CORNELL-HARVARD BOAT-RACE.

Second Varsity Eights will Row Two-mile Race on Cayuga Lake Saturday—Pennsylvania Baseball Game Before Race—Regatta Concert and Ball Friday Evening.

On Saturday the Cornell-Harvard second Varsity boat-race will be rowed on Cayuga Lake over the course upon which the second Varsity races of the last five years have been rowed. The Harvard crew, composed for the most part of sophomores who last year rowed in the freshman boat at New London, will arrive in Ithaca on Friday morning by way of Albany and Canastota. The men will row over the course on Friday afternoon, will attend the regatta concert at the Lyceum theatre in the evening and will take their final practice on the Inlet on Saturday morning.

The two crews are evenly matched in weight and age. The Harvard men outweigh the Cornell men less than one-fourth of one pound to the man while the eight men in both boats average twenty years in age. In experience too the crews are well matched most of the Harvard men having rowed in their freshman boat at New London and all the men in the Cornell boat having sat in the shell that finished first in the youngster event at Poughkeepsie last June.

The statistics of the two crews follow:

CORNELL.

	Height	Weight	Age
E. T. Foote, stroke	6.	168	20
W. F. Lee, 7	6.	168	19
H. L. Aller, 6	5.11	165	20

R. F. Pleasanton, 2	6.2	175	19
A. Johnson, bow	6.1	163	20

The race will be rowed at 5:30 in the afternoon. It will start at a point two miles north of McKinney's, on the east side of the lake; and will finish at McKinney's, a half-mile north of Renwick Park. The Lehigh Valley railroad will operate a thirty-six car observation train on the tracks of its Auburn Division which throughout the two miles of the course, run within a score of feet of the lake and within a hundred feet of the inside crew.

The Cornell-Pennsylvania baseball game will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will be finished more than an hour before the observation train is scheduled to leave for the scene of the race. The Quaker team is exceptionally strong and, like Cornell, has won from and lost to the Princeton team. Cornell won from Princeton 8 to 7 and lost to the same team 2 to 1. The Quakers won their victory by a score of 8 to 3 and suffered defeat 7 to 4. Cornell won the Memorial Day game a year ago and undergraduates look for a repetition of the performance.

REGATTA CONCERT AND BALL.

On Friday evening the Cornell Musical Clubs will give their annual regatta concert in the Lyceum theatre. Seats were placed on sale yesterday morning and this afternoon the playhouse is sold out. Boating songs and the songs of Harvard and Cornell will be the leading numbers rendered by the Glee Club. The solos will be sung by Messrs. Rose, Gerwig and Holmes whose singing was a feature of the concerts given by the Clubs on their annual Christmas tour.

Following the concert the Navy Ball will be held in the Armory. The proceeds from the Ball will be devoted to defraying the expenses of the Cornell crews. Eighteen of the fraternities have taken boxes for the Ball, the sale of tickets has been good and Chairman Haines Gridley of the committee in charge expects to be able to turn a snug sum over to the crew management.

PRINCETON WON TRACK MEET.

Defeated Cornell Team 59 1-2 to 44 1-2—Munson's Running Feature of Meet—Eleven Cornell Men for Intercollegiates.

For the first time in four years Princeton defeated Cornell in the dual track meet last Saturday afternoon. The score was 59½ to 44½ and the result came as a big surprise not only to undergraduates generally but also to the members of the team who were quietly confident that the results of the past three years would be repeated. A much closer score would have been made, and even a victory might have been won, had Schutt taken part in the meet and had Sears appreciated more thoroughly what faithful training on his part meant to the University and to the team in that meet. But as it was Schutt was in the Infirmary and Sears trained in just the manner in which he has trained for the last two years—whenever he felt like it.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY AT CORNELL.

A Section of the American Chemical Society and is one of the Prosperous Organizations of the University—A Sketch of its Establishment and its Work.

Nearly three years ago the advanced students and members of the instructing staff of the Chemical Department began to discuss the advisability of forming a Cornell Chemical Society. So many men were engaged in investigation, the results of which were not generally known by the students that it was deemed eminently desirable to employ some means of bringing together all those specially interested in chemistry for the purpose of hearing personally of the research that is carried on in the University. After a series of informal discussions extending through nearly a year, preliminary meetings were held and the plans were brought formally to the attention of all interested in the project.

Two plans were suggested: One, that a local chemical society be organized, and the other that a Cornell Section of the American Chemical Society be formed. In order to establish the latter it was found to be necessary that at least twenty persons should become members of the American Chemical Society and should sign a petition to the Council asking that a local section be established and that a formal charter be granted. It was soon ascertained, however, that there were in the University quite a number of those who were already members of the American Chemical Society and a good many students who were desirous of joining it. It was therefore decided to organize a Cornell Section which should affiliate with the national organization. To this end, the petition was prepared and the charter was granted. Upon the face of the charter appear the names of twenty-four men who signed the petition and became charter members of the Section; it was also signed by the President and Secretary of the American Chemical Society, Dr. Ira Remsen, and Dr. A. C. Hale respectively. At the end of the first year the membership in the Cornell Section had increased to thirty-three, and since the day of its formal organization it has grown steadily in numbers and the interest in its meetings has rapidly increased.

In its affiliation with the American Chemical Society the members of the Cornell Section are numbered among the twenty-five hundred chemists of America. The only conditions to be fulfilled before any person may become a member of the American Chemical Society are that he be interested in Chemistry, that he be recommended by three members of the Society and that he pay his annual dues of five dollars. The only condition which one must meet who would join the Cornell Section is that he be a member of the national organization. Thus the restrictions are so simple that any chemist who so desires may become a member of the Cornell Section.

The members receive the Journal of the Society which contains over twelve hundred pages of original articles by American chemists as well as several hundred pages of book reviews and abstracts. In this Journal members are able to publish the results of their own original work. By virtue of their membership in the national organization it becomes easy for them to become acquainted with other American chemists.

This Section is one of seventeen which are located in various parts of the United States and it enjoys the unique distinction of being the only one named directly from a University, and whose interests and life are so entirely centered in an educational institution. The territory embraced by the Section is that within a radius of ten miles about Cornell University.

The general objects of the Cornell Section are "the advancement of chemistry and the promotion of chemical research." The results of the many investigations which each year are carried on in the Chemical Department are presented to the Section at its monthly meetings. The reading and discussion of these papers keep all those working in chemistry in touch with one another and undoubtedly stimulate the younger men to more and better work. Occasional variations are introduced in the form of lectures and addresses on special chemical subjects and allied topics. Reports of recent advances in particular fields of chemical research and technical processes serve to broaden the horizon of those whose energies are perforce largely spent in one branch of chemical science. This meeting of students and the instructing staff once a month develops and extends a healthful esprit de corps which is so vital to the best interests of any institution.

During the past year the work of the Section has been a pronounced success. Its membership has increased to forty-three and its meetings have attracted a number of visitors. The membership at present includes twelve undergraduates, seven graduates, and twenty-two members of the staff of instruction.

In all, eight meetings have been held at which eight original papers have been read. Members of the staff of the Chemical Department have given four lectures to the Section, and two addresses have been delivered by friends from other departments of the University. The average attendance has been twenty-four members and twenty-five visitors.

The most notable event of the year was the experimental address by Professor Ernest Rutherford of McGill University who addressed the Section and the public on "The Emanations of Radium." A report of that address has already been given in these pages.

The officers for the coming year that were elected at the last meeting of the Section are:

President, E. M. Chamot.

Vice-president, J. E. Teeple.

Secretary-Treasurer, F. C. Robinson.

Executive Committee, W. S. Bishop, H. R. Carveth, W. R. Orndorff.

Councilors, L. M. Dennis, G. C. Caldwell.

From a University point of view the presence of this Society is of considerable significance. The fact that there exists in Cornell such a prosperous Section of the American Chemical Society speaks highly of the standing of the Chemical Department among those of the universities of America. The juniors and seniors who specialize in chemistry find it far easier as members of this organization to extend their acquaintance among the chemists of national reputation. When they go out into other places they are able to enter into the life of other Sections and to rise more rapidly in their profession. Furthermore, as the Cornell Section grows in reputation and numbers, it becomes a means of more widely extending the fact that in Cornell University there exists a wide-awake, vigorous school of chemistry.

WILLIAM C. GEER, 1902.

(Princeton Won Track Meet.)

Princeton won because she had on University Field on Saturday afternoon a better team than Cornell had; a team that was just a little better than Cornell in the dashes, the distance runs, except the two-mile, the weight events and the broad jump, and which was just about Cornell's equal in the high jump and the pole vault. In the hurdles Cornell had the stronger men and would have won second place as well as first place in the high flights had not Ashburner tripped and fallen.

The feature of the meet was Munson's race with Williams in the half-mile when the Princeton man covered the distance in 1:56 2-5, reducing the Intercollegiate record by two-fifths of a second. Munson lost the race by two yards but ran the distance in 1:56 4-5 which is about one second inside the Cornell record. In the two mile, Plumer sprung a surprise on Trainer Moakley and his team-mates by romping away from his opponents and finishing in 9:59 1-5, time fast enough to win a place in the Intercollegiate meet.

Following are the summaries of the meet:

100-yard dash—Won by S. Rulon-Miller, Princeton; second, F. M. Sears, Cornell; third, F. G. Wallis, Cornell. Time 10 1-5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Won by F. M. Sears, Cornell; second, S. Rulon-Miller, Princeton; third, F. G. Wallis, Cornell. Time, 22 4-5 seconds.

120-yard hurdles—Won by A. Vonnegut, Cornell; second, J. N. Carter, Princeton; third, R. E. Doane, Princeton. Time, 16 1-5 seconds.

220-yard hurdles—Won by E. Cairns, Cornell; second, A. Vonnegut, Cornell; third, E. C. Halsey, Princeton. Time, 26 seconds.

One-mile run—Won by D. C. Chapin, Princeton; second, R. E. Williams, Princeton; third, R. S. Trott, Cornell. Time, 4.29.

440-yard dash—Won by J. C. Atlee, Princeton; second, G. M. Goldsmith, Princeton; third, A. T. Maurice, Princeton. Time, 52 1-5.

Two-mile run—Won by H. F. Plumer, Cornell; second, C. F. Magoffin, Cornell; third, J. L. Eisele, Princeton. Time, 9.59 1-5.

Half-mile run—Won by R. E. Williams, Princeton; second, D. C. Munson, Cornell; third, L. M. Adsit, Princeton. Time, 1.56 2-5.

Pole vault—Won by H. L. Moore, Princeton, and J. B. Phillips, Cornell, tie at 11 feet; third, L. Goodrich, Princeton, 10 feet, 6 inches.

Hammer throw—Won by J. R. DeWitt, Princeton, 165 feet, 6 1/2 inches; second, W. Moxley, Cornell, 126 feet, 2 inches; third, L. A. Wilder, Cornell, 111 feet, 3 inches.

Shot put—Won by J. R. DeWitt, Princeton, 43 feet, 4 inches; second, J. F. Porter, Cornell, 42 feet, 3/4 inch; third, W. T. Schultz, Princeton, 39 feet, 3 inches.

High jump—E. Cairns, Cornell, and N. B. Tooker, Princeton, tie at 5 feet, 9 inches; second, H. F. Porter, Cornell, and G. B. Wood, Princeton, tie at 5 feet, 4 inches.

Broad jump—Won by George Fox, Princeton; second, J. L. Grimes, Princeton; third, R. C. Turner, Cornell. Distance, 21 feet, 5 1/2 inches.

ITHACA, N. Y., MAY 25, 1904.

The defeat of a Cornell team comes always as a disappointment to Cornell men and the defeat of the track team at Princeton on Saturday comes within the rule. Yet if a Cornell team was scheduled for defeat on that day none could lose with better grace than the track men who in four years have won three successive victories over Princeton and as many over the University of Pennsylvania. And after all defeat isn't such a bad thing if a team goes down in a hard, clean fight and if defeats are not the result in which the team deals as a specialty.

There will be some great reunions in Ithaca on JUNE 22ND but judging from the work being done by Mr. Heatley Green and his 1901 Triennial Committee that reunion is in a fair way of eclipsing them all. And that indeed is quite consistent with the record left behind by that vigorous class. If the augurs read the signs aright the coming Triennial will rival even that reunion held by the class of '73 last June which has gone down in the annals of class reunions as the greatest ever held at Cornell. The appeals of members of the class of 1901 to their classmates to be in Ithaca on JUNE 22ND may not be of extraordinary interest to men of other classes but they can read therein a lesson of enthusiasm and devotion which if learned will make Cornell reunions more nearly what they should be. To the 1901 committee we are glad to give a page of our paper—or as many pages as they need—if by doing so we can aid them in the least in their effort to hold a grand reunion on June 22nd.

Exhibit of Chemical Department at St. Louis Exposition.

The special exhibit which the Department of Chemistry is to have in the building of the Department of Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations at St. Louis is now on its way to the Fair City. The exhibit will be placed in the section allotted to "Instruction in Technical and Industrial Chemistry." Only three or four other institutions will have exhibits in this department.

One of the most interesting features of the exhibit is a collection of compounds of rare earths, which have been produced for the first time in the laboratories of Morse hall. Among these are the picrates of such elements as lanthanum, neodymium, phraseodmium, caesium, lithium and yttrium. Another important part of the exhibit will be a series of eight or ten salts of hydronitric acid, which has been studied by Professor Dennis and the students to a considerable extent. These were also first made in Morse hall.

Professor Chamot has prepared a number of specimens illustrating the work of micro-chemical analysis, which exhibit consists mainly of small tubes containing a portion of the original substance and a portion of the substance after analysis, with the results obtained, and stating the amount of time consumed. In some cases a complete analysis of a complicated substance is made in from eighteen to twenty minutes which would take a half day under the usual wet method, and the substance is not affected in the least by the operation.

Professor Orndorf has contributed about forty specimens of organic substances made by students in organic chemistry, and there is also a series of exhibits taken from the museum showing the separation of neodymium from phraseodmium by the delicate method of fractional crystallization.

Several other departments are represented in the exhibit, and there are a number of photographs of the exterior and interior of Morse hall.

A POINT TO INSIST ON.

There are endless numbers of traveling people who go regularly from New York to Chicago and vice versa several times a month, who have never gone over any other road but the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, because this road is "good enough" for them. It's good enough for anybody, the fastest, safest, most convenient and most comfortable road in America. Once you travel over the Lake Shore and you will not want to experiment with any other road. People who know the comforts and discomforts of traveling, and what they have a right to expect, always insist on their tickets reading by way of the Lake Shore. So should you.

Cut Rates to Ithaca for Commencement Week.

The Trunk Line Association—comprising the Lehigh Valley, New York Central, West Shore, Erie, Lackawanna, and Pennsylvania railroads—have voted to offer a rate of a fare and one-third over those roads from points in their respective territories to Ithaca for Commencement Week. The Central Passenger Association is considering granting a similar rate from points located west of Buffalo.

Cost of Goldwin Smith and Rockefeller Halls.

The Goldwin Smith Hall of Humanities will cost $213,129 and the Rockefeller Hall of Physics $202,431 under the contracts signed between the Trustees and Mr. John V. Schaefer, Jr., contractor, of New York City. The figures do not include the cost of installing heating, lighting or ventilating apparatus in the buildings.

College Celebrations—As Seen by New York Times.

Celebrations by college students are so nearly always in honor of victories in athletic sports or games that Monday evening's demonstration by the Cornell undergraduates was a notable one. The boys rejoiced, not at a victory of bodily strength or skill, but because the educational facilities of the University are to be increased by a grant of money from the State for the establishment of a School of Agriculture. That is a boon which, on the face of it, seems little likely to arouse the hilarity and exultation of thoughtless youth, and yet these boys wouldn't have yelled more loudly or fired their cannon more recklessly if they had won a boat race or a football game. What is most rare for undergraduates, a most conservative lot and prone to exalt traditions over innovations, these boys had the ingenious idea of dragging six black bulls from their slumbers on the college farm to participate in the festivities and stamp the procession with the mark of what it commemorated. Whether the black bulls enjoyed themselves or not, they fitted in with the occasion most harmoniously, and indicated, as did the whole celebration, that the Cornell youth are not thoughtless—or else that they consider any excuse good enough for a noisy night. One can never tell, in such cases, and perhaps the Presidents of the colleges that didn't get any appropriation will declare, among themselves, that the six black bulls neatly typified the intelligence of those who gave the appropriation and of those who rejoiced over it. But there—those Presidents are a little out of humor just now over the rejection of their advice by the Governor. They will feel better as time goes on and they discover that a favor to one is not necessarily an injury to all the rest. From whatever motive, Cornell did well to exult over the prospects opening before its students of farming.

TRIENNIAL REUNION OF THE CLASS OF 1901—JUNE 22nd.

A N N O U N C E M E N T.

THE 1901 TRIENNIAL REUNION, will be the greatest class gathering ever held at Cornell. More than half the class will be there, rounded up from every corner of the States. We will, as Robertson and Alexander say, start a few new precedents and will teach the "old boys" how to hold a reunion. Every one will be there. The twelve fellows whose spasms follow will be there. Layt Lyon, Frank Newbury, Ben Andrews, Fay, Robbins and all the rest of the crowd will be there. You will be there, or else you will regret it all your life. It's 1901's first reunion so let it be a hummer—as was everything 1901 undertook. Remember the date—JUNE 22nd—and be on hand to shout "Here" when the Genial James calls the roll. Send a postal today to Green saying you will be there.

THE 1901 COMMITTEE.

Historian "Jack" Dresser Rakes up a few Reputations.

The Class of 1901 is almost old enough to have a reunion. So we want one and we're going to have one on JUNE 22nd.

That was always the way with 1901—always wanted to be a little older than we really were. When we were freshmen we wanted to be sophomores, when we were sophomores we were not satisfied till we became upperclassmen and when we got into the Senior Class, there were a few who really wanted to graduate and leave the old place.

Now they're sorry for it and want to get back.

Let me tell any hesitating members that it's all right—this going back after three years grubbing around the bottom of the well where you dropped in June 1901.

Town debts are outlawed now. You can go back and walk the streets of Ithaca in perfect safety. You can even converse pleasantly with the robbers of State street. I know because I've tried it. I'm classed as a Robber myself now.

Then, too, you're not too old to hold up your end with the boys up there now. The only fellows you've got to fear are those old '74's and '79's who develop surprisingly under the youth-renewing atmosphere of reunions.

All you've got to do is to ask the head office-boy's permission to go, and the next morning you're under balmy skies in the land-of-no-care.

Straight is "somewhere east of Suez" and won't be there. But Phil Dickinson will tell you in the same old way how much he loves the co-eds. Ned Allen has promised to make a new sensation. "Back" Little has the same old "Sestina of the Tramp Royal" to recite. Layt Lyon gets back his smile when he strikes Ithaca. Archie MacBride stops thinking about politics. Jim O'Malley shakes hands all around. George Southard forgets all about home. Robby Robertson finds his voice again. Sao-Ke Sze puts on civilized clothes and Pop Miller is himself again.

I hope Sweet will be back because—how could we get along without "we Prominent Seniors"?

I suppose they thought they'd buried all their college reputations in June 1901 but we'll dig 'em up again in June 1904.

The Class of 1901 never was stuck on itself. That may be why they really did do something for the University. I believe it was the class of 1901 who did more to build up healthy, unanimous University spirit than any class that has graduated in the last twenty years.

That is why we all are coming back in June—coming back not to show off to admiring neighbors, but to have a rattling good time in the same old way.

The changes in Modern Ithaca need not bother you. You won't see them. The new men can be pushed aside and forgotten. All you know or need to know is that you're back again at the best of places, once more in your own class.

JOHN O. DRESSER.

The Genial James Approves.

The idea of Triennial reunions of Cornell classes is in its infancy. It originated with the class of 1900. Whether it will become an established custom and a Cornell tradition, will depend largely upon the immediate successors of the class which is responsible for its birth. Hence it is especially important that our class should contribute more than a passive support to its coming Triennial reunion. Let us bear testimony to our interest in the general plan of these reunions, by making this second in the series, a grand success. The sense of duty done, the joys of a renewal of pleasant associations, and the inspiration for Cornell which will be born anew in us, will repay us most handsomely for our return on JUNE 22nd. Let us all make up our minds to come and to urge all others to join us in Ithaca.

(Signed)

JAMES O'MALLEY.

"All Like Brothers", says Father Miller.

I am glad to know 1901 is to have a reunion. Three years away from the school on the hill-top ought to make us feel like coming back in a bunch and looking each other over. For many of us who had to get out and hustle for the wherewithal to keep our slender bodies and souls together those three years have been mighty eventful. We have learned much that we did not know in calm, philosophical Ithaca. Doubtless, the reminiscences of those who have had their first contact with the world since graduation will be highly interesting.

Our class was always a unit anyhow. From the time we first faced Uncle Davy Hoy in a state of trepidation, to the time we received our diplomas we were as brothers. It is a good thing to realize that and it is a satisfaction in looking back over our University life to know that, in our class, every one was friendly to every one else. For this reason we should have a big reunion. Let us all get together and talk things over. It ought not to require an advertising campaign or a flood of press notices to get us together. The mere announcement that 1901 is to have a reunion ought to bring us.

(Signed)

W. H. MILLER.

"What's the Use of Quitting College when you Graduate?"

We are all going back to Ithaca this June to show the other graduates, and the undergraduates, that we, unlike our predecessors, did not die when we graduated. There may be some people who doubt it, but we know that 1901 instituted a new spirit in undergraduate life in Cornell; a spirit that is there today and growing stronger, growing out of even our recent memory.

Now we are going to start in and infuse that spirit into the "old boys." What is the use of quitting college when you graduate? We are going back this June and shake hands with half of our class; we are going to celebrate the fact that we are the greatest class that ever came out of Ithaca. We are going to prove to the youngsters that we can have a better time than they can, and with all our "great cares" out in the world, we can still be young.

Cornell life has missed more than half of its possibilities. We see each June a few grave Alumni, grave perforce, for all they see is the undergraduate and the girl, while at other colleges the "old grads" start a smile miles from the station knowing they are going to see all their old friends and be the rulers of college for a few days.

A new life is open to graduates and 1901 is going to lead the way, to it just as she has lead the way in the past.

EDWARD L. ROBERTSON.

"Ted" Gay Grows a Bit Sentimental. To THE CLASS OF 1901.

DEAR FELLOWS:—If you have forgotten how the old Campus glistens in the June sun; if you have forgotten the blue of the lake and hills; if you have forgotten how it seems to loaf under the trees back of Morrill, and listen to the library clock strike the hours; if you have forgotten Davy's stern ways and Prexy's sonorous speeches; if you have never seen the new Sibley dome, or the new Medical building, or the new Chapel; if you want to behold Little's genial smile, and Green's rusty pate; if, in short, you want to renew your youth, and be in on the biggest and best time any class ever held in Ithaca come to the 1901 Triennial on JUNE 22nd.

Yours for Cornell and 1901,
(Signed) JOHN S. GAY.

World's Record "Dick" will Look for all the Crowd in Ithaca on June 22nd.

Classmates of 1901! It's a chance! It's a chance of a lifetime. Why don't you quit the grind for a few hours? Make it a celebration; one of the old kind, with Jim and Alic and Archie and the rest of us 'round the board. There will never be a greater number, and as it is, there will be but a few covers unturned.

In the old days the saints would hardly have had room at the 1901 banquet table, and those feeds were interesting; so interesting that we all would like to talk and live them over again and to once more be on the old grounds. Old "Rusty" has promised to have the refreshments ready and to see that no one gets lost afterwards. If you are a Cornell man; if you are a 1901 man; if you have ever learned to sing "We'll honor thee, Cornell," show up in Ithaca on JUNE 22nd.

Parade Arrangements by Grand Marshal "Dai" Thomas.

Red Top Green—married by the way—has arranged a reunion that will enable you to do your four years—or four months—in two days. The stunt parade is to far surpass the one of three years ago. "Spigot" Massey is to lead the band with his renowned Anheuser-Busch baton. Alec, "Shorty" Williams, Duff Robbins, and "Towser" Taylor will form the front rank. These performing wonders will be followed by ex-presidents O'Malley, Ogden, MacBride and Holcomb on camels. Five large elephants are to carry the chaperones of the class, viz, the Mrs. G. Chatillon, English, Green, and Otis and their respective husbands duly shackled will dance close attendance. Archie Morrison, Back Little, Robbie Robertson, Layt Lyon, Old Sloc, Ned Oliphant and Dick Vanderhoef, dressed as flower girls will strew roses in the path of the three most prominent and famous members of the faculty—the Old Man, Jack Moakley and Hugh Jennings.

Fifty men have signified their intention of marching in the parade. We want the "yes" of every man in the class. It means an absence of only two days from work. Two short days in which to renew all the old friendships. You will have been away from college 1085 days; we want two of these days for the good old crowd. When we were in college everyone knew it. Now let's have a rousing reunion—so rousing, in fact, that fifty years from now the good citizens of Ithaca will still be muttering, "You should have seen 1901 come back."

(Signed)

D. R. THOMAS.

A Spasm From the North Woods.

DEAR FELLOWS:—Break away from the grind and do a lockstep with the old crowd once more. Be back in Ithaca on JUNE 22nd for our Triennial; for old times sake; for a sight of the new buildings and greater Cornell; for another breeze from off "old Cayuga;" for the 1901 parade; for our smoker at "Theodore's"; for the Alumni Reunion; for the various good things on the calendar, and for a chance to let off that Cornell enthusiasm that has been accumulating these three years.

"Brick" Metcalf to the Lawyers.

TO THE CREAM OF THE CLASS OF 1901, THE LAWYERS.

Some weeks ago while sitting in my office hoping for a client, a "wild throw" from Heatley "Reddy" Green came through the door, the said "wild throw" being in the form of a literary spasm urging my attendance in Ithaca during Senior week.

If we had made the most of our college course, Blackstone, Kent, Marshall, Choate, et al., should be relegated to the back woods, where I understand all the Sibley and C. E. men have gone, for what more perfect lawyer could one imagine than a composite of the quiet dignity and deep learning of Judge Finch combined with the unending patience of "Bill" Finch, the wit and satire of "Eddie" Woodruff, the brilliancy and confidence of "Ernie" Huffcut, the keen though never biting sarcasm, and the political indefatigability of "Cuth." Pound, the "nice distinctions" of "Hank" Redfield, and last but not least the steering propensities of "Freddie" Colson. Have we combined these qualities or have we been laggards? Is Robbie Moore, the same old ward healer as when he drove "Si" George to the depths of Wall street? Does Roy Hart sing sweet nothings into the ears of a jury? Is it so that "Rube" Mormon Dole is a staunch supporter of Prophet Joseph Smith? Does "Robbie" Robertson scoop in fees just like he was wont to handle the "high and broad" ones that "Dug" Brown and "Hetty" Green passed down to first base? Is "Kit" Dautel really in love? Has Joe Uihlein settled that "Milwaukee" Case?

Have we any Choates in the class except the ones "Izzie" Straight presented to us? Have we a Knox, except the ones Officer Shannon "handed out" to Bill Pellet?

Come now one and all, ye minions of the law, and hear these questions properly answered at our Triennial on JUNE 22nd, which, by the way, will make our once famous smokers fade into nothingness.

(Signed)

"BRICK" METCALF.

Little Sends Greetings from Cleveland.

TO THE EVER-VICTORIOUS CLASS, 1901.

Do you realize that it is three years since the doors of Cornell closed on one of the best classes that ever graduated? The class that did more toward making the University what it is than any other that has ever gone out. The class that made the "New Cornell."

Do you realize three years is a long, long time and that things have happened during that time that it is good to talk about. Don't you feel it in your bones that you must get back and see the old place again and yell "A! Ho Ho! All out for old Cornell," the way you did when we were teaching ourselves and the others in the University that a new era had come and that Cornell had developed a spirit that made all things possible? You all began that great work. Come back for 1901's Triennial and see the result and your heart will swell with pride. Alex will be there and Layt Lyon and Johnnie Senior and Jack Dresser and all the rest. Come on it's up to you.

(Signed) BASCOM LITTLE.

"Get the Reunion Habit at the Start," says Lowenthal.

TO THE CLASS OF 1901:

Three years ago when the disciples of 1901 scattered abroad I thought it pretty well agreed that we'd all round up together this Spring even if the committee should forget the call and it's a fair venture that there isn't a man-jack of us who hasn't had his eye on the proper dates in the almanac three or four times a month since we've been out. The treatment has kept me from the doctors and Steve Merrill says the greatest rivals his patent tonic has are the reunions in the Spring.

Three years has aged us all a bit but if Ponce de Leon could see us during Triennial he'd surely think that well of his had migrated to the Campus. Everyone of us can stand a good time. Take on this first Reunion and get the habit at the start. We'll have the quintessence of the four years again in four days! Of course we've never had a Triennial before but we hadn't been to Cornell before we went there! Suppose you hadn't gone! That's the way you'll feel if you miss out on JUNE 22nd.

(Signed)

SIDNEY S. LOWENTHAL.

Eclipse on June 22nd.

Learning that there is to be an eclipse visible in and about Ithaca during the coming Commencement Week, it was naturally pleasing to me to find that it is to be occasioned by the way in which 1901's Triennial will overshadow any class reunion ever held at Cornell.

Of course the presence of those of our classmates who were, during their active days influential in establishing many of the most cherished undergraduate customs and precedents of today will help to make the occasion a memorable one for all of us who attend, to say nothing of the pleasure it will give us all to institute at our first opportunity a few precedents for class reunions. 1901 is a class which must never be forgotten at Cornell.

Just as soon as I learned that Jim O'Malley was to be limited to the two-minute oratorical class, that Senior has given a promissory note payable upon his propounding any financial schemes for the enrichment (in experience) of the class; that Wally Childs would not be permitted to tell any of his western stories, nor Brick Metcalf explain any of the reasons why he is such a great politician, I hired a secret service man to accompany me and intend to be in Ithaca on the great day prepared to grow younger than ever.
