The first five years...

... often set the pattern a marriage is to follow for life. And little attentions between husband and wife are no small part of its success, as any happy couple will agree.

Those first five years are particularly important in establishing the economic side of the marriage pattern. Often they determine whether the future will be financially secure or insecure. That is the time to establish a program of family protection—a Prudential life insurance program planned to provide for wife and children if you should die, to cover education expenses and to take care of unforeseen emergencies. And a special Prudential plan can give you lifetime protection for much less during those first five years, when your income may not be as high as later. Yes, Prudential is the sound, practical way to make your family economic pattern safe and secure.

Ask your Prudential representative about this Prudential protection for your family. Don't "put it off"—see about it today.

Enjoy the Prudential Family Hour, with Risë Stevens—Sunday afternoons, CBS. And the Jack Berch Show—Every morning, Mondays through Fridays, NBC.

University Officials Change With Resignations, Appointments

IMPORTANT changes in the administrative personnel of the University took place at a meeting of the Board of Trustees at the Medical College in New York, January 24.

Adams, Doyle Resign

Arthur S. Adams, Provost of the University since January, 1946, and chief administrative officer under President Edmund E. Day, resigned effective next June. He will then become president of the University of New Hampshire at Durham. Adams came to Cornell in 1940 from Colorado School of Mines, where he was professor of mechanics and assistant to the president. He came as assistant to Dean S. C. Hollister in the academic development of the College of Engineering. Graduate of the US Naval Academy in 1918, he served in submarines and aboard the USS Arkansas and was retired in 1921 with the rank of lieutenant (jg); then taught in Denver schools, received the MA in physics at University of California in 1926 and the DSc at Colorado School of Mines in 1927. In 1940, he organized and directed the University's Engineering, Science, and Management War Training program and, recalled to active duty in 1941, he directed the courses in Diesel engineering for Naval Reserve officers which became the nucleus for the Naval Training School at the University. He was ordered to duty in the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington, D. C., in 1942 and became general administrator of the nation-wide Navy College Training Program and officer-in-charge of the administrative section of the Division of Training with responsibility for some 1500 Naval training schools and stations. For these duties and his aid in establishing the present Naval ROTC, he received the Legion of Merit; as Captain Adams, USN, he was returned to inactive duty in November, 1945.

In addition to his administrative duties as Provost, Adams has been chairman of the University committee on housing established to provide accommodations for the 40 per cent post-war increase in students, and has been chairman of the Cornell Research Foundation management committee for the Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo. Since 1944, he has received honorary degrees at Muhlenberg College, Union College, University of the South, Stevens Institute of Technology, Hobart and William Smith Colleges, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is chairman of the American Council on Education committee on housing; member of Sigma Nu, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, and numerous professional societies.

The Trustees also accepted the resignation of Robert A. Doyle '14 as Vice-president for University development, with stipulation that he shall continue as a voluntary special assistant to the President. Doyle was appointed Vice-president of the University last July, coming from a successful career in business and duty as a lieutenant-colonel in the operations division of the Army General Staff in Washington, D. C. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa and the Savage Club.

CAA Head Vice-President

Appointment of Theodore P. Wright (above) as Vice-president of the University and president of the Cornell Research Foundation was confirmed by the Trustees. The same day, President Harry S. Truman accepted "with deep regret" Wright's resignation as head of the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington, effective April 1 when he is expected to assume the University post. As president of the Research Foundation, he will supervise administration of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo; of which Clifford C. Furnas is Director, thus assuming duties formerly carried on by Provost Adams.

Knows Aircraft Industry

In fifteen years with Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. and its successor, Curtiss-Wright Corp., as executive engineer, chief engineer of the airplane division, vice-president and general manager, and director of engineering and chairman of the engineering and policy board, Wright instituted new methods of airplane development and construction, took the lead in experiments with metal propellers, and supervised construction of new plane designs, including in 1929 the "Tanager" which won the Guggenheim Prize of $100,000 for safest aircraft.

During World War II, he directed the great expansion of the aircraft industry, first as assistant chief of the aircraft section of the Office of Production Management, then as director and organizer of the Aircraft Resources Control Office of the War Production Board. He headed two missions to England, one in 1942 of aviation engineers and executives, and one in 1944 of top-ranking Army and Navy air officers to confer with British officers on technical development. He was awarded the War Department Medal for Exceptional Civilian Service for his accomplishments in stimulating American production of war planes, and was appointed Administrator of Civil Aeronautics in 1944. As aviation director of the US Strategic Bombing Survey which studied results of the Eighth Air Force bombing of Europe, he was awarded the War Department Medal of Freedom "for exceptionally meritorious achievement," and in November, 1944, he was technical secretary of the International Civil Aviation Conference in Chicago, Ill., which adopted rules governing all aspects of world air transportation. He won the Wright Brothers Medal of the Society of Automotive Engineers in 1930, delivered the Wilbur Wright Memorial Lecture in London in 1945 before the Royal Aeronautical Society, and in January, 1946, was awarded the Daniel Guggenheim Medal, highest honor in American aviation. Wright received the BS in 1915 at Lombard College (now Knox College) in his home town of Galesburg, Ill., and the BS in Architecture in 1918 at MIT. Knox College awarded him 'the honorary DSc in 1937. He is a member of Sigma Nu and of many professional societies.

Howes '24 University Secretary

Secretary of the University, effective February 1, is Raymond F. Howes '24 (above). He has been acting Secretary since Edward K. Graham, PhD '38, resigned last summer to become assistant dean of faculties at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Since his return as a commander, USNR, in 1946, Howes has also been administrative assistant to the Vice-president for University development.

After teaching English at University of Pittsburgh, where he received the MA in 1926, Howes went to Washington University where he was assistant professor of English and director of forensics, journalism teaching, and the news bureau. He returned to Cornell in 1936 as assistant to Archie M. Palmer '18 in the Cornellian Council office; then became assistant to Dean S. C. Hollister, Engineering; transferred to the Provost's office; and was acting Director of Public Information when in 1943 he was commissioned a lieutenant, USNR, and ordered to duty in the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington. There he was associated with Captain Arthur S. Adams, USN, and became officer-in-charge of the College Training Section which administered the Navy V-12 program, and was commended by the Secretary of the Navy.

Son of the late C. B. Howes who was at one time University Photographer and nephew of Professor E. B. Titchener, Psychology, Howes entered Arts and Sciences in 1920 from Elmira Free Academy with State Cash and Tuition Scholarships. He was instructor in Public Speaking as a Senior, was on the Varsity debate team and on the boards of the Era and Literary Review, and was a member of Scorpion. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, Quill and Dagger, and Delta Sigma Rho; editor and co-author of three books.

New Vice-president, Treasurer

Because of the University's greatly-expanded business and financial-operations, the Trustees approved a division of the functions which have heretofore been directed by the University Treasurer.

George F. Rogalsky '07, (above) who has been Treasurer since 1920, became February 1 Vice-president-business. He supervises the entire business administration of the University, including management, additions to, and maintenance of the buildings and grounds, operation of residence and dining halls, of University-owned utilities and services such as purchases, stores, and service divisions; and supervision of non-academic employees. These operations for the endowed Colleges in Ithaca last year involved expenditures of more than $3,000,000.

Rogalsky was appointed Treasurer of the University in May, 1920, succeeding the late Charles D. Bostwick '92 who was then also Comptroller. For a year following Bostwick's death in 1938, he was also Comptroller, until that office was abolished. He had previously represented New York City investment concerns in Ithaca and was for two years assistant cashier of the Tompkins County National Bank. He entered Arts in 1904 from North Tonawanda High School and received the AB in 1907, was a graduate assistant in History, and studied in the Law School. He was on the Era board and is a member of Delta Chi and Phi Beta Kappa; was for ten years an Ithaca alderman and is a director of the Tompkins County Trust Co. His brother is Fred A. Rogalsky '16; children, Mrs. George A. Vikre (Elizabeth Rogalsky) '39, Mrs. Robert T. Horn (Margaret Rogalsky) '42, and George F. Rogalsky, Jr. '46.

Now Treasurer of the University is Lewis H. Durland '30 (above). He is in charge of financial affairs, including control of all funds and securities, supervision of investments with the investment committee of the Board of Trustees, and University accounting. Durland joined the Treasurer's office in 1936, became secretary of the Trustees' finance committee the next year, and has been Assistant Treasurer since 1939 and secretary of the present investment committee administering the University's portfolio of some $40,-000,000.

Durland entered Arts in 1926 from Watkins High School and received the AB in 1930. He was manager of baseball, is a member of Chi Phi and Quill and Dagger. For three years he was with Treman, King & Co. in Ithaca, then became assistant trust officer of the Tompkins County Trust Co. and later was with investment companies here. He is a director of the First National Bank of Ithaca and of Thatcher Glass Manufacturing Co. in Elmira. Mrs. Durland, a graduate of Sweet Briar, took a special course in Agriculture in 1939; she is a sister of Champ Carry '18.

Women Brave Snow

FIFTY alumnae, students, and prospective students braved the deep snow of Dutchess County December 27 to attend a tea given by the Mid-Hudson Cornell Women's Club at the home of Mrs. Nathan Reifer (Martha Gold) '31 in Poughkeepsie. The president of the Club, Cynthia A. Nickerson '42, introduced as speakers Isabel J. Peard, AM '46, assistant to the Counsellor of Students; Frances C. Corbally '47, librarian of Willard Straight Hall; and M. Shirley Haas '48. Slides of the Campus were shown.

Consider Trustees

COMMITTEE on Alumni Trustee nominations met at the Cornell Club of New York, January 15, for its second session to consider possible candidates for the three vacancies to be filled by alumni ballots this year. The terms of Alumni Trustees George H. Rockwell '13 and Thomas I. S. Boak '14 expire June 30 and that of the late Paul A. Schoellkopf '06, to June 30, 1949, will be filled.

Qualifications of many suggested candidates were considered, including those submitted to the committee by Cornell Clubs and other constituent organizations of the Alumni Association in response to the committee's recent request for suggestions. Chairman H. Victor Grohmann '28 explains that the committee is giving special consideration to finding candidates who are best fitted by experience and training to serve the present needs of the University and can devote the necessary time to Board duties in the next five years. He notes that the committee keeps a continuing file of several hundred names submitted to it, for reference and consideration in relation to the particular personnel needs of the University Board of Trustees as reported to it each year.

From its studies, the committee arranges for nomination of candidates whom it finds to be especially well qualified for the current needs, and their names are submitted in accordance with the University Charter which provides for nomination by any ten degree holders, to the University Treasurer by April 1. Official ballots listing all candidates nominated, together with biographical information about them, will be mailed early in April to all degree holders. These ballots must be returned to the Treasurer by June 7, and results of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in Bailey Hall, June 12. New Trustees take office July 1.

Each of the constituent organizations of the Alumni Association elects a member of the committee on Alumni Trustee nominations, as do the Alumni Trustees on the Board. Besides Grohmann, who represents the Cornell Society of Hotelmen, the meeting was attended by Mrs. Edwin S. Knauss (Dorothy Pond) '18, Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs; Lawrence S. Hazzard '22, Law Alumni Association; Dr. Cassius Way '07, Veterinary Alumni Association; H. W. Peters '14, Alumni Fund Council; Max F. Schmitt '24, Association of Class Secretaries; William F. Stuckle '17, Federation of Cornell Men's Clubs; Mrs. James A. McConnell (Lois Zimmerman) '20, Home Economics Alumnae Association; Earle W. Bolton, Jr. '26, Architecture Alumni Association; Newton C. Burnett '24, district directors of the Cornell Alumni Association; Birge W. Kinne '16, Agriculture Alumni Association; William M. Reck '14, Cornell Society of Engineers; and Dr. Wade Duley '23, Medical College Alumni Association.

Intelligence

By Emerson Hinchliff '14

In these days when many alumni are asking about the quality of instruction at Cornell, comparison with some of our sister universities as to the ratio of students to teachers is interesting. Ernest Whitworth, Associate Registrar of the University, has made such an analysis from figures on total enrolments and size of teaching staffs for all American colleges and universities compiled by President Raymond Walters of the University of Cincinnati and published in School and Society for December 27, 1947. This compilation is published annually by President Walters; it is considered authoritative. His figures on teaching staff include all who teach students.

From these figures, Whitworth has worked out the following ratios of "Students per total staff member" for the universities named: Harvard 5.7 students, Cornell 5.8, Yale 6.9, Pennsylvania 7.9, MIT 8, Rochester 8.3, Stanford 9.3, Dartmouth 9.5, Columbia 9.9, Syracuse 15. (Figures are not available for Princeton.)

Averages for various groups of colleges and universities show 43 privately-controlled universities, 13.4 students per teacher; 48 independent technological institutions, 14.2; 47 publicly-controlled universities, 17.1; 428 independent colleges of arts and sciences, 17.6; 81 independent teachers' colleges, 22.

It will be seen that Harvard and Cornell lead the list with fewest students per teacher, with Cornell averaging only one-tenth of a student more than Harvard. Comparisons with national averages show a really startling "spread."

Of course, we shouldn't be smug about Cornell's showing. For example, any university that includes a medical school will have the statistics weighted in its favor; our Medical College and Nursing School Faculties are about as numerous as their student bodies. On the other hand, I have discovered that our Summer Session diluted the Cornell ratio by injecting 1,585 extra students who were here only for summer school, whereas forty-six extra Faculty members brought in from outside were not included in our staff figures. Also, Cornell reported staff totals for 1946-47 (since increased), but the student figures were those of the fall term of the present school year. So I should say that our report to President Walters was conservative; but others may be on the same basis.

Quantity without quality is, of course, not important. The intangibles in an educational institution are hard to assess. Teaching Quality High Here at Cornell, I would say, we have a first-rate Faculty. We lose good teachers to other institutions for one reason or another, such as more money, more prospects for advancement within their departments, or better facilities for study in their own fields, but we also attract fine men and hold others who could better themselves financially but prefer to live in Ithaca. The Cornell tradition of freedom with responsibility is a big factor in getting and holding good staff members.

Certainly, quantity in staff lightens the individual's teaching load. I am acquainted with enough faculty members elsewhere to know that we compare favorably in that respect. Teaching twelve hours a week, other things being equal, makes for better instruction than a load of eighteen to twenty-four. I understand that twelve hours is the average for our full-time Arts instructors; an assistant working for his PhD will carry fewer.

It is true, of course, that frequently a Freshman coming from a good preparatory or high school finds the technical teaching ability of a young university assistant inferior to that displayed by some of his senior teachers in secondary school. A cogent, even though partial, answer is that university instruction is meant to be different, with emphasis on digging things out for himself, acquiring judgment and the ability to weigh facts. It is not the main function of a university to spoon-feed knowledge. Youngsters (and parents) too frequently lose sight of the fact that a university is commonly called an institution of learning, not one of teaching.

* * *

Out of curiosity, I looked up the School and Society figures of 1940 and was pleased to note that Cornell is changing for the better. In that year the ratio was 7.9 students per teacher, as compared with the present 5.8.

In my time, the term "college man" was descriptive. Now, you need to know what college!

New England Busy

CORNELL Club of New England held two December meetings in Boston, Mass. Head Football Coach George K. James spoke at a football smoker of ninety Cornellians and their friends, December 8 at the Engineers Club. Undergraduates and prospective Cornellians were entertained at luncheon, December 29, at the Boston Yacht Club.

Washington Entertains

WASHINGTON, D. C., Cornell Clubs of men and women combined to give a luncheon for local undergraduates at the Colonial Hotel, December 30. With President Harold A. Merrill '22 of the men's Club presiding, Dr. Robert S. Lamb '94 told the seventy-five Cornellians present of early days at the University. Election of Edson A. Edson '29 as vice-president and Ralph L. Hill, Jr. '31 and Thomas S. Shull '32 as directors of the men's Club was announced. Richard W. Pogue '50 and Ralph C. Williams '50 were elected co-chairmen of a committee to form a club on the Campus of the 135 undergraduates from the Washington area. Committee for the luncheon was headed by Robert P. Bryant '44.

University Provost Arthur S. Adams addressed eighty Cornellians and their families on "The Force of a Cornell Heritage" at a Founder's Day dinner of the Cornell Club and Cornell Women's Club of Washington, January 12 at the Roger Smith Hotel. Greetings were extended by the presidents of the two Clubs, Margaret C. Tobin '35 and Harold A. Merrill '22, and General Alumni Secretary Emmet J. Murphy '22 was also introduced by the toastmaster, Peter Vischer '19. Chairman of the committee was Ralph L. Hill, Jr. '31.

James in Pittsburgh

FIFTY-FIVE high school seniors were guests of the Cornell Club of Pittsburgh, Pa., at a luncheon at the Hotel Henry on December 27.

Guest speaker was Head Football Coach George K. James who discussed the 1947 season and outlined the qualities needed for future Cornell football players.

Class Secretaries Meet

MEN and women secretaries of a score of Classes took steps to further effective Class organizations at a morning work session at the Cornell Club of New York, January 31. This discussion of how Class organizations can be made more effective for all Cornellians and the University was part of the midwinter meeting of the Association of Class Secretaries. With General Alumni Secretary Emmet J. Murphy '22 and Pauline J. Schmid '25 and R. Selden Brewer '40 of the Alumni Office, the secretaries discussed the desirability of improving Class organizations and ways and means. President of the Association, Harry V. Wade '26, presided. A resolution proposed by Max F. Schmitt '24 and unanimously approved suggests that Classes elect officers for five-year terms and urges all Classes to elect by June, 1948, a president, vice-president, Alumni Fund representative, Reunion chairman, Class correspondent, and treasurer, these with the Class secretary to serve as a Class executive committee. Wade, as chairman of the Association committee to revise and distribute a Class Officers' Manual, asked for specific questions that such a handbook should answer and said that it would be completed and available to Class officers.

Business session, at luncheon, elected Charles E. Dykes '36 as president of the Association of Class Secretaries for this year, succeeding Wade. William C. Kruse '38 is vice-president, and Frances W. Lauman '35 and Murphy were re-elected treasurer and secretary, respectively. Wade, Mrs. Robert C. Goelz (Mary Dixon) '38, and William G. Rossiter '37 were elected to serve with the officers as executive committee. Mrs. Goelz was elected an Association director of the Alumni Association, to serve with President Dykes. A resolution memorializing Colonel William G. Atwood, '92 Class secretary who died January 24, was passed. Willard I. Emerson, chairman of the '19 Class ALUMNI NEWS group subscription committee, told of the plan which '19 men originated for 100 per cent subscriptions to the NEWS through Class dues and of its benefits for all Classes and for the University.

Brewer briefly outlined the tentative program for 1948 Class Reunions in Ithaca, June 11-13, and James D. Pond '28, chairman, presented recommendations of his general Reunion committee, based on last year's Reunions. After luncheon, women secretaries and Reunion chairmen for this year met with Miss Schmid to settle details of Reunions next June, and men of this year's Reunion Classes met with Brewer. It was agreed in both groups that Class letters and the ALUMNI NEWS should shortly begin to carry details of the coming Reunions in Ithaca to members of this year's quinquennial Classes for which they are scheduled: '73, '78, '83, '88, '93, '98, '03, '08, '13, '18, '23, '28, '33, '38, '43, and the Two-year Class of '46.

Delaware Women Start

TWENTY-FOUR alumnae attended the organization meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Delaware, January 17 at the Coffee Shop, Wilmington. The Club is the forty-fifth in the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs. Mrs. Laurence V. Smith (Katharine Duddy) '21, 2324 Eighteenth Street, Wilmington 51, was elected the first president of the new Club; Mrs. Frank E. Martin (Margaret E. White) '34, vice-president; Cecilia Metaxas '47, corresponding secretary; Elizabeth A. Lindsay '47, recording secretary; and Mrs. Andrew D. Christie (Carol E. Graves) '45, treasurer. It was agreed to hold meetings at members' homes the last Wednesday of each month.

Guests at the first meeting were Assistant Alumni Secretary Pauline J. Schmid '25 and Mrs. William F. Stotz (Anna Hoehler) '23, vice-president of the Cornell Women's Club of Philadelphia, Pa

ITHACA is off the beaten track.

It's hard to get at. In recent weeks, this remoteness has been a source of comfort to people who live here, for there have been reports current that Albany was eager to create a State university and was looking for an existing institution to build it on and around. Obviously, such a university, if any, should be located close to the center of population, or to the geographical center of the State. This specification, we all felt, made Cornell pretty safe. But naturally, we've been talking about education, public and private, and perhaps you'd like to hear the echo.

It's a fallacy to regard education at the university and postgraduate levels as a good thing for all comers. On the other hand, it should be accepted as a basic principle that when a youngster is discovered of unusual intellectual promise, that youngster, for the good of society, should be given a chance to get the training most likely to develop his talents and without regard to his ability to pay the established price.

But what is education? All human experiences have some educational value. Your reporter long ago learned all anyone needs to know about the social limitations on the exercise of the legal right of free speech while spending one night in the Ithaca jail after talking too much to a sensitive policeman. That was useful information, but east of Stewart Avenue, one can get only the sort of education that is valuable because you can do something with it, or the other kind that is to be appraised on the basis of what sort of a person it makes of you. Neither is to be disparaged.

If you ask what kind of education should be provided by the State for those of its oncoming citizens capable of being benefitted by education above and beyond the public-school level, the answer is, "All kinds, but not necessarily applied in the same institution." The function of a university is not that of an advanced high school, nor that of a kept college designed to preserve inviolate the political, economic, and religious faiths of its controllers and transmit them to posterity uncontaminated by any new ideas.

A true university has many functions, and it is not the least of those functions to create a climate favorable to the growth of intellectual curiosity, a spirit of inquiry, and a dubious attitude toward dogma, together with the ability to endure politely the expressed views of other people, however silly and shocking. Only in such a climate can the scholar develop facility in the useful art of changing his mind.

This free and stimulating atmosphere can exist, and does, alike in the State universities and in the private, endowed institutions. But the former type are regarded as more exposed to the current dangers of (1) uncontrolled growth in size and numbers, (2) the urge to gear the academic standards down to the capacity of the run-of-the-mill output of the public school system, and (3) the temptation to gag free expression of opinion on controversial topics through fear of legislative reprisal. As against that, the endowed institutions, without the resources of the State behind them and shackled by reduced incomes, must court the opulent from time to time, a pursuit which is not helped by the free expression, under their own personal ivy, of extreme views which the United States Chamber of Commerce wouldn't care for much. The price of academic freedom, coupled with solvency, is sleepless nights for the High Command.

What does Cornell want? Your correspondent's guess would be a more comfortable bank balance sufficient to meet its frugal needs and to permit it to take occasional little trips of exploration into the unknown; after that, to be left alone to reorganize its housekeeping, now complicated by unwieldy numbers, to make life a little easier for its worried staff; and to maintain a climate, between the gorges and all the way out to Turkey Hill, stimulating to the growth of thoughtful, independent, and productive activity. But that's just our own individual guess, of course.

Glee Club Enjoys Christmas Trip

BY JOSEPH D. SELLS '49

"Dunc" Sells, who reports on the successful Christmas trip of the Men's Glee Club, is baritone soloist of the Club, member of its quartet, and made a special hit in the show with his rendition of the "Hangover" verse added to the "Song of the Classes."

SATURDAY evening, December 20, fifty-two members of the ninety-voice Cornell Men's Glee Club left Ithaca for points west on the first Christmas trip since 1941. Ten days and nine shows later, these same men, tired but happy, turned and walked from the stage of Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh, Pa., thus furnishing a final curtain to one of the most successful trips in Glee Club history.

The itinerary for the trip was as impressive as that of any professional choral group: December 21, Toledo, Ohio; December 22, Dayton, Ohio; December 23, Cincinnati, Ohio; December 24, Indianapolis, Ind.; December 26, Chicago, Ill.; December 27, Detroit, Mich.; December 28, Cleveland, Ohio; December 29, Buffalo; and finally December 30, Pittsburgh.

In Toledo, after the show which was presented in Macomber High School Auditorium, Glee Club members were taken by their hosts to alumni homes where they were entertained and spent the night. The next morning after an excellent brunch in their hosts' homes, the Club members entrained for Dayton. In Dayton, the show was presented in the beautiful Dayton Art Institute before a capacity audience. After the show, the men of the Glee Club were entertained by alumni at a party in the Hotel Van Cleve. The next morning, Tuesday, December 23, the Glee Club sang for the patients at the Dayton Veterans Hospital before leaving for Cincinnati.

Inspired by the acoustical excellence of Emery Auditorium and the very large and appreciative audience before them, the Glee Club gave one of its finest performances in Cincinnati. At the University Club during the party that followed the show, Thomas B. Tracy '31, director of the Glee Club, delighted alumni and Club members alike with his splendid baritone voice.

December 24, the Glee Club arrived in Indianapolis and sang informally at a tea dance sponsored by the local Cornell Club. Due to lack of staging materials in the Marott Hotel ballroom, the show was split into three separate acts and presented with interims of dancing. Those men who lived in the Mid-west were able, after the show in Indianapolis, to leave the group and spend Christmas with their families. The other Club members went on to Chicago Christmas morning, to be met by alumni and taken to their homes for Christmas dinners and to remain overnight.

Friday, December 26, the Club members reassembled at the Palmer House, where the concert was presented in the grand ballroom. After the show, the performers were guests of Chicago alumni at a party held in the Red Lacquer Room of the hotel. The next morning, Saturday, December 27, the Glee Club sang on a coast-to-coast broadcast of "Tommy Bartlett Time" over the ABC network.

In Detroit that evening, the concert was given in the Book-Cadillac Hotel, after which a dance was given by the Cornell Club for the visitors.

Sunday, December 28, the Club was enthusiastically received by alumni and guests of the Cornell Club of Cleveland and after the concert the alumni sponsored a reception and party for the Glee Club. That the Cleveland concert was in the afternoon made it possible for the travellers to catch up on their rest, an opportunity of which few failed to take advantage.

The concert December 29 in Buffalo was a tremendous success. As one of the Glee Club members remarked after the final curtain, "They loved us in Buffalo!" With such an enthusiastic and receptive audience, the Club couldn't help but be good. The dance following the concert was thoroughly enjoyable to everyone.

Tuesday, December 30, the final presentation of "Here We Are Again" took place before a packed house in Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh. The magnificence of the hall, the generosity of the audience, and the high spirits of the men on the stage combined equally in making this the perfect closing concert.

The success of the trip was due largely to the outstanding organization and direction of Tom Tracy and Lou Donkle '44, student manager of the Glee Club, who worked in direct cooperation with the Cornell Clubs who sponsored the performances. Pat Landon '44, student leader of the Club, did an exceptionally commendable job as did Dave Bancel '46, who wrote the script for the show, and Scott Edwards '48 and Howard Heinsius '50 who provided much of the humor in the varied but well-balanced program.

Chairmen of the sponsoring Cornell Club committees were James M. Acklin '21, Toledo; George C. Gilfillen '43, Dayton; Otto L. Hilmer, Jr. '34, Cincinnati; H. Jerome Noel '41, Indianapolis; Hamilton Vose, Jr. '16, Chicago; William H. Worcester '40, Detroit; Kenneth K. Hackathorn '23, Cleveland; William H. Harder '30, Buffalo; Henry M. Hughes '12, Pittsburgh.

Cornell Engineer

IN The Cornell Engineer for December, Professor Israel Katz, MME '44, Mechanical Engineering, describes "Cornell's Aircraft Powerplants Laboratory" and its courses of instruction, with an editor's caption, "Sibley School Sprouts Wings." Cyrus D. Backus '96, patent lawyer of Washington, D. C., writes on "Engineers and Patent Law." A "profile" of Leroy R. Grumman '16, president of Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., is contributed by Carl P. Irwin '49, and President Carl F. Ostergren '21 of the Cornell Society of Engineers discusses the five-year courses in Engineering.

In the January issue, Reginald H. Keays '95 describes "Expanding the Athens Water Supply System," in which he was chief engineer for the contractors, Ulen & Co., from 1925-31. Under the title, "Training for Leadership," Howard J. Sanders (Samuely) '44, who received the BChemE last June, describes the training program at Calco Chemical Division of American Cyanamid Co., in which he is now engaged at Bound Brook, N. J.

"Blithe Spirit"

DRAMATIC Club offering last month was Noel Coward's crisp-dialogued comedy, "Blithe Spirit." The play was given in the University Theater, January 15-17, and was repeated for Junior Week, February 6 and 7. Producer was Professor Walter H. Stainton '19, executive director of the University Theatre.

Joan A. Rothschild '48 as Madame Arcati, mistress of the séance, stood out in a good cast, which included Richard E. Perkins '48 as Charles, Barbara R. Gottlieb '48 as his second wife, Lucy B. Woodruff '48 as his first wife, Estelle S. Joseph '48 as the maid, James B. Hudders '48 as Dr. Bradman, and Mary E. Utting '48 as Mrs. Bradman. The staging was excellent and special mention must be given for the deft handling of some difficult sound effects.

Women Celebrate

PHILADELPHIA Cornell Women's Club celebrated Founder's Day with a luncheon at the Sheraton Hotel, January 10, with forty-two attending. Ruth F. Irish '22, Alumni Trustee, compared the struggles of the early days at the University with present problems.

Founder's Day tea of the Cornell Women's Club of Pittsburgh, Pa., was January 17 at the College Club. Mrs. Walter D. Brown (Elizabeth Schmeck) '40, Club president, gave an illustrated talk on the costume collection at the College of Home Economics.

Flora Rose, former Director of Home Economics who now lives on the Coast, spoke at a Founder's Day dinner of the Cornell Women's Club of Northern California, January 17 in Berkeley. Thirteen alumnae and four husbands attended. President of the Club this year is Mrs. W. J. Glanister (Dorothy Wright) '29; vice-president, Marian R. Ballin '31; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. N. Forsyth Ward (Janet Nundy) '26.

Letters

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

Too Many Bookworms?

TO THE EDITOR:

Everyone admits that the chief purpose of going to college is to obtain an education, but almost everyone will also admit that partaking liberally in the social, intellectual, and athletic life is also of great importance.

Now that Cornell can select its students from many times as many applicants as can be accepted, it is natural to expect that the average intelligence of the students is higher than it used to be. I wonder if in recognizing this fact, the Faculty may also be increasing the difficulty of the courses and other requirements to the extent that the average student is obliged to spend more time at study than was formerly necessary.

If this is true, it may be that stiff requirements are depriving the students, to a large extent, of the desirable and aforesaid social, intellectual, and athletic pursuits. Is there danger of Cornell being peopled too much with bookworms, or am I crazy?—'14

Credit to Scrubs

TO THE EDITOR:

I read with keen interest and considerable nostalgia of the dinner at the Warwick Hotel, Philadelphia, on Thanksgiving Eve. Having been one of Gil Dobie's "students," I too with "mature appreciation" have never forgotten "the fundamentals he so ably taught me twenty-five years ago."

It must have been a heart-warming occasion and I sure wish I could have been there to renew friendships with twenty-eight out of the thirty-one "iron men." They were a tip-top group of fellows.

Unfortunately, it reminds me also that a part of Cornell was thoughtless and stingy with its athletic awards during a height in its grandeur. Only thirty-one out of approximately 150 players who helped to mold those great football machines received an insignia. The rest haven't even a scrap of paper as evidence of their hours of slaughter to build up or substitute for those "iron-men." I recall one unrewarded who, for at least two of the three years, played a full game while the regular recovered from an ankle injury. Another non-letter man played five out of eight games in one season for nearly half a game at a time while a rewarded man played only one game the entire same season. There were a number of others who well deserved recognition for above-average years, and Cornell cannot be too proud for having allowed them to pass unnoticed.

Strangely enough, although the coach used to recite some kind of a formula at the end of those three seasons, in later years with much poorer material he gave as many letters all in one year.

Not by any means am I attempting to deglamorize those great Varsity "C" men of the early '20s. Rather I am trying to point out that in their rise to fame they had a lot of staunch help from other men who were unrewarded and whose loyalty in later years has remained undimmed.—'24

"Q" Class Agents Meet

ALUMNI FUND representatives of the Classes scheduled for Quinquennial Reunions this year and next gathered at the Cornell Club of New York, January 15. Chairman Willard I. Emerson '19 introduced President Harold T. Edwards '10 of the Alumni Fund Council. He sketched the plan of each Class raising for the Alumni Fund $1,000 for every year out of the University in the two years preceding its Quinquennial Reunions, and said that the program in the 1948 and 1949 Reunion Classes has thus far brought more money to the Fund than in the same period last year. Neal D. Becker '04, chairman of the University Board of Trustees, outlined the current needs of the University and the special importance of Alumni Fund contributions at this time. Suggestions of Class campaign procedures before the fiscal year ends June 30 were made by Emerson, Herbert E. Mitler '08, vice-president of the Fund Council; Tristan Antell, '13 Class representative; and Emmet J. Murphy '22, General Alumni Secretary. Committee members exchanged campaign experiences and recommendations.

Official Delegates

TRUSTEE Ezra B. Whitman '01 represented Cornell University at the inauguration of Earle T. Hawkins as president of Maryland State Teachers College, January 17 at Towson, Md.

Cornell delegate at the inauguration of President John W. Taylor of the University of Louisville, Ky., February 9 and 10, was James A. Kennedy '17, professor of bacteriology and public health in the Louisville University school of medicine.

Basketball Picks Up

BASKETBALL team won five of its last six pre-examination games in January, scoring two of the victories in Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League competition. The team headed into the final stage of the season tied with Columbia for the League leadership. Each had won three games.

Two players returned to strengthen the squad for second-term games: Hillary A. Chollet '48 of New Orleans, Pa., and Paul L. Lansaw '50 of Middletown, Ohio. Chollet, a Varsity regular for two years, was injured in pre-season football practice and withdrew for the first term. Lansaw, the outstanding player on last year's combined Junior Varsity-Freshman team, was also out of school the first term.

Cornell moved into the League tie with Columbia by defeating Harvard, 57-45, in Barton Hall January 10 and Yale, 58-54, at New Haven January 17. It was Cornell's second win over Yale.

In non-League games, Cornell defeated Syracuse, 46-43, January 7; Canisius, 56-51, January 21; and Pittsburgh, 52-40, January 24. All three games were played in Barton Hall.

The lone setback was administered by undefeated New York University in Barton Hall, January 13. The score was 58-53.

The NYU game attracted 6,459 spectators, the largest crowd of the season, and rewarded them richly. They saw Cornell rally from an 18-point deficit with nine minutes left to play. So fast did the action become and so tense the players, that fists were swung and spectators rushed onto the floor in the last minute of the game.

NYU started the game by scoring 20 points before Cornell counted its first field goal, a shot by Captain Robert W. Gale '48. The visitors displayed amazing versatility and skill. But Cornell refused to be counted out. The score at the half was 38-23.

Thomas R. Turner '50 paced Cornell in its second-half rally, scoring four field goals, but Gale was high for the game with 20 points.

The Syracuse game was equally exciting. The visitors spotted Cornell 4 points in the first two minutes, then pulled into a 25-23 lead at the half. Cornell finally went ahead at nine minutes of the second half, 33-32, and held a slim lead the rest of the way.

Gale again led in scoring with 13 points.

The Canisius game was a see-saw affair, with Cornell pulling out its victory in the last eight minutes of play after it had gone ahead, for only the second time in the game, at 47-46. Gale tallied 18 points, and Edward W. Peterson '48 was close behind with 17.

Cornell took command early in the Harvard and Pittsburgh games, holding the lead throughout. Against Harvard, Peterson, the 6-foot, 9-inch center, played his best game of the season, hitting frequently from the pivot and scoring 18 points. Gale also accounted for 18.

In the one game away, at New Haven, Conn., Cornell piled up a 35-19 lead over Yale at the half, then had to fight off a strong rally to preserve the victory. Four Cornell players scored in double figures: Gale 16, Peterson 12, and Edward J. Hodapp '49 and Turner, 11 apiece.

Of its first fourteen games, Cornell won nine and lost five. Captain Gale scored 248 points, followed by Peterson with 144, Turner 95, Hodapp 65, and John F. Rose '50, 58.

In its first seven home games, Cornell played to 38,790 paid admissions.

This is how the League stood as the campaign was resumed early in February:

Cornell	3	0
Columbia	3	0
Princeton	2	1
Harvard	1	2
Dartmouth	1	2
Pennsylvania	1	3

J-V Wins One

The Junior Varsity basketball team won only one of its three January games, defeating Triple Cities College, 51-34, January 10. The team lost a close one, 51-53, to the Syracuse Junior Varsity, January 17, and dropped a 52-62 decision to King's College, January 24. All three games were played in Barton Hall.

Alan Longley '51 was high scorer in two games, counting 24 points against Syracuse and 16 against Triple Cities. William S. Reynolds '50 set the pace against King's College with 20 points.

Frosh Take Three

The Freshman basketball team won three of its five January games, defeating Manlius School twice and the Canisius Freshmen, 64-43, January 21 in Barton Hall.

Syracuse scored a 59-55 victory in Barton Hall, January 7. Two days later, Cornell won over Manlius, 65-52, at Manlius. In the return game in Barton Hall January 17, Cornell won by a wider score, 67-41. In between, Cornell lost to the LeMoyne College freshmen, 46-57, in Barton Hall.

Walter S. Ashbaugh was the top scorer in three of the games. Paul J. Gerwin and Bertram Lebar, III set the pace in the other games.

Wrestlers Win, Lose

WRESTLING team opened its season in Philadelphia January 10 with a 14-12 victory over Pennsylvania and without the guidance of its veteran coach, Walter C. O'Connell '11. O'Connell suffered a cerebral hemorrhage in December and is still at his home. Pat Filley took over the coaching assignment, assisted by David H. Huntington '47.

Seven matches were decided by decision. The one fall, accounting for the 2-point margin of victory, was scored by Joseph W. Calby '51 of Philadelphia, Pa., in the 128-pound class. He pinned Cory with a full nelson in two minutes thirty seconds.

In its next two matches, the team lost. Syracuse won, 19-11, in Barton Hall, January 17, and the US Military Academy won, 19-13, at West Point, January 24. Calby scored another fall in the Syracuse match, pinning Hall with a reverse nelson and crotch hold in 1:33 of the second period. In the Academy match, Calby decisioned Raabe. Cornell scored two falls at West Point, John S. Adams '49 of Deansboro pinning Allen in the 145-pound class and Richard G. Clark '51 of Canastota throwing Davis in the unlimited division.

The Junior Varsity wrestling team achieved a 14-14 tie with King's College, January 24 in Barton Hall, and the Freshman wrestlers lost, 10-26, to the Syracuse Freshmen January 17 in Barton Hall.

Track Team Starts

INDOOR track team made its debut in the West Point Relays in the US Military Academy field house, January 24.

Paul Robeson, Jr. '49 of Enfield, Conn., won the high jump at 6 feet 2½ inches. Co-captain William S. Owen '49 of Bluefield, W. Va., was third in both the 80-yard low hurdles and the broad jump. John E. Servis '49 of Princeton, N. J., was second in the 35-pound weight throw, and Thomas A. Foss '48 of Hinsdale, Ill., tied for third in the pole vault. The 2100-yard relay team of Co-captain Richard A. McCall '48 of Yonkers, Frank C. Slovak '48 of Mansfield, Conn., John F. Craig, Jr. '50 of Montclair, N. J., and John P. Seider '49 of Richwood, N. J., placed second to the Military Academy in the final.

Fencers Take Two

FENCING team won its first two engagements, defeating Buffalo, 18-9, at Buffalo January 16 and the US Military Academy, 15½-11½, in Barton Hall January 24. Against Buffalo, Stuart M. Paltrow '49 of Bay-side, foil; James A. Chase '49 of New York City, epee; and Thomas H. Latimer '49 of Hamilton, Ohio, saber; each won three engagements. Against the Academy these three fencers each won two engagements, along with Marvin Kopp '48 of Jersey City, N. J., foil; John B. Kittredge '49 of Dayton, Ohio, epee; and Hamilton Millard '49 of Asheville, N. C., saber.

Hockey Team Blanked

HOCKEY team failed to score in its first two games. Plagued by lack of practice and scarcity of experienced skaters, the team lost to the US Military Academy, 9-0, on the Dwyer Dam rink January 17 and to Clarkson, 10-0, at Potsdam January 24. A game with Colgate scheduled at Hamilton January 10 was postponed to February 21.

The Freshman hockey team also lost in its only test, 9-1, to the Colgate Freshmen January 17 at Hamilton.

Swimmers Open Season

SWIMMING team defeated Pennsylvania, 41-34, in the Old Armory pool, January 10, then lost by 2 points, 36½-38½, to the US Naval Academy at Annapolis, January 17.

Pennsylvania was beaten in the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay. The relay team of Robert A. Ornitz '48 of Pittsburgh, Pa., Robert K. Dennett '48 of Honolulu, T. H., Robert M. Hill '49 of Durham, N. C., and Captain Richard J. Reynolds, Jr. '49 of Maplewood, N. J., was timed in 3:44.3, only seven-tenths of a second off the pool record.

DeForrest of Pennsylvania won the 100- and 440-yard freestyle races and was timed in 1:00.4 in the breaststroke leg of the medley relay, an unofficial world record.

Other Cornell winners were Captain Reynolds in the 50-yard freestyle, John W. Hosie '49 of East Aurora in diving, Peter L. Wastrom '49 of Norwich, Conn., in the 150-yard backstroke, and Arthur M. Shelton, Jr. '48 of Geneva in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Against the Naval Academy, Hill

won two races, the 100- and 220-yard freestyle. Hosie captured the diving event, and a 400-yard relay team of Ornitz, Dennett, John B. Rogers '49 of Westfield, N. J., and Joseph R. DiStasio '48 of Newark, N. J., won the final event. Hill set a new Cornell record of 0:54 in the 100-yard freestyle. The old record of 0:54.6 was set by David C. Wiley, a Navy trainee, in Hutchinson Pool, Philadelphia, in 1944.

The Freshman swimming team opened its season January 10 at Sampson, losing, 20-46, to Sampson College, then picked up two victories in the Old Armory Pool. They defeated the Colgate freshmen, 43-23, January 17, and Aquinas Institute, 53-13, January 24.

Skiers Second

IN a two-event meet in the Caroline hills January 11, the ski team placed second to Syracuse. The point scores: Syracuse, 192.3; Cornell, 191.2; Penn State, 151.3; Cortland Teachers, 66.3. Cornell won the downhill race with 97.8 points, Leif Arnesen '49 of Trondheim, Norway, placing first in 37.5 seconds. Ansley W. Sawyer, Jr. '48 of Buffalo was first in the slalom, in 1:00.1, but Syracuse won the event with 95.5 points.

Polo Loses Two

ROTC polo team lost twice on a visit to New Jersey, bowing to Princeton, 5-9, January 10, and to West Orange, 10-13, January 11. Captain Albert A. Strouss '46 of Youngstown, Ohio, scored 3 goals in each game.

The Junior Varsity team defeated the Cortland Polo Club, 15-14, in the Riding Hall, January 17.

The Varsity team of Captain Strouss, Charles Gandal '48 of New York City, and Hugh G. Dean '49, son of Dr. Archie L. Dean '13 of Larchmont, will fly to Miami, Fla., February 20, to play the University of Miami in the Orange Bowl there. They will be accompanied by the coach, Dr. Stephen J. Roberts '37, Veterinary Medicine.

For the Record

Robert J. Kane '34, Director of Physical Education and Athletics, was elected chairman of the board of stewards of the Eastern Intercollegiate Rowing Association and president of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League at the annual meetings in New York City in December. January 11, Kane was elected vice-president for District 2 of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which includes colleges and universities in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, the US Naval Academy, and the University of Puerto Rico.

Richard Savitt '50 of East Orange, N. J., No. 1 player on last spring's tennis team, has been ranked No. 5 in the East by the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association. Savitt and Leonard L. Steiner '51 of Brooklyn have been ranked No. 1 in doubles.

Royner C. Greene, basketball coach, has been named to the visual instruction committee of the National Association of Basketball Coaches of the United States.

New York district trials for the US Olympic wrestling team will be held at Cornell between March 15 and April 15.

Edward C. McKeever, head football coach at Cornell in 1945 and 1946, resigned as coach at the University of San Francisco January 24, to become head coach of the professional Chicago Rockets. Allen E. Dekdebrun '47 played for the Rockets last fall.

Joseph R. DiStasio '48, end on the football team and a freestyle racer on the swimming team, received a special award of merit from the Newark, N. J., Athletic Club at a dinner January 22. DiStasio was honored for having assisted in rescuing two boys from drowning last summer.

The American Football Coaches Association voted the Alonzo A. Stagg Award for distinguished contributions to the game of football to Glenn S. Warner '94, Gilmour Dobie, and Robert Zuppke. Warner and Dobie coached at Cornell, among other places, and Zuppke at Illinois.

Cornell and the University of Michigan will resume track competition May 22, after a lapse of sixteen years. The meet will be held on Schoellkopf Field. Michigan's last appearance in Ithaca was in 1932 in Barton Hall, with Cornell the winner, 49½-45½.

Chicago Has Students

UNDERGRADUATE luncheon of the Cornell Club of Chicago, Ill., drew eighty Cornellians including forty-three undergraduate men home for Christmas, as guests. Frank J. Durham '16 introduced the current holders of Chicago Club Regional Scholarships, Norman Dawson, Jr. '46, David L. Brooke '50, and James K. Bell '52. Edward C. Frank, Jr. '41, former Club Scholarship holder now in West Virginia, commented on what the Scholarship had meant to him.

At the regular Thursday luncheon of the Club, February 12 at the University Club, John F. P. Farrar '25, president of Chicago Metal Hose Corp., told of conditions in Europe. He made two trips abroad in 1947.

Veterinarians Elect

FORTIETH annual Conference for Veterinarians was held January 1-3 on the Campus. Almost 350 veterinarians attended the program of professional lectures and demonstrations.

Dr. Frederic F. Fehr '03 of Buffalo was elected president of the Veterinary College Alumni Association and thus becomes a director of the Cornell Alumni Association. Dr. Henry P. Noonan '19 of Akron, O., was elected vice-president and Professor Stephen J. Roberts '37, Veterinary Medicine, is secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Winfield S. Stone '35, retiring president, presented a portrait of Dr. Earl Sunderville '08, professor of Veterinary Anatomy, Emeritus, painted by Professor Kenneth L. Washburn '26, Fine Arts. President Edmund E. Day accepted the portrait for the University.

Williams in Delaware

CORNELL Club of Delaware invited local alumnae to a meeting December 9 at the DuPont Country Club in Wilmington, at which eight school principals were also guests. Fifteen women and seventy men gathered to hear Herbert H. Williams '25, Director of Admissions, describe the work and problems of his office at the University. Arrangements for the meeting were made by the Club secondary schools committee, of which John M. Clark '29 is chairman. Gordon O. Andrews '26, vice-president of the Club, presided.

Executive Group Meets

ALUMNI Association executive committee met at the Cornell Club of New York, January 24, to hear committee reports and carry on the business of the Association. President Elbert P. Tuttle '18 reported his reappointment of members of three standing committees for this year: to the ALUMNI NEWS committee, Phillips Wyman '17, chairman, and Birge W. Kinne '16, Clifford S. Bailey '18, John S. Knight '18, and Walter K. Nield '27; committee on secondary schools, Edward H. Carman, Jr. '16, chairman, Mrs. Bernard A. Savage (Carmen Schneider) '27, vice-chairman, and Clarence J. Pope '10, Charles M. Werly '27, and Charles N. Mellows '33; committee on alumni placement, George N. Brown '08, chairman, and George P. Brockway '11, Sterling W. Mudge '13, Bertha H. Funnell '22, John E. P. Farrar '25, Gordon O. Andrews '26, and Mrs. Thomas A. Morris (Katharine Jacobs) '26.

New members of the executive committee are Henry B. Williams '30, president of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen, elected chairman of the College alumni associations; and William Littlewood '20, elected chairman of the district directors.

Annual meeting of the Alumni Association was set for Saturday, June 12, during Class Reunions, at 10:45 a.m. in Bailey Hall. At this meeting, election of three Alumni Trustees of the University and of district directors of the Association will be announced.

Several Join Faculty

NEWCOMER to the University Faculty is John W. Wells, PhD '33 (above), as professor of Geology. His most recent work has been for the US Geological Survey on Bikini Atoll studying the effects of the atom bomb. Wells brings with him about half of the two-and-a-half tons of specimens collected from the atoll. Of the amount already classified, more than 175 varieties of reef coral have been identified. Wells entered the Graduate School in 1928, after receiving the BS at University of Pittsburgh, Pa. He studied abroad as a National Research Council Fellow; has been a member of the geology department at Ohio State University since 1938. Mrs. Wells was Elizabeth Baker '28.

In the College of Engineering, Hans F. Mayer has been appointed professor of Electrical Engineering. He took the PhD at the University of Heidelberg in 1921 and became director of the Siemens & Halske Central Laboratory in Berlin, Germany. Imprisoned by the Nazis in 1943, he remained in a concentration camp until the end of the war; has since been doing special work for the US War Department.

Herbert F. Wiegant is assistant professor of Chemical Engineering. At Purdue University he received the BS in Chem E in 1938, the MS in 1939, and the PhD in 1941. He was for four years with the Armour Research Foundation, affiliated with Illinois Institute of Technology.

In the College of Arts and Sciences, Vladimir Nabokov is associate professor of Russian Literature. Receiving the BA with honors at Cambridge University in 1922 he taught in Berlin and Paris and at Stanford University, and in 1945 inaugurated the Russian department at Wellesley.

Associate professor in the Department of Physics and Laboratory of Nuclear Studies is Bruno Pontecorvo. He received the Certificate of the University of Pisa in 1930 and the PhD Cum Laude of the University of Rome in 1934. Since 1943, he has been director of the Tube Alloys Division, Department of Atomic Energy, Chalk River, Canada.

Glenn H. Beyer is professor of Housing and Design in the College of Home Economics. In 1935 he received the AB at Augustana College and in 1939 the AM at George Washington University. For ten years he was in the Federal Housing Administration and National Housing Agency, and last year was director of the contract performance division, Office of the Housing Expediter, Washington, D. C.

Professor of Agricultural Engineering is Cyril W. Terry '26. He received the ME in 1926, the MME in 1929, and the PhD in 1947. Formerly instructor in Engineering, in 1945 he was acting head of the Department of Aeronautical Engineering and since 1946 has been a research associate in Agricultural Engineering. His daughter is Joyce L. Terry '49.

John D. Hartman, PhD '33, is professor of Vegetable Crops. He received the BS at Pennsylvania State College in 1930, the MS and the PhD at Cornell in 1931 and 1933; has been at Purdue since 1937.

New associate professor of Animal Husbandry is John T. Reid, formerly director of research at the Dairy Research Station of Rutgers University in Sussex, N. J. He received the BS with honors at the University of Maryland in 1941, the MS in 1943 and the PhD with distinction in 1945 at Michigan State College.

John G. Matthyse, PhD '43, is appointed associate professor of Economic Entomology. He received the BS at Iowa State College in 1940 and was entomologist with Geigy Co., Inc. and J. T. Baker Chemical Co. in New Jersey.

Joining the Veterinary Faculty as professor of Therapeutics and Small Animal Diseases is Dr. Ellis P. Leonard '34. He received the BS at Rutgers in 1929 and the DVM here in 1934. He taught at Kansas State College; the last ten years has been chief surgeon at the Summit, N. J., Dog and Cat Hospital.

Hear Radio Speaker

BINGHAMTON Cornell Women's Club met January 22 at the home of Mrs. Lee C. Hensley (Helen Maloney) '34 and heard Charles Bishara, WINR program director, describe radio work. Mrs. William A. Young (Margaret Boardman) '40 was co-hostess to the sixteen members who attended.

Club Elects Officers

FIFTY alumni and undergraduates attended a Cornell Club smoker, December 30 at the Dutch Cabin in Poughkeepsie. Allen Webster '44, commodore of the crew this year, spoke briefly.

New president of the Cornell Club of Dutchess County is William T. Taylor '15, whose office is at 34 Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie. Edwin S. Ham '15 was elected vice-president and Howard W. Haring '42, secretary-treasurer.

Bradley '26 Joins Fund

NEW member of the Alumni Fund staff in Ithaca is H. Hunt Bradley '26. He began in January as assistant secretary of the Fund, to assist Class representatives in organizing their committees for personal solicitation for the Fund.

Bradley is a former treasurer of the Class of '26 and has been the Class representative for the Alumni Fund since 1945. He has long been engaged in public relations and fund raising, first with civic organizations in Providence, R. I., where he was in the investment and insurance business, in Baltimore, Md., with the Tax Foundation, for three years in the public relations department of General Motors Corp. in New York City, and recently as Eastern regional manager of the Transportation Association of America. He was vice-president of the Cornell Club of New England for Rhode Island, vice-president of the Lackawanna Cornell Club of New Jersey, and has been a governor and chairman of the activities committee of the Cornell Club of New York.

Bradley entered Arts and Sciences in 1922 from Moses Brown School, Providence, winning an Undergraduate Scholarship. He was manager of the track team that went to England for an Oxford-Cambridge meet in 1926 and president of the ICAAA, and for several years thereafter officiated at Intercollegiate championship meets in the East. He is a member of Alpha Delta Phi and Quill and Dagger; brother of Dr. Charles Bradley '25. Mrs. Bradley is the former Margaret Cornell, who was in the University Placement Bureau office in Ithaca until their marriage in 1941.

Back When...

(Reprinted from the ALUMNI NEWS of earlier days.)

Twenty-three Years Ago

February, 1925—"This year's crop of Junior Week girls ran noticeably to short sizes. Here and there you could pick out a corn-fed goddess and there was a sprinkling of welterweights; but the general run was made up of peewees measuring five feet over all and grading about twenty to the ton.

"Fashions and tastes in girls change just as they do in straw hats, and girls are one of the many things about which students do not desire information or advice. Offhand, you might say this is nobody's business but their own; but the public interest is distinctly involved. If any substantial number of these Junior Week couples become married in due course, the Classes of 1948 and '49 will be extremely rich in coxswains but almost wholly devoid of tackles and shotputters." —R. B. in "Sport Stuff"

Thirty-five Years Ago

February, 1913—"No longer may undergraduates sleep in Goldwin Smith Hall the night before registration in order to secure a desirable schedule. A new rule this year obliged any who should be found in the building when the Proctor formed the line, about eight o'clock, to take their place at the end of the line. Needless to say, none such were found. When Lieutenant Twesten appeared soon after 7:30 o'clock, 800 undergraduates were already in line before the front door. He led the line around to the south door to which he had the key, and the rush began. By half-past eight, 1500 had been registered. As usual, many who had no one to appear for them presented themselves in the costume they had worn to the Junior Promenade."

St. Louis Gathers

FORTY attended a meeting of the Cornell Club of St. Louis, Mo., December 18, at the University Club. They heard Edward K. Graham, PhD '38, assistant dean of the faculties at Washington University, speak on "Current Trends in College Education and Athletics." Edgar M. Queeney '19 showed his color movies of wild ducks.

Philippines Club Elects

CORNELL Club of the Philippines met for dinner in Manila, November 15, and heard recent news of the University from Captain Edwin G. Moran '37, newly assigned to Company B, 58th Engineer Combat Battalion, at Camp Angeles.

A previous "Reunion" luncheon in August at the Wack Wack Golf and Country Club was attended by thirty-five alumni, including Mrs. Keets C. Baker (Gertrude Kellogg) '11. At that meeting, Meneleo G. Carlos '24 was elected president of the Club and Gonzalo T. Abaya '26, secretary.

Barker '44 Joins Staff

NEW name in the "masthead" above, beginning this issue, is that of John C. Barker, Jr. '44, assistant editor of the ALUMNI NEWS. He was a reporter on The Canon City, Colo., Daily Record. For the News, he will gather and write news of the University, write the column "Back When . . ." and the page "On the Campus and Down the Hill," and do the make-up. He succeeds John H. Detmold '43, who went to Wells College in December as director of public relations.

Son of the late John C. Barker '12 of Cleveland, Ohio, Barker entered Arts and Sciences in 1940 from Western Reserve Academy. He was elected to Red Key and to the Cornellian board; left for the Army in 1943 and was on active duty for forty-two months. He was commissioned a second lieutenant of Field Artillery at Fort Sill, Okla., in August, 1944; served in New Guinea and with the First Cavalry in the Philippines as forward observer and survey officer, and as battalion Intelligence officer in Japan. He came out of the Army as a captain in October, 1946; returned to the University, and received the AB in February, 1947. He is a member of Theta Delta Chi and Sphinx Head. His step-brother is Kenneth B. Sadler '39

1948 Cornellian is headed by Mary E. Mears '48 of Merion, Pa., editor; and Leonard Harris '48 of Rochester, business manager.

Trustees Speak

JOINT Founder's Day dinner of the Cornell Club and the Cornell Women's Club of Albany, January 12 at Herbert's Restaurant, was attended by seventy-five alumni. Speakers were Ruth F. Irish '22, president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs and Alumni Trustee of the University, and C. Chester DuMond, State Commissioner of Agriculture and a Trustee of the University. They were introduced by Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20, who is chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board.

Geologists Gather

ANNUAL meeting of the Geological Society of America December 28-31 in Ottawa, Canada, was attended by a busload of Geology Department Faculty and graduate students.

A highlight was a Cornell luncheon at the Chateau Laurier, December 28, at which George B. Langford, PhD '30, of University of Toronto, was toastmaster. Professors W. Storrs Cole '25, Department chairman, and James D. Burfoot, PhD '29, told briefly of the Department and the University. George H. Ashley '89, Pennsylvania State Geologist, retired, the oldest alumnus present, also spoke. Alumni from distant points included Walter A. Ver Wiebe, PhD '18, from University of Wichita, Kans.; John L. Rich '06, University of Cincinnati, Ohio; and Arthur L. Howland '29 of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Cornell Plantations

AUTUMN issue of The Cornell Plantations contains An Appreciation of Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey, Agriculture, Emeritus, by Andrew S. Wing, executive secretary of the National Garden Institute, whose Liberty Hyde Bailey Medal will be awarded to youthful gardeners. Professor Alfred M. S. Pridham, PhD '33, Ornamental Horticulture, in this issue "Urges Care with 2,4-D;" Professor Robert M. Smock, Pomology, writes on "Johnny Appleseed by One Who Knew Him," about an 1875 MS by W. M. Glines; and Professor Walter King Stone, Architecture, Emeritus, writes on "Chestnutting." The pamphlet contains a two-page map of the Cornell Plantations.

Winter number contains a description and pictures of the Calcutta Botanic Garden by Bernard E. Harkness '29; an estimate of "Luther Burbank: Hero or Faker?" by Professor Smock; "Oaks on Long Island" by Professor Walter C. Muensch, PhD '21, Botany; and an essay on "Hunting and Woodchucks" with two paintings reproduced by Professor Stone. Center spread is an airplane view of the Campus and area to the eastward which will be used for the Cornell Plantations.

On The Campus and Down the Hill

"If labor-management relations can be improved in the classroom, the New York State School of Labor and Industrial Relations at Cornell University . . . is sure to play a significant role in improving them."—Edward J. Nickel in February 8 Parade, Sunday newspaper supplement, in a two-page illustrated story.

Cover girl for January 26 Life magazine is Wendy Burden, granddaughter of Ernest I. White '93 who is a nephew of Andrew D. White, first Cornell President.

Faculty-student panel discussed universal military training January 19, with Dean of the Faculty Carlton C. Murdock, PhD '19, as moderator. Advocating training were Professor Arthur E. Sutherland, Jr., Law; Paul Brainard, president of the First National Bank of Ithaca; and Burton B. Roberts '49. Opposition was voiced by Professors Phillip Morrison, Physics, and Harrop A. Freeman '29, Law, and Irving Sabghir '49.

President of the Business and Public Administration Student Association is Peter P. Miller, Jr. '44 of Schenectady, son of P. Paul Miller '18 and Mrs. Miller (Sara Speer) '21. Stewart A. Sailor '46, son of Charles M. Sailor '16 of Hinsdale, Ill., is vice-president; and Jane E. Knauss '45, daughter of Edwin S. Knauss '20 and Mrs. Knauss (Dorothy Pond) '22 of Poughkeepsie, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Speaker at a January 15 dinner meeting of the Association was John P. Syme '26, vice-president and assistant to the chairman of the board of Johns-Manville Co. and vice-president of the Alumni Fund Council.

Clinton House at Cayuga and Seneca Streets, a landmark in Ithaca for 116 years, has been sold by Elmer C. Starner and his son, William, to Charles A. Foote, storeroom manager for Residential Halls, and Michael LoPinto, Ithaca lawyer. The new owners plan to restore the hotel's once-famous dining room and coffee shop. Although both the Tompkins House and the Ithaca Hotel are older, the Clinton House was built to outclass the inns and taverns of the day. In 1860, Ezra Cornell purchased a two-thirds interest in the hotel, which he later deeded to the University. Fire destroyed the roof and fourth story in 1901, and in 1920

Starner acquired the property at a bankruptcy sale.

"Cheers for the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS which frankly lists the names of 36 students who have received scholarships ranging from $50 to $500."—"The Powerhouse" by Jimmy Powers in the January 14 New York Daily News. (These were the holders of Cornell Club Scholarships, published last November 1.—Ed.)

Livestock judging team from the College of Agriculture took second place behind Iowa State among thirty college competitors at the International Livestock Show in Chicago, Ill., and was the only team to place three men in the top ten. Among the 150 contestants, Germain B. Marion '46 of Hammond scored fourth; Bernard F. Stanton '49, son of Rhodell M. Stanton '15 of Greenville, sixth; and A. Joseph Fairbank '46 of Ashville scored ninth and took first place in judging beef cattle. The team, coached by Professor John I. Miller, PhD '36, Animal Husbandry, outjudged all competitors at the Eastern States Exposition last September and at the Eastern National Livestock Exposition at Baltimore, Md., in November.

Young Republican Club has been organized on the Campus, with Joseph J. Rose '50 of Albany as president. Chartered by the National Young Republican Clubs, it is one of five on college campuses.

AFTER suspending publication during examinations, the Cornell Daily Sun burst forth February 7 with a tabloid issue proclaiming a "Revolution of Society" with women taking official control. Covering the front page was a picture of "Miss Yumus Beamish" taken as she threw her hat into a ring occupied by the headpieces of Candidates Truman, Dewey, and Wallace, who were sketched as chagrined onlookers. On the inside pages, "pictures"—photographed heads on scantily-clad cartooned bodies—depicted women as traffic cops, brokers, and steelworkers under the new "Girdle the World Movement" which claimed considerable "support." Other pictures showed the organization of the MSGA to supervise the defenseless men, and a Cornellian "signing out" for a date while his girl escort waited impatiently.

TIME for December 29, writing on the so-called Army method of teaching college students foreign languages with phonograph records, says: "Cornell was already convinced, now uses the Army method exclusively to teach seven languages. In groups of ten, Cornell students listen to the records until they are blue in the face; they put in 120 such 'contact hours' a semester. Cornell figures that new-method undergrads cover twice as much linguistic ground as by old methods." Commenting, Professor J. Milton Cowan, Director of the Division of Modern Languages, who helped to devise the method for the Army, says: "What Cornell is doing is exciting and experimental, but Time's description of it is not entirely accurate. Our 'contact hours' in groups of ten students are with native speakers of the languages, and phonograph records are used as supplemental devices or outside aids to learning."

WHCU-FM power output was boosted to 40,000 watts, the most powerful in the East. Its 10,000-watt amplifier is the biggest piece of FM equipment made by Western Electric. WHCU received second prize in a community service competition sponsored by the University of Chicago Radio Workshop for its "CURW Radio Forum."

Bus line making three trips daily between Ithaca and Auburn via Aurora has been opened by George T. Wood of Aurora. Besides being convenient for commuters, the line will simplify the transportation problem of undergraduates who do sociological research at Wells.

Independent Council elected Alexander T. Stark '43 of Irvington, N. J., president; Herman Horowitz '49 of Yonkers, vice-president; Sara Jane Walter '49 of Buffalo, treasurer; and Joan D. Hall '45 of Mineola, secretary.

Sun editor Harold Raynolds, Jr. '46 was re-elected president of the Cornell chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society. Richard F. Koppe '45 of Dayton, Ohio, editor of The Widow, was named vice-president; Alfred N. Schwartz '47 of Brooklyn, managing editor of the Cornell Countryman, is secretary; and Professor James S. Knapp '31, Extension Teaching and Information, was re-elected treasurer. Sixteen new members were elected to the society.

The Faculty

University Trustee H. Edward Babcock has been made a member of the public advisory committee of the Advertising Council, composed of the principal advertisers and advertising agencies in the United States.

Walter S. Carpenter, Jr. '10, former University Trustee, was elected January 20 chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., moving up from the presidency which he held since 1940. He succeeds Lammot du Pont. Carpenter has been with the Du Pont company since 1909, became a director, member of the executive committee, and vice-president in charge of the development department in 1919, was elected treasurer and a member of the finance committee three years later, and advanced to chairman of the finance committee in 1930. He was the second man not of the Du Pont name in the firm's history to become its president.

Alumni Trustee George H. Rockwell '13, director of the Associates of the Harvard Business School, was named December 23 Massachusetts State fuel co-ordinator by Governor Robert F. Bradford, to put into operation a voluntary fuel conservation program in the State.

American Institute of Cooperation bestowed one of its first annual distinguished service awards, "for exceptional contribution in achieving better understanding between rural and urban America," upon University Trustee Victor Emanuel '19, chairman of the board of Avco Manufacturing Corp. Ten awards were made January 7 at the Institute's annual meeting in Chicago, Ill. Dean William I. Myers '14, Agriculture, was re-elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Institute.

University Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20, chairman of the New York State Workmen's Compensation Board, speaking before the District of Columbia Women's Bar Association, January 26 in Washington, D. C., declared that politics and good government are increasingly the responsibility of women. "Government is nothing but public housekeeping," she explained, "and politics is the home economics of public housekeeping." In the last 100 years women have fought for their rights, she said. "The next 100 years will be devoted to accepting their responsibilities."

University Trustee John L. Collyer '17, president of the B. F. Goodrich

Co., Akron, Ohio, recently suggested that the European Recovery Program be altered to increase food production there and reduce goals for industrial expansion in Great Britain and certain countries on the continent, saying that he doubted United States's ability to feed Europe for four years. A member of President Truman's Committee on Foreign Aid which drafted the Harrison report on this country's ability to meet a program presented in the Marshall Plan, Collyer made the suggestions in a letter to Senator Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate foreign affairs committee, and to Representative Eaton, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee.

Harry G. Stutz '07, editor and manager of the Ithaca Journal, has been re-elected librarian of the Cornell Library, downtown, and thereby continues as an ex-officio Trustee of the University.

Dean Cornelis W. de Kiewiet, Arts and Sciences, returned in mid-December from South Africa, where he went last August to visit the universities in that country for the Carnegie Foundation. This was his first trip back to South Africa, where he lived for twenty-three years. Two days after Professor de Kiewiet arrived at his home in Johannesburg, his father died.

Whitman Daniels, assistant to the President in charge of public relations, has been elected district director for New York and New Jersey of the American College Public Relations Association.

Professor Frank A. Southard, Jr., chairman of the Department of Economics, now on a year's leave of absence in Washington, D. C., as director of the Office of International Finance of the Treasury Department, is one of seven experts principally responsible for preparation of the European Recovery Program. He and his colleagues worked with Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovell in drafting the program. During Professor Southard's absence, Professor Harold L. Reed, PhD '14, is acting chairman of Economics.

Dr. Felix Reichmann, who came to the University Library last March as acquisition librarian, fills also a newly-created position as assistant director in charge of technical services, with responsibility for administration of the acquisition department, the combined catalog and classification departments, and binding of periodicals.

Professor Marshall W. Stearns, English, gave three lectures in January at the University of Illinois. His principal lecture, before the English department, was a summary of his research in 15th Century literature. His findings are to be published shortly by Columbia University Press under the title, A Study in Robert Henryson. Professor Stearns also spoke to students of the music school on "Afro-American Folk Music," and discussed folk music before a group at the University student union.

The Constitution and Civil Rights, by Professor Milton R. Konvitz, PhD '33, Industrial and Labor Relations, has been selected by the Chicago Council Against Racial and Religious Discrimination for its 1947 Chicago-Land Honor Award.

Dr. Margaret Dann, PhD '32, on leave of absence from the Medical College since July 1, 1946, has returned as assistant professor of Pediatrics from work with the American Friends Service Committee in Europe.

Director William R. Sears of the Graduate School of Aeronautical Engineering was named January 26 to the advisory council of the Congressional Aviation Policy Board. The same day, he was inducted as a fellow of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences in New York City.

Professor Wayne W. Umbreit, Bacteriology, has resigned and joined the staff of Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research, Rahway, N. J., as head of the enzyme chemistry department. Professor Umbreit came from University of Wisconsin, in 1944 as acting associate professor; was made associate professor in 1945 and professor in 1946.

Director Lloyd R. Simons '11, Extension Service, has been cited by the Nassau County Farm Bureau "for outstanding service to agriculture in our county, state, and country," and in appreciation, was given a desk set. Director Simons, the first county agent in Nassau, in 1914, helped to develop the widely-adopted "Nassau Plan" of using local leadership to analyze and solve farm problems.

Professor H. Darkes Albright, PhD '36, assistant director of the University Theatre, was elected in December president of the American Educational Theater Association.

University Faculty has elected Professor Hadley C. Stephenson '14, Veterinary, to the Board on Physical Education and Athletics for three years beginning January 1. Professor Robert Dalton, Home Economics, is elected to the Board on Student Health and Hygiene for three years, and Professor Harold H. Williams, PhD '33, Biochemistry, for two years.

"Festskrift," a congratulatory honor, was given to Professor Halldor Hermannsson, curator, emeritus, of the Fiske Icelandic Collection, on his seventieth birthday, January 6. A volume of essays by ten Icelandic authors, dedicated to him and containing tributes from 100 scholars, was presented to him at the Icelandic Consulate in New York City.

Professors Edward A. Suchman '36 and Louis G. Guttman, Sociology and Anthropology, offered "A Solution to the Problem of Question 'Bias'" in the fall issue of the Public Opinion Quarterly, published at Princeton.

Engagement of Mrs. Marion Mead Crain to US Senator Irving M. Ives, former Dean of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, was announced January 3. Mrs. Crain, the widow of Alfred V. Crain of Buffalo, has been secretary to Senator Ives for thirteen years. Mrs. Ives died last summer.

Interviewed by Professor Louis W. Kaiser, Extension Teaching and Information, on the CBS "Country Journal" program, January 10, Mrs. Edith M. Fox, AM '45, acting curator of the University Collection of Regional History, related amusing incidents of tracking down old documents and told of their importance.

In appreciation of his more than thirty years of service to potato growers of New York State, Professor Earle V. Hardenburg '12, Vegetable Crops, was presented with a gold watch by the Empire State Potato Club at a meeting of the State Vegetable Growers' Association in Syracuse, January 8.

Professor John M. Wild, Aeronautical Engineering, reported on research in aerodynamics carried out at the University during the last year, at a meeting of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences in New York City, January 29. He spoke on "The Laminar Boundary Layer of Yawed Infinite Wings."

Milton R. Shaw '34, University Manager of Residential Halls, and Mrs. Shaw (Ruth McCurdy) '37 have a son, William Roberts Shaw, born in Ithaca, January 17.

Technical Sergeant Frank H. Page, who has been detailed to the University ROTC since 1932 except for two years in the China, Burma, India Theatre, has retired from active duty after twenty years in the Army. He continues, however, as a civilian equitation instructor, assistant polo coach, and supervisor of the ROTC stables.

Americans consumed three times as much ice cream during World War II as during World War I, Professor Arthur C. Dahlberg, Grad '27-8, Dairy Industry, pointed out at a National Dairy Council meeting, January 23 in Milwaukee, Wis. Postwar gains also have been striking, he said.

Professor Laurence H. MacDaniels, PhD '17, Horticulture, has been elected chairman of trustees of the First Unitarian Church in Ithaca.

Three of Faculty Die

DEATH took three members of the Faculty last month.

Director William Lindsay Malcolm, PhD '37, of the School of Civil Engineering, died January 18 in Ithaca, after a short illness. Funeral services were in Sage Chapel. A native of Mitchell, Ont., Dr. Malcolm came as Director of the School of Civil Engineering in 1938 from Queens University, Kingston, Ont., where since 1907 he had been assistant professor of civil engineering and professor of municipal engineering. He received the AM in 1905 and the BS in CE in 1907 at Queens; the MCE in 1934 and the PhD in 1937 at Cornell.

An authority on sanitary engineering, he had been city engineer of Stratford, Ont., associate city engineer of Guelph, Ont., and a consultant on Canadian highway and building programs. During World War I, he was overseas five years and became a lieutenant colonel in the Canadian Army Engineers. He was a member of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, Chi Epsilon, Tau Beta Pi, and professional societies of Canada and the United States. Mrs. Malcolm survives. They lived in Ithaca at Greycourt Manor.

Professor Charles Ernest Hayden '14, Veterinary Physiology, died January 25 in Memorial Hospital after being stricken that morning while shoveling snow at his home, 110 Irving Place.

Born in Syracuse, Ohio, he received the AB at Ohio University in 1910; came to Cornell in 1909 as a graduate assistant in Veterinary Physiology, and received the DVM in 1914. He was appointed instructor in 1910, assistant professor in 1914, and professor in 1929.

A member of Phi Zeta, Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, and several professional societies, he was known for his research in the metabolic disorders of animals, and was a leader in laboratory diagnosis. Professor Hayden was secretary-treasurer of the New York State Veterinary Medical Society for fourteen years, then treasurer for seven. He was business manager of the Cornell Veterinarian and contributed many articles to technical journals. Mrs. Hayden survives. Their daughter is Mrs. Theodore T. Howes (Ruth Hayden) '33.

Professor Vladimir Karapetoff, Electrical Engineering, Emeritus died January 11 in New York City, where he lived at 170 West Seventy-sixth Street. Although blind since 1943, he continued active as an engineering consultant, lecturer, and pianist. Born in Leningrad, Russia, Professor Karapetoff received the EE and the MEE at the Institute of Ways of Communication in Leningrad. After being a consulting engineer for the Russian Government and an instructor of electrical engineering and hydraulics in three St. Petersburg colleges, he came to the United States in 1902 and was an engineering apprentice at Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. until 1904, when he came to Cornell as assistant professor of electrical engineering. He was made professor in 1908 and professor emeritus in 1939.

Professor Karapetoff was a member of the United States Naval Institute, the United States Naval Reserve Officers Association, the advisory board of the US Naval Academy, the board of trustees of Ithaca College, Sigma Xi, and professional societies; received the honorary DMus at New York College of Music and the honorary DSc at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. In 1923, he was awarded the Montefiore Prize and in 1927 the Elliott Cresson Gold Medal of the Franklin Institute, both for kinematic models of electrical engineering. He constructed a five-string cello, on which he played violin music. Research editor of The Electrical World from 1917-26, he wrote many engineering texts and just before he became blind, completed a book on relativity, Relative Humidity in Hyperbolic Functions. The first Mrs. Karapetoff died in 1931. Professor Karapetoff married again in 1936.

News of the Alumni

Personal items and newspaper clippings about Cornellians are earnestly solicited

'91 CE—John A. Knighton, former chief engineer of the New York City Department of Plant and Structures, retired since January 1, 1938, lives at 39 Archer Drive, Bronxville 8.

'91—Press Club of Atlantic City, N. J., honored its only life member, W. Bruce Reid, at a meeting dedicated to him, January 31. Reid celebrated his ninetieth birthday January 26. THE ALIEN AND THE ASIATIC IN AMERICAN LAW provides a critical analysis of the law relating to the alien and the citizen of Asiatic ancestry, treating fully of the status of the American Indian, the Chinese, the Japanese, the East Indian, as well as of the alien and the foreign-born citizen. Exclusion and deportation cases, right of naturalization, land ownership, the status of foreign languages, and related topics are treated. Milton R. Konvitz, the author, is Associate Professor in the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University. 313 pp., $3.00.

FEDERAL PROTECTION OF CIVIL RIGHTS

should interest every citizen concerned with the effect his government may have on his life and the lives of his fellow citizens. The Civil Rights Section of the Department of Justice is described, together with its methods, its victories and its defeats. Concrete suggestions are given for the better development of the Section. The author, Robert K. Carr, is Executive Secretary of the President's Committee on Civil Rights and Professor of Government in Dartmouth College. 296 pp., $3.00.

Purchasing

For more than twenty years Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation has maintained a staff of technically trained representatives to serve its customers throughout the country. Now, more than ever, this policy means time and effort saved for you.

Every Carbide representative is a graduate chemist or chemical engineer. This basic technical knowledge, plus research experience in our laboratories, special training in our home office, and practical knowledge gained in the field, gives our representative the background needed to be of assistance to all three, the men in your plant, your laboratory, and your purchasing department.

When you have problems involving the use, development, or purchase of chemicals, call our nearest office and discuss them with a Carbide representative. And if you would like a copy of our catalog, "Synthetic Organic Chemicals," please address Department "A."

First 'CANCER MOBILE'

"TO make the benefits of x-ray available to more and more people..." That has been the goal of General Electric x-ray specialists since 1913, when the company's energies were first directed into x-ray research by the work of Dr. William D. Coolidge.

Now, with the development of the Cancer Mobile by the combined efforts of the Kentucky division of the American Cancer Society and General Electric, x-ray facilities will be carried into the most remote areas, and to the humblest homes.

The farmer's wife with the lump in her breast, the village store clerk whose voice has dwindled to a hoarse whisper, no longer need live in fear for months wondering whether or not they have cancer. Rural doctors who lack x-ray facilities will use the bus for their private patients. But in addition, those unable to pay will receive free examination.

The Cancer Mobile goes into action along trails of service already marked out by more than fifty mobile tuberculosis-control x-ray buses equipped by General Electric.
