stairways in this structure. The walls are up to the height of the roof in some places. A, the tower building, is not so far advanced, being up to the height of two stories. The excavations for B and C are practically completed. Since the Matthews Construction Company of Princeton has the contracts for all four buildings and has a large force of men on the ground, there will be as little delay as possible in beginning the construction of the third and fourth of the new halls. It is expected that all four of them will be ready for their two hundred and fifty student occupants by the fall of 1916. Two may be ready this fall.

Rushing Question Up Again

About Fifteen Fraternities May Adopt Second Term Bidding

Second term rushing has been proposed again this year by some of the delegates to the Interfraternity Association. The question is still under discussion, although the association had voted by a large majority to continue in the present system. About fifteen fraternities, however, including some of the oldest and best known on the Hill, are talking of withdrawing from the association. These houses are considering the formation of another smaller association whose members shall bind themselves to rush no freshman until he has completed one term's work in the University. One meeting has already been held by delegates from the fraternities who are disposed to adopt the second term plan.

At the first meeting of the juniors who compose the Interfraternity Association for 1915-16, rules for next year were adopted which differ only slightly from those of the past three years. Rushing will commence about ten days after registration day, but the first period will last twelve days instead of ten as it did last fall. No fraternity is allowed to have more than two dates with a freshman. The customary interim of four days is allowed the first year men to make their choice of houses to visit during the second, or bidding, period.

It was at this meeting that one delegate moved, in order to test the sentiment of the various fraternities, that a straw vote be taken on the second term question. The majority was overwhelmingly opposed to the innovation, although the delegate from Delta Upsilon reported that his chapter had been successful in adopting it all alone last fall. He stated

1912's Big Reunion

Eighty-three Men of the Class Were in Ithaca on Navy Day

Eighty-three members and four guests of the class of 1912 were in Ithaca for the three-year reunion on Navy Day. The men were conspicuous in blue and white striped sailor suits. Many of the men were in Ithaca Friday, but most of them arrived Saturday morning. A band of seven pieces arrived from Sayre at 7 a. m., and did its part toward helping 1912 celebrate for the remainder of the day.

The class formed for the Spring Day parade on North Aurora Street. Jake Fassett acted as drum major. Clift Andrus came all the way from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where he is working for Uncle Sam, to marshal the 1912 company. "Major Sport" was much pleased with the unexpected reinforcements.

After toiling up State Street hill—a climb which showed many of the boys that they are not as good as they used to be—the 1912 men reached the Campus and gave the various shows the "once over."

At the Senate, Martin Gibbons had a luncheon ready for them when they came from the hill at 12:30. Selections by the band, instrumental and vocal music (?) were next in order.

The class formed in line on South Aurora Street after luncheon and marched to Percy Field, where a section had been reserved for the members in the steel stand. Later they attended the boat races in a body.

The class dinner was served at the Senate after the boat races. After the dinner, President Ferguson called the members of the class together for a meeting. Sixty-five members were in attendance. R. W. Kellogg, life secretary, reported that the receipts from members attending the reunion were nearly enough to meet all expenses.

The class voted to transfer to the life secretary $116, the surplus from the senior ball which has been on deposit in an Ithaca bank since June 1912. This is to be used as working capital. The life secretary was empowered to issue a class bulletin every six months. This will give changes of address and other news of interest to members of the class. Tell Berna spoke of the necessity of all members keeping the secretary informed about their location. Other remarks were made by Vail, Eldred and Bacon.

The matter of geographical organization of the class was discussed. It was left to the president and secretary to select "rooters" for the twelve sections of the United States where the most 1912 men can be reached. These men will act with the president and secretary as an executive committee. The executive committee will outline the policy of the class in the matter of reunions and other things of a general nature.

Tell Berna asked for an expression of opinion regarding the most desirable date for holding the five-year reunion in 1917. President Ferguson said he wanted to be back when things were moving. Vail was of the opinion that all class reunions should be held at the same time. He reported that 1912 men in Chicago preferred Navy Day but objected to having two dates.

Barnum said that the class of 1912 had pointed the way to successful alumni reunions. He summed up the opinion of the meeting in the following resolution, which was unanimously carried:

"Resolved by the Class of 1912, assembled at its three-year reunion on May 22, 1915, that the life secretary be instructed to put the class on record in the ALUMNI NEWS, the Cornell Daily Sun and before the Association of Class Secretaries as greatly in favor of moving the alumni days forward in the calendar to include Navy Day, and, if this be impossible, as greatly in favor of having the principal athletic events of the spring at the time when the alumni return."

The opinion was expressed in the discussion that the alumni days now compete with Navy Day and the boat races at Poughkeepsie. One of the strongest objections to the June reunions was made by J. I. Clarke, who said that in most of the large corporations it is impossible for men to get away during June, July and August except at their vacation time. F. M. Coffin brought up the point, often raised by the Faculty, he said, that the alumni should not return when the undergraduates are in Ithaca. This objection was promptly downed by President Ferguson and Vail. Many other members of the class spoke on the motion, which was finally carried without a dissenting vote.

J. D. Barnum, father of the resolution, and R. W. Kellogg, life secretary, were instructed to appear before the Association of Class Secretaries on June 12 to present the resolution.

After the meeting, which adjourned at 9:45 o'clock, the class disbanded.

The list of 1912 men back for the reunion follows:

Clift Andrus, Fort Sill, Oklahoma; Robert W. Austin, Central Bridge, N. Y.; C. D. Albright, 72 W. Adams St., Chicago; D. Barnum, Post-Standard Co., Syracuse; W. E. A Place for Agriculture

Committee to Advocate Its Recognition in New York's Constitution

The recognition of agriculture as a fundamental part of the state's work and the inclusion in the new constitution of a clause defining the scope and work of the state department of agriculture were questions discussed at an agricultural conference held in Albany on May 25. The conference represented the grange, state department of agriculture, state educational department, state college of agriculture at Cornell, New York experiment station at Geneva, secondary agricultural schools, the agricultural press, various agricultural and horticultural societies, the dairymen's and breeders' associations, and other related bodies. The meeting was held in the office of the commissioner of agriculture. President Boothe C. Davis of Alfred University was made chairman, and Charles S. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture, secretary.

The constitutional convention was represented by President Schurman and Seth Low. Upon the request of the chairman, President Schurman gave an outline of the work of the convention to date. He said that up to this time most of the work had been conducted through committees, and these committees were merely formulating plans and recommendations. He said that there was felt the need of a very careful consideration of the reorganization of the state's administrative work; that according to best records and reports there were now something like 159 or more departments, boards, commissions and agencies, authorized to conduct the business of the state. Naturally, the work of many of these departments, boards, commissions, and agencies overlapped, he said, and there was considerable duplication of effort, resulting in making the cost more than it should be. The convention might consider some plan whereby the state's work would be reorganized toward the development of a comparatively few great departments, similar to those of the federal governmental organization in Washington. If such a reorganization took place, it was his view that agriculture should certainly have a place as one of the basic units of administration. Mr. Low confirmed President Schurman's notion that sentiment seemed to be crystallizing in the convention in favor of reorganizing the state's administrative activities.

On motion a committee of three was appointed to report a method of procedure. The committee consisted of Beverly T. Galloway, W. H. Jordan, and Charles W. Burkett, editor of the American Agriculturist. It recommended that there be included in the constitution a provision for a department of agriculture, and that "a committee of ten be appointed, representing the educational department, the state department of agriculture, the secondary schools, the grange, the state experiment station, and the state college of agriculture, together with four members who shall represent the agricultural public, to investigate and formulate the proper scope and function of said department." The conference adopted the resolutions and appointed this committee: Dr. John H. Finley, commissioner of education; Charles S. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture, W. H. Vary, of Watertown, master of the state grange; Beverly T. Galloway, of Ithaca, dean of the state college of agriculture; W. H. Jordan, director of the state experiment station at Geneva; Boothe C. Davis, president of Alfred University, at Alfred; Charles W. Burkett, editor, American Agriculturist, George W. Sisson, jr., of Potsdam; Charles M. Dow, of Jamestown; and F. W. Sessions, of Utica.

The conference was adjourned, and a meeting of the new committee was called. Dr. B. T. Galloway, of Cornell, was elected chairman of the committee, and June 21 was fixed for the next meeting of the committee and of the members of the conference.

THE SUMMER SUN

PUBLICATION OF THE Sun was suspended for the year last Saturday. An abbreviated Sun will be published during the six weeks of the Summer Session. It will contain Associated Press dispatches and the news of the summer school. The Sun had a summer edition last time for the first time, when it took over the Cornell Summer Daily, which E. A. Hamilton and A. T. Hayes had established in 1913. The editor this summer will be M. W. Howe and the business manager F. J. Towar, jr.

Phi Beta Kappa Orations

Twenty-six Representative Addresses Included in a Volume

On Saturday last the Houghton Mifflin Company published a volume entitled "Representative Phi Beta Kappa Orations," edited by a committee of the united chapters of Phi Beta Kappa consisting of Professor Clark S. Northup of Cornell and the librarians of Harvard and Yale, Messrs. William C. Lane and John C. Schwab. It is a handsome book of over five hundred pages, bound in dark red cloth with gilt top, and contains the following twenty-six addresses representing the most important phases of educational, political, social, and religious thought:

HORACE BUSHNELL. The Principles of National Greatness. Yale, 1837. Shows how the greatness of a nation lies in the character of its people.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON. The American Scholar. Harvard, 1837. Our literary Declaration of Independence.

JOB DURFEE. The Influence of Scientific Discovery and Invention on Social and Political Progress. Brown, 1843. An interesting survey of a broad field.

ANDREW PRESTON PEABODY. The Connection Between Science and Religion. Harvard, 1845. The author believed that there was a very close connection.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS. The American Doctrine of Liberty. Harvard, 1862. Pleads for a conception of liberty based on fair play.

FRANCIS ANDREW MARCH. The Scholar of To-Day. Amherst, 1868.

ALEXANDER H. BULLOCK. Intellectual Leadership in American History. Brown, 1875.

CHARLES KENDALL ADAMS. The Relations of Higher Education and National Prosperity. Vermont, 1876. Argues that the universities are of equal importance with the common schools.

CHARLES H. BELL. The Worship of Success. Dartmouth, 1881. Deals with the dangers of false ideals of success.

WENDEL PHILLIPS. The Scholar in a Republic. Harvard, 1881. A famous oration.

ELISHA BENJAMIN ANDREWS. The Social Plait. New York Alumni, 1892. A study of poverty, its causes and remedy.

ANDREW DICKSON WHITE. Evolution vs. Revolution, in Politics. New York Alumni, 1896, Vassar, 1906, Cornell, 1913. The doctrine here embodied is of vital importance.

JOHN JAY CHAPMAN. The Unity of Human Nature. Hobart, 1901.

BLISS PERRY. The Amateur Spirit. Columbia, Tufts, 1901.

BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER. Things Human. Chicago, 1901. A plea for "historical-mindedness."

FELIX EMANUEL SCHELLING. Humanities Gone and to Come. Pennsylvania, 1902.

ALBERT SHAW. Jefferson's Doctrines under New Tests. William and Mary, 1904. Jefferson's political ideas are still sound and vital.

JOHN FRANKLIN JAMESON. The Age of Erudition. Chicago, 1905. Shows how the main currents of scholarship are parts of an eternal process.

CHARLES WILLIAM ELIOT. Academic Freedom. Cornell, 1907. A timely subject discussed with breadth of view and sound judgment.

ALBERT BUSHNELL HART. The Hope of Democracy. Tufts, 1907.

EDWARD LAMBE PARSONS. Democracy and a Prophetic Ideal. Leland Stanford, Jr., 1907.

EDWIN AUGUSTUS GROSVENOR. The Attitude of the Scholar. North Carolina, 1909.

JOSIAH ROYCE. What is Vital in Christianity? Vassar, 1909.

BARRETT WENDELL. The Mystery of Education. Johns Hopkins, 1909.

WOODROW WILSON. The Spirit of Learning. Harvard, 1909. Argues that a college is not only a body of studies but a mode of association.

PAUL SHOREY. The Unity of the Human Spirit. Oberlin, 1910. Discusses the kinship among the great minds of all ages.

The edition is limited to one thousand copies. The price of the book is three dollars, postpaid.

REUNION SPECIAL

Chicago to Ithaca

The special train, Chicago to Ithaca, arranged for by the Cornell University Association of Chicago, will leave La Salle Street Station, Chicago, June 9th, 5:30 p. m. By a combination of excursion rates in force at that time round-trip Chicago to Ithaca will be $26.25. In order to secure this rate you should buy return trip to Buffalo from any point, inasmuch as excursion rates are in force to Buffalo. A representative of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company will accompany the train and have for sale single as well as round-trip tickets Buffalo to Ithaca.

For further particulars and reservations address G. K. Thompson, G. A. P. D., 100 South Clark St., Chicago, or Waldo F. Tobey '95, Edison Building, Chicago.

ALUMNI FIELD SUBSCRIPTIONS

The Alumni Field Committee will hold a meeting in Ithaca during Alumni Week. The committee requests that all subscribers from whom payments are due send their checks to G. E. Kent, Secretary, Box 38, Ithaca, N. Y.

1910 REUNION

If you haven't made up your mind to attend, do so now. It will be your distinct loss if you miss it. The committee expects an attendance of over one hundred. Many of your friends will be on hand. A most enjoyable time is assured to every member of the class who returns to Ithaca on June 11 and 12. Forget dull care, hard labor and family troubles for two or three days and come back to Ithaca to rejuvenate yourself. Notify the committee at once that you will be present, so that a costume may be ordered for you.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO 1912

R. W. Kellogg, life secretary of the Class of 1912, and several other members of the class will be in Ithaca on Saturday, June 12. An effort will be made to get the men together for the Alumni Luncheon in the Armory at 1 o'clock. All 1912 men who will be in Ithaca for the day are requested to meet at the north door of the Armory at 1 o'clock.

CIVIL ENGINEERS' CAMP

The present sophomore class in the College of Civil Engineering will go into camp on June 7 for the annual six weeks of field work. The camp this year will be at Frontenac Point, on the west shore of Cayuga Lake. There will be in the party about 125 students in civil engineering, twenty-five students in forestry, and eleven members of the Faculty of civil engineering. The engineers will continue the topographic and hydrographic survey of the lake and the country surrounding it. Professor O. M. Leland will be in command. The undergraduate camp officers are: Chief engineer, J. C. Tunnicliff, Moline, Ill.; assistant chief engineer, J. K. Van Campen, jr., Olean; quartermaster, S. J. Leonard, Washington, D. C.; assistant quartermaster, O. F. Priester, Davenport, Iowa; commissary, E. R. McMillin, Wilkesburg, Pa.

DRAWINGS FOR THE REGATTA

The Cornell crews will leave Ithaca for Highland-on-Hudson on June 12. They will have two weeks for practice on the Hudson before the regatta.

The competing crews have drawn positions as follows for the various races on June 28. The lanes are numbered from the Highland side eastward:

NEW PORTRAIT OF MR. WHITE
An Etching on Copper by Jacques Reich

A portrait of Andrew D. White has been executed which many of Mr. White's friends say is the best likeness of him they have seen. The portrait is an etching on copper by Jacques Reich. Proofs of the etching may be obtained from the artist's son, Walter B. Reich, a student in the University, at 502 Dryden Road until June 16, and after that at New Dorp, Staten Island. Copies are on exhibition at the Corner Bookstore. Walter Reich is willing to send proofs on approval to Cornellians. The first fifty proofs are valued at fifteen dollars each; second proofs may be had at ten dollars each. The size of the plate is eight by eleven inches. Mr. White is pleased with the portrait and is signing the proofs.

Professor George L. Burr has written of the etching: "It gives me hearty pleasure to say that the portrait of Dr. Andrew D. White etched by Mr. Jacques Reich, of New York City, is an admirable likeness—the best I know of Dr. White. No Cornellian could wish a more satisfactory portrait of him." Professor E. H. Woodruff wrote: "The Reich etching of President White is, in my opinion, quite the best of all portraits of him."

Jacques Reich's etchings include portraits of a number of distinguished Americans, including Presidents McKinley, Cleveland, Roosevelt, and Taft, George William Curtis, Andrew Carnegie, and E. H. Harriman. He made most of the pen portraits for Scribner's Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings, and for Appleton's Cyclopedia of American Biography.—Advertisement.

Cornell 6, Pennsylvania 0

Bryant held Pennsylvania to three scattered hits on Percy Field last Saturday. With the aid of several Pennsylvania errors, the Cornell team collected six runs. Two came in the first inning after Gordon had tripled, Mellen had reached first on an error, and Bills had been hit by a pitched ball. Kane then fumbled Clary's grounder, scoring Gordon, and Mellen came home on Burpee's bunt toward short.

In the fifth Gordon doubled and the next three batters hit safely between first and second. These hits and an error by Moore netted three more runs. Donovan made the sixth run with the help of two errors, a wild pitch, and a scratch hit by Gordon. Keating was still too lame to play in this game. The score:

Yale 22, Cornell 5

The team was badly handicapped by lack of pitchers in the game with Yale at New Haven on Monday of this week, and the result was that Yale made the amazing total of twenty-two runs. Cornell gathered five.

Bryant, who had pitched two shut-out games against Yale and Pennsylvania within the last nine days, started this contest. He was not in condition to go through another hard contest, but he was plucky enough to start it. He was taken out at the end of the second inning, after Yale had gathered six runs. Johnson would have been on hand to take Bryant's place but for an examination which he had to take on the same day. The law school faculty had offered to give a copy of the examination questions to Dr. Sharpe and let Johnson take the examination in New Haven on Monday morning, but he declined the offer and chose to take it in Ithaca because he was afraid he could not do himself justice if he pursued the other course and he could not afford to fail in that subject. Russell was the only substitute pitcher left. He took Johnson's place and got along pretty well until the fifth inning, when there was another Yale batting bee. Russell had to be taken out, and then Sutterby was called in from the outfield to take the mound for the rest of the game. Sutterby had had no experience as a pitcher this season. He had little to offer in the way of curves and the Yale batsmen continued to pile up the runs. Yale had fifty-three turns at bat in the eight innings and made twenty-five hits.

Cornell had one good inning, the fifth, when four hits were bunched off Pumpelly, and Yale errors and a pair of passes helped to bring in five runs. The score was 7 to 5 when Yale went to bat in the fifth and Cornell still seemed to have a chance, but the six runs which Yale made in that inning, batting Russell off the slab, put a different face on the matter.

Both teams played poorly in the field. Cornell made eleven errors and Yale four. Cornell's total of hits was nine. The game lasted two hours and twenty-five minutes. The score:

Harold Enos Irish '16, Auburn; fifth place in the mile run: 1 point.

A Well-Balanced Cornell Team Wins the Intercollegiate Meet

Cornell secured the first leg on the new trophy offered by the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America by duplicating in many respects the victory of 1914. A well balanced team, almost devoid of "stars," and composed for the most part of men who had never taken part in an intercollegiate meet, was, nevertheless, able to gather in 21-2 points more than last year. Eight of the thirteen men who scored for Cornell won their "stripes" for the first time. Three of them are sophomores. A noteworthy feature of the team's record was the scarcity of first places. Potter's victory in the two mile and Foss's tie for first in the pole vault were the only winning performances, despite the fact that the team included two intercollegiate champions, Hoffmire and Speiden. Hoffmire has been a bit off form all the year, since the cross-country season. He changed places with Potter, who finished third in the two mile last year. Moakley saved Speiden, the champion miler, for the half mile, in the belief that Windnagle could take care of the mile. Both men were beaten to the tape in close finishes. The failure of Richards to win the high jump also surprised many. His defeat by Oler, of Yale, can justly be attributed to his eagerness to score points in three events. During the meet he was moving back and forth from the high jump and the broad jump to the shot put, and he undoubtedly sacrificed his jumping ability for the sake of the team score. He just missed scoring in the shot put, taking sixth place, finished fourth in the broad jump, and made Oler break the intercollegiate record by more than one inch in the high jump, before he acknowledged defeat.

The team scores follow: Cornell, 45 1-2; Harvard, 26; Yale, 25; Pennsylvania, 21; Princeton, 21; Dartmouth, 14; Michigan, 14; Columbia, 10; Maine, 9; Pennsylvania State, 6; Johns Hopkins, 1 1-2; Bowdoin, 1; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1.

Cornell men placed in all but three of the thirteen events—the 440 yard dash, the low hurdles, and the 220 yard dash. In each of those races one Cornell man qualified, but the final competition was too keen for them. Starr, who finished second in the high hurdles, qualified with ten other men in the lows. Three semifinal heats were necessary, five men to qualify for the finals. Starr was second in his heat to Stewart, of Princeton, the ultimate winner, but was timed slower than the other two second men and was consequently eliminated.

The victory was conceded almost universally to Cornell after the trials on Friday. Eighteen Cornell men, at least one in every event, survived the preliminaries. Elimination trials were held in all the events except the mile and two mile runs. Harvard qualified 16 men, Yale 11, Pennsylvania 10, Princeton 8, Dartmouth 6, Columbia, Michigan, and Penn State 5, Maine 3, Bowdoin 2, and Lafayette, Haverford, Johns Hopkins, and Syracuse 1 each. Pennsylvania's chances were seriously hurt by unfortunate accidents to Lippincott, the sprinter, and Ferguson, the hurdler. Lippincott pulled a tendon and fell heavily in one of the preliminary heats in the 100 yard dash, putting him out of the meet entirely. Ferguson qualified in the high hurdles, which he won in the finals, but was eliminated from competition in the lows when he tripped over a hurdle. A place in this event had been conceded him by the critics. The Cornell men who qualified, in addition to those who scored in the finals, were W. D. Crim '17 in the 440 yard dash, W. C. Bartsch '17 in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and C. L. Beckwith '16 in the half-mile. The greatest surprise to Cornell followers in the preliminaries was Milton's failure in the pole vault. He tied for first place last year, but could not clear 11 feet 11 inches, the height necessary for qualification. Three of the six men who qualified, including Foss, were tied at 12 feet, and the other three at an inch less.

Captain McCutcheon led the team in scoring. His mark in the hammer throw, 160 feet 2 inches, was less than five feet behind the record breaking throw made

CLASS REUNION

On account of Cornell Class Reunion at Ithaca, and to accommodate the various Classes who will use the Lackawanna Railroad, the CORNELL LIMITED, consisting of buffet-library car and all-steel, electric-lighted sleeping cars—finest train the Pullman Company can furnish—

Going—Thursday, June 10th, 1915

Will leave Hoboken 11:30 p. m., arrive Ithaca 7:00 a. m. (Sleeping cars open for occupancy at 9:30 p. m.; at Hoboken, and may be occupied at Ithaca until 8:00 a. m.) This train will stop on signal at Newark, and Dover.

HUDSON TUBE TRAINS FROM NEWYORK RUN DIRECT TO LACKAWANNA TERMINAL AT HOBOKEN

Returning—Sunday, June 13th, 1915

Leave Ithaca 12:15 noon, arrive Hoboken 7:12 p. m. (Through parlor cars in LACKAWANNA LIMITED.)

Leave Ithaca 10:15 p. m., arrive Hoboken 6:42 a. m. (Sleeping cars open for occupancy at 9:15 p. m. at Ithaca, and may be occupied at Hoboken until 8:00 a. m.)

The committee of arrangements have asked for extra sleeping cars to be reserved for the different Classes (including the classes of 1905, 1910, and the Mummy Club) on the 11:30 p. m. special (CORNELL LIMITED) from Hoboken, night of June 10th. Remember the DATE, TRAIN, and LACKAWANNA RAILROAD.

The Reunion begins when you get on the train—all the old class boys together.

Be sure to make reservations early and give your Class number, through any Lackawanna Ticket Office, at 1465, 1183, 237 and 84 Broadway, New York; 505 Fulton St., Brooklyn; Broad and Market Sts., Newark; or by applying to Local Agent.

by Bailey of Maine, and was better than the winning throw of last year. His third place in the shot put brought his total score up to seven points.

The most thrilling races of the day were the four runs, from the quarter to the two mile. Meredith, Pennsylvania's wonderful runner, carried off the chief honors by winning both the 440 and the half-mile. Cornell's only entry in the 440, Crim, was outclassed by the fast field, but finished in seventh place. Meredith tied the intercollegiate record of 48 seconds.

Cornell's hopes in the half-mile were centered on Speiden. The champion miler took an early lead and was closely followed by Beckwith. Meredith followed their pace for the first quarter and half the second. As the leaders turned into the stretch Meredith ran out wide and started his sprint. A brief duel ensued between Speiden and Meredith for the lead, with Beckwith dropping back fast. The Pennsylvania man won out and finished about two yards ahead of Speiden. Beckwith did not win a place.

The mile was an interesting race. Windnagle started out cautiously and did not follow the pace for the first quarter, which was run in 60 1-5 seconds. He ran in the middle of the pack. At the half mile he was coming up into third place, with the leader clocked at 2 minutes 10 1-5 seconds. Tucker, of Dartmouth, led throughout the third quarter, which was run in 70 seconds, and Windnagle moved up into second place. In the last quarter Windnagle went out ahead, but Mackenzie, of Princeton, came up hard in the last 100 yards and won by about a yard. Irish came from behind in the last lap and finished fifth.

Overton, of Yale, set the pace in the two mile. Potter and Hoffmire ran second and third most of the way until the fifth lap. Here Potter sprinted and passed Overton. He gradually increased his lead, and opened up about thirty-five yards in the last lap. Hoffmire finished about fifteen yards behind Overton.

Ingersoll was Cornell's only point winner in the sprints. He was running a good second to Smith, of Michigan, in the 100 yard dash, but was beaten to the tape by inches by Teschner, of Harvard, and finished third.

The Cornell high hurdles surpassed expectations by taking three places in the short race. Starr, Gubb, and Lukens, all three of whom were eliminated in the trials in 1914, qualified for the finals. Starr forced Ferguson, of Pennsylvania, to extend himself, and finished only a yard behind him. The winner's time was 15 2-5 seconds. Gubb finished fourth, close behind Hammitt, of Penn State. Lukens fell on the first hurdle, but finished the race, winning a point for fifth place.

Bartsch was the only Cornell man to enter the semi-finals in the 220 yard dash, and he was eliminated in his heat.

Richards of Cornell, and Oler, of Yale, were the center of attention in the high jump. Both men were cheered when it was announced that both had exceeded the record by clearing 6 feet 3 1-2 inches. The old mark was one-fourth inch lower. The bar was raised an inch, and Oler got over it, but Richards failed three times. D. A. McLaren '16, tied for fourth place at 5 feet 11 3-8 inches.

The pole vaulters were not up to expected form. Foss was handicapped by his injured wrist, and could only tie for first place at 12 feet with Carter, of Yale, and Greeley, of Harvard. The summary:

100 Yard Dash, first semi-final heat—Won by Teschner, Harvard; Smith, Michigan, second; Treadway, Yale, third. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

Second semi-final heat—Won by Ingersoll, Cornell; O'Brien, Michigan, second; Foley, Harvard, third. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

Final heat—Won by Smith, Michigan; Teschner, Harvard, second; Ingersoll, Cornell, third; Treadway, Yale, fourth; Foley, Harvard, fifth. Time, 10 seconds.

120 Yard Hurdles, first semi-final heat—Won by Gubb, Cornell; Lukens, Cornell, second; Hammitt, Penn State, third. Time, 15 3-5 seconds.

Second semi-final heat—Won by Ferguson, Pennsylvania; Starr, Cornell, second; Corbin, Michigan, third. Time, 15 3-5 seconds.

Final heat—Won by Ferguson, Pennsylvania; Starr, Cornell, second; Hammitt, Penn State, third; Gubb, Cornell, fourth; Lukens, Cornell, fifth. Time, 15 2-5 seconds.

One Mile Run—Won by Mackenzie, Princeton; Windnagle, Cornell, second; Carroll, Michigan, third; Alda, Princeton, fourth; Irish, Cornell, fifth. Time, 4 minutes 22 4-5 seconds.

440 Yard Dash—Won by Meredith, Pennsylvania; Wilcox, Harvard, second; Wilkie, Yale, third; Richardson, Princeton, fourth; Riley, Dartmouth, fifth. Time, 48 seconds, equalling intercollegiate record made by C. D. Reidpath, of Syracuse, in 1912.

Two Mile Run—Won by Potter, Cornell; Overton, Yale, second; Hoffmire, Cornell, third; Holden, Yale, fourth; Cook, M. I. T., fifth. Time, 9 minutes 27 1-5 seconds.

220 Yard Dash, first semi-final heat—Won by Smith, Harvard; Brady, Columbia, second. Time, 25 2-5 seconds.

Second semi-final heat—Won by Crawford, Princeton; Brown, Penn State, second. Time, 25 1-5 seconds.

Third semi-final heat—Won by Stewart, Princeton; Starr, Cornell, second. Time, 25 seconds.

Final heat—Won by Stewart, Princeton; Smith, Harvard, second; Brown, Penn State, third; Brady, Columbia, fourth; Crawford, Princeton, fifth. Time, 24 2-5 seconds.

220 Yard Dash, first semi-final heat—Won by Patterson, Pennsylvania; Smith, Michigan, second; Teschner, Harvard, third. Time, 25 2-5 seconds.

Second semi-final heat—Won by Treadway, Yale; Lockwood, Pennsylvania, second; Foley, Princeton, third. Time, 25 1-5 seconds.

Final heat—Won by Smith, Michigan; Teschner, Harvard, second; Treadway, Yale, third; Lockwood, Pennsylvania, fourth; Patterson, Pennsylvania, fifth. Time, 25 1-5 seconds.

Half Mile Run—Won by Meredith, Pennsylvania; Speiden, Cornell, second; Hayes, Princeton, third; Cuyper, Harvard, fourth; Cooley, Princeton, fifth. Time, 1 minute 54 2-5 seconds.

Throwing the Hammer—Won by Bailey, Maine, 165 feet 3-4 inch, breaking intercollegiate record of 164 feet 10 inches made by De Witt, of Princeton, in 1902; McCutcheon, Cornell, second, 160 feet 2 inches; Murphy, Pennsylvania, third, 153 feet 6 inches; Loughlin, Yale, fourth, 152 feet 1 inch; Leadbetter, Bowdoin, fifth, 147 feet 9 inches.

Pole Vault—Triple tie for first place between Foss, Cornell, Greeley, Harvard, and Carter, Yale, at 12 feet; Baker, Princeton, fourth, 11 feet 6 inches; Wilson, Michigan, fifth, 11 feet.

High Jump—Won by Oler, Yale, 6 feet 4 1-2 inches, breaking intercollegiate record of 6 feet 3 1-4 inches made by Moffit, Pennsylvania, in 1907; Richards, Cornell, second, 6 feet 3 1-2 inches; Johnstone, Harvard, third, 6 feet 1-2 inch, tie for fourth between McLaren, Cornell, and Connolly, Johns Hopkins, at 5 feet 11 3-8 inches.

ALUMNI NOTES

'74, B.S.—President John Casper Branner of Stanford University, who tendered his resignation to take effect next month, has been urged by the board of trustees to stay for another year and has consented to do so. Meanwhile the trustees are looking for a man to succeed him. Dr. Branner and the chairman of the board are now in the East. They were both in Ithaca for several days last week.

'00, B.S.; '12, Ph.D.—Dr. Harry W. Redfield, instructor in sanitary chemistry in Cornell University, has been appointed food bacteriologist of the Illinois State Food Commission, with his headquarters at Chicago. After his graduation in 1900 Dr. Redfield was employed for six years as chemist and assistant superintendent by a large dyeing, bleaching, and finishing concern in Brooklyn. He returned to Cornell in the fall of 1906 and registered for the degree of doctor of philosophy. During his graduate study he devoted himself chiefly to sanitary chemistry and to allied lines such as bacteriology and pathology. He has frequently been called in consultation by manufacturing concerns and as an expert witness in legal cases involving food products. The seniors and graduates who had specialized in sanitary chemistry gave Dr. Redfield a farewell dinner on the evening of Sunday, May 30.

'00, A.B.—Kelton E. White, who has been actively engaged in the municipal bond business for fifteen years, is now associated with G. H. Walker & Co., 307 North Fourth Street, St. Louis, Mo., as manager of their newly installed municipal bond department.

'02, C.E.—A son, Shirley Clark, jr., was born to Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hulse at Bedford, Pa., on May 17.

'08, LL.B.—A son, Willard Heber Winder, was born to Judge and Mrs. A. Heber Winder on April 8, 1915, at Riverside, Cal. Mrs. Winder was Miss Helen Adelle Dobbs '10, of Ithaca.

'12, B.S.—Edward L. Bernays, who has been promoting the publicity of "Daddy Long Legs," "Damaged Goods," and other theatrical productions in New York, is now press representative for The Booking & Promoting Corporation, of which Maximilian Elser, jr., '10, is general representative. This bureau secures bookings for a number of musicians and musical organizations, including the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Olive Fremstad, Margaret LIFE insurance helps to establish habits essential to business success. ¶ It makes you save money to pay premiums. ¶ In reality you are putting this much money aside. ¶ And by so doing you, or some one dependent upon you, perhaps both of you, will get the benefit of this saving. ¶ You will find life insurance stimulates frugality and foresight. ¶ Why not try it?
