AS IT IS WITH ALMOST EVERYTHING—
THERE'S NO SUBSTITUTE FOR THE REAL THING
(We Reflect on the So Called "Return" to the "Natural Style" in Men's Clothing)

We have oftentimes referred to the fact that Brooks Brothers have established over the past 133 years many of the important trends in men's clothing. We have also stated occasionally that these changes come slowly. Few men, if any, want a New Look.

Such trends as the wider shoulder—"built up" suit, enjoy brief periods of popularity. In the long run, few men like to go around with "shoulders by courtesy of their tailor." The natural shoulder suit of soft construction is by far the most comfortable one to wear. And a man cannot look well in his clothes unless he is comfortable.

This is the reason that Brooks Brothers have no reason to return to the so-called Natural Look in clothing. We've never left it.

Give Student Residence for Medical College—Charles L. Horn (right), president of the Olin Foundation, Inc., hands to Dean Joseph C. Hinsey of the Medical College the deed of gift for F. W. Olin Hall, $2,549,000 student residence for the Medical College, at a convocation at the College, January 9. At left is John M. Olin '13 and next to Dean Hinsey is Spencer T. Olin '21, sons of the late Trustee Franklin W. Olin '85 who established the Foundation; with Neal D. Becker '05, chairman of the University Board of Trustees.

Olin Foundation Gives Memorial Residence for Medical College Students

SURPRISE NEWS at a convocation called at the Medical College in New York, January 9, to introduce President Deane W. Malott to students, Faculty, and alumni was the announcement of a gift of $2,549,000 from the Olin Foundation, Inc., to provide a student residence for the Medical College. The building will be named F. W. Olin Hall for the late Trustee Franklin W. Olin '85 who established the Foundation.

Announcing the gift, the largest yet made from the Foundation's funds, Foundation President Charles L. Horn said: "It is most appropriate that this grant should be made to Cornell University, for which Mr. Olin held such great affection. Although educated as an engineer, Mr. Olin was greatly interested in medicine and in medical education. By providing a modern dormitory residence for the students of one of the world's great centers of medical instruction, we hope not only to carry forward Mr. Olin's interest, but to place a new stone in the structure of American health."

President Malott described the proposed building as "a magnificent addition to the physical resources of the University" and "a new measure of support for the endless mission of medical education and service through the long years of the future." Accepting the gift for the University, Neal D. Becker '05, chairman of the Board of Trustees, declared that "the new Olin Hall will rank with the University's most significant gifts in terms of dollars and also in terms of potential for improving Cornell's service in the public interest."

The Medical College is a part of The New York Hospital - Cornell Medical Center. A residence for students was not included when the Center was erected in 1932. During World War II, with the attendant shortage of nurses, space was provided for both men and women in the Nurses' Annex at the Center. At present, some of the men students are housed in temporary buildings obtained from the Federal Government, while the women continue to reside in the Nurses' Annex.

Provides Needed Facilities

F. W. Olin Hall, planned to provide accommodations for the Medical College's normal enrollment of 330 men and women students, will be built on a plot 100 by 175 feet directly opposite the College entrance at 1300 York Avenue. It is hoped that it can be completed by early 1954. Preliminary specifications call for a twelve-story building containing 275 rooms, with 250 of them intended for students and the others for the use of visiting scientists, lecturers, alumni, and parents. On the ground floor will be meeting rooms, lounges, and office space. The building, which will have about 100,000 square feet of floor space, will connect with the Medical College by a tunnel under York Avenue and will harmonize architecturally with the Medical Center group of limestone and light buff brick. Dean Joseph C. Hinsey said that in addition to supplying modern study and living quarters, the new facilities would furnish "an off-duty meeting ground for furthering a closer relationship between undergraduates, the Faculty, and alumni."

Memorializes Franklin W. Olin '85

Franklin W. Olin was the founder of Olin Industries, which controls or is affiliated with powder manufacturing, small-arms, household equipment, and other companies throughout the country. Among its subsidiaries are Western Cartridge Co. and Western Brass Mills of East Alton, Ill.; Winchester Arms Co. and the Bond Electric Co. of New Haven, Conn.; and the Ecusta Paper Corp. of Pisgah Forest, N.C. Olin was a Trustee of the University from 1934 until his death last year at the age of ninety-one. In 1941, he gave the University $700,000 for the construction of Olin Hall for the School of Chemical & Metallurgical Engineering in memory of his son, Franklin W. Olin, Jr. '12. His sons John M. Olin '13 and Spencer T. Olin '21 of Alton, who were present at the convocation, are respectively president and vice-president of Olin Industries.

Speakers also at the convocation were James O. Wynn, vice-president of the Olin Foundation; Hamilton Hadley, vice-president of the Society of The New York Hospital; Professor Connie M. Guion '17, Clinical Medicine, Emeritus, for the College Faculty; Professor Preston A. Wade '22, Clinical Surgery, and Alumni Trustee, for the Medical College alumni; and Harrison H. Farley of Alton, Olin's home town, a second-year student, for the student body. Dean Hinsey presided and read a tribute to Olin by the University Board of Trustees.

Class Secretaries Meet

FIFTY-FOUR Class secretaries or their delegates attended the mid-winter luncheon meeting of the Association of Class Secretaries at the Cornell Club of New York, January 26. With President Frederick C. Wood '24 presiding, a report was presented from a committee headed by Allan H. Treman '21 making recommendations concerning Class Reunions. Recommendations were adopted to move the Class tents to lower Alumni Field from Library slope next June; to allow Classes fifty-years and more out of the University to invite adjoining Classes to hold Reunions with them; and to arrange workshop sessions in Ithaca for the officers of all Classes the day before Reunions open, on Thursday, June 5, 1952.

H. Cushman Ballou '20 reported on the work of the Alumni Association committee on Alumni Trustee nominations and H. A. Stevenson '19, managing editor of the ALUMNI NEWS, reported that four Classes are now successfully collecting annual dues for group subscriptions to the NEWS to all members, with several additional Classes shortly to start. Alumni Secretary R. Selden Brewer '40 said the Alumni Office has received from approximately 11,000 alumni the biographical questionnaires mailed to all with the January "Letter from Cornell" and urged that Class officers get those who had not done so to fill out and return them.

The Association elected William G. Rossiter '37 as president, succeeding Wood. Leo K. Fox '25 is vice-president; Alumni Field Secretary John A. Krieger '49 was elected secretary; and Mrs. Robert L. Webster (Alice Schade) '31, treasurer. Elected to the executive committee were Mrs. P. Paul Miller (Sara Speer) '21, Charles E. Treman, Jr. '30, and James L. Kraker, Jr. '42. Mrs. Miller was elected a director of the Alumni Association, with President Rossiter.

Before the luncheon, twenty-two women's secretaries and representatives of this year's Reunion Classes met with Alumnae Secretary Pauline J. Schmid '25 to make plans for their Class gatherings next June 6 and 7 in Ithaca.

New Term Starts

DEGREES will be granted to approximately 185 undergraduates and about 140 graduate students as of January 30, the end of the first term. No Commencement exercises were held, and midyear Seniors were invited to return for the Baccalaureate service, June 8, and Commencement, June 9. Diplomas for the degrees awarded at midyear will be mailed in April.

Commissioned second lieutenants in the US Army Reserve Corps were Graham S. Jamison '52, George C. Jehlen '51, John C. O'Donnell '51, and William F. Scazzero '52; second lieutenants in the US Air Force Reserve, James D. Auty '51, William G. O'Donnell '52, and Jedson G. Riehl '51. From the Naval ROTC, Carl S. Atwater '51 was commissioned second lieutenant, US Marine Corps Reserve, and William A. Marson '51, ensign, US Navy. All will be ordered to active duty within ninety days.

For the spring term which began February 4, 117 new students had entered the University by that date. Eighty of these were undergraduates, most of them transferring from other colleges and universities.

Clubs Elect Officers

CORNELL CLUB of Dutchess County president for this year is Edwin E. Fitchett '44 of Poughkeepsie. Bartholomew M. Jordano '49 of Hyde Park was elected vice-president and William D. Knauss '45 of Poughkeepsie, secretary.

Cornell Club of Syracuse has elected Dr. Walter J. Matuzak '41, president; Harry C. Copeland, Jr. '40, vice-president; and Wallace R. Seeley '43, secretary.

Praises Cancer Studies

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE editorial, January 2, commends the quadrennial report of Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases, which is allied with the Medical College in New York. The Herald Tribune calls the report "an inspiring record of achievement in creating within a university framework an entire institute committed to the attack on the cancer problem by all feasible means." The editorial continues:

In 1943, Memorial was a single hospital unit with a 213-bed capacity and its research program cost $170,000 annually. At the close of 1950, the new, integrated center had 600 beds at its disposal and the largest concentration of clinical material for cancer study in the world. Its expanded research program cost $1,800,000 a year. Three major advances in policy helped to create this unique institution. One involved the new principle of complete co-operation between a voluntary cancer hospital, Memorial, with a municipal cancer hospital, James Ewing. The second was the creation of the Sloan-Kettering Institute as the center's research division, and the third was the establishment of Sloan-Kettering as a post-graduate unit of Cornell University. Thus, cancer treatment, cancer research, and teaching all were brought into relation with each other in a single institute.

The plan of attack on cancer that is embodied in this integration of facilities is regarded by the center's director, Dr. C. P. Rhoads, as an original one, justified by certain salient facts that should give hope to every one. More cancer is being cured daily by the improved means of diagnosis and radical surgical removal made possible by research; chemical means for curing certain forms of experimental cancer in animals and for temporary restraint of certain forms in man have been found; and methods now have been discovered by which chemical changes in human beings relating to cancer conceivably can be detected and controlled. While this has not been achieved yet, Dr. Rhoads believes that the progress made at Memorial Center during the period of the present report justifies greater effort under a definite program directed toward "an attainable goal." That goal is the elimination of cancer.

F. W. Olin Hall—An artist's conception of the new student residence to be erected at East Sixty-ninth Street & York Avenue for the Medical College in New York. A gift of $2,549,000 for the building was announced January 9 from Olin Foundation, Inc., established by the late Trustee Franklin W. Olin '85. The drawing shows the Sixty-ninth Street entrance to the building.

This four-year report, then, is more than a record of accomplishment. It is an expression of confidence by highest authority that this most cruel of all present-day scourges some day will be conquered. It is a progress report of science working in the service of humanity.

Building Fund Nears Goal

WALKER L. CISLER '22, chairman of the alumni committee raising funds to complete the new Materials Laboratories for Engineering, Kimball and Thurston Halls, reports that gifts totaling $442,499.12 were received during 1951. With prior gifts, these bring the contributions to $1,442,449.12 toward the required $1,736,000 to complete the buildings now under construction.

Summarizing the 1951 gifts, Cislser reports that $75,000 was received from the Pew Memorial Foundation through Joseph N. Pew, Jr. '08, chairman of the Board of Sun Oil Co. Olin Industries Charitable Trust, Inc., gave $50,000. John M. Olin '13 is president and Spencer T. Olin '21 is vice-president of Olin Industries, Inc. Maxwell M. Upson '99 gave $34,100 and Raymond Concrete Pile Co. gave $15,000. Upson and J. Wright Taussig '08 are chairman of the board and vice-president, respectively, of that company. Leroy R. Grumman '16 gave $23,750 and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. gave $10,000. Grumman and Leon Swirbul '20 are chairman of the board and president, respectively, of that company. Other corporation and foundation gifts totaled $13,000 from Cleveland Worm & Gear Co., Howard Dingle '05; MacWhyte Co., Jessell S. Whyte '13; The Mennen Co., William G. Mennen '08; Tuller Construction Co.; J. D. Tuller '09; Uhlman-Benjamin Foundation, Inc., Richard F. Uhlmann '19 and Jack A. Benjamin '08.

Other Cornellians who contributed a total of $31,601.02 toward the construction fund are Ernest A. Turner '99, Edward Burns '03, Howard Dingle '05, Alfred W. Mellowes '06, John C. Wilson '06, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wright Taussig '08, Edgar F. Wendt '11, Karl W. Gass '12, Frederick W. Krebs '12, Furman South, Jr. '12, John L. Collyer '17, Harry E. Mattin '18, Leon Swirbul '20, Walker L. Cislser '22, Harold B. Maynard '23, Thomas Kaveny, Jr. '26, and William D. Kyle, Jr. '36. From anonymous and non-Cornellian contributors came $190,048.10.

The thirty-eight alumni members of Cislser's sponsoring committee are working to complete their calls on both individual and corporate prospective donors by March 31. "At that time," Cislser says,

"we will review the situation and if we have not reached our goal, drive quickly for the balance needed."

Trustees Appoint Hill as Provost Rideout Heads New Division

BOARD OF TRUSTEES at its winter meeting in New York City, January 26, appointed a Provost of the University and other administrators and confirmed Faculty appointments.

New Provost is Professor Forrest F. Hill PhD '30, Land Economics, a member of the Agricultural Economics Faculty since 1930 and chairman of the Department since 1943. He assumed the Provost's duties February 1, succeeding Professor Cornelis W. de Kiewiet who resigned as Provost and Acting President last year to become president of University of Rochester.

Professor Hill was graduated with honors at University of Saskatchewan in 1923 and came to Cornell as assistant professor after two years as statistician and comptroller for the Federal Land Bank of Springfield, Mass. Six months later, he was promoted to professor. Professor Hill has served on the Faculty committee on University policy and the administrative council of the College of Agriculture. He has written widely in the field of farm finance and public policy and taught a graduate course in "Public Problems of Agriculture." On leave with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington from 1933-40, he served successively as special assistant to the governor, deputy governor in charge of finance, and succeeded Dean William

I. Myers '14 as governor. He visited the United Kingdom in 1949 to study agricultural problems and policies for the Economic Cooperation Administration, was a consultant to the Ford Foundation in the early phases of its formation, and was chairman in 1947-49 of a State committee working on problems of pricing fluid milk in the New York milkshed. He is a member of the American Farm Economics Association, the International Conference of Agricultural Economists, Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Zeta, and Gamma Alpha; holds the honorary LLD of University of Saskatchewan. He is chairman of the Greater Ithaca fact-finding committee studying municipal expansion and its problems.

Rideout Directs New Division

Professor Blanchard L. Rideout, PhD '36, Romance Languages, Assistant Dean and chairman of the admissions committee of Arts & Sciences, was appointed director of a new undergraduate unit of the University, known for the present as the Division of Unclassified Students. The Division, which began operation this term with a small pilot group as a three-year experiment, was recommended by the Faculty to aid the potentially able student whose basic interests and aptitudes lie outside the course in which he originally enrolled.

A native of Johannesburg, South Africa, Professor Rideout received the AB in 1927 and the AM in 1930 at Harvard. He came to Cornell in 1933 as graduate instructor in Romance Languages after teaching at the University of Vermont, Harvard, Radcliffe, and University of Rochester. He was promoted to assistant professor in 1938 and to associate professor in 1942. In 1940, Professor Rideout gave up most of his duties in the Department of Romance Languages to undertake administrative work in the office of the Dean of the College of Arts & Sciences. As chairman of the admissions committee of the College since that time, he has visited many Cornell Clubs and schools, addressing student groups and assemblies. During the spring term of 1940, he was acting Secretary of the College and during the war, director of the Navy V-12 program in the College. From 1940-47, he was chairman of the Arts College advisory board for underclassmen and was appointed Assistant Dean in 1946. Co-editor of Temoins d'une Epoque, a college textbook published by Oxford University Press in 1947, he was for a number of years reader and assistant chief reader in French for the College Entrance Examination Board and in 1949-50 was in charge of the Junior Year in France sponsored by Sweet Briar College. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Sigma Iota, Pi Delta Phi, and many professional societies. Mrs. Rideout is the former Anna I. Roehrig '35.

Appoint Other Administrators

Professor Melvin G. de Chazeau, Business Economics & Policy, became acting Dean of the School of Business & Public Administration, February 1, succeeding Professor Paul M. O'Leary, PhD '29, who became Dean of Arts & Sciences. An authority on business economics, Professor de Chazeau was at University of Virginia from 1930-46 and at University of Chicago from 1946 until he came to Cornell in 1948. He was graduated at University of Washington in 1924 and has the AM from the same university and the PhD from Harvard.

In 1932-33, as a traveling fellow of the Social Science Research Council, he studied electric supply in England. He has been a consultant to the Twentieth Century Fund, the US Treasury, Commerce, and Justice Departments, Council of Economic Advisers, and other Government agencies. During World War II, he served with the National Defense Advisory Committee and administered the non-military allocations program of the War Production Board. Since the war, he has had various assignments in support of the European recovery program. He has been associated with the Committee for Economic Development since 1944. Professor de Chazeau's writings include co-authorship of Economics of the Iron and Steel Industries, Price Research in the Steel and Petroleum Industry, Jobs and Markets, and Electric Power and Public Policy.

Appointed Assistant Dean of the College of Engineering, effective next July 1, was Professor Malcolm S. McIllroy '23, who recently became Assistant Director of the School of Electrical Engineering. He received the EE here in 1923 and the DSc at MIT in 1947. Before returning to the University as associate professor in 1947, he was with General Electric Co. in Schenectady and Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. in Poughkeepsie, and taught and was assistant director of the radar school at MIT. He was promoted to professor in 1948. Professor McIllroy developed an electrical apparatus to study pressure flows in pipeline networks. American Water Works Association awarded him its John M. Goodell Prize for 1950 for this work. Professor McIllroy is a member of the American Society for Engineering Education, American Institute of Elec-come July 1 associate professor of Soil Physics in the Department of Agronomy. Son of Merritt F. Miller, MSA '01, he received the BS in 1940 at University of Missouri and the MS in 1942 at University of Nebraska. He is now assistant soil physicist at University of California.

Dr. Theodore C. Greene came to the Medical College last fall from the medical college of Cheeloo University in China as assistant professor of Anatomy. He received the AB in 1920 and the MD in 1924 at Harvard.

Professor Richard Alewyn, acting director of the American Institute at University of Cologne, is visiting professor of German Literature this term. John F. Cady, professor of history at Ohio University, was appointed visiting professor of History in the Southeast Asia program for this term and next fall. He is teaching an advanced course comparing British, Dutch, and French colonial systems in southern Asia and directing research on Burma and Indo-China. Visiting professor of Public Administration this term is Spencer D. Parratt, professor of political science at Syracuse University.

Nyle C. Brady has been promoted to professor of Soil Science in the Department of Agronomy.

Another Grandfather

INFORMATION comes to the NEWS that one of the third-generation Cornellians listed December 1 is a double grandson of alumni. Howard L. O'Daniel '02 is the maternal grandfather of Edward L. Milks '55, who listed only his father, Dr. Clifford H. Milks '30, and his paternal grandfather, Professor H. Jay Milks '04, Veterinary, Emeritus.

Other corrections are welcomed.

Club Sponsors Course

CORNELL WOMEN'S CLUB of Brooklyn is presenting a free course of study, opened to all Cornellians in Brooklyn, entitled "The Role of Government in Industrial and Labor Relations," through arrangements with Professor Effey L. Riley '18, Director of the New York Metropolitan Extension Office of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. The course will be taught by Benjamin C. Roberts, lawyer and former member of the New York State Board of Mediation, the evenings of February 19, March 4 and 18, April 1, 15, and 29. The first three sessions will be at the home of Mrs. David Merssamer (Dorothy Joslovitz) '24, vice-president of the Club, 105 Lincoln Road, Brooklyn; the last three sessions at the home of Mrs. Louis J. Gribetz (Bessie Levin) '20. The University will award certificates to those who attend regularly.

Dr. Bailey Retires Again—Nearing ninety-four, Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey has resigned the directorship of the Bailey Hortorium adjoining his home on Sage Place, which he and Mrs. Bailey gave to the University in 1935. He still comes to the office daily; is pictured at work on some of the dried plant specimens of the famous Hortorium collection.

Bailey Resigns as Hortorium Director

PROFESSOR LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY, Agriculture, Emeritus, has resigned as Director of the Bailey Hortorium, and is succeeded by Professor George H. M. Lawrence, PhD '39, who has been his assistant there since 1938. Professor Bailey will be ninety-four years old, March 15.

The following account of the Hortorium is reprinted from the State College Campus News:

"Thirty-nine years ago this year, a request by our renowned Liberty Hyde Bailey that he be allowed to resign as Dean and Director of the New York State College of Agriculture was turned down. With characteristic decision, he declared his resolve to resign on a particular date, mailed the keys of his office to the President on that date, and appeared there no more. As he had said, he knew his resignation was then accepted, for he received no more salary checks. This was at the age of fifty-five.

Gave Property to University

"Nearly twenty-two years later, he emerged from official retirement to head the Hortorium bearing his name. This month, a few weeks before his ninety-fourth birthday, he resigns again, this time from the Directorship of the Bailey Hortorium. Taking no chances of a repeat performance, he wrote recently to Dean Myers, stating in part, 'I hereby tender my resignation as Director of the Hortorium . . .' The resignation has been accepted with the genuine regret of all concerned.

"The Bailey Hortorium was conceived and founded by Dr. Bailey, and had its beginning in 1935 when he and the late Mrs. Bailey gave to Cornell the land, buildings, collections, and magnificent horticultural-botanical library that he had brought together. Since then the property and collections have been maintained with the help of the College of Agriculture, and the staff supported and increased by funds from the same source. During this seventeen-year period, the herbarium has more than doubled in size and today contains about 240,000 specimens of dried, pressed plants. It is currently expanding at the rate of about 7,000 a year. The library contains about 8,000 volumes.

Has Become Unique Organization

"There is only one research center by the name of Hortorium, and it is the only organization devoted to studies of cultivated plants. The word 'Hortorium,' meaning a place or repository for things of the garden, was coined by Dr. Bailey at the time the establishment was given to Cornell. It is not yet in any dictionary.

"Today the organization, its staff and their work are known to botanical and horticultural institutions throughout the world. The Hortorium has a large collection of nursery and seed catalogues dating from about 1885 to the present. This is one of the three finest in the country. Each year many hundred catalogues and lists are received from all over the world. The Latin names of the plants in them are transferred to a card index, so that at the Hortorium there is an alphabetical record of all of the plants known to be offered to the trade and from whom they may be obtained. It is probably the most complete index of its kind.

Contributes to Plant Knowledge

"The Hortorium staff is of trained botanists. The results of their efforts are reflected in publications coming from the Hortorium. In 1930 Dr. Bailey and his daughter, Ethel Z. Bailey, Curator of the collections, published Hortus, a dictionary of the kinds of plants grown in American gardens, accounting for about 15,000 species. In 1941 a new edition, known as Hortus Second, was published in which over 18,000 species of plants were recounted. Since then Dr. Bailey has turned this work largely over to the Hortorium and its staff. A new and completely rewritten edition, to be known as Hortus Third, is due in about two years.

"In 1949 Dr. Bailey, assisted by the Hortorium staff, completed and published a Manual of Cultivated Plants. Another publication, the periodical Gentes Herbarum, is distributed to botanists and professional horticulturists throughout the world and contains monographic or botanical revisions of groups of cultivated plants. Consideration is being given, and preliminary plans made, for the Hortorium staff to prepare a new Cyclopedia of Horticulture. Work on the manuscript cannot be begun until after completion of Hortus Third but much illustrative material is now completed.

"Technically, the Hortorium is an administrative division of the College of Agriculture and has all the prerogatives of a separate department except that it does not function as such in the resident teaching program. Graduate students do, however, pursue botanical studies at the Hortorium."

New Director Comes from Staff

Professor Lawrence, the new Director of the Bailey Hortorium, came to the University as a graduate assistant in Botany in 1936, and two years later was assigned to the Hortorium staff. He had received the BS and MS at Rhode Island State College in 1932 and 1933. In 1939, he was granted the PhD and the next year was made assistant professor of Botany. He became assistant professor of Botany and Horticulture in the Hortorium in 1941; was on leave as a lieutenant, USNR, from early 1943 to December, 1945; was appointed associate professor in 1946 and professor in 1949. Last year he spent in Europe visiting experiment stations and botanical collections. He is the author of Keys to

Adams '93 Scholarships Start Next Fall

THE UNIVERSITY has received $40,000 from Spencer L. Adams '93 of Santa Barbara, Cal., to endow the Spencer L. Adams Scholarships, the first awards specifically for Freshmen in Arts & Sciences. One grant of $800 a year for four years will be made to an entering Freshman man next fall; a second, a year later. All prospective male Freshmen in Arts & Sciences who apply by March 1 on National Scholarship blanks obtainable from the Scholarship Secretary, Office of Admissions, will be considered for the Adams Scholarship. At the wish of the donor, preference will be given to those who will major in the humanities, foreign languages, or economics. Holders must maintain academic standing in the upper fifth of their Class.

Besides those open to all students, the only other scholarships available in Arts & Sciences are three George C. Boldt Scholarships of $400 for Senior men, given by George C. Boldt, Jr. '05 in memory of his father; and a Cornelia Hall Scholarship of $120 a year for women, given by Mary F. Hall in memory of her mother. No others are especially for Freshmen in that College.

New Dean Welcomes Gift

Dean Paul M. O'Leary, PhD '29, recently elected to head the College, says of the Adams Scholarships:

"It is most encouraging to the new Dean of the College of Arts & Sciences to know that the Spencer L. Adams Scholarship Fund is now available to finance awards to entering Freshmen. The College has many needs, but none is more pressing than our need for scholarship funds if we are to continue to attract the high quality of students that can benefit most from work at Cornell. All of us in the College are grateful to Mr. Adams for his generous and most helpful gift. I am sure that the future holders of the Spencer L. Adams Scholarships will be even more grateful."

The terms of the gift provide for surplus income from the fund to be added to the endowment, either for additional scholarships or increasing the amount of the awards.

The donor of the Adams Scholarships, long known to his Classmates as "Prexy," received the AB in 1893. He was a captain in the Cadet Corps, manager of the Glee, Banjo & Mandolin Clubs, and is a member of Sphinx Head. He went to Yale law school where he received the LLB in 1895, and practiced law in Chicago, Ill., for forty years; was twice president of the Cornell Club of Chicago. He retired in 1935, then travelled extensively with Mrs. Adams before they returned to his ancestral home in Skaneateles. Since 1947, he has lived at 967 Garcia Road in Santa Barbara, engaged with his hobby of photography, lectures, and the writing of two books. Mrs. Adams died in 1950.

Announce Summer Session

SOME 300 COURSES will be offered in the 1952 Summer Session, July 7 to August 16, according to the preliminary announcement. Instruction will be given by the Faculties of the Colleges of Arts & Sciences, Engineering, Agriculture, and Home Economics, the Schools of Education, Industrial & Labor Relations, Hotel Administration, and the Graduate School; and by twenty-five visiting Faculty members.

The program in Agriculture will be somewhat expanded this year, including a course in Agronomy and one in Economic Entomology. In the field of Zoology, a course in Animal Ecology is available. The program in Elementary Education, started last summer, will be continued. This program, sponsored by the School of Education and the State Department of Education, enables graduates of liberal arts colleges to obtain an emergency certificate to teach in elementary schools on the completion of one intensive summer session.

Professor Nicholas Hans of the University of London will give courses in comparative education and postwar education in Western Europe. In Speech & Drama, there will be a new course, "Theatre for Children." A course in sculpture, not offered in recent years, is being revived; a course on the peoples of Southeast Asia and one on social reform in the United States are new.

The School of Industrial & Labor Relations will offer a two-week post session and the School of Education a one-week work conference for school administrators and others responsible for staff improvement. Complete information may be obtained from Professor Frederick H. Stutz '35, Director of the Summer Session, Goldwin Smith Hall.

Awed by Size

EDITOR: I met five or six Cornell students in a local tavern here the other night. They were visiting young ladies at Skidmore. They were very large students and I suppose they come in those large sizes nowadays. I was born thirty years too soon; better make it forty.

Start Selecting Freshmen

ADMISSIONS OFFICE reports that to February 1, approximately 14,000 application forms had been sent to prospective new students next September. This is about 1000 more than had been requested a year ago. More than 5000 prospective members of the Class of '56 had completed applications; about 200 fewer than at February 1, 1951.

Robert W. Storandt '40, Associate Director of Admissions, points out in his bulletin to Club secondary school committees that scholarship applications for next fall must be received in the Admissions Office by March 1 at the latest; and that prospective students for Home Economics, Hotel Administration, Industrial & Labor Relations, and the Veterinary College must complete their applications for admission by March 1. The Faculty committees for Arts & Sciences and Engineering start selecting their next fall's entering classes about February 15 and those for the other Colleges and Schools begin their work about March 1. It is expected that most decisions on early applicants can be made and candidates notified during March and April, except those for Home Economics, which reports all decisions at once, late in May.

Storandt advises all men candidates for admission next fall who hope to live in University dormitories, to write immediately to the Office of Residential Halls, Day Hall, Ithaca, for dormitory application forms. "Early application is advantageous," he says; "there is no need to wait until either admission to or attendance at Cornell is a certainty."

Now In My Time!

Comyn Perry

ONCE THE FEBRUARY examinations and Junior Week are behind them, Old Timers know the academic year is over the crest and the rest of the way is just a coast to daffodils and Commencement. Fifty years of it and the annual slides down the calendar become closer together, more and more alike, and sooner over with. True, there remain to be endured sub-zero nights, belated blizzards, and periodic recurrences of January, but the ancients recognize these manifestations as no more than temporary setbacks on the road to tulips.

In the University town, so much is new; so much of the old is changeless! As evidence of the changeless, we give you the committee now at work on a study of fraternal practices in regard to rushing, pledging, and initiations. Most Old Timers can recall offhand a dozen other such studies, and a hurried thumbing through the bound volumes would doubtless bring the tally to an even score. But against this ceaseless striving for better things, in the face of results not apparent to the eye, there are the winter sports that seem to have undergone a complete metamorphosis.

Take Beebe Lake, from which hockey games have disappeared and to which the most glistening Saturday now brings no more than two or three hundred skaters, a tithe of those who gathered there when the University's membership was little more than half its present size! Tobogganing? Few students would now know what tobogganing meant in terms of Ithaca. When the snow serves, they are all out in the hills on skis and in different stages of proficiency.

And among the changes, consider the crowds that basketball now brings to the Drill Hall—6000, 7000, 8000—and without comment on the phenomenon. According to the best figures available, 6000 had been the largest congregation ever drawn to Percy Field for a football match, and it was on the basis of that number that the original stands at Schoellkopf were designed to seat 9000. Back in the Twenties, a normal set-up of bleachers for a league basketball game in the Drill Hall provided for an attendance of 2500 and that number commonly sufficed.

True, the same season ticket that serves for football now admits to basketball games, too (at a somewhat increased price, to be sure), and that is doubtless a factor; but it doesn't account for all the new attendance, by any means. Nowadays in reasonably good weather, a scrutiny of license plates in the parking areas reveals cars from Binghamton, Syracuse, and Elmira; while the haut monde of Trumansburg, Newfield, and Krum's Corners attend regularly.

Among the changed, the changing, and the changeless, the Old Timer feels himself sometimes a dazed Rip Van Winkle; sometimes an indispensable interpreter of new things that are not new at all; no more than novel manifestations in the changeless. For it is a peculiarity of the University town, unlike the more familiar community, that in it the age of those who walk the streets and frequent the Quadrangles is a changeless factor. Students are forever twenty and professors, on the average, forty-eight or thereabouts; both periods of life in which human conduct and self-expression are guided in part by reason and experience, in part by glands.

Your observer has no means of knowing what students are going to do, say, and print in March, 1952, to harass their elders; but he ventures to predict that the counterpart of it could be found in each decade of the University's existence. Without bothering to read the tea leaves or gaze into the crystal ball, he also hazards the predictions: (1) that the current Deans will get just as mad about it as Teefy Crane ever got; and (2) that the alumni will write just about as many indignant letters as they did over the extremely bad press which followed the bloodless bullfight of 1905.

Students, professors, and bull fights! No one can predict them in detail, but their recognized and certain trends are just as apparent to Campus dwellers as are the lengthening days which portend the certain run of spawning suckers up Fall Creek and the yellow waterfall of blooming forsythia over the wall on University Avenue. When something regrettable happens in early March, as is not unlikely, restrain your indignant protests and recall the changeless fact that students are still twenty; professors, forty-eight.

You might, too, read up on glands!

Give Kipling Collection

COLLECTION of rare Kipling material has been presented to the University Library by Charles P. Paterson '07 and Mrs. Paterson of Cleveland, Ohio. Paterson is co-founder and president of Paterson-Leitch Co., steel fabricators and distributors.

Among the 170 items in the collection are two bound volumes of The Chronicle of the United Services College in North Devon, England, containing about sixty poems, short stories, and articles that Kipling contributed as a student there from 1878-82 and later as a journalist in India. There are also a first edition of his Schoolboy Lyrics, published by his parents when he was sixteen years old; an inscribed first edition of Echoes, parodies which he and his sister wrote when he was nineteen and working for a newspaper in Lahore, India; and a first edition of Departmental Ditties, published in Lahore in 1886 while he worked for the British Government department of public journalism there. Kipling was allowed to use the department's printing press for Departmental Ditties and issued the poems in the form of a government envelope which, he later said, "would have deceived a clerk of twenty years' service."

First editions of his six early works in the Travelers' Railway Library include Soldiers Three and Wee Willie Winkie. There is also a presentation copy from the first issue of Plain Tales from the Hills, Kipling's first short stories about Anglo-Indian life, and a copy of his famous poem "Recessional," a two-page flyer sold for one penny during Queen Victoria's second jubilee.

Dr. Barringer Movie Ready

"THE GIRL IN WHITE," motion picture based on the early career of Dr. Emily Dunning Barringer '97, has been completed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures and will be released for showing in theaters in late spring or early summer. Shots for the picture were taken on the Campus and in New York City, where Emily Dunning was the first woman to enter the Medical College, in 1898, and the first woman physician to be admitted as a hospital interne.

Based on Dr. Barringer's book, Bowery to Bellevue, "The Girl in White" depicts her as an undergraduate in Ithaca, as a student at the Medical College where she met her husband, Dr. Benjamin S. Barringer '02, and as the first woman physician and ambulance doctor of Gouverneur Hospital in the lower east side of New York. June Allyson is Emily Dunning in the picture and Arthur Kennedy portrays her husband. Director and producer of the screen play were John Sturges and Armand Deutsch, from a script by Irmgard von Cube and Allen Vincent. Dr. Barringer went to Hollywood from her home in New Canaan, Conn., to act as technical adviser for the filming.

M-G-M Studios describe the picture as "a poignantly dramatic and gaily humorous unfoldment of people and events, the charm and vitality, spirit and achievement that characterized the days when the century was young. 'The Girl in White' broke down the bars of prejudice; won the heart of the man she loved; and proved that women could be pretty, popular, provocative, powerful, and—proper!"

Rogers '45 New Fund Official

JOHN B. ROGERS III '45 (above) has joined the Alumni Fund staff as assistant secretary, with H. Hunt Bradley '26 and Mrs. Olive Northup Snyder '22.

Son of the late Theodore C. Rogers '16, Rogers entered Civil Engineering in 1941 from Westfield, N.J., High School. He received the BCE in 1949 and the MBusAd in 1950. He played end on the Varsity football team in 1942 and for three seasons after returning from Army service in April, 1946; captained the Freshman swimming team and was on the Varsity team for three years. In 1949, he played in the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco and the Eastern All-Star game. A member of Kappa Sigma, Quill & Dagger, and Aleph Samach, he held various Alumni Club Scholarships as an undergraduate and was First Marshal of the Civil Engineering graduating class in 1949.

Entering the Army in June, 1943, Rogers was a staff sergeant in a tank destroyer battalion of Field Artillery and, after being injured, was reconditioning instructor in an Army hospital in charge of 400 patients. He assisted in coaching football while in the Business School and recently has been with New York Telephone Co. Mrs. Rogers was Bette Ann Mitchell '44. His sister is Mrs. Kennedy Randall, Jr. (Katherine Rogers) '43.

Veterinarians Gather

FORTY-FOURTH ANNUAL Conference for Veterinarians at the University brought more than 450 veterinarians from New York, twelve other States, and four foreign countries to the Campus, January 9-11. Veterinary College alumni came from all Classes, from 1900 to 1951, except 1902 and 1909. Most sessions were in Statler Hall auditorium, to accommodate the increased number.

Latest developments in large and small animal practice were discussed in lectures, demonstrations, and clinics. Speakers included twenty-nine members of the University Faculty and ten practitioners and veterinary leaders from New York and other States. Use of an electric shock to restore the heart of a dog to normal beating demonstrated by Professor Robert W. Dougherty, Veterinary Physiology, was eagerly watched by more than 300 veterinarians, crowding a James Law Hall laboratory. A blood bank for dogs was strongly recommended by Dr. Ralph E. Witter '40 of the University of Illinois.

President Deane W. Malott welcomed the veterinarians and their wives at the annual conference dinner, January 10, in Statler Hall. Presided over by Dean William A. Hagan, MS '17, the program featured an address by Dr. John R. Wells of West Palm Beach, Fla., president of the American Veterinary Medical Association, songs by the Cayuga Waiters, and movies of the 1951 Cornell-Michigan football game.

At the annual meeting of the Veterinary Alumni Association during the conference, Dr. John E. Crawford '26 of Lynbrook was elected president succeeding Dr. Clayton E. De Camp '24. Dr. Frederick W. Schutz '31 of Brewster is vice-president, and Professor Stephen J. Roberts '37, Veterinary Medicine, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Dr. Crawford becomes a director of the Cornell Alumni Association.

Episcopaleans Do Well

TWO-WEEK CAMPAIGN to raise $2,000 from Episcopal students for office furnishings, altar accessories, and rent funds for their activities in Anabel Taylor Hall, interfaith center being built on the Campus, reached its goal in one week and finished with nearly double the anticipated amount. Jack R. Vinson '52, president of the Student Council last year, organized the twenty-four five-man teams of solicitors. Episcopal chaplain is the Rev. Richard B. Stott.

University Gets Sage Papers

By PROFESSOR PAUL W. GATES, History

THE DONATION to the Cornell Collection of Regional History of nearly a ton of business letters, journals, account books, plat books, deeds, tax receipts, and other business and personal documents of Henry W. Sage and of the Sage Land & Lumber Co. recalls to Ithacans and Cornellians the name and generosity of one of its great benefactors. Many of the documents of the nineteenth century relate to real estate transactions in Ithaca, plans for the development of Cornell University, invitations to speakers and employment of staff, advice to Andrew D. White on political matters, and the McGraw-Fiske will controversy. An early journal or diary of Mr. Sage, long letters to President White showing Sage's deep concern over the affairs of the rising University, and the thousands of documents relating to the Western land and lumber business admirably supplement previous groups of manuscripts in the Collection of Regional History and make it not only a major center for research on Up-state New York and Cornell University but also provide an unrivaled archive on the Western timber land policy and the development of the lumber industry. Many of these documents originated in Ithaca, were subsequently moved to Brooklyn, were returned to Ithaca in 1880, thence were moved to Albany where for years the Sage Land & Lumber Co. had its headquarters. In 1939 when the operations of the company were almost entirely centered in the redwood country north of San Francisco, the collection was moved to the Bay City where it has remained until now.

Edward O. Holter, great-grandson of Henry Sage and president of the Sage Land & Lumber Co., when asked about family papers, not only agreed to return to Ithaca the entire collection which had been moved to San Francisco from Albany, but offered to search for fugitive items still in the possession of other descendants of Henry Sage. A journal kept by Mr. Sage in 1836-1837 when living in Ithaca is the first fruit of this search.

Of Connecticut birth, Henry Sage came to Ithaca in 1827 at the age of thirteen and subsequently entered the general store of Williams Brothers, in which he prospered. He acquired considerable property in Ithaca, aided in promoting the Ithaca Water Works Co., was elected as Assemblyman at the age of thirty-four, and early became a respected leading citizen. It was to the lumber business that he turned for larger operations, first investing in Tioga County, Pennsylvania, then building a sawmill on Lake Simcoe in Ontario. Lumber yards were established at Tonawanda, Ithaca, Albany, Toledo, and New York where increasing demand for his lumber forced him to expand his cutting operations. In 1862 he began buying stumpage heavily in Michigan and with John McGraw, likewise of Ithaca, built a great mill at Bay City where he centered for years his lumbering operations. By this time Sage's business had become so widely dispersed, his financial operations so extensive, and the major market for his lumber so concentrated in Brooklyn that a move to the big city seemed wise. From 1857 to 1880 he made Brooklyn his home. There he became a pillar in the Pilgrim Congregational Church and supporter and defender of Henry Ward Beecher and a leader among business men.

Sage bought timber land for the rise, before other big operators had moved into a richly-endowed area. If close by his mills he cut, sawed, and sold the lumber; but if remote from the center of his operations he held for the rise. The Ashland Press of Wisconsin said of him in 1872, Sage "is a clear-headed, accomplished business man, and knows as well as any man in America what a pine tree is worth. He has made several million dollars, manufacturing and selling Valuable Records Arrive—Much of historical interest is in the ton of business and personal papers of the late Henry W. Sage, Trustee and benefactor of the University, which are the gift of his great-grandson, Edward O. Holter of San Francisco. The newly-arrived documents are looked over by Mrs. Edith M. Fox '32 (seated), University Archivist and Curator of the Regional History Collection, and Anita Shafer, graduate student in American History who is writing a thesis on Sage and his times.

lumber, and is said to have manufactured and handled more lumber than any man in this country—having handled over four hundred million feet."

Although his Bay City mill and another mill in the same city, in which he shared interest with John McGraw, constituted the largest of his manufacturing operations, his land deals extended over the three lake States, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, and California. More than 400,000 acres owned by him made him indeed one of the great lumber kings of the nineteenth century.

With Sage the accumulation of wealth was not the all-absorbing passion that it was with many of his successful contemporaries. He watched with deep interest and sympathy the efforts of Ezra Cornell and Andrew D. White to create with sparse funds a University in his old home town. In 1870 he was made a Trustee. For the remainder of his life his absorbing interest was Cornell. To it he devoted much of his time, energy, and money.

When he went on the Board, the financial affairs of the young University were anything but flourishing. All available money except for the meager sums used to pay salaries of teachers and to maintain the plant were being absorbed in carrying the more than half-million acres of pine land which Ezra Cornell with great vision but inadequate financial resources had secured for the University. Early and expected sales did not follow, the panic of 1873 struck hard at speculators in stumpage, and funds had to be found to carry the investment for years without any substantial income. Taxes, the cost of protection against plunderers, agents' fees and administrative expenses piled up and some of the Trustees feared the burden was too great to carry. At this point Henry Sage stepped into the breach with his good friend, business associate, and fellow Trustee, John McGraw. Together they agreed to buy 50,000 acres at a price scarcely justified by conditions at the time but which brought in $200,000 of much-needed funds and revived faith in the land business. All of the profits from Sage's share in this transaction were later returned to the University and they were large.

Upon the death of Ezra Cornell, the Western timberlands were placed in charge of a land committee of which Sage was chairman and from then until the end of the century he was in a large way responsible for policies, prices, sales, and investments. For almost a quarter of a century in the most trying period of Cornell University's history, one of America's shrewdest judges of timberlands and prices was administering the Western lands and making of what appeared a questionable investment a highly successful business. At the end of the century it could be said that only one other university had as large an endowment and that the size of the endowment was owing to the vision of Ezra Cornell and the business judgment of Henry Sage.

Sage's greatest contribution to Cornell was undoubtedly his supervision over and management of the Western lands, but he had no intention of stopping here. All accounts of the early years of Cornell University show that almost annually Henry Sage stepped forward with offers of funds; to buy the great collection of Americana that had been brought together by Jared Sparks, to establish Sage College where equal opportunities were to be available for the education of women, to endow the study of philosophy and comparative religion, to create a museum of archaeology, to aid in getting started a laboratory for the study of botany, and to erect and endow the University Library. Dean Sage, son of Henry and grandfather of Edward O. Holter, donor of the Sage papers, provided for the construction of the Chapel and for bringing distinguished preachers to the Campus through an endowment. These with other benefactions of the Sage family made it the most generous of all donors to Cornell in the nineteenth century.

Sage's letters to Andrew D. White after the latter resigned as President and went into diplomacy are most significant to anyone interested in the history of Cornell. Sage was deeply concerned about finances of the University, the desirability of securing State aid, the quality of the teaching staff and the selection of men to fill vacancies, new fields of study, erection of buildings and plans for the future. His letters give much insight into the minds of the Trustees and greatly amplify the brief and dry accounts of the Trustees' meetings. Sage's letters also show how close he was to White, how ready he was to aid him politically, and how anxiously he watched and aided the efforts to make White a candidate for United States Senator or Governor.

Few collections in the country can rival the Cornell-Williams-Sage group of manuscripts relating to the Western lumber business. Perhaps only the Laird Norton collection in the Minnesota Historical Society can compare with it in scope and significance. Henceforth, anyone working on the economic development of the three lake States, or lumbering in the South will have to come to Cornell to use the rich deposits in the Collection of Regional History.

Cornellians Operate GLF

COOPERATIVE GLF EXCHANGE, with headquarters in Ithaca and with many Cornellians active in its management, has the largest purchasing volume of any cooperative in the world. Farmer members heard at the thirty-first annual meeting that in 1950-51 the GLF handled 2,339,000 tons of grain and feed, seed, fertilizers, gasoline and oil, and other farm supplies and equipment worth $163,000,000.

The Grange-League-Federation Exchange was conceived and organized in 1920 by the late H. Edward Babcock, former professor of Marketing and for twenty years a Trustee of the University, chairman of the Board and of the executive committee. Babcock was the first general manager and guided the policies of the GLF for many years.

General manager now is James A. McConnell '21 and Charles N. Silcox, MS '22, is assistant general manager of the huge enterprise and manager of the mills division. E. Victor Underwood '13 is secretary-treasurer of the GLF, Thomas E. Milliman '14 is director of research, George R. Pfann '24 is counsel, and Charles E. Dykes '36 is controller.

Orrin F. Ross '09 of Lowville, Clifford E. Snyder '10 of Pittstown, N.J., Earl B. Clark '14 of North Norwich, James C. Corwith '16 of Water Mill, and Harold L. Creal '19 of Homer are directors.

Hundreds of Cornellians are employed by the GLF in its far-flung operations. Among its executives are Elwood B. Chase '15, director of production, mills division; John C. Crissey '17, manager, soil building division; Raymond J. Wolf '17, manager, petroleum department; Francis O. Underwood '18, manager, garden seed service; Horace E. Shackelton '19, government liaison officer; Edwin A. Gauntt '23, in charge of New Jersey relations; John C. Huttar '24, chairman, farm management department; William D. McMillan '24, feed research and specifications; Merrials L. Dake '26, manager, lime products department; Warren A. Ranney '29, director, educational service; Jared W. Stiles '29, manager, service stores department; Ray R. Flumerfelt '31, manager egg department; Peter J. McManus '32, manager, pesticides and farm chemicals department; and William S. Ellsworth '34, manager, farm stores department.

Photographer Wins Prizes

WILLIAM P. FICKLIN, many of whose pictures have appeared on the cover of the ALUMNI NEWS, was winner in two classes in the 1951 National ANSCO Color Contest, open to amateur and professional photographers. One of his winning prints was of Corinthian Yacht Club sailboats ready for a race on Cayuga Lake and the other, of a boy and girl on a diving board at Robert H. Treman State Park at Enfield. Ficklin's regular profession is not photography. He is X-ray technician at Biggs Memorial Hospital near Ithaca.

Pennsylvania Falls

THE BASKETBALL TEAM won an important game from Pennsylvania Saturday afternoon, February 2, by a surprising 64-51 margin before a Barton Hall Junior Week crowd of 7068. The game gave Cornell the lead in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League.

Both teams were undefeated in League competition, Penn having won four, Cornell three. It was the ninety-seventh game between the two old rivals, but at times the players acted like suspicious strangers and the temperature in the Hall was heightened by flaring tempers. Co-captain Fred Eydt '52, guarding the high-scoring Ernest Beck, played only fourteen minutes of the game. He acquired four personal fouls in twelve minutes of the first half while holding Beck to one basket, and was able to last only two minutes of the second half before committing his fifth and final infraction. Heylman, Brooks, and Harter of Pennsylvania were banished also, but they were able to stay around for most of the contest, perpetrating their last misfeasances during the waning minutes of frantic ball-dogging.

Cornell's high League scorer, John Werner '52, shot full of penicillin because of a sore throat, was kept on the bench for more than half the game, and scored but 4 points.

Co-captain Roger Chadwick '52, as is his wont in the crucial games, was the outstanding player on the court and was high scorer with 19 points. He took but eleven shots from the field and made good seven of them. This magnificent 5 foot 10 inch leader is always a team player and scores the points if no one else will. In one period of 8 minutes and 11 seconds in the Penn game, Chadwick scored all of the 10 points that Cornell made.

Cornell started off brilliantly. Passing and shooting with speed and accuracy, it built up a 17-5 lead in the first eight minutes. Pennsylvania gradually climbed back after Eydt retired to the bench after twelve minutes. The score at the half was Cornell 30, Pennsylvania 25.

There was only a 5-point margin, too,

56-51, with just over three minutes left to go when Penn started to press Cornell hard all over the court. From that time, Pennsylvania did all the fouling and Cornell did the scoring of 8 more points. Sophomore Lee Morton played a fine game, as did set-shot artist Raymond Handlan '53, who fooled the Penn defense with splendid success by driving in more than he usually does. Pennsylvania was held to its lowest score of the year as Coach Royner Greene's defensive strategy kept their shooters off balance and held their percentage of successful shots to a modest 25. Cornell's was a commendable 41.4.

Team Takes Three in League

Until the Junior Week game, the basketball team had been idle for two weeks during midyear examinations. Before the rest, it won handsomely from three League opponents, Columbia, Yale, and Princeton; and lost gallantly to Syracuse and miserably to Colgate.

The defeat by Syracuse, January 5, was due to one of the greatest shooting exhibitions ever seen in Ithaca. Bucky Roche of Syracuse took twenty-two shots and made fifteen of them and scored on five of eight foul shots for a total of 35 points. He showed no partiality in his shooting technique. He threw in long ones, short ones, easy ones, uncanny ones. But even so, Cornell was in the ball game all the way; in fact, it led most of the way. It was on top at the half, 41-38. But this was the familiar story of having too little to offer under the backboards when Fred Eydt retired with five personal fouls early in the fourth period. After that Ed Miller, 6 foot-7 inch Syracuse center, gave enough aid and abetment to Roche to tip the beam by the narrow margin of 2 points, 81-79. This was a scorching game, played before the largest basketball crowd ever in Barton Hall, 8343. Chadwick was high for Cornell with 18. Goldsborough had 16, Eydt 13, and Handlan 12.

Four days later, Colgate reversed, but good, an earlier 58-51 defeat by humiliating the Varsity team with the incredible count of 60-34. It was incredible because this good Cornell team scored only 4 points in the second quarter and 4 points in the third while Colgate was scoring 13 and 18, respectively. It was just one of those nights; one of those inglorious nights when the boys were glad of only the fact that they were performing away from home. Sophomore Wendell MacPhee with three baskets was star shooter for Cornell, although John Werner and Roger Chadwick tied his 6 points by making two shots from the floor and two foul shots. Dodd of Colgate had a more up-to-date total of 19 points. Warren had 13 and Antinelli, 12.

Columbia Game Unusual

Thus it was with little hope that 5507 people came to Barton Hall, January 12, to see Columbia play a chastened Cornell team twice beaten in four days. But the New York entry soon discovered it was not catching the Cornells sans spirit. This game was an example of coaching strategy that worked so beautifully and so effectively that something occurred which is almost without precedent in modern basketball. The game took two overtime periods for completion as Cornell squeaked out a 68-65 victory. And for the last forty minutes of play, no Cornell man had a foul called on him! Having played Columbia once before this season at Raleigh, N.C., in the Dixie Tournament, Coach Greene had each Columbia man scouted so well that the Cornell boys never made an unnecessary move. It was an exquisitely played contest as both teams used every opportunity to full advantage. John Werner netted 20 points for Cornell, Chadwick 15, Handlan 13, and Goldsborough 10. Stein of Columbia took honors with 24. Cornell used only one overtime period to beat Columbia at Raleigh, December 28, 66-64. They play again at New York on March 10. It may be a long evening!

Werner was again high in the game January 15 against Yale. He scored 18 points in this tightly-played game before 400 (sic.) spectators at Payne Whitney Gymnasium in New Haven. The score was tied at the half, 32-32, but Cornell outthrew the Elis, 14-11, in the third and 14-9 in the fourth period.

Werner really took off against Princeton, January 19 in Barton Hall. He came within a basket of the scoring record for a Cornell player as he made 25 points on ten field goals and five foul shots. This was a typically hard-fought Ivy game, but Werner had too much for Princeton that night. Sisler and DeVoe had 11 apiece for Princeton. Cornell won, 67-51.

Ski Team Third

THE VARSITY ski team placed third in its first competition, January 12, at Turin. Syracuse won the event. RPI was second, Army fourth, and Colgate fifth. For Cornell, Bjorne E. Thorup '52 of Oslo, Norway, was high scorer with a fourth in the downhill, fifth in the cross country, fifth in the slalom, and eighth in the jump.

Fencers Win Opener

JANUARY 12 AT SYRACUSE, the Varsity fencing team won its opening meet of the season, 20-7. Cornellians who swept their three matches were Captain John C. Noonan '52 in the foil, Robert A. Littlewood '52 in the epee, and Earl R. Flansburgh '53 in the saber.

Track Men Compete

A FEW TRACK performers have been in competition this winter. The mile relay team took a second leg on the Ivy League trophy in the Washington Star invitation meet in Washington, D. C., January 12, by defeating Brown in 3:30.2. The quartet was composed of Captain Meredith Gourdine '53, Clement Speiden '53, John Allen '42, and James Lingel '53. In the same meet, Gourdine was second in the sixty-yard high hurdles to Dick Attlesly, who ran in the world's record time of 0.08.3.

January 18, at the Philadelphia Inquirer games, Captain Gourdine ran second to Olympic 100-meter champion, Harrison Dillard, in the forty-five-yard high hurdles. They finished the same way the next night at the same distance in the Boston AC games.

Charles H. Moore '52, now in his fifth year in Mechanical Engineering and wearing the colors of the New York Athletic Club, ran second in 600 yards in 1:13.0 to George Rhoden of Morgan State Teachers at Philadelphia, January 18, and beat two other Olympic stars, Herb McKenley and Mal Whitfield.

January 26 in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden, New York City, Moore ran a photo-finish 600 with Rhoden. A split decision gave it to Rhoden. They were both credited with 1:12. Gourdine ran fourth in the sixty-yard high hurdles behind Dillard, Laurence Johnson of Army, and Peter McCreary of Dartmouth.

Swimmers Lose and Win

VARSITY SWIMMERS over a week end absorbed a 67-17 defeat by the invincible Yale team at New Haven on Saturday, January 12, and on Monday regained some measure of retribution by defeating Columbia at New York, 48-36. Only in the 200-yard breaststroke could Cornell produce a winner over Yale. Nicholas Steinthal '53 won this one in 2:33.1.

Polo Team Takes Yale

THE POLO TEAM defeated Yale in a Junior Week game in the Riding Hall, February 2, by an 18-10 score. Number one man, Peter K. Johnson '54, led the attack with 7 goals. Robert M. Schless '54 made 6 and John M. Preston '54 made 5. James Hannah and Robert Jackson each scored 4 for Yale.

1952 Football

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE for next fall brings the US Naval Academy team to Ithaca for the second game of the season; takes the Varsity to Ann Arbor for a return game with Michigan; and returns the Pennsylvania game at Philadelphia to the traditional Thanksgiving Day date. Alumni Homecoming will be for the Princeton game, October 25. The 1952 schedule follows:

Sept. 27	— Colgate at Ithaca
Oct. 4	— Navy at Ithaca
11	— Syracuse at Syracuse
18	— Yale at New Haven
25	— Princeton at Ithaca
Nov. 1	— Columbia at New York
8	— Michigan at Ann Arbor
15	— Dartmouth at Ithaca
27	— Pennsylvania at Philadelphia

Wrestlers Take Two

THE VARSITY wrestling team defeated Army at Barton Hall, January 12, 16-12. Going into the heavyweight event, Cornell was behind, 12-11. Sophomore John Gerdes wasted no time in deciding the issue, however, as he pinned Gerry Lodge of the Army in 3:43 with an arm lock and body press. Intercollegiate champion Frank A. Bettucci '53 obtained the only other fall over James Karns in the 147-pound class. Other Cornell winners by decision were John Haddad '53 at 130 pounds and William R. Van Gilder '53 at 137 pounds.

Victory over Pennsylvania, 27-3, January 19 at Philadelphia, was the last competition before midyear examinations. Only in the 177-pound class could Penn gain a point, when footballer Jack Evans obtained a decision over J. Richard Soars '54. Van Gilder, 137 pounds, Co-Captain Bettucci, 147 pounds, and Lester D. Simon '53, 167 pounds, won on falls; William C. Morgan '54, 123 pounds, Haddad, 130 pounds, John R. Arnold '53, 157 pounds, and Co-Captain Donald G. Dickason '53, heavyweight, won on decisions.

Kane Olympics Manager

ROBERT J. KANE '34, Director of Athletics, has been named by the US Olympic track and field committee as manager of the US team which will compete at Helsinki, Finland, July 19-26, against contestants from all over the world. He will fly from New York City July 7 with the US team and officials, including, it is expected, John T. McGovern '00, who is counsel to the US Olympic Committee. Kane expects to return with the team after the Olympic games are concluded, August 3. Members of the US track and field team will be selected at tryouts for the Olympics at Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles, Cal., June 27 and 28. Meanwhile, Kane and his three assistant managers are ordering uniforms and equipment, arranging for transportation and accommodations at Helsinki, and the myriad of other details. Head coach of the US track and field men will be Brutus Hamilton, athletic director and track coach at University of California.

Kane won the quarter-mile race in England in 1934 as a member of the Cornell-Princeton team against Oxford-Cambridge and that summer toured Europe with an AAU team. He assisted Coach John F. Moakley while he was a student in the Law School and has been Director of Athletics & Physical Education since 1944 after several years as acting Director and assistant to James Lynah '05. He was a member of the equipment and supplies committee for US Olympic teams in 1948 and has been a member of the US track and field Olympic committee for three years. In 1920, Coach Moakley was head coach of the victorious US track and field team at the Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium.

Miscellany

The Freshman basketball team has lost only to the Cornell Junior Varsity this year. They have won six others. A narrow 63-62 win over the Syracuse junior varsity at Barton Hall, January 5, preceded the equally exciting varsity contest between the two schools. John Sheehy scored 20 points for the Cornell yearlings, Max Mattes 13. An easier time was had beating Manlius, January 12, by a score of 67-42. Sheehy was again high with 16, Krounler had 14. At Hamilton, January 16, the count was 49-44 for Cornell and January 19, it was a 78-56 win over Hartwick junior varsity. Sheehy was high in both of these with 13 points in the first, 25 points in the second.

Edward G. Ratosky '35 has returned to the athletic staff as part-time assistant to Track Coach Louis C. Montgomery. He was assistant to Coach John F. Moakley for twelve years until 1948; now replaces Professor Gordon H. Ellis '32, Biochemistry and Nutrition, who has left the University to join United Cooperatives Laboratory in Ithaca. Ratosky entered Agriculture from Dunkirk High School and received the BS in 1935. He won the "C" three years as a high jumper, broad jumper, low hurdler, quarter-miler, and member of the mile relay team; is a member of Quill and Dagger. He is in business in Ithaca; lives at 618 Stewart Avenue.

Trainer Frank J. Kavanagh spoke on "Experiences and Implications for Protective Athletic Equipment" at a meeting of the Eastern section of the National Athletic Trainers Association in Boston, Mass., January 28 and 29. He has worked with members of the staff of the Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo in developing safety equipment for players, especially the ring-cleat for football shoes and protective headgear. Kavanagh is a director of the National Association.

National Association of Soccer Coaches selected Varsity Captain-elect George A. Boateng '53 of Kumasi, Gold Coast, Africa, as center forward of the 1951 all-American team. Leo Stylianopoulos '52 of Athens, Greece, was given honorable mention. This is the fourth successive all-American soccer team with a Cornellian at center forward, Derl I. Derr '51 having been selected the last three years.

Get Williams Papers

ANNOUNCEMENT of the gift to the University of fifteen cases of letters, accounts, and other research materials from Augusta H. Williams of Ithaca was made by President Deane W. Malott on Miss Williams's 100th birthday, January 15. She is the daughter of Josiah B. Williams, a Trustee of the University from the time the University was founded until his death in 1883 and an Ithaca capitalist and president of the First National Bank.

The papers dealing with early enterprises in Ithaca supplement a substantial collection of family papers turned over to the University's Regional History Collection five years ago by Miss Williams and her sister, the late Mrs. John H. Tanner. The family records are a valuable addition to those of the related Sage and Boardman families and those of Ezra Cornell, the McGraw family, and others which are deposited in the Regional History Collection and University Archives.

Religious Preferences

RELIGIOUS PREFERENCES indicated by students at registration and compiled by CURW show that Jewish students lead again this year, as last, with 1727 indicating preference for that denomination. Presbyterians are next, as last year, with 1399, and Roman Catholics follow closely, with 1364. There are 1063 Methodists and 1004 Episcopalians. Next in order of denominational preference are Congregational 497, Lutheran and Evangelical 414, Baptist 360, and those who designated merely "Protestant," 187.

Reformed Church has 134 adherents; Unitarian and Universalist denominations together, 104; followed by Christian Science 95, Society of Friends (Quakers) 53, Greek Orthodox 49, Church of the Latter Day Saints (Mormons) 29, Disciples 15, and those of other churches and faiths together, 222. "No preference" was indicated by 806 students.

Make Corporations Study

REPORT on "Corporations and Higher Education" gives the results of a survey made by the Office of University Development among 325 business enterprises which have Cornellians as officers and directors. The report compares the information given about corporation support of research and education within groups of companies classified by their net incomes for 1950.

Of those which replied, 3.8 per cent of the ones with income of $10,000,000 or more had established foundations which contributed to education or research; 3.2 per cent of those with incomes of $5 to $10 millions; 1.8 per cent of those with income of $1 to $5 million; and .4 per cent of the companies with $100,000 to $1,000,000 income. In the highest income group, 7.3 per cent of the companies replying said they were considering such a foundation; 2.8 per cent of the next group; .6 per cent of those with $1 to $5 million income; and .3 per cent of those with $100,000 to $1 million.

A third question, "Has your company made any grants for research or for other reasons to any educational institutions?" brought answers showing that "Corporations with larger net incomes are more inclined to support research, as well as scholarships, and the percentage declines in proportion to income." Of companies with $10 million or more income, 49.3 per cent replied "Yes" to this question; for the $5 to $10 million group, 43.4 per cent; $1 to $5 million, 40.1 per cent; $100,000 to $1 million, 37.2 per cent; and 11.3 per cent of companies below $100,000 reported grants.

The report quotes many letters received from alumni corporation executives concerning support for education and research, and it contains a digest of the laws of various States which regulate such corporate gifts. It was compiled by Eric G. Carlson '45 of the Development Office staff. "If corporation giving to Cornell for 1951 is indicative," he says, "this past year will prove to have been one of the highest since 1945 for corporate expenditures for charitable and educational purposes."

Copies of the report are being mailed to the corporation officers who cooperated in the survey and distributed to University Trustees and members of the Cornell University Council. Any alumnus may obtain it by request to Willard I. Emerson '19, Vice President for University Development, Day Hall, Ithaca.

Junior Week Gay

ITHACA WEATHER with lack of snow caused cancellation of the Junior Week ice sculpture contest for fraternity houses and of the "Flying Saucers" tray race on Library slope. But the theme of "3000 A.D." for this year's midyear gala, January 31-February 3, was carried out with a "Rocket Race" of twenty-one entries of varied shapes and sizes which careered down Tower Road from East Avenue to the Library, and by the "Solar Spin" in Barton Hall, where some 1400 couples danced Saturday night to the music of Ray Anthony's orchestra.

Winner of the "Rocket Race" was "Hell's Fire," entered by Phi Sigma Kappa, and "Homo Sap" entered by Phi Kappa Psi won the prize for originality. A Junior Week "Joke Issue" of The Sun listed in two of its four pages of bona fide news the houseparty guests of thirty-seven fraternities.

Glee Club in Tune

A new Glee Club show, "Out of Our World," was sold out for its Bailey Hall performance Friday night, but played to a smaller audience Thursday. It opened and closed with the well-loved Cornell songs and the program included several new and effective arrangements of spirituals and other music by the Club director, Thomas B. Tracy '31. Among these were a medley of Cornell songs and another from "Oklahoma." Soloists were Edwin C. Gibson '53, William L. Hodges '52, Stephen E. Michelman '52, and Allan H. Milofsky '54. Humor and variety came in the playing of the organ by James E. Strub '52, sleight-of-hand by John C. Mannix '53, and some new selections (one with "instruments") by the Cayuga Waiters. Man from Mercury at the microphone was Robert M. Janski '52.

"Out of Our World" goes on tour to play in Mohawk, March 15, and during the spring recess, March 20 at Perry; March 21, Pittsburgh, Pa.; March 22, Buffalo; March 24, Detroit, Mich.; March 25, Toledo, Ohio; March 26, Indianapolis, Ind.; March 27 in a joint appearance with the glee club of University of Indiana at Bloomington; March 28, Milwaukee, Wis.; and March 29, Chicago, Ill.

Drama Club Plays "Romeo and Juliet"

The Dramatic Club played to full houses in the University Theater in Willard Straight Hall four performances of a fast-paced version of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," February 1 and 2. For ninety-five minutes without interruption, twice each evening, a large cast, effectively costumed, presented the tragic events of the feuding Capulets and Montagues of Verona in an ingeniously simple setting which indicated changes of scene with an upstage curtain and lighting.

Carol A. Kare '53 was a charming Juliet, and R. Travis Thompson '53 played her tragic lover well. The dashing Mercutio was Arnold L. Barron '52 and Juliet's nurse as played by Leona M. Kaiser '51 gave comedy relief. The play was directed by Bedford Thurman, Grad, of the University Theatre staff.

Law Officials

MUNICIPAL LAW Section of the New York State Bar Association elected George H. Winner '35, Elmira corporation counsel, its president, and Tompkins County attorney Charles H. Newman '13, vice-chairman, at the Association's annual meeting in New York City, January 26.

Philippines Club Elects

CORNELL CLUB of the Philippines, which has a membership of more than 100 Cornellians scattered over the country, held its traditional annual Reunion, December 9, at the home of Dr. Victor Buencamino '11. About half the members were present. Guests of honor were Dr. Vidal A. Tan '18, president of the University of the Philippines, and Major General Albert Pierson '20, chief advisor of the Joint US Military Advisory Group in the Philippines.

Elected officers for the coming year were H. Dean Hellis '26, president; Alfonso G. Oboza '22, vice-president; and Gonzalo T. Abaya '26, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Buencamino, Manuel H. Barredo, Jr. '24, and Merle S. Robie '40 were chosen governors.

An Undergraduate Observes . . .

Charles D. Graham, Jr. '52

Registration Troubles

THE FIRST DAY of the spring term, following what was regarded by students as a quiet Junior Week, found long queues of undergraduates lining the corridors of Day Hall to register. The Sun reported that nearly 10 per cent of the students failed to register at Barton Hall when they were supposed to, on the previous Friday. In view of the fact that many registered for as many as three or four of their friends, the conclusion seems to be that registration day is losing its popularity as a mass-participation event. The number of late registrants has been increasing in the last few years, according to Associate Registrar Ernest Whitworth, despite the $5 fee assessed for late registration.

The Sun editorially attacked the present registration schedule, pointing out that a student whose exams are over early has to cut three days from what might otherwise be a week or more of vacation, just to suffer through registration on Friday when classes don't begin until Monday.

Apparently the system is a holdover from the time before pre-registration for courses cut the welter of confusion from the process of embarking officially upon a new term. The process of University registration, these days, involves nothing more than filling out and turning in a series of IBM cards: no more than a twenty-minute job. Under the circumstances, the unwillingness of students to sacrifice three days of vacation time is understandable.

Junior Week End Chairman James K. Logsdon '53 reported that he expects the Week End to yield a profit, in view of the 1400 couples who attended the Barton Hall dance where Ray Anthony's band performed capably but noisily. This will be welcome news to the Student Council, which has had to meet substantial losses on Junior Week events the last few years. Profits normally go to the Junior Class; Fall and Spring Week End surpluses to the Student Council. This year, however, the Junior Class Council voted to turn any profits over to the University.

Student Council men's housing committee, under chairman Eugene Feingold '52, has recommended to the University a permanent community committee to handle cases of discrimination in off-campus housing for Cornell students. The committee, according to the proposal, would act through discussion, persuasion, and education, rather than through coercion and publicity. The issue was brought up when a Negro graduate student appeared before the Student Council, January 8, with a report of discrimination by the proprietor of a rooming house.

Interfraternity Council has selected eighty-seven men from 420 applicants to serve on nine standing IFC committees. Both the number of committees and the number of members were reduced from last year, to make the operation of the IFC as efficient as possible. Robert Spillman '54 of the IFC Planning Board was in charge of selection.

Heavy use of the organization meeting rooms in Willard Straight has led to the opening of four rooms in Morrill Hall for meetings of student groups. The arrangement was negotiated by the Student Council, which is hoping to secure one of the Straight meeting rooms as a permanent office if present crowded conditions can be alleviated.

Printed signs directing building inmates to "Shelter" in case of an atomic attack proved to be popular collector's items, and quickly disappeared from their positions of prominence. They are being replaced by stenciled directions painted directly on the walls of Campus structures.

WVBR, student radio station piped to dormitories and some fraternities, took to the air with 264 hours of continuous music, broken only by occasional news broadcasts, during final examinations. Staff members worked up to eight-hour shifts to play records day and night.

Correspondent of this page, Charles D. Graham, Jr. '52, married Alison Bliss '52, January 30, in Sage Chapel. Mrs. Graham is the daughter of Harold N. Bliss and Mrs. Bliss (Thyra Jeremiassen) '15 of Ithaca. A member of Alpha Phi, she is women's editor of The Sun this year; Graham was editor-in-chief last year, is in the fifth year of Metallurgical Engineering. They live at 422 East Buffalo Street, Ithaca.—Ed.

SORORITY RUSHING began February 9 with the usual procession of high-heeled rushees trudging dutifully and self-consciously from house to house, to the unconcealed delight of fraternity members in the neighborhood. Some 600 women indicated a desire to go through rushing, as opposed to less than 500 last year.

Biggest attention-getter at the Straight's annual "Straight to the Country" program was a Poultry Club exhibit of baby chicks hatching from their eggs. Also included among the events designed to bring activities of the Agriculture and Home Economics Colleges to the attention of the lower Quadrangle were a fashion show, a "country-style" dance, and numerous other exhibits, including a pair of live lambs shown by the Round-Up Club.

Margaret W. Blackburn '55 was elected Freshman Queen at the "Moon Mist Ball," January 11.

Cornell Daily Sun offices on State Street are no longer "over Atwater's." The grocery store which has occupied the first floor of the Colonial Building since 1911 has closed up downtown and is concentrating all its business at The Community Corners store in the Heights shopping center at Hanshaw and Tripphammer Roads. Harold E. Wilcox '29, proprietor of Atwater's, which was founded in 1898, said that lack of parking space downtown made the move necessary. A shoe store and a dress shop will take over the store space when remodeling is completed. The Sun continues to occupy its second-floor offices.

Another extensive remodeling job on State Street wrought vast changes in the appearance of The Ithaca Journal building. One entire floor was removed from the structure, a modernistic facade was erected of brick and glass, and the business and editorial offices were completely rebuilt. The composing room was enlarged and some new equipment installed.

Stuart R. Pottasch '53 has been elected president of the Northeast Region of the National Independent Students Association, and Robert R. Sinacore '54 has been chosen regional treasurer. The next regional convention will be at Cornell in February, 1953.

Christian Science Monitor for January 11 carried an illustrated article by Staff Correspondent Harry C. Kenney on twenty-three young German students and workers who are enrolled as special students in the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. Supported by the State Department, the program is designed to give this selected group of young men and women a first-hand knowledge of American life, and particularly of American industrial and labor practices. Professor John Windmuller is project coordinator for the group.

Officers of the Student Association of the Law School are John D. Killian III, president; Leo Fallon, vice-president; and Beatrice Silverstein, secretary-treasurer. All are second-year Law students.

The Faculty

President Deane W. Malott spoke on "Keeping Up With 1952" at the five o'clock vesper service of the First Presbyterian Church in Buffalo, February 3.

The Historical Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has erected a monument to the late President Jacob Gould Schurman at Freetown, Canada, where he was born.

Royal Aeronautical Society Journal for December contains a letter from Theodore P. Wright, Vice-president for Research, advocating Anglo-American co-operation. Citing the particular requirements of air power as technical superiority and adequate forces in being, he lists the stages on the road to modern war-ready air forces as basic experimentation, inductive reasoning therefrom, formulation of fundamental scientific law, applied research directed to specific problems, intensive development effort, and quality production. "The peoples of each of our two countries possess national characteristics that tend to make them more competent and effective than the other in different items of the stages listed above . . . neither of us is pre-eminent in every one of these requirements, although together we do seem to excel in all of them. As a team we cannot be beaten and must surely win," he writes.

Dean S. C. Hollister, Engineering, attended a reception for Prime Minister Winston Churchill, given by the Society of Cincinnati at its Washington, D.C. headquarters, January 15.

Dean Martin P. Catherwood, PhD '30, Industrial & Labor Relations, is the "who" in the "Who's Who" column of the December Newsletter of the State University of New York.

Dean Joseph C. Hinsey, Medical College, is a member of the Commission on the Health Needs of the Nation appointed by President Truman, December 29, to determine the nation's total health requirements and to recommend ways for meeting them.

Professor Arthur Kantrowitz, Aeronautical Engineering, has been appointed visiting lecturer in fluid mechanics for the spring term at Harvard.

Professor J. Barkley Rosser, Mathematics, presided at the annual meeting of the Association for Symbolic Logic at a joint meeting with the American Philosophical Society at Swarthmore College. He is president of the Association.

Professor William H. Farnham '18, Law, has been studying the need for legislation designed to free land from building restrictions which have outlived their usefulness. Last spring, as consultant to the New York Law Revision Commission, he completed a study on the subject, which is being published as a Legislative Document. In September, he addressed the annual convention of the New York State Title Association on the same topic; and in the December issue of the New York State Bar Bulletin he writes on "Building Restrictions: Is Legislation Necessary?"

Eugenia Van Cleef, daughter of Mynderse Van Cleef '74, late University Trustee, died December 24 in Ithaca. A graduate of Vassar, she was treasurer and trustee of the First Presbyterian Church of Ithaca, a director of the Tompkins County Trust Co., member of the State Republican committee, former secretary of the Ithaca Red Cross chapter, member of the board of trustees of Tompkins County Hospital, a former director of the Ithaca Community Chest. She and her sister, Mrs. Arthur Booth of Elmira, established in 1945 the Mynderse Van Cleef Memorial Dinner Endowment for Reunion dinners for members of the older Classes and their families.

Mrs. Lucy Lyon Kerr, widow of Trustee Walter C. Kerr '79, died December 23, 1951, at her home in New Brighton. A native of Ithaca, Mrs. Kerr attended the opening ceremonies of the University; she was one of the last survivors of those present on that occasion. Her uncle, the late George W. Schuyler, was the first Treasurer of the University. She was the mother of Donald C. Kerr '12, Counselor of Foreign Students, and Eleanor Kerr '07.

Dr. Claude E. Forkner, Medical College, was appointed to the medical advisory council of Iran Foundation, Inc. Last July he was one of a group of doctors from The New York Hospital staff who went to Teheran to attend the Shah.

Professor Carl Crandall '12, Civil Engineering, was elected president of the Tompkins County chapter of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers at their January meeting in Statler Hall. Professor Benjamin K. Hough, Jr., Civil Engineering, was chosen vice-president.

Professor H. Darkes Albright, PhD '36, Speech & Drama, January 1 succeeded Professor Barnard W. Hewitt '28 of University of Illinois as editor of Educational Theatre Association. Professor Albright is a former president of the Association and is consulting editor on drama and the theater to Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers of his textbook, Working Up a Part, in 1947.

Henry A. Knopf of the Agriculture library and his partner won second place in a special one-session event of the national contract bridge championships in Detroit, Mich., in December.

Major Robert T. Knox, USMC, of the Naval ROTC staff, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Edward J. McKeever, head football coach in 1945-46, is reported to have retired from coaching to become executive director of the Council of Associated General Contractors, Louisiana division, with offices in Baton Rouge.

A flexible farm program holding as close to the free market as possible was advocated by Professor Herrell F. DeGraff '37, Food Economics, addressing a commodity conference of the American Farm Bureau Federation December 10, in Chicago, Ill. He said: "Agriculture's best longtime interest is in a low level, flexible price support below the level of the market price . . . rigid acreage controls and marketing restrictions are not necessary . . . if farmers take the road of general agriculture subsidies and high price supports, they will be faced with dictation of all of their operation."

Stephen P. Rustyak, Nuclear Studies, is chief of the radiological section of the Ithaca Civil Defense organization.

"My Dinner with King Farouk," a short story by David Daiches, former professor of English, appears in the January 12 issue of The New Yorker.

Head Football Coach George K. James has been elected a trustee of the American Coaches' Association. Former coach Carl G. Snively, now at University of North Carolina, is president.

Professor Lloyd P. Smith, PhD '30, Physics, has been elected Faculty representative on the University Board of Trustees, succeeding Professor Howard B. Adelman '20, Zoology, whose five-year term expired January 1.

Professor Martin W. Sampson '37, Industrial & Engineering Administration, has been appointed to the administrative board of the Summer Session for four years beginning January 1.

Professor R. William Shaw, PhD '34, Astronomy, presented an invited paper on the purpose and characteristics of laboratory astronomy before a teachers' conference of the American Astronomical Society, December 29, at the Warner & Swasey Observatory in Cleveland, Ohio.

As Sigma Xi national lecturer for 1952, Professor Donald R. Griffin, Zoology, spoke in three weeks at fourteen Southern colleges and universities and will visit more Southern schools during his second tour in March and April. Professor Griffin's studies along Fall Creek near "Flatrock" have led to the theory that bats use a built-in "radar system" in tracking their prey, and his experiments with bats may be useful to improve methods of auditory orientation for the blind.

Edgar A. J. Johnson, assistant professor of Economics from 1931-37, has been appointed deputy chief and chief economic officer of Mutual Security Agency activities in Yugoslavia. He was formerly director of the ECA program and since last June has been economic officer with the ECA special mission to Greece.

Dr. John W. Hirshfeld '30, Ithaca surgeon and research associate to the University Clinic, has been re-elected president of the Tompkins County Medical Society. On the Clinic and Infirmary staff also are Drs. C. Douglas Darling, secretary, and Henry B. Wightman '27, treasurer of the Society. Dr. Norman S. Moore '23, University Physician-in-chief, is the Society's delegate to the State Medical Society and Dr. Leo P. Larkin '18 of Ithaca is alternate.

Work of two members of the Architecture Faculty was included in the annual exhibition of artists of Central New York, January 6-February 10, in Utica. Professor John A. Hartell '25 exhibited an oil painting, "Scantlings." Professor Victor E. Colby '50 presented "Death Angel," a sculpture in welded steel.

A $1,000 research grant has been awarded to Professor Harold E. Moore, Botany, at the Bailey Hortorium, by the American Philosophical Society. On leave beginning February 1, Professor Moore will spend four months in Florida and Central America studying native and cultivated tropical plants with special emphasis on palms.

Chamber Music Concert

THE NEW FRIENDS of Music Quartet presented the second concert in the University chamber music series, January 7, in the Willard Straight Theater.

The group, composed of Stuart Canin, violinist, Paul Doktor, violist, Ralph Oxman, cellist, and Sidney Foster, pianist substituting for Hortense Monath, appeared best in their opening number, "Piano Quartet in G minor, Opus 25," by Brahms. "Serenade," by Ernst von Dohnanyi, contemporary Hungarian composer, musically a set-back after the Brahms, was well performed by the three strings. The group completed their program with Mozart's "Piano Quartet in G minor, K. 478."

Elect New Trustee

FRANK W. BENEWAY '15 of Ontario was elected president of the New York State Agricultural Society, January 23 at the 120th annual meeting, and thus becomes a Trustee of the University. He succeeds Fred H. Sexauer, who has served for two years. The Charter of the University provides that the president of the State Agricultural Society shall be a Trustee. Ezra Cornell was the Society's president in 1862. At this year's meeting, Albert G. Genung '13 and Ray L. Wheeler '23 were elected vice-presidents and Harold L. Creal '19 and Don J. Wickham '24 were named to the executive committee.

Beneway attended the College of Agriculture in 1911-12 and 1913-14. He has been chairman of the committee which has raised nearly $85,000 from farm organizations and individuals in the State to endow scholarships for students in Agriculture in memory of Carl E. Ladd '12, late Dean of the College. His son is James A. Beneway '41 and his daughter is Mrs. Robert L. Clifford (Mary Beneway) '48.

Harry G. Stutz '07 is continued as a Trustee of the University by his re-election as statutory librarian of the Cornell Library in Ithaca, founded by Ezra Cornell. General manager and editor of The Ithaca Journal, Stutz has thus been a Trustee since 1935; is a member of the executive committee and chairman of the Trustee-Faculty committee on fine arts. He received the LL.B in 1907; is the father of Professor Frederick H. Stutz '35, Education, Mrs. A. L. White (Mary Stutz) '42, and Peter S. Stutz '42.

Explains Cornell Fortunes

PROFESSOR FRANK A. PEARSON '12, Prices & Statistics, writes in Farm Economics for October and December, 1951, to show that periods of concurrent rising prices and rising building activity in the United States have brought prosperity, while those of declining prices and declining building have been disastrous. Among many other examples, he notes that Ezra Cornell built the first telegraph line in 1843-44, at a time when prices and building were low, and that Western Union Telegraph Co. was incorporated in 1856, at the end of a boom period, with Ezra Cornell as the largest stockholder.

"The panic of 1873," he says, "was preceded by a nation-wide over-expansion in railroad construction. Ezra Cornell sponsored rail lines connecting Ithaca and Cornell University with the outside world and is reputed to have invested about $2,000,000 in the venture. With adversity the traffic was insufficient to support the heavy mortgages. Ezra Cornell made a fortune with the rising prices and rising building of the fifties and lost heavily with the falling building and falling prices of the seventies. He knew nothing of building cycles and prices. He was a man who dared to take chances which paid off when building was active and prices were rising."

Collaborators with Professor Pearson in these studies were Dean William I. Myers '14, Agriculture, Donald Paarlberg, PhD '46, and Professor Herrell F. DeGraff '37, Food Economics.

University Concert

JOSEPH FUCHS, violinist, and Artur Balsam, pianist, gave an interesting concert in Bailey Hall, January 15. Much of their program—especially the "Concerto in E. Minor" by Nardini, "Sonata in A Major" by Casar Franck, and "Sonata in G Major, Op.30, No. 3" by Beethoven—the two artists interpreted as coordinate parts, rather than as violin soloist with piano accompaniment.

For his last three numbers, Fuchs played the Richard Strauss "Improvisation" from "Sonata in E Flat, Op.18;" Paganini's "Caprice No. 17" arranged by his sister, Lillian Fuchs, violist; and the Kreisler arrangement of "Rondo in G, K.250" by Mozart. As encores, he played Kreisler's "La Gitana" and "Piece en forme de Habanera," by Ravel.

Messenger Lectures

MESSENGER LECTURES on "The Primitive World and Its Transformations" will be delivered in Olin Hall by Professor Robert Redfield, head of the department of anthropology at University of Chicago. Professor Redfield is the author of several books, a trustee of the Social Science Foundation, and a former president of the American Anthropological Association. He was research associate to Carnegie Institute of Washington, in charge of ethnological and sociological field work, 1930-46, and did research in Yucatan and Guatemala during 1930-48. After giving his lectures here, he will go to the University of Paris as an exchange professor. Professor Redfield will discuss "Human Society before the Urban Revolution," February 25; "The Later Histories of the Folk Societies," February 27; "Civilization and the Moral Order," February 28; "Primitive World View and Civilization," March 3; "The Transformation of Ethical Judgment," March 5.

Geology Department Treasures—Sea shells from the famous Newcomb Collection of the Geology Department were shown publicly for the first time in the University Library last month. The original 40,000 items in the collection, now "priceless" according to Professor W. Storrs Cole '25, head of the Department, were bought by Ezra Cornell in 1868 for $15,000 from Dr. Wesley Newcomb, an Ithaca physician. Rarest item is the "golden cowry," which is worn by Fiji Island chiefs as a symbol of their authority. Because export of these shells is prohibited, there are only about sixty specimens in United States museums. The exhibit also contained shells collected in Brazil by Charles F. Hartt, Cornell's first Geology professor, and others obtained in the South Pacific by Professor John W. Wells, PhD '33, Geology, and on the Maine Coast by Professor Cole. Professor Wells is holding a giant clam in the picture above; Sheila H. Lefcourt '53 of Staten Island has a small snail.

NEWS OF THE ALUMNI

Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians of all Classes will be welcomed for these pages. Addresses as printed are in New York State unless otherwise designated.

Certain Classes, principally those which send the ALUMNI NEWS to all members, have special columns written by their own correspondents. Each such column is designated at its beginning with its Class numerals. Material for those columns may be sent either to the News for forwarding or directly to the respective Class correspondents, whose names and addresses follow:

1910 Men—Roy Taylor, Old Fort Road, Bernardsville, N.J.

1913 Men—M. R. Neifeld, 15 Washington Street, Newark 2, N.J.

1915 Men—C. M. Colyer, 123 West Prospect Avenue, Cleveland 1, Ohio.

1919 Men—Alpheus W. Smith, 705 The Parkway, Ithaca.

1920 Men—W. D. Archibald, 8 Beach Street, New York City 13.

1921 Men—Allan H. Treman, Savings Bank Building, Ithaca.

1951 Men—Stuart Minton, Jr., 1160 Park Avenue, New York City 28.

'95 PhB—Mrs. Anna Bayard Dod McCoy died last Christmas Day. She was the wife of the Rev. William S. McCoy of 143 Spring Street, Rochester 8.

'99 BSA, '00 BS—Leslie C. Harlow retired in 1942 as chemist of the College of Agriculture, Nova Scotia, and now lives in Truro, Nova Scotia. "Fifty-two years have effaced many landmarks on Huestis Street and Dryden Road, where I lived with D. A. Reed '98 and L. M. Schoch '98 of football fame and Asa King '99 of the Cornell crew," he writes. In 1902 he took charge of science work in the Normal College of Nova Scotia, and five years later became chemist at the College of Agriculture. He received the DSc at Acadia University in 1941.

'00, '01 AB—Although retired from business, Kelton E. White is active as chairman of the board of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis, Mo., member of the board of directors of the St. Louis Municipal Opera, and member of the board of the St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America. White lives at 503 Locust Street, St. Louis 1, Mo.

'01 AB—David Paine is counsel to the firm of Sawyer, Delaney, Shaw & Pomeroy at 68 William Street, New York City 5.

'02—Henry Bruere, chairman of the board of Bowery Savings Bank, New York City 17, was re-elected chairman of the National Municipal League at its annual conference last November.

'02 LLB—A teacher of speech at St. Louis University and Webster College,

Harry R. McClain keeps busy with "extra-curricular activities." During the last year he has directed the golden jubilee pageant of the Jewish Federation of St. Louis, produced a weekly radio program for the Community Chest, and conducted the annual celebration of Shakespeare's birth at the base of his statue in Tower Grove Park, St. Louis. McClain lives at 412 North Union Boulevard, St. Louis 8, Mo.

'04 CE—New second editions of the first two volumes of Data Book for Civil Engineers by Elwyn E. Seelye have been published by John Wiley & Sons Co. A consulting engineer for forty years, Seelye is the senior partner of Seelye, Stevenson, Value, & Knecht at 101 Park Avenue, New York City 17.

'05 AB—After thirty-four years on the bench of the New York City Municipal Court, George L. Genung retired December 31, 1951. He practices law as senior member of the firm of Genung, Moroney, Ettinger & Pottish of 271 Madison Avenue, New York City.

'07 Men—The following members of the Class met for dinner at the Cornell Club of New York to plan for their Forty-five-year Reunion: Henry S. Otto, Floyd M. Grant, William A. Kirk, C. Benson Wigton, Robert Burns, Walt Wing, Tom Laurie, Winthrop Taylor, Frederick G. Shull, Howard M. Rogers, Herman Van Kleeck, and Fred S. Sly.

'07 LLB—Executive vice-president of General Foods Corp. since 1947, Edwin T. Gibson has retired. He joined the company in 1933 and will continue to act in a consulting capacity. He will visit Europe, but his address is 120 Park Avenue, Bronxville.

'08 ME—Mark H. Landis is president and general manager of Erdco, Inc., engineering research and development laboratory, Waynesboro, Pa. He lives at 228 Philadelphia Ave., Waynesboro, Pa.

'09 ME—Adrian V. S. Lindsley retired, February 1, as vice-president of Connecticut Light & Power Co. after more than thirty-nine years in utility sales work. After a two-month vacation in Florida, he and Mrs. Lindsley will return home to 424 Main Street, Watertown, Conn.

Along the Atlantic seaboard, through Washington, D.C., across the surging South, and stretching into the West Indies are a large, varied, and growing number of structures and engineering projects, designed both for peace and war, which bear the signature of the Consolidated Engineering Co., of Baltimore, and the personal finger of its president and general manager, John A. Stal- ford (above). That's a Baltimore concern, only forty-one years old, and Johnny, a native Baltimorean, went to work for it the year after he graduated. He stayed right there, worked up to the top job in 1938, has never had an address other than Baltimore, and shows no present intention of adding a Florida one to it as a place of winter sojourn. His son, H. Alfred Stalford '34, is following the paternal footsteps in the company as project engineer.

Astronomical money figures have long since ceased to impress anybody, and even the composite photographs of structures reared by a single company that in the mass look as if they'd suffice to shelter a city the size of Syracuse, produce no more than a temporary gasp. But what does strain the imagination is that every detail of this varied and vast problem in design and construction, now well into its second billion of dollar risk and involving government buildings, airports, and fortifications in foreign lands, railroads, hospitals, housing units, dams, bridges and what-not, have all at some time gone over Johnny Stalford's desk and that both Johnny and the desk seem to be standing up under it unmarred! Nor do Stalford and his organization turn up their noses at mere repair jobs. They've recently completed a general going-over of the US Capitol at Washington which included a substantial reconstruction of the Senate and House wings.

The Stalfords live at 105 Wendover Road, Guilford, Baltimore, Md. In addition to the son, Alfred '34, there are two married daughters and five grandchildren. On top of all that, the man keeps bright his Cornell contacts and interests. While serving as president of the Maryland Cornell Club he was active in organizing the Alumnae Association of Baltimore.

Miron S. Canaday lives at 521 First Street, Rochester, Minn., and is manager of Libby, McNeil & Libby's canning plant at that place, which concentrates on peas, sweet corn, and green lima beans. Half of the plant's needed supply it raises itself on 8000 acres of leased farm land in the neighborhood; the other half is raised for it under contract by local growers.

"Jim" Rutherford (James Hollis to his parents) lives at 1055 Cliffdale Avenue, Lakewood 7, Ohio, and for thirty years has been manager of Phoenix Mutual Life's Cleveland office. He has twin daughters and two Cornell sons, Lowell M. '42 and Donald E. '48, both of whom served three years in World War II, in the Air Force and the Navy, respectively. Jim reports that the Classmates he sees most frequently are Lyman Judson, Bill Matchmeir, Raynor Sturgis, George Webster, Joe Burns, and George Tewksbury.

'11—"A Page in Colorful History of Our Modern Machine Age," an address by George C. Brainard, has been published by the Newcomen Society in North America. It was delivered at the 1950 Cleveland dinner of the Society. Brainard is president and general manager of Addressograph-Multi-graph Corp. and president and chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

He lives at 4920 Middledale Road, Lyndhurst 21, Ohio.

'11—Samuel F. Nixon, 119 West Main Street, Westfield, is president of the Chautauqua & Erie Telephone Corp. and of the Chautauqua County Historical Society.

'12 AB, '29 PhD—History of American Ornithology before Audubon by Mrs. Elsa Guerdrum Allen was published in October, 1951, by the American Philosophical Society for the Promotion of Useful Knowledge. Wife of Professor Arthur A. Allen '08, she is research associate in Ornithology and in charge of the Fuertes reading room in Fernow Hall.

1913 MEN

Forty-three years ago, a dynamo of human activity in the person of Jess Whyte began giving of himself for Cornell and for '13. His undergraduate activities included several Varsity teams and numerous Campus responsibilities. Since graduation, he has been active every year in a most constructive way. He has behind him a wonderful job as chairman of a '13 Reunion, as Class representative on the Alumni Fund Council, and now as president of the Fund. No one has been more active or influential in the civic and business affairs of Kenosha, Wis., where he lives and is president of MacWhyte Co., manufacturers of wire rope. In the last year, Jess has had a rough time, with one operation in October and a second four weeks later. He has been responding beautifully to treatment and is now back in his office for an hour or two every few days. He sends a cheerful note about a vacation trip to The Smoke Tree Ranch, Palm Springs, Cal., planned for February and March. This outstanding '13-er carries with him the earnest wishes of his Classmates for a complete recovery.

From the time he graduated, H. Warren Arnold, ME, has been in various capacities and officerships with Warren Bros. Roads Co., Winchester, Mass., who specialize in state highway and city street paving. Currently Doc is insurance and bond manager.

In his way, Clarence W. Barker of 5217 South Salina Street, Syracuse, has been equally loyal to agriculture. Cy farmed it for some dozen years after graduation, then was engaged in the retail farm supply business for ten years, and since in government service. He is now serving as administrative officer in the New York State offices of the US Department of Agriculture Production & Marketing Administration.

His ME training led John H. Barr through various channels and stages to the position of purchasing agent for Ingersoll Rand Co., manufacturers of mining and heavy machinery. Johnny receives mail at R.D. 1, Stewartsville, N.J.

Combining agriculture and engineering with civic, fraternal, and technical society activities keeps Churchill P. Goree, Jr. on a full schedule. Roy runs a farm at La Fayette, Ga., and pays for it by his work as Atlanta branch manager for Frick Co., of Waynesboro, Pa., manufacturers of ice, refrigeration, and air conditioning machinery. He is in addition director of the Fulton County Federal Savings & Loan Association and vice-president of Goree Ice Manufacturing Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. Roy's business address is Mortgage Guarantee Building, Atlanta 3, Ga.

Among Classmates Frances H. Lockwood sees from time to time at Cornell alumni get-togethers in Chicago are Eddie Jackman, Jack Bradt, and Verle Mann. Frank sells electrical appliances for Westinghouse at 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

A varied background in refrigeration and air-conditioning research with top-notch American companies finally led Donald H. Reeves to independent engineering development work. Don has some fifty patents. The nature of his present work is such that he can do it almost anywhere, so he has spent the last several years at 401 Southeast Twelfth Court, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Until recently his permanent address has been Route 1, Beulah, Mich., but now he seems to be located at 2512 Pine Grove Avenue, Muskegon, Mich.

For twenty-six years, Oxford U. Schaefer was engaged in farming near Albion. In 1941, he moved to his boyhood farm near Kunkletown, Pa. where he farms poultry, fruits, and vegetables on a semi-retired scale. His wife was Pearle Siems of Albion, a teacher in the public schools for twenty years, and a Summer School student at Cornell. Professionally, O.U. has been a member of Patrons of Husbandry—Subordinate, Pomona State and National. O.U. spent only one year at Cornell. Previously he put in four years for an AB at Franklin & Marshall, and then some time at Penn State.

An extra year on the Campus gave Frank W. Taft both the AB and LL.B. Somewhere along the way, the law got waylaid and Bill is now an administrator at Bendix Aviation Corp. He can be reached at Scintilla Magneto Division, Sidney. Somehow along the way, he also managed to reach the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Air Force in World War II.

CLASS CULTURAL CONTEST

Category, History; Question: THE CORNELL WIDOW ONCE MADE THE STATEMENT

1915
MEN

THAT LIEUTENANT TWESTEN "FOUGHT THE INDIANS WITH CUSTARD"; ☐ TRUE? ☐ FALSE? "Mort" (Morton) Ryder, Rye, sent in the photograph below with this note: "Since you have evinced an interest in the biological activities of Fifteneers, you may be interested in this snap of four generations of Cornellians: Clayton Ryder '79, Mort. Ryder '15, Clayton Ryder II '45, Jeffrey Ryder '71." Can another Class match this performance?

See by the papers that "Howdy" (H.C.) Will, the big candle man from Syracuse, is expanding his business. Will & Baumer Candle Co., of which "Howdy" is president, is taking over the candle-making activities of Socony Vacuum.

"Jeff" (Martin G.) Smith is still in the moving-pitcher business: address, 519 Main Street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chuck Shuler sends in dues and season's greetings from the "tall corn" country. He salutes me with "Greetings, you old—" (bad name deleted).

P. T. Egbert is vice president, American Locomotive Co., Schenectady; address, 20 Washington Avenue.

Charlie Lahr adds this note with his dues: "Sorry about the slight delay due to the clutter of the Yule season. I do hope our aged pals with spavined hocks and busted arches are beating a path to your door with their "incense and burnt offerings!" (The guarantors hope so, too, Charlie). Address: 1746 Carlson Street, Denver, Col.

Walt Haerberle sends in a very informative questionnaire. He says "no" or "none" to all questions. However, I know he is still getting out the 2 x 4's at the Haerberle Lumber Co., Niagara Falls. "Habe" comes up with a good idea; a big turnout of 1915 for a Tune-up Reunion in Ithaca next June. I'll be there! Any other takers?

'16 LLB—The Rochester Bar Association passed a resolution on the death of Arthur B. Curran, February 22, 1950. The memorandum honors him as "an able lawyer, an outstanding member of this community, and a gentleman and a steadfast friend."

'16 BS—James H. Greene (above) has been elected president of the Brewer Titchener Corp., Cortland. He joined the company in 1919; has been vice-president since 1949.

'16 ME—Leroy R. Grumman was awarded the 1951 Honorary American Fellowship of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, at a dinner meeting, January 28, at the Astor Hotel in New York City. He is chairman of the board of Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., Bethpage.

'17 ME—The honorary degree of Doctor of Textile Industries was awarded Robert H. Chapman of 1010 Glendalyn Circle, Spartanburg, S.C., at Clemson Agricultural College, November 3, 1951. He is vice-president and assistant treasurer of Inman Mills, Riverdale Mills, and Piedmont Wood Preserving Co.

'17 BS—Alvin E. Long is general manager of Newark Milk & Cream Co. He lives at 286 Forest Road, South Orange, N.J.

(President's report, continued): Our hard-working Treasurer, "Bo" Dial, submits his report of the state of our Class treasury on December 31, 1951, as follows:

Cash on deposit and in bank May 25, 1950 (last report)	$ 600.75
Receipts during the intervening period	2771.47
Total	$3372.22
Disbursements for Alumni News group subscription	1696.00
Class Directory	586.27
Printing, postage, etc.	171.09
Total	$2453.36
Leaving cash on hand of	$ 918.86
of which $600 is in reserve for pre-payment of dues, and the un-committed cash balance is	$ 318.86

As the expenses for publication and mailing costs for our first Class Directory were paid during this period, it is apparent that we are on solid though not too robust ground.

"Bo" advises that as of January 18, 174 of our Classmates have paid their $5 dues for the current year and further that payment by only sixty-two more will cover the reduced cost of our Class group subscription applicable this year, based upon elimination of uninterested Classmates outlined last month in this column. We have mentioned before that when the dues payments are sufficient to clear the cost of our total Class subscription after deducting $1 for the Class treasury, the entire amount of the $5 dues will be retained in the treasury. During the past four years, we have always been short of this accomplishment. However, it is now apparent that we can reach our goal very quickly and that we can start building our cash account, looking forward to our Thirty-Five-Year Reunion in 1954. This gives a double incentive, because we can expect to have a fund on hand at Reunion time which will be available for additional features as well as possible reduction of the necessary Reunion fee. To illustrate this point, even if no more pay dues than last year, we shall add approximately $300 to our Class fund; and if 350 Classmates pay their dues (only 17 more than the previous year), we shall add $550 to our Class fund, on which basis by Reunion time in 1954 we would have over $2,000 to make our Reunion bigger and better than ever.

Let's get our Class dues on the line NOW—mail them to Morse G. Dial, 30 East Forty-second Street, New York City 17.

This completes the financial report; other Class activities will be covered in future issues of the NEWS.—Willard I. Emerson.

FATHER & SON DEPARTMENT (FHA Division): There's a new brokerage business partnership at 270 Park Avenue, New York 17, (Telephone: PLaza 3-1797) working on FHA mortgage placement: E. F. Gidley Co., with Everett F. Gidley and Everett F. Gidley, Jr.

1920 MEN

Joe Diamant, our active and understanding Class treasurer, sent out a card to those Classmates who hadn't paid this year's dues and Joe has sent me the replies, which run all the way from those who were so glad to be reminded to those who resented the reminder. But, all in all, it is another opportunity to hear a word from those Classmates who send in a personal note with their remittance. And this column really needs some personal notes!

Kelly Sachs started something that should be a very profitable precedent for our Class. He voluntarily fined himself $5 for being tardy and sent in $10. As you know, dues are on a voluntary basis, anyway.

I would like to quote a letter from William H. Whittemore. Whit writes:—"You can be sure that I was sorry to miss the fun at the dinner given in honor of Ho Ballou. We are all undergraduates at heart and shall ever remain so, I hope. We may not develop the capacity to 'become as little children' but I am sure all of us retain a part of our hearts for those days when life was relatively simple and our greatest problem is today forgotten! I have to maintain my sense of youth in this profession which I chose late in life. Am I enjoying it? A full heart replies 'Yes . . . completely'. Enclosed is my check for Class dues. Would that it might be more, but the one drawback about this profession is that money is scarce." Well, Whit, money may be scarce, but your other rewards are great and you have chosen the most soul-satisfying path. Would that I could join you!

John S. Pflueger wrote, "Sorry not to have been with all of you at the Class dinner, but things have been happening fast and furiously around the Pflueger household. Mrs. Pflueger and I spent some time early this fall in Europe with our married daughter and her family. We traveled through England, France, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Spain, and Portugal. Flew all the way and had a gorgeous time. Then my twenty-one-year-old son, John, Jr., sold a bill of goods to Lois Sewell (Luke Sewell's daughter) and they will be married just after they both graduate from college, June 21. If you have married children or children about to be married, you know the time and attention they need, but giving it to them is one of my greatest joys in life." We certainly know those joys, Johnny, and you can feel that all of your Classmates are sharing your happiness. Incidentally, Johnny is president of Enterprise Manufacturing Co. of Akron, Ohio. Perhaps some of you, when fishing in that favorite mountain spot, have felt the impact of a speckled beauty connecting with one of his special lures.

William H. Colvin also wrote us. You know, Bill is president of Crucible Steel, but took time from his busy life to attend our last dinner.

Jeff Kilbourne visited the Cornell Club of New York a short time ago, enroute to Florida for a winter vacation.

Bertram Y. Kinzey, 109 Builder's Exchange, Richmond, Va., is executive manager, Virginia Associated Plumbing & Heating Contractors. This summer he and his wife, the former Gertrude Sampson '19, took a month's vacation and drove to California to visit their daughter and granddaughter.

Well, that's it for this issue and next time I hope we can report some more letters accompanying dues checks. To date, forty-three men have paid $265. This compares with $435 from seventy-one men last year.

1921 MEN

Col. James E. Wilson (above) is now ★ on a reserve duty assignment as commanding officer of the 914th Maintenance & Supply Group at Mitchel Air Force Base at Garden City. He spent three post-World War II years as military mayor of Seoul, Korea, from October, 1945, to October 1948, and was a key obstacle to Communist plans to break down the resistance of the Korean peoples. While acting as mayor, he had the job of frustrating various Red efforts to upset the city. After his return to the US, for some time he was executive officer of the 52d Fighter Wing at Mitchel Field and later McGuire Air Force Base, N. J. Before his service in Seoul, he saw two years' action with the 13th Air Force in the South Pacific: New Hebrides to

Before the war, he spent twenty years as an account executive for New York advertising firms. Home address: 100 Courtenay Road, Hempstead.

Greenville, S.C., Air Base, a major training center during World War II, was later expanded for a municipal airport and was recently rededicated as "Donaldson Air Base," named in honor of Captain John O. Donaldson, the fourth-ranking American World War I ace, who died in an airplane accident at the age of thirty-four. First war military records credit him with nine enemy planes and two balloons. He was a native of Greenville. His father, Major General Donaldson, served forty-four years in the US Army and was the first commandant of Clemson College, and two brothers were in the service: one a brigadier general and the other a commander. Senator Maybank of South Carolina delivered the dedicatory address. In the first war, John Donaldson was attached to the British and was one of the youngest fliers in the service. He won American, British, and French decorations and the rating of an Ace. He was shot down and captured, and later escaping from the prison camp, he made his way into the Netherlands. From the Netherlands he was sent to London because of the valuable knowledge he had acquired of conditions behind the German lines. Later he was the first manager of the Newark commercial airport and was killed there in an exhibition flight.

Army Veterinarians—Dr. Theodore Dubin '45 sent this snapshot, pointing out that the three pictured Drs. (Warren G. Hoag '44, at left, Robert J. Byrne '44, in the middle, and himself, at right) have three things in common: they are all graduates of the Veterinary College, Army captains, and doing research in the Veterinary Division, Army Medical Service Graduate School, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington 12, D.C. He writes that since the picture was taken last spring, Dr. Hoag had "lost lots of weight on an expedition in Malaya" and Dr. Byrne "went off to investigate a disease outbreak in Korea," but they are "all together again" now. Post veterinarian at the Medical Center is Dr. Ralph F. Wester '45.

Miller Walkup a daughter. Audrey Katman Wald's son is now about two and Doris Troyansky Rosen's about three. Don't mean to make it sound as if we all have family ties; many are earning higher degrees, some are making a name for themselves in the business world, some are combining family and business. Ruth Critchlow Blackman is working as statistician for Educational Testing Service in Trenton, N.J. Judith Gold is dietician at Seville Restaurant in Dayton, Ohio. Joan Rider started pediatric internship in July at St. Louis City Hospital, Mo. Kay Smith Schlemmer is teaching at the department of education of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. Betty Halpin Stephenson is working while her husband attends school; they have a three-year-old daughter. Don't forget to send pictures and important news items to me. I'm also historian: Mrs. Philip Kennedy (Elinor Baier), 25 Wildwood Place, Buffalo 10.
