SKELETON OF KIMBALL & THURSTON HALLS DOMINATES WHAT WAS "SAGE GREEN"

Have You Taken This Opportunity for

COLONEL, RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY: "Full support should be given any sound measure designed to encourage inventors and facilitate consideration and further development of their ideas or inventions. It is difficult to conceive of any action that would accomplish more in this direction than that called for in the Sinclair Plan."

CABINET MEMBER: "It should bring to light some valuable ideas which might otherwise not have been known."

AN INVESTMENT COUNSELOR: "I can imagine the great surge of hope now going through the breasts of the young men specializing in this field. 'Here,' they will say, 'is a corporation willing to give us a break.' . . . Its fundamental unselfishness cannot fail to strengthen the faith of those without property. . . . This is opportunity!"

AN AIR FORCE GENERAL: "I have read of your plan for encouraging invention and offering a testing ground for ideas. Such a project seems to me both practical and inspirational!"

Men Who Know the Importance of Independent Invention Encourage You to Use the Sinclair Plan

A MEMBER OF THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF: "The Sinclair Oil Corporation is performing another fine public service in opening its research laboratories to the American inventor. I am confident that the nation will derive many benefits from this selfless service."

PRESIDENT OF LARGE MANUFACTURING CORPORATION: "We all think the plan, which opens wide the doors of your great research laboratories, should indeed encourage individual inventors."

AN AIR FORCE GENERAL: "I wholeheartedly agree that there is a need to help the independent inventor because of the complexity of modern technology and the prohibitive cost of these facilities. Your farsighted plan is a great stride in relieving this situation."

A CABINET MEMBER: "The provisions regarding patents are unique . . . the compensation for your investment of money, time, and facilities would be limited to nonexclusive, royalty-free shop rights for your company."

PRESIDENT OF A BROADCASTING NETWORK: "To make the magnificent facilities of the Sinclair Research Laboratories available to inventive Americans under what would seem to be a very fair arrangement is a constructive and forward-looking step."

PRESIDENT OF A LARGE MANUFACTURING COMPANY: "You have recognized a great need, and have done something objective to overcome it . . . another idea which puts to beneficial use the resources and capacity of a large group."

Advantage of Independent Inventors?

If you have an idea for a new petroleum product—but do not have the facilities needed to develop it—the Sinclair Plan offers you laboratory help.

EIGHT months ago, Sinclair opened up a part of its great research laboratories to independent inventors who had ideas for new or improved petroleum products but who did not have the facilities needed to develop and profit by their ideas.

To date nearly 5,000 inventive people have submitted ideas to the laboratories; and the Sinclair Plan has become recognized as a service to inventors, the oil industry and the public. As a result we have made the Plan part and parcel of the long-range operation of our company.

If you have an idea for a new or improved petroleum product or application, you are invited to submit it to the Sinclair Research Laboratories. In your own interest, each idea must first be protected by a patent application or a patent.

If the laboratories select your idea for development, they will make a very simple arrangement with you: In return for the laboratories' work, Sinclair will receive the privilege of using the idea for its own companies, free from royalties. This in no way hinders the inventor from selling his idea to any of the hundreds of other oil companies for whatever he can get. Sinclair has no control over the inventor's sale of his idea to others, and has no participation in any of the inventor's profits through such dealings.

HOW TO PARTICIPATE: Instructions are contained in an Inventor's Booklet. Write to W. M. Flowers, Executive Vice-President, Sinclair Research Laboratories, Inc., 600 Fifth Avenue, New York 20, N. Y.

IMPORTANT: Please do not send in any ideas until you have sent for and received the instructions.

Classes Start Work for Alumni Fund

EIGHT CLASSES holding Reunions in Ithaca next June have their campaigns well under way for their special Reunion quotas of unrestricted gifts to the Alumni Fund, and most other Classes are organizing for intensive solicitation of all Classmates in April, May, and June.

For the fiscal year which closes June 30, the Alumni Fund Council has set a goal of $650,000 for unrestricted gifts to the University. It is estimated that $250,000 will be realized in credits for payments on unrestricted pledges made to the Greater Cornell Fund and $400,000 is sought in regular Alumni Fund contributions. To February 28, H. Hunt Bradley '26, executive secretary of the Alumni Fund, reports total gifts of $265,395 of which $166,821 is Greater Cornell Fund credits and $98,574 has come directly to the Alumni Fund.

Organizing for the spring campaign, Class representatives for the Alumni Fund are appointing regional chairmen and local committees of the various Classes in thirteen major areas of the United States, each committee to solicit personally all Classmates in its area. Special gifts committees of the Classes will present the needs of the University to those of their Classmates who may be in position to make larger-than-average contributions to the Fund this year.

Reunion Classes Set Pace

Under the leadership of Chairman H. Cushman Ballou '20, the 1952 Reunion Classes Alumni Fund committee has held at the Cornell Club of New York two dinner meetings of the four Reunion Class committees longest out of the University and one such meeting for the four younger Classes, at which plans and procedures were outlined. A final meeting to consider the last stages of these anniversary campaigns has been scheduled for each group in mid-April.

Reunion Class Alumni Fund representatives this year are Charles C. Colman '12 of Cleveland, Ohio, Forty-year Class; Ernest R. Acker '17 of Poughkeepsie, Thirty-five-year Class; Richard K. Kaufmann '22 of New York City, Thirty-year Class; Franklin H. Bivins '27 of Bronxville, Twenty-five-year Class; Bernard L. Falk '32 of Metuchen, N.J., Twenty-year Class; Edward A. Miller '37 of Detroit, Mich., Fifteen-year Class; John C. Eddison '42 of Boston, Mass., Ten-year Class; and Herbert Roth '47 of Dayton, Ohio, Five-year Class.

Bradley reports that the eight Reunion Classes to February 15 had collected $65,793 towards their combined objective of $160,000 as shown in the following tabulation:

CLASS	GOAL	AMOUNT	PERCENT OF GOAL
1912	$ 40,000	$15,909	39.8
1917	35,000	17,905	51.2
1922	30,000	16,915	56.4
1927	25,000	7,321	29.3
1932	10,000	4,569	45.7
1937	5,000	1,568	31.4
1942	3,000	1,016	33.9
1947	2,000	590	29.5

TOTAL $160,000 $65,793 41.1

New this year are reduced quotas for the four younger Classes which have been set at a more realistic figure than the $1,000 for each year out previously used and proved impractical by the last five years' experience.

New Class Representatives

Other men's Alumni Fund Class representatives who are serving for the first time this year are Hugh E. Weatherlow '06 of Ithaca, Newton C. Farr '09 of Chicago, Ill., Robert H. Shaner '14 of Greenville, Pa., Sigurd B. Swanson '21 of Bridgeport, Conn., Walter W. Stillman '29 of Englewood, N.J., John B. Rogers III '45 of Ithaca, Charles C. Hansen '46 of Clarendon Hills, Ill., and Peter H. Rose '51 of Ithaca.

Women's Committees Active

Activity among the Women's Class committees, under the leadership of Mrs. Walter Bacon (Caroline Dawdy) '30, is well under way. A supper meeting for Class representatives in the Metropolitan area was held in Mrs. Bacon's home in New York City, March 3, when organization of the women's Classes was discussed and working plans were prepared for the spring campaign in and around New York.

New women's Class representatives for the Alumni Fund are Mrs. R. W. Shaver (Marion Hess) '17 of Dover Plains, Marie Reith '21 of Jamaica, Mrs. J. C. Hurewitz (Miriam Freund) '43 of New York City, and Mrs. William A. Mitchell (Margaret Newell) '47 South Euclid, Ohio.

Building Fund Grows

WITH A GIFT of $55,000 from Frederick D. Herbert '97, the fund for completion of Kimball and Thurston Halls had reached $509,000 by March 1, toward the $736,000 required. ($1,000,000 had previously been given by industrial firms and individuals.) Alumni Trustee Walker L. Cisler '22, chairman of the alumni committee to complete the fund for the Engineering College Materials laboratories now under construction, has called a meeting of his committee in Ithaca, April 24.

Numbers Drop Slightly

SPRING TERM enrollment of students in Ithaca, through February 25, was 9,004. The figure at the beginning of the fall term was 9,438. With 329 in the Medical College and 201 in the School of Nursing in New York City, total enrollment of the University for the spring term is 9,534. Fall enrollment for all divisions was 9,926.

This is about the usual decrease from fall to spring term, according to Associate Registrar Ernest Whitworth. Ten women and 151 men were dropped at midyear by the Colleges for unsatisfactory work, and fifty-one women and 672 men students are reported as on probation. These numbers have been about the same the last few years, Whitworth says.

Enrolled in the University at Ithaca are 1,990 women and 7,014 men, of whom 15 per cent are veterans. Last spring term, 25 per cent of the men were veterans.

Agriculture has 1,544 students; Architecture, 218; Arts & Sciences, 2,550; Business & Public Administration, 65; Engineering, 1,540; Graduate School, 1,233; Home Economics, 603; Hotel Administration, 357; Industrial & Labor Relations, 306; Law School 352; Nutrition, 24; Division of Unclassified Students, 22; and Veterinary, 190.

"Desire Under the Elms"

AUDIENCES at the University Theater in Willard Straight Hall enjoyed five adept and convincing performances of Eugene O'Neill's tragedy, "Desire Under the Elms," by members of the Dramatic Club, February 21-24. The ethics of presenting the play had been thoroughly aired in letters to the Sun, but those who saw it found it a memorable performance, with novel staging and sincere acting.

The play was directed by Richard C. Morris '52, president of the Dramatic Club, assisted by John H. Siegel '53. An ingenious four-level setting was a cutaway of the Cabot farmhouse for all of the twelve scenes, with lighting effectively used for both "atmosphere" and timing.

Sheila A. Shulman '55 showed great dramatic ability in her portrayal of Abbie, the young wife of old Ephraim Cabot, the hard-fisted Puritan father, who was well characterized by Kenneth S. Berkman '54. Eben, the sensitive and brooding son whose pursuit of his desires leads him to Abbie and the play's final tragedy, was finely drawn by John W. Kotschnig '53. Credible also were Silas W. Pickering III '52 and Franklin B. Sherwood '53 as the more hardened sons, Simeon and Peter Cabot, who go off to California early in the play, after setting the background of understanding for the action that follows.

President Meets Alumni

PRESIDENT DEANE W. MALOTT spoke at Cornell Club gatherings in four midwestern cities the last four days of February, and ended his tour with an address at the annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York, March 1. The President was accompanied by Alumni Secretary R. Selden Brewer '40.

February 26, they attended a tea given by the Cornell Women's Club of Chicago, Ill., at the Cordon Club, where they were introduced to the thirty alumnae present by Mrs. Bernard A. Savage (Carmen Schneider) '27. That evening, about 100 members of the Cornell Club attended a dinner for the President at the University Club. Rudolph E. Prusings '04, president of the Club, presided, and the visitors from Ithaca were introduced by Newton C. Farr '09.

Ninety members of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee, Wis., attended a dinner at the University Club there the next evening. President Carl C. Joys III '39 introduced the speakers.

About ninety Cornellians and wives and husbands were addressed by the President and Brewer at a Cornell Club of Michigan dinner at the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit, February 28. Toastmaster was the Club president, William H. Worcester '40, and Alumni Trustee Matthew Carey '15 presented the speakers.

In Cleveland, Ohio, February 29, the Cornell Women's Club had seventy members to meet the travellers at a tea at the home of Richmond J. Rathbone '28 and Mrs. Rathbone (Marybelle Crow) '28. About 100 members of the Cornell Club attended a dinner at the Union Club that evening, where Club President Gordon F. Stofer '36 was toastmaster and the speakers were introduced by Trustee Floyd R. Newman '12.

Women Gather in New York

The President and Professor George H. Healey, PhD '47, English, spoke to more than 300 persons at the fifty-fifth annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York, March 1 at the Hotel Plaza, in New York City. Theme of the program was "Cornell Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow," Professor Healey speaking on the recently-discovered Diaries of President Andrew D. White and President Malott, on the present and future of the University. Majory A. Rice '29, president of the Club, introduced Alumni Trustee Ruth F. Irish '22 as mistress of ceremonies. At the speakers' table were also Mrs. Malott, several Deans and Trustees, Mrs. Edwin S. Knauss (Dorothy Pond) '18, president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, Alumnae Secretary Pauline J. Schmid '25, and Brewer.

That morning, presidents of twenty-six Cornell Women's Clubs from within the Boston-Cleveland-Washington area met with the executive committee of the Federation for a "work shop" on Club programs with Mrs. Knauss and Miss Schmid. At the same time, Mrs. Thomas W. Hopper (Helene Miner) '29, president of the Cornell Women's Club of Philadelphia and chairman of the Federation secondary schools committee, and Mrs. Andrew O. Stilwell (Charlotte Crane) '34, vice-chairman of the Alumni Association secondary schools committee, conducted a meeting of the committee chairmen from Clubs. They consulted with Dean Virginia M. Dunbar of the School of Nursing, Professor Jean Failing, Home Economics, and Associate Director of Admissions Robert W. Storaandt '40.

Concerts Are Enjoyed

CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA, under its dynamic conductor, George Szell, gave an excellent concert before a full house in Bailey Hall, February 15. The concert was the fifth in this year's University concert series and the Orchestra's twentieth Ithaca appearance.

The musicians got off to a very good start with Brahms' "Tragic Overture, Op. 81." Splendid renditions followed of Stavinsky's "Suite from the Ballet 'Pulcinella'" (based on themes by Pergolesi), perhaps the most interesting work on the program, and of "Don Juan, Op. 20" by Richard Strauss. After intermission, the Orchestra played Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7 In A Major, Op. 92." The audience received every offering with tremendous ovation and recalled the Orchestra for five bows. No encores were given.

Ernst Wallfisch, violist with the Orchestra, and his wife, Lory Wallfisch, pianist, remained in Ithaca after the concert to give a recital in Willard Straight Memorial Room the following Sunday.

Fourth concert in the chamber music series was presented by Luigi Silva, cellist, in Willard Straight Theater, February 26.

Throughout his recital, Silva displayed the virtuosity for which he is known. His program was also remarkable for the fact that it included some rarely heard compositions: "Toccata and Canzona" from Della Ciaja's "Organ Sonata II," transcribed for the cello by Silva himself; "Sonata No. 6 in C Major" by Raynor Taylor; and "Duo Concertant for Piano and Violincello" by de Leaumont. Selections by Boccherini, Beethoven, and Debussy were also played. The cellist had an excellent accompanist in Carlo Bussotti.

Foresters Greet "Chief"

PROFESSOR RALPH S. HOSMER, Forestry Emeritus, was guest of honor at a dinner in Washington, D.C., February 15, given by twenty of his former students of the Forestry Department which he headed from 1914-42. Toastmaster was G. Harris Collingwood, former Extension professor of Forestry. Alumni present, all from the US Forest Service, Indian Service, or Soil Conservation Service, were Jay P. Kinney '02, Karl E. Pfeiffer '12, Franklin R. Fielding '15, Fred H. Miller '16, George S. Kephart '17, Perkins Coville '18, Kenneth L. Roberts '23, Bernard Frank '25, Charles A. Gillett '25, Seth Jackson '26, David P. Beatty '27, Adrian R. Quillinan '27, Charles W. Mattison '28, James E. Moody '28, George W. Hedden '29, Charles P. Mead '32, John G. Roylance '32, Joseph J. Davis '35, and Richard F. Howard '35.

Honor Dairymen

PICTURES of three Cornellians hang in the Dairy Shrine Club maintained near the grounds of the Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, Iowa, and founded in 1949 at the annual convention of the American Dairy Science Association for the purpose of honoring outstanding men in the field. Twenty-four other pioneers in the dairy industry are pictured in the Pioneer Room of the Club.

Two of the Cornellians were among the University's early teachers. The late Stephen M. Babcock, Grad '73-'75, professor of agricultural chemistry at the University of Wisconsin for many years, was instructor in Chemistry at Cornell in 1875-77 and then chemist in the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva until 1887. He perfected a simple method of determining the butterfat content of milk, known as the Babcock Test. He also was a leader in early vitamin studies.

The late Professor Henry H. Wing '81, for whom the Animal Husbandry building is named, taught at the University for forty years and had been secretary of the College of Agriculture. With limited facilities, he carried out extensive research and published many bulletins, mostly on the effect of feed on milk and fat production. He was influential in starting the advanced registry based on milk and butterfat production. He taught and practiced the early use of production records as a basis of selection and improvement of dairy cattle.

The third Cornellian honored is Henry W. Jeffers '98, chairman of the board of directors of Walker—Gordon Laboratory Co., Plainsboro, N.J., a division of the Borden Co. He pioneered in the development of certified milk, invented the Rotolactor which milks fifty cows simultaneously under the most sanitary conditions, and has been responsible for many more of the present sanitary controls in milk production and processing.

A group picture of the Cornell team which won the national dairy products judging contest in 1938 is also in the Dairy Shrine Club.

Seniors Organize

CLASS OF 1952 men, following the recent pattern of Senior Classes, have elected Class officers and a Class Council of some thirty-five members to direct Class alumni activities. A Class Constitution provides that officers and Council members shall serve for five years.

Alumni executive officer of the Class of '52 will be Barton Treman (left, above) secretary-chairman, and the Class president is Kenneth W. Tunnell (right). Vice-president is John C. Lankenau and the treasurer is Edwin S. Weber, Jr.

Treman's election as secretary-chairman continues family tradition that goes back to the very early organization of Cornell Classes. He is the son of Allan H. Treman of Ithaca, Class secretary of '21, and is the grandson of the late Robert H. Treman, University Trustee and secretary of the Class of '78. Moreover, the late Charles E. Treman '89, Alumni Trustee and Barton Treman's great-uncle, was appointed by President Jacob Gould Schurman in 1903 "to effect permanent organizations in the various Classes which had been graduated from the University and to arrange for regular Class Reunions." His efforts brought about the organization of the present Association of Class Secretaries, in 1905. Barton Treman's uncle, Robert E. Treman '09, present University Trustee, is a former secretary of his Class; and his second cousins, Arthur B. Treman '23 and Charles E. Treman, Jr. '30, are the respective secretaries of their Classes.

Classes in New York

CORNELL WOMEN'S CLUB of New York, through arrangements with the Extension Division of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations, is again presenting this year two free courses of study. The courses are a continuation of last year's studies but are being given in such a way that newcomers can understand the discussions.

"Current Trends in Labor-Management Relations" is taught by John A. Fitch, arbitrator and writer, with classes scheduled for the afternoons of February 26, March 4, 11, 18, 25, and April 1. Reynold A. Aymar '29, personnel director at Saks Fifth Avenue, teaches the course in "Personnel Development of the Professional Woman in Her Job Relationships," the evenings of those same dates. Classes are held in the Club rooms in the Hotel Barbizon. The University will award certificates to those who attend regularly. Professor Effey L. Riley '18 is Director of the New York Metropolitan Extension Office of the School.

Develop New Celery

SEED of the Emerson Pascal celery, a blight-resistant variety developed at the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University and named after the late Professor Rollins A. Emerson, Sp '99, head of the Department of Plant Breeding from 1914-42, is being sold to growers this year for the first time.

Consumers will find the new celery on the markets this fall. It is green in color, has high table quality, and meaty stalks. Its brittleness makes for good eating, but at the same time makes it harder for the grower to harvest, according to Professors Henry M. Munger '36, Plant Breeding, and Allan G. Newhall, PhD '29, Plant Pathology, who helped complete the project. It is immune to the Fusarium Yellows disease and needs no spraying for blight when grown in the North.

The perfected variety comes after some eighteen years of effort. In 1933, a graduate student from India started a celery-breeding program at the University which was later carried on by Professors Emerson, Newhall, and Homer C. Thompson, Vegetable Crops. Two varieties resulted, but were not wholly satisfactory. In 1936, a scientist of the Eastern States Farmers Exchange in Massachusetts found that a Danish celery he had crossed with a leading commercial variety was freer of blight than others in a test plot. He offered his seed to the University for testing and numerous crosses were made from which the Emerson Pascal was finally evolved. After tests at Everglades Experiment Station in Florida and the Central Florida Experiment Station and by seedsmen and growers, one strain was finally considered satisfactory and was released jointly by the three experiment stations.

Passing of a Hill-dweller

EDITOR: A good deal might be said about the things which made the late Fred Hackstaff '05 outstanding as a Cornell man; such as his prowess as a football player and the fact that he sent his two sons to Cornell, both of whom distinguished themselves at Cornell and later in business. But there would be left out one thing which should mean a great deal not only to those who knew Fred, but to all Cornell men.

This man first came to my consciousness when I was watching football practice of the Freshman Class of '05 and I saw a group of players standing in a circle, practicing dropping on the ball. One burly, curly-haired boy fell on the ball and hit his funny-bone; he stood up rubbing his elbow in great agony. I later came to know this boy as Fred Hackstaff. I do not remember seeing anything more of Fred for years, but gradually as I moved in Cornell circles, I got to know him better and better, until of recent years there developed a strong, fraternal bond between us.

Why should this have been? Why should I have gotten to know this man better and better through the years when in most cases, many of my best friends drifted farther and farther away from me? The answer certainly lies in the fact that Fred Hackstaff was a permanent Hill-dweller; that is, in spirit, he never left "the Hill."

Some men walk off the Hill with their sheepskins and gradually lose their Cornell contacts through the years. Other men, figuratively speaking, never leave the Hill, even though they live at the ends of the earth. These men are true Hill-dwellers. With them, the Cornell spirit seems to grow stronger as the years go on. Whereas they may have had a few cronies on the Hill at Ithaca, they develop more and more cronies "on the Hill" in after-life.

For instance, many young graduates coming out of Cornell into life—men without social proclivities and with a feeling that the "big man on the Hill" lived in a stratosphere way beyond them at Ithaca and would still live in such a stratosphere after leaving Ithaca—are surprised and delighted to find on running into some of these permanent Hill-dwellers, that merely because they come from Cornell they have become a blood brother of this Hill-dweller and it does not count whether or not they have been fraternity men or athletes or socialites in college.

There are not as many Hill-dwellers as we need, but these Hill-dwellers must gain great dividends of happiness over the men who come down off the Hill when they leave Ithaca. To an outsider, the enthusiasms of these Hill-dwellers must seem almost infantile. They have a scandalous partiality for other Cornell men in business. They have a feeling that there is no really great university outside of Cornell and a consequent pity for a man who is a graduate of, say, Yale or Harvard. The meeting with every Cornell man is celebrated with cheers and joy. Their interest in the athletic teams is beyond all bounds of reason and for that alone, they probably should be committed to an institution. Their children always go to Cornell. When there is an alumni smoker or banquet, you will find them at the top of the heap and probably running the committees. When there is a Reunion or shindig at Cornell, they will be on hand. I recall a former track man coming back from China after thirty years and searching the town where I lived for another track man of his time. What a lot of fun these fellows have, and how much help they are to the younger crowd!

Well, Fred Hackstaff was one of the best of our permanent Hill-dwellers.

Plantations Quarterly

IN THE CORNELL PLANTATIONS for Winter, Richard B. Fischer, graduate assistant in Extension Teaching & Information, writes of the animal pets that students have kept in the Conservation Department quarters in Fernow Hall, and his portrait of one of these, "Junior" the owl, decorates the cover. Professor Oscar D. von Engeln '08, Geology, Emeritus, describes the Ice Age origin of the deep gorge between Forest Home and Beebe Lake and shows with aerial photograph and a drawing the original course of Fall Creek before the "Forest Home Run-around." From the papers of the late Professor Walter King Stone, Architecture, come more reminiscences of his youth on the farm, and Professor Ralph W. Curtis '01, Ornamental Horticulture, Emeritus, continues his series on "Plants for Birds and Gardeners."

Editor Bristow Adams publishes a letter from E. B. White '21 commending a Summer issue article by Professor Lawrence H. MacDaniels, PhD 17, in which he "debunked" the claims of certain "organi-culturists" who White calls "earthworm- and -biodynamic bubble dancers." The author cites the claims of some followers of the cult and says, "An old and faithful trash-saver, I have been alarmed and bemused to see this simple and helpful practice turned into a religion."

Aids Medical College

GIFT of $25,000 from Henry E. Dodge of Arlington, Mass., has established a Henry E. Dodge Medical College Scholarship Fund to provide ultimately for tuition scholarships at the Medical College in New York. Dodge, who retired in 1945 as owner of Adams & Dodge Co., Boston, Mass., is the father of Dr. Donald T. Dodge, MD '37, of San Antonio, Tex.

Babcock Fund Nears Goal

BABCOCK MEMORIAL FUND, established last year in memory of the late H. Edward Babcock to endow a professorship and research to forward his aim of improving human diet, has reached more than four-fifths of its goal of $500,000. University Trustee Albert K. Mitchell '17, chairman of the sponsoring committee for the Fund, reports contributions received of about $415,000 and says that the committee is working now principally on additional corporate gifts from the food industry to reach the goal.

Recent significant gifts have come from such organizations as American Meat Institute, Carrier Corp., Commercial Solvents Corp., Cooperative GLF Exchange, Inc., Southern States Cooperative, Empire Livestock Marketing Cooperative, Inc., New York Artificial Breeders' Cooperative Association, Davison Chemical Corp., DeLaval Separator Co., General Mills, Inc., Hines-Park Foods, and Sears, Roebuck & Co. Among the original contributors were Avco Manufacturing Corp., Cargill, Inc., Corn Products Refining Co., The Farm Journal, Philco Fund, and Massey-Harris Co., Ltd.

Thousands of farmers have given to the Fund through committees set up in forty-one New York State counties. Individual business associates, industrialists, and personal friends of Babcock who have contributed include Trustees Mitchell, Maxwell M. Upton '99, Robert E. Treman '09 and Mrs. Treman (Caroline Slater) '23, Francis H. Sheetz '16, Arthur H. Dean '19, Victor Emanuel '19, and Herbert F. Johnson '22; Mrs. Babcock, Walter S. Carpenter, Jr. '10, and Rudolph H. Deetjen '19.

Herrell F. DeGraff '37 was appointed Babcock Professor of Food Economics in the School of Nutrition last April. He was charged with "the responsibility of promoting a broad understanding of the importance of a better diet as a matter of public policy for the mutual benefit of agriculture, the food industry, consumers, and the national economy."

Serving with Mitchell as members of the sponsoring committee for the Babcock Memorial Fund are Trustees Emanuel and Larry E. Gubb '16; Dean William I. Myers '14, Agriculture; Director Leonard A. Maynard, PhD '15, of the School of Nutrition; Dr. Norman S. Moore '23, Clinical & Preventive Medicine; Girard Hammond '18, James A. McConnell '21, Karl D. Butler, PhD '40, and Henry D. Sherwood, chairman of the New York State Board of Farm Organizations.

First Book of Poems

LOVE'S ARGUMENT. By Adele Greeff (Adele Burcher), Med '33-'34. Foreword by Mark Van Doren. Macmillan Co., New York City. 1952. 43 pages, $2.

Mrs. Greeff studied poetry under Mark Van Doren at Columbia. She is also an artist. Last spring, two of her paintings were shown in an exhibition at the National Arts Club in New York.

In this collection of forty-one poems, her first book of poems to be published, she sings of the love of the human race, of God, and of one's self. Her message is optimistic ("All roiled and muddled waters can be cleared; Oh do not throw them out because you've found A fresher stream that bubbles from rich earth") and her approach to setting forth that message is fresh and vigorous.

"Horseless Carriages"

MERRY OLD MOBILES ON PARADE. By Hi Sibley '06. Goodheart-Willcox Co., Inc., Chicago, Ill. 1951. 96 pages, paperback, $1.

From his ranch in Nuevo, Cal., Walter A. Sibley '06 remembers back through the years to his first driving experience in 1901, as a youth in South Bend, Ind., at the tiller of the family's one-cylinder Oldsmobile. His book is principally pictures of the early cars, spiced with lively captions and anecdotes of the "horseless carriage" period and with the author's humorous drawings.

"This book is not concerned with who built the first successful automobile in this country," he says, "or which was the first equipped with a steering wheel, the exact date that shaft drive superseded chain, or any of the other firsts; rather it is merely to display some of the fore-runners of our sleek modern cars and a few of their individual features." It is a compilation that will attract the absorbing interest of many an old-timer.

Now In My Time!

THE ONE SPOT that's the least changed is the Ithaca Hotel barber shop. There and there alone the Old Timer can drowse off in the chair and think himself back in the year 1900. True, the bathtub department has been removed, and the price of haircuts has soared from twenty-five cents to a dollar, and it's a different set of barbers who ply their arts upon the customers, but the striking design in the tile floor is unchanged and the barbers' views on football remain precisely what they were in the turn of the century when Mr. Eschenberg presided at the Number One chair and set the pitch for the general conversation. Thirty years ago it was the current pleasantry at Hamilton that it wasn't necessary for Colgate to scout Cornell games; all they needed to do was send an assistant coach to Ithaca to get a haircut and he'd come back with the signals!

Upstairs, State Street is so different it hurts. There the trolley and the overhead wires on poles have been but a fading memory for many years. Policemen have become young, slender, and numerous. C. J. Rumsey & Co., the hardware store, and Rothschild Bros. remain what and where they were, but apart from these and that hardy perennial, the Ithaca Hotel, no familiar place of business between Aurora and Cayuga Streets recalls the past. The Corner Bookstore retains its name and atmosphere, but even it moved from the corner a long time ago to the middle of the block on Tioga Street opposite the Trust Co. It's mostly chain stores now in the two blocks mentioned, and even the boys and girls who crowd the sidewalks on fair days are students of Ithaca College and not those of Cornell.

In such surroundings, the dazed and discouraged Rip Van Winkle can scarcely be blamed if he dives down the old stone stairs to the cellar, and pays an outrageous price for a haircut he doesn't really need, just for the privilege of mingling for a time with the amusing ghosts of his student days who still frequent the barber shop.

In a college town, the barber shop remains the one uncontaminated stronghold of democracy, fraternity, and equality. Here professor, banker, student, merchant, truckman, and the reverend clergy rank in order of their arrival in the shop and on no other basis. Even though a Freshman were disposed to give up his priority to an impatient professor, Mr. Eschenberg wouldn't let him, and the customers would sustain the ruling. The place is also the citadel of free speech. Here the elder statesmen and the unknown adolescent are free to join the barbers in expressing their views on the zone defense as against man-to-man, and can also hold forth on the relative merits of the T-formation and the single wing.

One does not have to be so very old these days, or more than a little drowsy, to think he hears again Eb Treman, Goldenberg the tailor, George Tarbell, Mr. Eschenberg, Toke Brasheer, and a ghostly company of downtown quarterbacks giving tongue from the different chairs on the recent football rulings of the Ivy League presidents. It would not have been what the Eight Presidents had done that startled the ghosts, so much as that they'd done anything! "What are the alumni going to say about this?" would have been the outraged chant of Harry Morey, Toke Brasheer, Mr. Eschenberg, and the Colgate scout concealed in the suds of the shampoo basin. The remarks of Goldy, the tailor, would have been pungent and to the point, once he'd caught the drift of public opinion. On matters of athletic policy, Mr. Goldenberg seldom went out on a limb all by himself. It was established majority opinion on such matters that Goldy voiced.

The Ithaca Hotel barber shop is not the headquarters of the State Street Athletic Council to the extent that it was in the turn of the century, but the ghosts are still there and the Old Timer, half asleep in the corner chair, can still rejoice in his memories of their debates and protests. The trolleys don't clang in the street above him any more, and the rack of private shaving mugs with their owners' names upon them amid garlands of roses have departed, but the spirit of the place remains unchanged. And I can think of no better way to make the former twenty-five-cent haircut seem worth a dollar than to get it in the ghostly company of Mr. Eschenberg, Eb Treman, and Goldenberg, the tailor!

Praise for "Cornell Music"

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION received an order for the Cornell Long Playing Record of the Glee Club, Band, and Chimes from a non-Cornellian who had heard the record and wished to own it. He writes:

"I am a glee club devotee and yours is one of the finest—or I should say, the finest—I have ever heard. Also the recording, technically, is a gem of fidelity. I have a high-fidelity sound system, and the technical perfection of this record is such as almost to bring the voices into the room as in real life. This fidelity is also amazingly lifelike in the case of the Chimes and the Band. Congratulations on a masterful Glee Club and a superb recording!"

Sorority Pledges

THE THIRTEEN sorority chapters pledged 253 new members, February 24, after two weeks of formal rushing. Some 580 women signed up for rushing; about 130 more than last year. The chapters pledged about the same number after formal rushing last year.

Before they started their trek of the houses, rushees were equipped with an informational booklet, "It's All Greek to Me," and presented the sorority and non-sorority way of life at a panel discussion sponsored by Panhellenic Council. The day before rushing began, The Sun, in an editorial "Too Many Women," strongly criticized the rushing chairmen for voting only two open houses in which the chapters could meet prospective members, declaring "the sorority women have not been fair to themselves or to the rushees."

The following sorority pledges are Freshmen except those designated otherwise by Class numerals.

FOLLOWING THE STARS OF OTHER YEARS

By ROBERT J. KANE '34, DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

5.—John L. Collyer '17: Oarsman

NO MAN has more consistently put to good use the lessons learned in competitive athletics than John L. Collyer '17, former great oarsman and now president of the B. F. Goodrich Co. Rowing is and has been an important influence in John Collyer's life. In fact, he came very close at one time to making crew coaching a career.

One of his Goodrich executives lends persuasive testimony to his close adherence to the crew concept: "Those of us in B. F. Goodrich who were here 'BC (before Collyer)' have come to know, respect, and understand Mr. Collyer's insistence on 'teamwork' which under his outstanding leadership for twelve years has almost completely transformed this company. The lessons he learned in athletic competition have been applied in a most practical and workable way toward solving problems encountered every day in industry and business. Those of us on the team know that we have a great stroke oar and captain in American industry." His own very evident endeavor to retain physical fitness is another indication of his devotion to the Spartan rowing ideal.

Born in Chelsea - on - Hudson, John Collyer spent two years at Manual Training High School in New York City and transferred to Cascadilla School in Ithaca to prepare for Cornell. "I wanted to go to Cornell because of its eminent College of Mechanical Engineering and because of its leadership in rowing." He rowed at Cascadilla and was manager of the football team. At Cornell, he became stroke of the Freshman crew which did not lose a race, beating Princeton and Harvard in dual competition and winning at Poughkeepsie.

The Varsity crew his Sophomore year, of which he was stroke oar, consisted almost wholly of members of this fine Freshman crew of the year before, a most unusual development in Coach Charles Courtney's regime. They won the Intercollegiate Regatta at Poughkeepsie and were second to Syracuse in 1916. Before war and the draft cancelled rowing and all athletics in 1917, John Collyer proved himself an able coach for he took over the coaching duties in the fall of 1916 when Mr. Courtney was incapacitated because of injuries received in a railroad accident.

Almost Became Cornell Coach

Graduating in 1917 as a mechanical engineer and naval architect, he joined Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. and five years later, Romeyn Berry '04, Cornell Graduate Manager, asked him to come back as rowing coach. This appealed strongly to young John, and it was only after great mental anguish that he reluctantly decided to remain in industry.

He was with Bethlehem until 1923, when at the age of twenty-nine he became vice-president of Dunlop Tire & Rubber Co. in Buffalo. Six years later, he went with the parent company, Dunlop Rubber Co., Ltd., in England as works director of the plant at Fort Dunlop. It was there that he took up single sculling. He also rowed three years in an eight-oared crew which won each year in the club rowing races. The club crews were made up mostly of former Oxford and Cambridge oarsmen. His association in these rowing activities formed the basis for valuable friendships with many of England's foremost citizens, notably Sir Harcourt Gold and Sir Clive Bailleau, both of whom were active scullers.

It was during Collyer's residence in England that he renewed fond acquaintanceship with another rowing enthusiast, David Goodrich, whose father founded the Goodrich Rubber Co. Goodrich was captain of the 1898 Harvard crew. He and Collyer had become friends at Poughkeepsie regattas while John was the Cornell representative on the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association from 1930-36 and Goodrich was annually one of the timers of the event. In 1939, Goodrich, chairman of the board, invited John to become president of the B. F. Goodrich Co. Goodrich, a Rough Rider with Teddy Roosevelt and described by Roosevelt as "the bravest soldier I have ever known," died in 1950.

Under John Collyer's competent guidance, B. F. Goodrich Co. has grown and prospered. In 1950, sales and production were the highest in the company's eighty-year history and earnings were 66 percent more than in 1949. Net profit was $34,708,335 ($524.19 a share). The year 1951 was expected to top 1950.

Evolution of An Oarsman—Left: John L. Collyer '17 when he was stroke of the Varsity crew and coach in his Senior year. Center: Collyer rowed in a single scull and in club races on the Thames during his ten years in England until 1939. Right: President of B. F. Goodrich Co., Collyer proudly receives at his office in Akron, Ohio, the bow of the shell he had built by George Sims Co. in England and gave to the University in 1935. In its first race, at Poughkeepsie that year, the Varsity crew set the fastest Cornell time on the River, but lost to California by ten feet, the judges decided after news had gone out that Cornell had won. The John Collyer has been used for practice until this year.

Advised Synthetics in Last War

John Collyer shocked some of his business-as-usual colleagues in the rubber industry in early 1940 by advocating a government-sponsored program of the manufacture of synthetic rubber as a safeguard against possible loss of crude rubber supply from the Far East. His warnings went unheeded for a while, so he set up a man-made-rubber program at Goodrich expense. This was recognized in December, 1946, when by executive order of the President he was awarded the Medal of Merit for "foresight, ability, and energy exerted in the development and execution of a program to provide the armed forces and the country with the rubber products needed in the war effort."

Now he is again heckling bureaucratic Washington by persistently advocating the intelligent distribution of rubber supplies and proper stockpiling. It was due principally to his insistence last year that some of the government stockpile was released for industrial consumption and 200,000 tons a year was added to synthetic rubber production capacity. This forestalled the rubber panic that threatened in the summer of 1951. Thank John Collyer, those of you who can buy a new car, that you now receive a spare tire with it!

Outstanding Business Leader

Selected by Forbes magazine as one of the fifty "Most Outstanding Leaders in Business" in this country, he can always find time to help Cornell University, of which he is a Trustee, president of the Class of '17, and member of the University Council. He was chairman of the successful Greater Cornell Fund campaign which raised $12,760,000. He also lends spiritual and material support to his beloved avocation, rowing, by his attendance at crew races and donating the individual medals which go to the oarsmen in each of the three winning boats in the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta. Lack of facilities in Akron prevents participation in sculling, but he hopes to resume some day. Sailing and tennis are summer diversions.

Collyer was made Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by decree of the French Republic in 1949. He was chairman of the Business Advisory Council of the US Department of Commerce in 1947 and 1948, is a trustee of the Committee for Economic Development, vice-president and executive committee member of the Air Foundation; director of the Foundation for American Agriculture; and is chairman of the American Olympic Committee group raising funds from business and industry. He has honorary degrees from Mount Holyoke College, Ohio State University, New York University, Marietta College, and University of Akron.

He would have made a whale of a good crew coach, though!

Fifty Years Ago

March, 1902—The Athletic Council has approved the selection of Daniel A. Reed '98 as head coach of the football team next fall. . . . Jared VanWagenen, Jr. '91 lectured before the students in Agriculture at the University on the subject of 'Butter-making.' . . . Jervis Langdon '97 was elected a vice-president of the New York State YMCA at the convention held in Elmira recently.

Forty Years Ago

March, 1912—"Saluting Spring with a revolver is not likely to become a regular custom in Ithaca, the city authorities discourage it so. Last year a student who greeted Spring in that way was fined $20. This year it is more expensive. The Vernal Equinox was welcomed on the Hill in a noisy manner, with horns, bells, and rattles, and a Freshman was caught by a policeman at Eddy and Seneca Streets while in the act of firing a revolver. He was arrested. In the city court next day he pleaded guilty and said he was simply observing what he had been told was an old Cornell custom. Judge Crowley assured him that shooting firearms on the street was not customary and was unlawful and fined him $50. He might have got more sympathy if the weather had been warmer."

Ten Years Ago

March, 1942—University Trustees appoint Robert J. Kane '34 to be Acting Director of the Department of Physical Education & Athletics during absence of Director James Lynah '05, who is on indefinite leave engaged in war work. . . . The Varsity ski team turned in a perfect performance last week end, scoring 400 points out of a possible 400 in four events. George S. Peer '44 won the downhill, slalom, and combined events, setting a new slalom record of 0:40.8 for the Mad Dutchman trail in the Caroline hills. Captain Philip B. Gibson '43 won the cross country race over a Country Club of Ithaca course. . . . College of Engineering Faculty has voted to adopt a three-term year, making it possible for students to complete the four-year courses in three calendar years and the five-year courses in four years. . . . Announcement of plans for the expanded Summer Session indicates that the University will be in almost continuous operation this year, working full speed in the war emergency.

For Swiss Hotel Student

WILL of George W. Pittenger of Centralia, Ill., who died January 5, leaves $1500 to bring a student from Switzerland to the School of Hotel Administration at the University. Pittenger owned and operated the Pittenger Hotel in Centralia and was a long-time friend of Professor Howard B. Meek, Director of the School here. His will names Professor Meek, Robert Jahrling of Springfield, Mass., and Thomas D. Green, editor of Hotel Red Book, as trustees to select a Hotel Administration student from Switzerland and administer the bequest. He had travelled in Switzerland and greatly admired the country and people.

DuPont Supports Research

DUPONT Co. of Wilmington, Del., has announced an increase in its grant to the University for the next two years for unrestricted research to advance basic scientific knowledge in chemistry, and for next year a Graduate School fellowship in Chemistry and one in Chemical Engineering.

The grant for fundamental unrestricted research is increased from this year's $10,000 to $15,000 for at least next year and the year after. The company stipulates that the research shall be aimed to increase chemical knowledge and not for specific commercial objectives, with complete freedom to communicate and publish the results. The graduate fellowships will provide tuition and $1400 to the recipient selected by the University, if he is unmarried, or $2100 if married, and $1200 to the University.

Cornell has shared in the annual Du-

Pont grants to universities for post-graduate fellowships since the company started them in 1918.

Consider Marketing

CORNELLIAN specialists took part in meetings of Northeastern marketing research committees for fruit, vegetables, and potatoes, in New York City, January 23-25. From the University went Directors Carl E. F. Guterman, PhD '30, and Arthur J. Heinicke, PhD '17, of the Experiment Stations, and Professors Marius P. Rasmussen '19, Agricultural Economics, and John D. Hartman, PhD '33, Vegetable Crops. From elsewhere were Professors Charles H. Merchants '20 of University of Maine; Everett P. Christopher, PhD '34, of University of Rhode Island; Wayne A. Lee, PhD '42, of Pennsylvania State College; and Vessie H. Nicholson, PhD '43, and Russell L. Childress, PhD '51, of University of Maryland.

Countryman Goes Abroad

"GLOBAL ISSUE" of the Cornell Countryman, for February, features firsthand descriptions of their countries written by five students in the College of Agriculture. Alfred P. Barnabas '53 writes on India; Arthur J. Dommen '55, the Far East; Hernan Caballero, Grad, Chile; Harry E. Theocharides '52, Greece; and George A. Boateng '53, West Africa. Associate Editor Phillips Foster '53 surveys the world battle for food and Associate Editor Margot Pringle '53 writes on the Point Four Program. Tom David '53 tells "The Story of the Land" and Bruce Maxfield '53 describes from his own experience in Mexico the American Friends Service Committee work camp program. The foreign students at the University and their problems are considered in interviews with members of the Agriculture Faculty. Editor Michael V. Rulison '53 writes a foreword to the issue.

Architects Get Grants

COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE has announced the award of fourteen scholarships for this term. Robert D. Katz '51 of New York City won the Skidmore, Owings & Merrill Scholarship of $500, established for a fifth-year Architecture student by the architectural and engineering firm of Chicago and New York City of which Nathaniel A. Owings '27 is a member. Gillespie Prize Scholarships in Architecture give a $200 grant each to Robert M. Matyas '52, West Hazelton, Pa., and James E. Strub '53, Birmingham, Mich.; and a $100 grant each to James K. Bell '52, Oak Park, Ill., Madeline C. Scott '53, New York City, John I. Williams '52, Dayton,

Long Arm of Coincidence

By ISRAEL KAPLAN, PhD '50

CORNELL STORY going back seventy years comes full circle with a generous gift made to the University Library by Charles J. Paterson, CE '07, of Cleveland, Ohio. The gift, a collection of Kipling, contains 179 items; the earliest dated book is 1881. In that year, the late Wolcott Balestier '85 came to Cornell as a student in the Optional Course, and in the following spring his sister Caroline journeyed from Rochester to visit our Campus. Thus began a Cornell link to Kipling, of which more later.

The Paterson collection fills a distinct gap in the Cornell Library, which has been weak in Kipling. Here are the elusive and excessively rare early works of a master story-teller, in first editions, and in mint condition. No Kipling collection can presume to be complete without these thirteen titles: Schoolboy Lyrics, Echoes, Quartette, Departmental Ditties, Plain Tales From The Hills, City Of Dreadful Night, Letters of Marque, and those six amazing volumes of the Indian Railway Library series: Soldiers Three, Story Of The Gadsbys, In Black And White, Under The Deodars, The Phantom Rickshaw, and Wee Willie Winkie, all of which gave evidence of "a new literary star rising in the East."

Every one of these titles is in the Paterson gift. And several of them have high association value. The volume of Schoolboy Lyrics, for instance, bears two sketches by Kipling, done in ink on the front cover. Echoes is inscribed "to the Padre from Gigs" (to George Willes, the Latin-master of Stalky & Co., from "Giglamps," the near-sighted young Kipling who wore thick glasses). In addition, there is a file of the United Services College Chronicle from July 18, 1878, to December 17, 1894, bound in two volumes. These contain the earliest writings of Kipling, when he was working on his school newspaper.

The rest is far from ordinary. There are special limited printings, the thirty-seven-volume "Outward Bound" edition, and many out-of-print and hard-to-find items. In fact, nothing is lacking that a moderate amount of time and a small financial outlay cannot fill in. Manuscripts, of course, are another consideration. But like attracts like, and we can hope that private owners, when they are aware of the excellence of our Kipling collection in print, may wish to supplement it with manuscripts.

ISRAEL KAPLAN, who writes about the Kipling collection given to the Library and the University's early connection with the "master story-teller," came to the Graduate School in 1946 and took his major studies in the field of American Literature with Professor Harold W. Thompson, English, as his principal adviser. His dissertation for the PhD was on "Rudyard Kipling From Sea to Sea." He was also a graduate assistant in the English Department. Now he teaches English in the State University of New York Teachers College at Potsdam.

According to the papers of the Rochester Historical Society, the Balestiers were an unconventional and lively family. Wolcott distinguished himself in his one year at Cornell. He was elected president of his Class and was honored by a Sophomore kidnapping on the eve of the Frosh banquet. He wrote for the Cornell Era, and finally went into publishing. Caroline's visit to Ithaca was the stimulus for two poems from her pen; one of them was entitled "The Chimes Of Cornell."

In 1888, Wolcott Balestier went to London as a literary agent, intent on helping British and American authors through the pirate-infested waters of transAtlantic publishing. (The International Copyright Bill was not passed until July 1, 1891.) Balestier maintained a kind of bachelor's hall, with his sister Caroline keeping house for him. When Kipling and Balestier met, the attraction was mutual and instantaneous.

But the association was tragically cut short on December 6, 1891, when Balestier, who had gone to Dresden to push the new publishing firm of Heinemann & Balestier, died of typhus. Several months later Kipling married Caroline, and the young couple came to Brattleboro, Vt., to establish a permanent residence. But that, as Kipling would say, is another story. In a literary way, the chief memorials to the Kipling-Balestier association are The Naulahka, written by both young men in collaboration, and Kipling's dedicatory verses to Wolcott Balestier, which preface the first edition of Barrack-Room Ballads. A fine copy of this edition is in the Paterson collection.

Basketball Keeps Up

IN PREPARATION for its crucial trip to Pennsylvania on Saturday, March 8, and Columbia on Monday, March 10, the basketball team overwhelmed two League teams, Harvard and Dartmouth, and one non-League opponent, Bucknell, and lost to another non-League rival, Syracuse.

In defeating Harvard at Cambridge, February 22, by a score of 71-50, Raymond Handlan '53 tossed in 18 points on seven field goals and four foul shots and Co-captain Roger Chadwick '52 matched his seven field goals but shot no fouls. Dennis of Harvard netted 15 points. Harvard put up a game battle, but it could not match the Cornellians in shooting or defensive abilities.

The next night at Hanover, Cornell defeated Dartmouth, 57-41, but the progress toward victory was far more difficult. The half ended 28-21 in Cornell's favor, but the tightness of Dartmouth's defense kept the smooth-working Cornellians from penetrating very often. In the third quarter, Senior John Werner's jump-shots widened the margin. Only Chadwick and Werner were able to score in double figures: Chadwick had 12, Werner, 24. No Dartmouth man could achieve two digits. Cobb and Wisdom had 8 apiece.

In the game played at Syracuse's new Archbold Gymnasium, the home team beat Cornell in a rough game, 57-50. All the fouls were not called by the officials, although they called forty-four. As in the other game this season at Barton Hall between the two schools, the depth of the Syracuse material was the deciding factor. The half ended with Syracuse in front, 30-27, and in each of the remaining quarters Syracuse managed a 2-point advantage, 15-13, 12-10. Co-captain Chadwick was high for Cornell and Frank Reddout was tops for the evening with 20 as the Cornell defense was able to hold the Syracuse star scorers, Miller and Roche, to 7 and 4 points, respectively. Roche made a Barton Hall record in the first game when he threw in 35 points.

A new Barton Hall and Cornell scoring record was set, March 1, as Cornell swamped Bucknell, 87-67. The previous high of 82 points was set in 1943 against Rome Army Air Base, and tied against Gettysburg at Gettysburg and Rider at Ithaca, both in 1950.

In fashioning this record, Cornell made 19 in each of the first two periods, 26 in the third, and 23 in the fourth period. Co-captain Chadwick was again high with 19 points. Werner and Handlan each had 12 and Sophomore Wendell MacPhee made 10. It was David Bradfield '54, of Ithaca, son of Professor Richard Bradfield, Agronomy, who scored 5 points in a row to first tie and then break the record.

Frosh Stay on Top

The Freshman basketball team continued its all-winning ways in beating Manlius, 85-56; Ithaca College junior varsity, 86-57; Syracuse junior varsity 79-69; and Wyoming Seminary, 61-40. Outstanding on this team coached by Ross H. Smith are John A. Sheehy of Garden City, Max H. Mattes of Newton Falls, Ohio, Henry J. Buncom of Ithaca, James C. Callahan of Salem, Ohio, and Daniel H. Krouner of Albany.

Track Team Fifth & Fourth

THE TRACK TEAM placed fifth in the ICAAAA Championships at Madison Square Garden, New York City, February 23. Manhattan was first, followed by Army, Georgetown, Villanova, and Cornell in a competition which had entries from thirty-two schools.

Captain Meredith C. Gourdine '52 and Arthur W. Gardiner '52 scored Cornell's 12½ points. Gourdine was first in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet 5½ inches and was second to Peter McCreary of Dartmouth in the sixty-yard high hurdles. This was a switch of his 1951 performance when he was second in the broad jump, first in the hurdles. Gardiner tied for second in the shotput with Joseph McLaughlin of St. Joseph's at 49 feet ½ inch.

Cornell was fourth with 22¼ points in the Heptagonal Games indoor championship meet in New York at 102d Regiment Armory, on February 29. Army was first with 50½ points. Yale was second with 37½, Princeton, third with 34, and following Cornell were Columbia, Dartmouth, Navy, and Brown.

Gourdine was second to Ira Kane of Navy in a photo-finish sixty-yard dash, third in the high hurdles, and fifth in the broad jump: an off night for him. Gardiner won the shotput with a commendable 50 foot 6½ inch put, only ¾ inch away from the Cornell record. He was also fourth in the thirty-five-pound weight throw with a heave of 53 feet 8 inches. Eugene A. Zeiner '52 finished in a four-way tie for first in the pole vault at 13 feet with Zimmerman of Penn, Eisenhart of Army, and Mello of Harvard.

Cornell's other points came in the mile relay, where it took fourth, and a fifth in the two-mile relay. The members of the mile team were Gourdine, Harold Chadwick '52, John Allen '53, and James Lingel '53; and the two-mile team members were David Pratt '54, Clement Speiden '52, Robert Robertson '52, and Charles Trayford '54.

Wrestlers Lose and Win

VARSITY WRESTLERS lost two one-sided matches to Syracuse and Penn State and won one from Cortland State Teachers College.

Only Co-captains Frank A. Bettucci '53 and Donald G. Dickason '53 were able to win their bouts when Syracuse defeated Cornell, 20-6, at Ithaca, February 20. Bettucci scored a decision over the Syracuse star freshman, Edward Rooney, in the 157-pound class, and Dickason won by decision over Henry Gobetz at 167 pounds.

In defeating Cortland State Teachers College, 24-6, at Cortland, February 23, three Cornellians scored falls: Bettucci at 157 pounds; Dickason, 177 pounds; and J. Richard Soars '54, heavyweight. Daniel Cadiz '53 at 130 pounds, William Van Gilder '53 at 147 pounds, and Paul Sampson '53 at 167 pounds won by decision.

Captain Bettucci continued at State College, March 1, when he won his ninth straight bout by outpointing William Krebs of Penn State, 6-0, but he was the only Cornellian to win. Penn State, intercollegiate champions in 1951, continued undefeated and scored a 24-5 win. Captain Dickason made the other Cornell point in tying Joseph LeMyre in the 167-pound class.

Freshmen Lose Narrowly

Syracuse junior varsity wrestlers won the last three events and thus defeated the Cornell Freshmen, 17-14, in a match preliminary to the varsity at Ithaca, February 20. Rex Boda, 123 pounds, threw his man; Edward Cameron won by forfeit at 130 pounds; and Captain Kenneth Hunt won by decision at 157 pounds.

Swimmers Best Niagara

THE VARSITY SWIMMING TEAM defeated Niagara in the Old Armory pool, 48-36, February 22, but the outcome was in doubt until the last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay race. Niagara took six first places in the eight individual events, but Cornell captured seven second places and five thirds. Varsity winners were Stanley R. Byron '54 in the diving and Robert D. Olt '53 in the 100-yard freestyle.

The members of the 400-yard freestyle team were Olt, Frederick W. Trask '52, Thomas J. Herbert III '54, and Robert Strehlow '53. On Cornell's victorious 300-yard medley relay team were James M. Hines '52, James P. Childress '53, and Thomas J. Herbert '54.

Frosh Stay Undeclared

The Freshman swimmers kept their record intact by downing the Cortland State varsity at Ithaca, 60-24, and Mercersburg Academy at Mercersburg, Pa., 40-35. Robinson Ord, Jr. led the yearlings against Cortland, winning both the 50- and 100-yard freestyle races, while Roy L. Swanson, setting an individual medley Freshman record of 1:37.8 and winning the 200-yard freestyle, was the pacesetter against Mercersburg.

Fencers Win and Lose

VARSITY FENCING team defeated Syracuse 15-12, February 23, and lost to Columbia, 16-11, March 1, both meets at Ithaca.

Against Syracuse, Captain John C. Noonan '52 won all three of his bouts and C. Roger Glassey '52 took two of his three foil bouts.

The clever Columbia team, beaten only once in ten matches, had too much for Coach Georges Cointe's boys. But the highlight of the competition was provided by Thomas H. Arnold '53 who, winning all three of his epee bouts, defeated 1951 National Collegiate champion, Columbia's Daniel Chafetz.

Riflemen Drop Third

MARYLAND was responsible for the third loss of the season for the rifle team in a match at College Park, Md., March 1. The score was 1393-1423. Individual honors went to Bruce Wilkins '52, who scored 286 of a possible 300 points, but Maryland had better team balance.

On the same day at Barton Hall, the Freshman rifle men defeated Manlius, 1309-1268. Bernard Hochmuth '55 was high man for Cornell.

Ski Team Trails

THE VARSITY ski team trailed Syracuse and RPI in a triangular meet at Tar Young Hill, February 23. Syracuse amassed 378.9 points to 360.8 for RPI and 358.6 for Cornell.

"Speed" Wilson To Leave

EMERALD B. WILSON, Assistant Athletic Director, has announced his intention to resign at the conclusion of the school year to devote full time to his position as vice-president of Dold Feed Co. in Buffalo, of which he is part-owner.

"Speed" Wilson came to Cornell in 1942 as head basketball coach and assistant football coach. In 1945, he became Assistant Athletic Director and supervisor of the men's Physical Training program and was succeeded by Royner Greene as basketball coach. A native of Middletown, Ohio, he graduated from Middletown High School and in 1918 from Denison College where he was an outstanding three-sport athlete. He coached at Lake Forest, Ill., Academy, Defiance College, and Hobart before coming to Cornell.

Tuition and Fees Go Up

TUITION INCREASE next fall for students in the endowed divisions of the University and increased fees for all students were announced, March 4. The increases were authorized by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees, which met in New York City the day before.

President Deane W. Malott explained that the increases were made necessary by continually rising costs of operation, and he said that the University would provide "additional financial aids for students for whom the increase may mean hardship." He noted that "the University will probably incur an operating deficit of more than $300,000 for the college year ending in June and, despite the increase in tuition and fees, will face an unbalanced budget next year." He pointed out that many other colleges and universities have taken similar action and said that "Cornell is not only concerned with budgetary balance, but with keeping the University a strong and vigorous educational institution."

Tuition next year will be raised from $300 to $350 a term for students in the Colleges of Architecture, Arts & Sciences, Engineering, and the Schools of Business & Public Administration, Hotel Administration, and Law; and from $250 to $350 a term for the Graduate School and Graduate School of Aeronautical Engineering. Tuition remains at $225 a term for the School of Nutrition and at $150 a term for students from outside New York in the State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, State Veterinary College, and the State School of Industrial & Labor Relations. Students in the Graduate School whose major studies are in the State-supported divisions will continue to pay the present Graduate School tuition of $250 a term.

The general fee required of all students will increase $10 a term in all divisions except the Veterinary College, where it will raise $67.50 to $91 a term. This fee is used for laboratory materials and normal breakage, Library use, services of the University Clinic and Infirmary, membership in Willard Straight Hall, required Physical Education courses, some student activities, and administrative charges. The new rate will be $60 a term in Architecture, Arts & Sciences, Business & Public Administration, Engineering, Graduate School, Aeronautical Engineering, Law, and Nutrition; $61 for Industrial & Labor Relations; $62.50 for Agriculture; $66 for Hotel Administration; and $86 a term for Home Economics.

Present tuition rates, for the most part, have been in effect since 1948, except Engineering, which was increased to $300 a term in 1947. Tuition for the Graduate School was increased $50 a year beginning last fall and the general fee was standardized in the endowed divisions of the University.

Professor Broughton Dies

PROFESSOR LESLIE NATHAN BROUGHTON, PhD '11, English, Emeritus, and curator of the Wordsworth Collection in the University Library, died March

3, 1952, in Ithaca, where he lived at 931 North Tioga Street. As curator of the Wordsworth Collection since 1930, Professor Broughton put great effort into building it into one of the most complete and useful in the country.

He interested Trustee Victor Emanuel '19, his former pupil, in acquiring the collection for the University. Emanuel gave the collection in 1925 and has since added to it.

Professor Broughton received the AB in 1900 and the AM in 1910 at Union College; became an instructor in English here in 1910 after four years as instructor and registrar at Cascadilla School. He retired in 1945. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Gamma Mu, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and other learned societies, he was author or editor of several volumes on Wordsworth and editor of concordances to Keats and Browning. His last contribution to scholarship was a Bibliography of Robert Browning, on which he collaborated with Professor Clark S. Northup '93, English, Emeritus, and which will be published by the Cornell University Press. Union College awarded him the honorary LLD in 1945. Mrs. Broughton died in 1950.

More Gilbert & Sullivan

THE COMMUNITY has come to look forward with pleasure to the annual presentation of Gilbert & Sullivan by the men's and women's Glee Clubs and the Dramatic Club. This year, it was the delightful nonsense of the "The Pirates of Penzance" that sold out the University Theater in Willard Straight Hall for six performances, March 5-9. And those who got in went away wishing for more!

Again as in "H.M.S. Pinafore" last spring, the Glee Club tenor, William L. Hodges '52, and Lorina J. Smith '53, daughter of Nelson F. Smith '28, were accomplished in the leading parts of young Frederic, the pirate apprentice, and his lady love, Mabel. Baritone John F. Craver '52, son of Dr. Lloyd F. Craver '15, carried well the role of the Pirate King; and Frances D. Hazell '54, daughter of Cyril E. Hazell '19, was perfectly cast as Ruth, the pirate maid. But the one who almost stopped the show was the distracted Major General Stanley, Stephen R. Frankel '53. His comic turns were almost matched in the lesser role of the Sergeant by Judah Best '54 and his corps of solemn policemen.

The costumes were colorful and the action had several ingenious touches as directed by Edwin Hansen, Grad, of the University Theatre staff. Thomas B. Tracy '31, director of the Glee Clubs, was assisted by Wendell S. Williams, Grad, in the musical direction; and the accompanists were Janice Button '53 and R. Bruce Archibald '55, son of Walter A. Archibald '20.

Publishers To Meet Here

ASSOCIATION of American University Presses will hold its annual meeting at Statler Hall next June 15-17. About 100 directors and staff members of the forty-two university presses throughout the country are expected to attend the sessions, with the Cornell University Press as host member. University Publisher Victor Reynolds is secretary-treasurer of the Association.

Nurses Make News

FACULTY AND STUDENTS of the Cornell University-New York Hospital School of Nursing participated recently in two New York radio and television programs on nursing.

Staff members Doris J. Place '42, Medical Nursing, and Jean R. M. Swann '50 and Lucille Wright, Nursing Arts, participated in a vocational discussion on nursing as a career over municipal radio station WNYC's "Teen Topics" program. The Student twins, Joan and Judith Holland '53, answered questions mothers ask about the care of new babies on the Kathi Norris television show over WABD.

Joan D. Riker '51 of the nursing staff of The New York Hospital was pictured in a recent Newsweek feature story on the nursing cap.

A yearly scholarship at Gottingen University in Germany will be available to Cornell students starting next fall. The award, which will cover room, board, and tuition, is being made through Fridtjof Nansen International House at Gottingen, which has been helped financially by Cornell student contributions and physically by Cornell students participating in summer work projects abroad.

Argue Sunday Activities

THE FOURTH COMMANDMENT ("Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy") has been a source of heated argument by students this month. The trouble began when members of the men's Junior Class Council and the Rhythm Club, scurrying to reserve Bailey Hall for a Sunday-night jazz concert by "Hot Lips" Page, ran up against the Faculty Committee on the Scheduling of Public Events. Since the student groups had sold tickets and begun their publicity before arranging for the Hall, cancellation of the concert was given prominent treatment by the Sun. Protests were quickly heard, in the form of Campus comment and letters to the editor, plus a Sun editorial, all picking flaws in the explanatory statement given by the chairman of the Faculty Committee.

The Committee chairman said it was "against the policy of the University to hold events of this sort on Campus Sunday afternoons or evenings" and "the heavy program schedule through the week and the intense round of activities over the week end" were cited as a principal reason for refusal of permission for the concert. The protesters saw implications that students lack the intelligence to decide how many events they should attend, and pointed to the regular scheduling of Sunday-afternoon concerts by the Music Department and Willard Straight Hall, Sunday-night performances by the Dramatic Club, and to a forthcoming Sunday presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance." There was also vigorous objection to the "blue law" principle, on the ground that an alleged minority should have no right to enforce their wishes on a Campus majority who would not object to Sunday events.

The Student Council voted, after a lively discussion to approve a resolution opining that "events proposed for scheduling on Sunday should be judged by the same standards as events held on other days of the week."

Army ROTC enrollment at Cornell, 2,213, is the greatest of any school in the First Army area, which comprises New York, New Jersey, and the New England States.

The overnight appearance of multi-colored lapel cards proclaiming the merits of candidates for Student Council elections is a never-failing sign of spring on the Campus. Sixty-nine aspirants for Student Council and Class

Council posts have filed petitions and begun campaigning, despite a Council ruling outlawing political "parties." Independent Council and Women's Self Government Association elections are also under way. Others will follow with blinding speed in the next couple of months.

The oncoming elections, in addition to creating an Eisenhower - for - President Club, have also brought the Young Democrats to life. The Sun extended an editorial welcome to the latest entrant to the Campus political scene.

Judith Kredel '52 has won the annual $300 Borden Home Economics Scholarship awarded to the top-ranking Senior in Home Economics.

The Ivy League ban on spring football practice was received with little enthusiasm by most students. Even those who thought de-emphasis was called for failed to find much value in the action except as a self-righteous public-relations move.

Frequent reports of tuition increases by other universities removed part of the surprise from the University's announcement of $120 a year increase in student tuition and fees, but groans of rage and sorrow were nevertheless vigorous and widespread at dormitory and fraternity breakfast tables when the news broke.

A new staff takes charge of the Cornell Review, beginning with the Spring issue. Edith L. Weisbord '53 has been elected editor; Arthur C. Kirsch '53, prose editor; and Leon V. Hirsch '52, managing editor.

John C. Shearer '52, a February graduate, has won the Daniel Alpern Memorial Prize of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. The award is for honors in scholarship and leadership.

STUDENTS EMERGING from an afternoon Electrical Engineering lab in the Old Heating Plant were startled to observe large patches of snow floating into the air one day last week. On closer examination, the "snow" turned out to be soap suds. Next morning's Sun explained the mystery: pranksters had dumped a box of soapflakes into the new practice rowing tank in the neighboring Old Armory, so that suds churned up by the laboring Frosh oarsmen had to be carried outside in buckets.

Saturday Evening Post "What Would You Have Done" feature for February 23 recounts the quick thinking of announcer Elmer S. Phillips '32 in subduing snowballers at the Cornell-Columbia game last fall. His final technique was to request, "Will the Freshmen please stop throwing snowballs?" Professor Phillips is reported to have remarked regretfully, when he noted that the Post had paid $100 to the contributor of the episode, "That guy made more out of that than I did announcing the whole season!"

A Cornell debate team of Rhee Kissen '54 and Hugh Schwartz '54 defeated a Brown team, February 29, on the topic "Resolved: That the Federal government should adopt a permanent program of wage and price controls." Cornell upheld the affirmative.

Science-fiction, which now rates an occasional page in the erudite Saturday Review, has a cult of Campus devotees organized as the Cornell Science Fiction Society. The Club's symbol, a large-nosed semi-human figure surmounting the legend CSFS (pronounced "kssfs"), appears in various buildings to advertise programs and speakers on science fiction. A Sun story reports that Astounding Science Fiction outsells Life at the Co-op.

John Newman '53 and Lawrence S. Litchfield '53 will be co-editors of the 1953 Cornellian. William McKee '53 and Guion Trau '53 are associate editors; Alvin R. Beatty '54, managing editor; Gilbert Kiggins '53, business manager; Mary E. Crabtree '53, advertising manager; and Joan Zweir '53, circulation manager.

A Princeton debate team which came to Campus in its own neatly-labelled station wagon defeated a Cornell team on the question: "Resolved, That the Federal Government should establish a permanent wage and price policy." Cornell took the affirmative.

Acting with amazing speed, the Women's Self Government Association reversed its previous decisions and voted to eliminate compulsory registration in its elections. We predict that next year debate will begin on changing back to the old system, with a decision being reached in 1956.

"Social Life and Its Effect on Cornellians" will be under discussion by fraternity men during this year's Interfraternity Week. President Malott and ex-IFC President Richard Keegan '49 are to be principal speakers. A one-day renovation of interdenominational Beebe Chapel in downtown Ithaca is planned as a community service project.

Alumni Trustee Elbert P. Tuttle '18, who practices law in Atlanta, Ga., is chairman of the Fulton County Republican Committee. The Republicans polled more than 14,000 votes in Fulton County in 1948 and expect that "additional recruits . . . have come into the party since that time."

A "life-begins-at-sixty" experiment in creative education for Vassar College alumnae and their husbands is being established by Mrs. William S. Ladd, widow of Dr. Ladd, former Dean of the Medical College in New York. A member of the Class of '98 at Vassar, Mrs. Ladd has given their home, Sunk Mine Farm at Cold Spring-on-the-Hudson, to the project.

Dean Martin P. Catherwood, PhD '30, Industrial & Labor Relations, is directing a study of a proposed merger of six theater, movie, radio, and television union groups, being made with the help of the Institute of Industrial Relations at University of California at Los Angeles. Professors Leonard P. Adams and Robert L. Aronson, Industrial & Labor Relations, are doing most of the research work for Cornell.

Dr. Norman S. Moore '23, physician-in-chief of the University Infirmary and Clinic, has been elected captain of the Ithaca Protective Police, Fire Company 8. He succeeds James R. Robinson '10. Douglas G. Gillette '12 of C. J. Rumsey & Co. is sergeant; Professor Benton S. Monroe '96, English, Emeritus, was re-elected secretary; and University Vice-president George F. Rogalsky '07 and his brother, Fred A. Rogalsky '16, are torchboys. Company 8 was organized in 1868 to protect property and check looting at fires, but has not functioned in that capacity for many years.

Professor Ralph N. Campbell, Industrial & Labor Relations, has been appointed to the labor-management panel of the American Arbitration Association. He is Cornell representative to the National University Extension Association and a member of its committee on industrial and labor relations.

Professor George Winter, Structural Engineering, has been appointed to an advisory panel on structural engineering of the building research advisory board of the National Research Council.

Professor C. Kenneth Beach, PhD '41, Industrial & Labor Relations, has returned from Panama Canal Zone, where he served as consultant on supervisory training for the Panama Canal Co.

The Modern Rural School by Professor Julian E. Butterworth, Education, and Howard A. Dawson contains chapters contributed by Professors Stanley W. Warren '27, Farm Management, William A. Smith, PhD '37, Agricultural Education, Margaret Hutchins, PhD '43, Home Economics Education, Lynn Emerson, Industrial & Labor Relations, and M. Slade Kendrick, PhD '24, Agricultural Economics. Published in the McGraw-Hill Series on Education, the book summarizes social and economic backgrounds of rural education and presents a program for it.

Professor Harrop A. Freeman '29, Law, returned February 1 from a trip to Japan, Siam, India, Hawaii, Hong Kong, Kashmir, Pakistan, Lebanon, Turkey, and Syria. He investigated the problems of each area in an effort to discover the correlation of Eastern and Western legal traditions in a broad theory of international law.

"Veterinarian of the Year" is Dr. James A. Baker, PhD '40, Director of Veterinary Virus Research Institute. Chosen in a national poll conducted by Gaines Dog Research Center, Baker was cited for his efforts in organizing the Cornell Research Laboratory for Diseases of Dogs and for the data already uncovered there.

Professor Milton R. Konvitz, PhD '33, Industrial & Labor Relations, has been appointed to the visiting faculty of the Salzburg (Austria) Seminar in American Studies. He will lecture there in September.

Morris Iushewitz, secretary-treasurer of the New York City CIO Council, is visiting lecturer at the School of Industrial & Labor Relations this term.

Professor Richard Dean '49, Industrial & Labor Relations, resigned to join the executive development program of the Koppers Co., in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Professor Arthur Larson, Law, is doing research at University of London on a Fulbright fellowship. His daughter Anna, eleven, has been accepted as a pupil in the Sandler's Wells Ballet School there.

Professor Howard E. Thomas, PhD '45, Sociology, has been granted a four-month leave to take charge of establishing an educational program for children of migrant workers under the US Office of Education.

On sabbatical leave for the spring term, Professor Maurice E. Neufeld, Industrial & Labor Relations, sailed for Italy, February 23. He plans to study grievance procedures in Italian labor-management relations.

A second edition of The Law of Nations by Professor Herbert W. Briggs, Government, has been published by Appleton-Century-Crofts, Inc. Material added since the 1938 edition covers the North Atlantic Treaty, the United Nations Charter, documents of the UN international law commission, and model treaties on consular rights, rights of aliens, and the treatment of prisoners of war.

Epsilon Sigma Phi, honorary Extension fraternity, presented Awards of Merit to Professors Robert C. Ogle, Poultry, and Ruth B. Comstock, Housing & Design, at its annual dinner meeting in Statler Hall, January 25. Mrs. Comstock received her award for excellence of written material and Professor Ogle was cited for outstanding poultry work among 4-H Clubs and for promotion of exhibits, contests, and projects that have stimulated interest and large increases in membership. Professor Dorothy C. DeLany '23, Extension, is chief of the fraternity; Professor Robert J. Ames '38, Extension Teaching & Information, is secretary-treasurer.

The Atomic Energy Commission reports that research directed by Professor Lowell F. Randolph, PhD '21, Botany, proves that it takes two generations for plant life to recover from an atomic bombing, if it survives at all. Cornell has grown "several generations" of corn from seed exposed to neutrons and gamma rays in the Bikini atom bomb tests of 1946.

"The New Criticism and King Lear" and "The Theoretical Foundations of Johnson's Criticism" by Professor William R. Keast, English, appear in Critics and Criticism: Ancient and Modern, a collection of essays published by University of Chicago Press.

Professor James J. Gibson, Psychology, will participate in "Group Relations at the Crossroads," the second annual social psychology conference at the University of Oklahoma, April 10-14.

January issue of The Clearing House, an educational magazine, contained an article by Edward H. Sargent, Jr., '39, Extension Teaching & Information, on "Accent on Youth," Ithaca High School radio program.

Professors Helen J. Cady, Housing & Design, and H. Irene Patterson, Home Economics Education, are on sabbatic leave this term. Professor Cady is studying at Columbia University and will attend meetings of the New York State Chapter of Institute Designers, the National Group of American Institute Decorators, and art committee meetings of the Museum of Modern Art. Professor Patterson is studying for the PhD degree at Ohio State University.

Professor Charles A. Gulick, visiting lecturer at Industrial & Labor Relations last term, left New York City, January 29 for a five-month tour of Europe. He plans to visit Italy, Austria, West Germany, Sweden, and possibly Spain, Portugal, and Switzerland, gathering material for use in his classes at University of California.

Preparation of fluorocarbons invented by Professor William T. Miller, PhD 31, Albert L. Dittman, Grad, and Sherman K. Reed, PhD '49, has been released for public use. Made at a Columbia University laboratory under the Manhattan Project during World War II, it was used in the diffusion plant at Oak Ridge.

Lillian Steckman has been appointed assistant editor in the College of Home Economics. Former editor of the Journal of Home Economics in Washington, D.C., she replaces Helen M. Pundt, who resigned to become assistant to Ida J. Kain, a syndicated newspaper columnist in Washington.

Herbert C. S. Thom, head climatologist of the US Weather Bureau, is visiting professor of Biological Statistics in the biometrics unit of the Department of Plant Breeding this term.

Professor George H. Healey, PhD '49, English, has been appointed one of twenty-nine honorary advisors who will give information and advice to prospective students about summer schools in British universities.

NEWS OF THE ALUMNI

Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians of all Classes will be welcomed for these pages. Addresses as printed are in New York State unless otherwise designated.

Certain Classes, principally those which send the ALUMNI NEWS to all members, have special columns written by their own correspondents. Each such column is designated at its beginning with its Class numerals. Material for those columns may be sent either to the NEWS for forwarding or directly to the respective Class correspondents, whose names and addresses follow:

1910 Men—Roy Taylor, Old Fort Road, Bernardsville, N.J.

1913 Men—M. R. Neifeld, 15 Washington Street, Newark 2, N.J.

1915 Men—C. M. Colyer, 123 West Prospect Avenue, Cleveland 1, Ohio.

1919 Men—Alpheus W. Smith, 705 The Parkway, Ithaca.

1920 Men—W. D. Archibald, 8 Beach Street, New York City 13.

1921 Men—Allan H. Treman, Savings Bank Building, Ithaca.

1951 Men—Stuart Minton, Jr., 1160 Park Avenue, New York City 28.

'93 AB—Believed to be the oldest active volunteer worker for the Brooklyn Red Cross, Mary R. Fitzpatrick began her thirteenth year as a Red Cross canvasser this month. Retired in 1937 as principal of Ten Eyck High School, she lives at 62 Montague Street, Brooklyn.

'97 Men—Edward O. Spillman, senior vice-president and acting president of the Class, has appointed Walter Kelsey to fill the vacancy left by the death of former Class secretary, Charles T. Mordock. Kelsey, who was raised in Ithaca, has followed engineering since graduation. His address is Cornell Club, 107 East Forty-eighth Street, New York City 17.—J. K. Fraser

'99 ME—Norman J. Gould, president of Gould Manufacturing Co. in Seneca Falls, is a director of Associated Industries of New York State, Inc. and a member of its newly-organized national affairs committee.

'00 ME(EE)—A visit to his sister in Braden Castle, Fla., and his son, the city manager of Mooresville, N.C., are included in the spring plans of Henry W. Peck of 1019 Klem Road, Webster. Another son, John H. Peck '36, is managing a farm in Valatie.

'04 MD—Ithaca Life Underwriters honored Dr. Charles H. Webster of 102 White Park Place at a dinner in Statler Hall, February 21. He was presented with a scroll citing him for "having been a successful life insurance underwriter for the past fifty-two years." A leading producer of insurance policies for New York Life Insurance Co., he is a life member of their Million-dollar Round Table.

'05; '42, '47 AB—Dr. Henry Sage Dunning and Mrs. Dunning of Weed Street, New Canaan, Conn., have returned from England where they attended the marriage of their son, George H. Dunning '42, and Marina Provatoroff of Peanswood, Robertsbridge, Sussex, January 5. The young couple will live in Johannesburg, South Africa, where Dunning represents the Farrell Shipping Co.

'07—"Since being retired from the Army in 1947, I have been making engineering and industrial investigations. Having served in both World Wars, I unfortunately find myself too old to serve in the present emergency; however I am well represented by my two sons. The older, Henry, Jr., is a lieutenant in the Marine Corps and the younger, Elliott, a private in the Army," writes Henry S. Otto of Ardsley Road, Scarsdale.

'09 AB—Rothschild Brothers was an award winner in the nationwide Best Retail Advertisements of 1951 contest sponsored by the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Leon D. Rothschild is president of the Ithaca store.

MEN

John Stryker Piper (above), Class Chaplain, has been doing more novel things which call for a postscript to his biography as first published in the ALUMNI NEWS of October 1, 1951.

Over the mountains from John's parish at Middlesboro, Ky., his Bishop discovered a little group who had been brought up in the worship of the Episcopal Church and continued to worship in that manner without much to go on. Every fourth Sunday the Bishop was able to send them a minister, and in between, services were conducted by two laymen, sometimes in private homes, sometimes in public buildings. The little parish flourished. The Bishop was impressed by their zeal. He visited them, financed the purchase of a lot, and sent them from over the mountains as their resident vicar the Rev. John Stryker Piper.

After thirty-one years as an active engineer and then ten more as a clergyman, John looked down upon his new parish of St. Marks and saw in a split second (1) that what his little parish needed was a church of its own; and (2) that the only way for them to get it was for him to lay aside his vestments six days a week, get out his old drawing board and blue dungarees, and build the thing himself with what help he could pick up from among the parishioners. There aren't many clergymen forty-two years out of college who are still capable of designing and building even a little church; but there are few clergymen who had been active and successful engineers through two wars and for thirty-one years before they took Holy Orders. The Bishop knew his man! The job is fully financed and substantially completed, and John can shortly look forward to a second retirement which will permit him to wear clerical garb seven days a week. The picture above shows him in working garb at the door of his partly-completed church.

St. Mark's has not been without help from other parishes in the Diocese of Lexington. From the Church of the Good Shepherd in Lexington has come a noteworthy altar and from Christ Church, old choir stalls which have been converted into pews. But most of this modest little church in the hills is the work of a former Cornell engineer, John Stryker Piper, and his people know it!

Alexander Wilson is manager of electric operations for the Philadelphia Electric Co. and is also president of the Conowingo Power Co. His office is at 1000 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and he lives at 111 Owen Avenue, Lansdowne, Pa. Hobby: golf. Clubs: Union League and Engineers of Philadelphia, Aronimick Golf.

George E. Kent is a sales and field engineer for C. W. Booher Co. of Dayton, Ohio, specializing in industrial insulation. He lives on a five-acre plot outside of Dayton, where he derives great satisfaction from raising his own fruit and vegetables in his own garden.

'11 ME—"Had a letter from Philip L. Day," writes Henry J. Kimball '11. "He married the sister of John Grant '11, also of Brisbane . . . regretted he was not able to attend the Forty-Year Reunion in June." Day's address is Underhill, Day & Co. Ltd., Brisbane, Queensland, Australia.

Edward L. Bernays, has been published by F. W. Faxon Co., Boston, Mass. Bernays's address is 26 East Sixty-fourth Street, New York City 21.

'12 CE—Harry H. Frank is manufacturers' representative for building specialties; lives at Hotel Webster Hall, Pittsburgh, Pa.

'12 AB—Mrs. Margaret Thorp Stewart of 353 Maple Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., is chairman of the women's Forty-year Reunion of the Class of 1912.

It is always pleasant to pass along good news about a '13-er. Ralph Bown (above), 1913 MEN '13 ME, '15 MME, and '17 PhD, has been appointed vice-president in charge of research at Bell Telephone Laboratories, where he has been director of research since 1946. A veteran of more than thirty years in Bell System service, Ralph is known the world over for pioneer work in the engineering of communications: radio broadcasting, ship-to-shore and overseas telephoning, radar operations under combat conditions, and TV. He is a former president of the Institute of Radio Engineers, holder of its Medal of Honor, and has served as expert consultant to the Secretary of War. Ralph is a Maplewood, N.J., neighbor and long-time Bell associate of that other distinguished Cornell physicist, Oliver E. Buckley, PhD '14.

Take it from Marcel Sessler, the blooming artist who is about to have three paintings on exhibition at once in two shows, Henry Cape has the rest of us looking like Methuselahs. Must be because time can't catch up with Henry, who commutes and flies his own plane between New York and Florida! He has been seventeen years with the Stock Exchange house of White, Weld & Co. in New York City. What he crows about most is that he made a good pilot out of his charming wife at the age of forty-five. Henry made a firm offer G.T.C. to teach Clef (that's Madame Sess) to fly. No sale!

In spite of his pessimistic conviction that he would never make it, but would surely bust, he stayed four years on Campus; and now he is among our CE Classmates who have found careers in State or Federal highway departments. Sam LeRoy Taylor is division engineer for Division Two, US

Bureau of Public Roads, located at Hagerstown, Md. Zack has twin daughter graduates of the University of Minnesota and is three times a grandpappy. Zack formerly lived and worked for thirty years in Minnesota. Since returning East, he has caught up with several Classmates whom he had not seen for years: Lynn Curry, of the cheerful disposition, now water works engineer for the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission at Harrisburg; Ed Koester, the pistol-shooting hobbyist whose laugh was the pride of the CEs, now survey and traffic engineer at Wilmington, Del.; Bill Barnard, located at Washington, D.C.; Paul Macy, who sells highway surfacing material for Barrett Co. of New York; Heinie Ten Hagen, the blond Tau Beta Pi Swede; and George Nickerson, the lacrosse player who is at Albany with the New York Department of Public Works.

Another CE in the Federal service is J. Holloway Morgan of Champaign, Ill. Morg is district engineer with the US Geological Survey. He is an authority on record discharge of rivers and is co-author of annual water supply papers of the government.

While Zack and those other CEs were busy on the highways of the land, William N. Paine, ME, has been busy with the highways of the sea. Bill is president of the Coastwise Foreign Corp. and of Paine & Clooney oil & tank-ship brokers. Anything prophetic in Bill belonging to Mermaid as an undergraduate? Bill lunches pretty regularly at the Cornell Club of New York. It seems that in World War I days we were both at Camp Wheeler, Ga., at the same time, but never did run into each other.

If you have an irrepressible eagerness to know consumer credit, acquire Nei-feld's "Guide to Instalment Computations," learned but non-semantic, just published by Mack Publishing Co., Easton, Pa.

'13 AB—Executive secretary of the National Cathedral School in Washington, D.C., is Grace E. Merrick. She has been with the School for more than thirty years.

'14 AB—For the past year Archibald B. Johnston has been chief structural engineer at the chemical plant of Celanese Corp. of America in Bishop, Tex. He is in charge of design for their new plants at Pampa, Tex., and Edmonton, Canada, as well as the expansion of their Bishop plant.

'17 LLB—Herman B. Lerner has resigned as president of Celluplastic Corp., and formed Lerner Plastics, Inc., Garwood, N.J., specializing in plastic containers and injection molding. He lives at 76 Duffield Drive, South Orange, N.J.

'18 BS, '26 MS—"Retired as president of Southern Industrial Institute . . . and now, at last, am doing what I always wanted to do—farming and cattle raising—next door to my brother, L. C. Kirkland '19," writes J. Brackin Kirkland '18 from Holly Pine Farm, RD 2, Moselle, Miss. Mrs. Kirkland (Eleanor George) '20 "helps on the farm, too." Their children are William G. Kirkland '44, Mrs. Joseph Leidy (Julia Kirkland) '45, and Joseph B. Kirkland, Jr. '50.

'18, '21 AB—After five years of retirement since he was president of American Home Foods, Inc., Class Secretary Henry W. Roden has "returned to the field of business as consultant on advertising and marketing to Crown-Zellerbach Corp. of San Francisco, Cal." Roden lives at 855 Stradella Road, Los Angeles 24, Cal.

1920 MEN William H. Colvin, Jr., (above) was recently elected a director of National Biscuit Co. Bill has served as president of Crucible Steel Co. of America since 1945, with headquarters in New York City. About twenty years ago, he was instrumental in starting Rotary Electric Steel Co. in Detroit, Mich., and left them to assume his present duties with Crucible. Bill is also a director of the Central & Southwest Corp. We asked Bill about his hobbies, and to be most graphic, we will quote directly: "My hobbies are sitting down in the winter and playing golf in the summer, and no particular improvement is evident in either since graduation." It is with regret that we learn of the death of Mrs. Colvin in 1949. Bill's daughter, Caroline, is married and lives in Port Elizabeth, Union of South Africa. She has two sons.

Ed Fritz of Baltimore writes that, temporarily, he is in Washington, D.C., with the Defense Electric Power Administration, Department of the Interior, as an engineering consultant, WOC (meaning without compensation). Actually, Ed is on loan from the Pennsylvania Water & Power Co.

Allen B. Reed, whose wife was Elsie Murphy '22, lives at 461 West Belair Avenue, Aberdeen, Md., and is production manager for La Motte Chemical Products Co. in Baltimore. Their son, Allen B. Reed, Jr. '49, is with the Paint & Varnish Laboratory, Aberdeen Proving Ground. Daughter Marjorie Reed '47 is married to Howard E. Sheffer, PhD '43, and in September they had their fourth child, Peter Crosthwaite Sheffer. Howard teaches chemistry in Union College and they live in Burnt Hills. Congratulations, Allen, on another future Cornellian!

Davis E. Geiger, of Ashland, Ky., is still as public-spirited as ever. His latest mission is as a member of the Task Force on Vocational Rehabilitation for the Office of Defense Mobilization. Dave is also a member of the National Advisory Neurological and Blindness Council. As previously reported, he is president of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (the Easter Seal agency). I wonder what this country would come to if we did not have people like Dave Geiger!

Walter I. L. Duncan writes of his yearning to return to Ithaca and the Cornell environment. Wally has been active in radio and television since 1928 and recently became vice-president of Mutual Broadcasting System, in charge of sales. He served NBC as an account executive for eight years and in 1938 joined WNEW as a sales executive, later becoming vice-president in charge of sales. In 1950 he became sales manager of WPIX. Later that year, he left to join the Paul H. Raymer Co. as assistant to the president.

While we dislike making this column a financial medium, we would like to report that so far, sixty-three Classmates have contributed dues in the amount of $368, as compared with a total of $435 from seventy-one Classmates last year. If the good work continues, we may do better than last year. In case you are wondering where the money goes, I might mention the 30th Reunion movie sound film that I referred to in a previous column. Stew Solomon did a beautiful job on this film and we would like to make it available to any Classmates who haven't seen it. So just say the word!

'21 AB—Jayne M. Disbrow teaches Spanish at John Adams High School in Ozone Park.

'21 AB—Mrs. Martha Martin Dunphy is teaching mathematics at Jamaica High School; lives at 42-05 219th Street, Bay-side 6.

'22 CE—Lieutenant Colonel Reginald A. Daddisman, formerly in San Francisco, Cal., has been transferred to New York City. His new address is U.S.A.F. Representative Office, Federal Office Building, 90 Church Street, New York City.

'22 AB—William C. Wilkes is a partner in the underwriting and brokerage firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. in New York City. His daughters Ann, age twenty-three, and Betty, age twenty-two, are traveling in Europe and this country with Moral Re-Armament; Peggy, age twenty, is a junior at Mt. Holyoke College; and his sons Tom, age sixteen, and Bill, Jr., age fourteen, are attending high school in Summit, N.J., where Bill and Mrs. Wilkes reside. Bill plans to attend the Reunion.

'22 ME—Howard R. Sherman is an industrial specialist for the War Production Board and Civil Production Administration and Air Material Command in Boston, Mass., where he can be reached at 19 T Warf. He married Helen Wilson of Providence in 1944. He served in the Navy in both wars and devotes his spare time to sailing and cruising. He is a member of the Savin Hill Yacht Club.

'22 AB, '26 MD—Dr. Robert S. Ackerly is located at Salem Lane, Port Washington. He spent four and a half years as an Army surgeon during the last war, two and a half of which were in the Asiatic-Pacific Theatre, leaving the service with the rank of colonel. His son, Robert S. Ackerly, Jr. '51, spent two years at Cornell and two years at Wooster College in Ohio, where his daughter, Janet, enters next September.

'22 —Lale C. Andrews is the owner and director of the Lale Andrews Institute, 225

Broadway, New York City, which offers courses in oil refinery piping and plant layout and pipe stress analysis. Lale is pipe stress analyst and consultant on high temperature piping for the M. W. Kellogg Co. in New York City. He is also a farm operator and member of National Farm Chemurgic Council, an organization for the promotion of industrial uses of farm products.

'22 ME, '27 MME—Myron E. Steczynski is advertising manager of The Bastian-Blessing Co. in Chicago, Ill. He is the author of handbooks on machine design and a contributor to Mechanical Engineering and other publications. His daughter, Marcia, is now a senior at St. Mary-of-the-Woods College in Indiana, and his son, John Myon, is a sophomore at Loyola Academy in Chicago.

'22 BS, '26 PhD—Edmond A. Perreguax, on leave of absence as head of the department of agricultural economics at University of Connecticut at Storrs, is director of the Marshall Plan food and agricultural program in Paris, France. His son was recently pictured in Life magazine with other American youngsters living in Paris.

'23—William B. Corcoran of 406 Columbia Street, Ithaca, has resigned as district sales manager for Robinson Airlines.

'23 BS—Malcolm E. Smith of 400 Great Falls Street, Falls Church, Va., is with the Standardization Section, Fruit and Vegetable Division, US Department of Agriculture.

'31 AB, '33 LLB—Herman Stuetzer, Jr. has been appointed a member of the committee on taxation of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants. He is with the firm of Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery in Boston; lives at 8 South Lane, Hingham, Mass.

1932 MEN "WHOOERDO FOR '32"—Has that slogan permeated to your bailiwick yet? It's really gathering steam and more committee chairmen, in more and more sections of the country, are climbing aboard our Reunion Special. Here's the latest list of additional volunteers who have accepted their portfolios and are hard at work.

Costumes: Pete Ruppe, manufacturer's representative, in New York City, reports that he is about to close a deal with the same manufacturer for the same costume we used in 1947—beer jackets and visored caps. Do you still have yours from last time? If it's in good condition, better include a note to that effect on your Class questionnaire (soon to be mailed out from Ithaca) when you return it.

Room Accommodations: Bob Trier, owner and manager of the Villa Goodrich Hotel in Sarasota, Fla. (he also manages the Marshall House, at York Harbor, Me., in the summer—pretty soft!), has taken on this important post.

Saturday Pee-rade: Leather-lunged Whitney Mullestein, manager of field sales for Lukens Steel Co., Coatesville, Pa., will manage this activity, as well as serving as coxie for the '32 boatload of crew men in the Saturday afternoon spin on the Inlet being organized by Commodore (and Class Secretary) Pete McManus, who liked Ithaca so well he stayed on as an executive with GLF Cooperative Industries there.

Tent and Refreshments: Under the capable direction of Ray Flumerfelt, another guy smart enough to stay on in Ithaca.

Watch for more appointments, and be sure to volunteer for duty on the committee of your choice when you return that Class questionnaire.—J. H.

'33 ME—A promotion and a proposed July vacation in Fairfield, Conn., are in the news from William E. Neff, works manager of 'Ducili' S. A., manufacturers of rayon, nylon, cellophane, and tire yarn. His address is Paseo Colon 285, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

'33 EE—Thomas S. Shull is president of Shull Building Products Corp. and vice-president and general manager of Piedmont Steel Corp. He is the father of two "future Cornellians," Thomas S., Jr., and Patricia Agnes, two. The Shulls live near Charlotte, N.C., on an eighty-six-acre farm where they plan to raise beef cattle. Shull's address is 202 Coddington Building, Charlotte, N.C.

'33 BS—Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases, 444 East Sixty-eighth Street, New York City, has named Richard D. Vanderwarker (above) administrative director. He has been director of the Pasavant Memorial Hospital in Chicago, Ill., is associate director and lecturer in hospital administration at Northwestern University, consultant to the editorial board of Modern Hospital magazine, and a member of the American Hospital Association and of its council of association services.

'35, '36 BS, '37 MF—A daughter, Joan Marie, was born February 22, 1952, to Robert A. Van Order and Mrs. Van Order of East Lake Road, Skaneateles.

'35 BS—George B. Wright is district traffic superintendent for main line traffic with the Bell Telephone Co., 1835 Arch Street, Philadelphia 3, Pa.

'36 AB—Francis M. Rogers, dean of the graduate school of arts and sciences at Harvard, has been made professor of romance languages and literatures, effective July 1.

'36 MS—Willard R. Fazar is chief of the analysis branch of the Office of Price Stabilization. He has been on loan from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, serving as liaison officer between the two agencies. Fazar's address is 2829 B. S. Abingdon Street, Alexandria, Va.

Classics of Quiet Distinction . . .

Wherever they appear, J. PRESS productions are quietly distinguished by the courtly manner of J. PRESS cut and tailoring and by materials exclusive to J. PRESS in quality, coloring and weave. The great continuity of these productions for over half a century has made them widely recognized for more than a vogue, but as classics of quiet distinction in dress.

J. PRESS suits are priced To Order, Custom, at $150. Special Cutting, at $125, and in Our Own Make of Ready to Wear, from $75.

EVER DREAM OF SPENDING A MILLION DOLLARS?

Then consider this:

If you had started on January 1 in the year 1236—two hundred fifty-six years before Columbus discovered America—and spent ONE MILLION DOLLARS EVERY DAY throughout that year...

... and if you had continued to spend ONE MILLION DOLLARS EVERY DAY of every year in the 716 years that have elapsed since that time...

... it would still take you until May 8, 1953, to spend as much money as the U. S. Government has collected in taxes since World War II ended.

That's what the 262 billion tax dollars which your Federal Government has collected and spent in the period from August, 1945, to January, 1952—amounts to.

That's why $1.00 out of every $5.00 you've earned in the last 6½ years has gone for Federal Taxes.*

That's why $1.00 out of every $4.00 you'll earn this year is earmarked for Federal taxes.*

*This is in addition to the State, County and Local taxes you pay—including your State gasoline tax.
